LETTER FROM MINNESOTA.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., April 11.

EDITOR HERALD:

I am glad to report myself once more, as some of our friends think we have hardly survived the cold weather. The winter has been long and severe (where hasn't it?) but we have had much fine weather, and while we read of snow storms and drifts in Iowa and Illinois, the fresh green grass and good roads prove that spring is here at last. Considerable has been said of suffering in different parts of the State, but it existed chiefly with those who striving to pay for their land, failed to provide a sufficient supply of fuel and provisions for severe weather. We think this city "the favored one in all the King's dominions." The fall of the river with St. Anthony is 90 feet to one mile, making a grand water power, which runs three of the largest flouring mills in the world, besides saw and other mills, and still much power not utilized. The river here is spanned by five bridges, one very fine suspension, but navigation is suspended here by the falls. By the use of dynamite the thick ice was broken and passed out of the river very gradually, not disturbing the "squatters" on the narrow flats. There are thirteen railroads centering here, and as to the growth of the place, it is unsurpassed by any city in the Northwest. I have heard of dwellings springing into existence in a night, but never experienced it before: now on all sides can be seen houses finished and occupied, where but a short time since were vacant lots. Except Sunday, hardly a day during the long winter but what could be heard the ring of the hammer, and spring has given a fresh impetus to building. Dealing in real estate I have a fine opportunity to see the growth of the place. We are selling many lots from day to day in different parts, and the papers are hardly made out before building material is moving. Many fine business blocks are to be erected the coming season to supply the increasing demand. We are much pleased with this climate, and know no difference between this and Michigan as to temperature, but think the air is dryer, and we escape the muddy seasons, the soil being sand and gravel. While I like this State well, I would not say ought of my native State (Michigan), but rather prefer a timbered country for farming, where we can raise a variety, to a prairie soil adapted only to a few kinds of products. The West is developing rapidly, the railroads taking the emigrants farther on each year, where a little money will buy a home, but many insist on buying large tracts and soon become "land poor," perhaps losing all. Last fall I took a trip into the northwest part of the State as far as Fargo, Dakota. There are many growing towns with good surrounding farms. Fergue Falls, on the Red River, has a fine water power and is a good point. It is well protected from "blizzards" by a belt of timber on the west which is 60 miles wide and extends nearly the whole length of the State from north to south. About Fargo, Dakota, the water is poor owing to so much alkali, and soil light. While there we enjoyed plenty of wild game. The Red River at this point is very sluggish. Time will not permit me to say much of the northern part of this State or eastern Dakota; but I think in selecting a home one should avoid alkali lands, or going too far on the frontier without money.

Your paper is ever a welcome visitor, giving us much general news of the town and surrounding country. It would save us much delay and trouble if our friends in addressing us would put on our street and number, as all mail thus marked is promptly delivered, otherwise it goes to the general delivery at the postoffice, where we must take our place in the long line, waiting our turn with the hundreds who daily seek their letters.

CYRUS W. WELLS.

THE Hudson wheelbarrow factory will probably remove to Adrian where the enterprise will receive more substantial support from the citizens.—Hudson should take better care of its manufactories.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

CONFIRMED.

The Senate, in executive session, confirmed the following nominations:

Robert Hitt, Illinois, Assistant Secretary of State.

Hiram Price, Iowa, Commissioner of Indian affairs.

Alfred M. Jones, United States Marshall for the Northern District of Illinois.

Sanford A. Hudson, Wisconsin, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Dakota.

Joseph O. Jones, Postmaster of Terre Haute, Ind.

The foregoing were all confirmed by unanimous consent.

DEPOSITS TO REDUCE CIRCULATION.

The United States treasurer has decided that deposits for the reduction of national bank circulation shall hereafter be made in United States notes only. This decision is based on the ground that the law requires the treasurer to redeem such circulation when presented in United States notes. The treasurer has also decided that deposits to the credit of the 5 per cent. fund for redemption of national bank notes shall be made in United States notes only.

THE MAIL-BAG-FASTENER CONTRACT.

The investigation into the Sheridan contract for mail-bag fasteners is nearly completed. This has been with closed doors, and, it is stated, has been very thorough, and those comprising the commission are spoken of as men of strict integrity, who will, in their report, spare neither friend nor foe, if shown to be guilty. Mr. James, the clerk who, it is claimed, acted as the agent of Sheridan in obtaining the contract from Fayman, made a full statement, a week ago. He contemplated going west, and made his preparations therefor, but in consequence of this inquiry remained here, and last Thursday gave his testimony, after which he left for New Mexico.

GARFIELD'S LETTER TO DAWES.

A reporter of the Western Associated Press visited the white house and obtained a true version of the president's letter to Senator Dawes. The president did not retain a copy, but the note was short. In the first place, the president wrote that he was in favor of a free count and fair count, not only in Virginia, but in every state, and would encourage it; but he would not assist in elevating a man who, as editor of a daily paper, is constantly attacking and defaming him and his administration. This reference is to Gorham, editor of the National Republican, and the nominee of the republicans for secretary of the senate. The above is substantially all the letter to Dawes contained. In it the president said nothing about pending nominations.

THE SCENE IN THE SENATE.

The withdrawal of all the principal New York nominations except that of Judge Robertson took place in the executive session of the Senate. It was at 1:30 o'clock that the message was read. Senate was in progress on the Chinese treaty. At a convenient point the communication was read. Senator Conkling was in his seat at the time and kept busily engaged in looking over papers while the withdrawal of the nominations was made known. He evidently knew what was coming, for he seemed wholly uninterested while the eyes of nearly every other Senator turned instinctively toward him.

Other business being taken up, the Senators gathered in knots and discussed the situation. It is known that Senators Conkling and Allison locked arms together for a long while in the course of the afternoon, but the latter stated this evening that he had heard nothing to guide him in thought as to wether Robertson's nomination would be successfully considered or whether it would be considered at all. He would not pretend to explain the executive move in the direction indicated, but he supposed the President knew his own business.

FREELMAN'S BANK.

The commissioners of the Freedman's Bank have over $100,000 of unclaimed dividends on hand in sums varying from two cents to $3, according to the amount of deposits of those to whom the dividends belong. It has never been thought wise to advertise these dividends for fear it might beget innumerable frauds. The Commissioners desire to sell their building, now occupied by the Department of Justice, to the government for $250,000. It is probable that Congress at the next session will authorize the purchase, which will enable the Commissioners to declare an additional dividend of 15 per cent. When this is done the depositors will have been paid 5 per cent of their losses, leaving a balance of $1,200,000 due them. Unless Congress provides for the payment of this sum out of the Treasury, the depositors will never be reimbursed. There are many members who believe that, in view of the circumstances under which the bank was organized, the character of its management and the credulity of the ignorant blacks who invested their savings, the losses should be made good. Mr. Ellis, of Louisiana, will introduce the bill for this purpose when Congress meets.

THE VIRGINIA WILD-CAT KUKLUX.

Internal Revenue Agent Tracle, operating in Franklin county Virginia, writes to Commissioner Raum a detailed account of an attempt to capture the notorious Dave Gillespie. The officer offered $100 to the person who will lodge Gillespie in jail, but few, he says, seem anxious to undertake the capture of this notorious desperado. The report says: "Since my raid in Runnet bog, on the 20th, Gillespie and crowd had committed shameful outrages upon innocent colored people in that neighborhood, whom they charged with giving information to revenue officers. They went in disguise and whipped a man and woman, robbed one of two of money, destroyed their property, drove them from their homes, some of them half naked, and formed a pact of them into one party on the road to West Virginia, and ordered them to leave, on penalty of death if they returned. This revival of Kuklux'sm by illicit distillers and their friends in the mountains of Franklin has terrorized good citizens to such an extent that they are afraid even to speak of the outrages, much less condemn them. There is no such thing in Franklin county on the part of responsible citizens as sympathy for enforcement of the laws regarding making or selling spirits, either of the state or nation.

MAIL CONTRACTS.

On the 7th inst. awards for carrying the mails to various parts of the country under the miscellaneous advertisement of March 10 were finally decided upon at the postoffice department. The letting of these contracts is not what is known as the regular letting, but will consist of service on such routes as from various causes can not be advertised and let at the usual time and manner. In opening proposals for these contracts a material departure was made from the usual custom in such cases. The law requires that all proposals for carrying mail shall, before being turned over to the contract offices, be "opened and marked." Heretofore (with one exception, occurring several years ago) the custom has been merely to open bids and stamp them, a work which some of the officials at the department say is practically of no value, and evidently not what the law contemplated, since, as no record of bids was made, others could be added after opening, or bids in blank could be filled in, so as to secure contracts or be withdrawn so as to give some favored bidder the contract, or could be changed for some purpose.

Some years ago quite a scandal was created in the department by some of these very doings, and several employes of the contract office were dismissed in consequence, but still, with the exception before alluded to, no change in the manner of opening bids was made. When the present opening was made, Postmaster General James authorized a change to be made, which was as follows:

After the bids were opened they were stamped with the date of opening and with an engraved device of which there is but one in existence. They were then numbered consecutively, arranged by routes, and a list made of them, giving the number of the bid, the name of the bidder, the number of the route on which the service is to be made, the amount of the bid, and any defect, informality, or irregularity that was discovered. After this the bids were turned over to the contract office and a list furnished the postmaster general, with the engraved device mentioned. Before these bids were turned over to the contract office they were always either under the eyes of a committee appointed to examine and mark them, or in the vault, the keys of which were in the exclusive possession of one of the committee. It will be seen that under this plan there is no opportunity whatever for tampering with the bids by any one disposed to do so in the department, without certain discovery, and that no bids can be abstracted or new ones admitted. It is so good a plan that the postmaster general will probably cause it to be adopted for all future openings of bids for star routes and other contracts.

MAY 2.—The unfinished business was laid before the senate.

Mr. Farley called attention to the large number of nominations awaiting action, and moved to go into executive session. The people of this state, of all parties, were appealing to the senate to consider the important matters in which they were directly interested. Petitions were daily coming from California asking for the consideration of the Chinese treaties.

A debate ensued between Messrs. Dawes and Farley, the Chinese question receiving considerable attention.

Mr. Beck said the republicans had not dared to go into executive session, because of the division of the party on important nominations. He taunted the republicans with cowardice.

Mr. Saulsbury denied the charge made by Mr. Dawes that democratic senators were responsible for delay in transacting public business, and asserted the contrary to be the truth. After reference to Huddleberger and "that battle-axe," he said he was not sure the administration could have one-half of the nominations confirmed except for the aid which it expected from democrats; but if this thing kept up, if the administration was to aid in strengthening the hands of republication in southern states he (Mr. Saulsbury) would, for one, say unhesitatingly that the administration was not worthy his support.

The motion to go into executive session was lost—yeas 21, nays 22.

An hour was wasted upon dilatory motions, and the senate adjourned.

MAY 3.—The unfinished business came up.

Mr. Davis, of West Virginia, took the floor with a speech upon the debt question between the Virginias, promising his remarks with an expression of regret that the speeches made by the senators of Virginia and Ohio (Mahone and Sherman) should have compelled him to discuss in this chamber what he considered to be a purely local matter. The debt question in West Virginia had never been made a political one, and he regretted that two republican senators should make statements reflecting upon the action of the democrats of that state on that question. Mr Davis gave a history of the debt complication, and said the Virginias and their people will pay their debts, and the sooner the better. He hoped the two states would soon come together and settle the question.

After a short debate on the debt of the Virginias the senate adjourned.

MAY 4.—When the Senate convened, Mr. Dawes moved to go into executive session. In doing so, he repudiated the idea that the Republicans were abandoning their fight for the offices. Mr. Pendleton asked that the motion be withdrawn for a few moments to give him an opportunity to reply to the remarks, but Mr. Dawes courteously refused. The motion was then adopted unanimously.

The first of the Chinese treaties considered was that concerning immigration. Senator Farley, of California, made a speech in explanation of what the people of the Pacific Slope desired in the way of restrictions to the influx of all classes of Chinese. Those in search of commercial, educational, or mercantile advantages would always be as welcome as the same classes of other nations. As the cast-offs of society from European countries had been sent back before they landed on the Atlantic shore, so was it desired by dwellers on the Pacific that the lowest classes of Chinese types of immorality, and those who cannot live at home, and who live on little abroad, be prevented from swarming their shores to the detriment and almost ruin of home labors.

Senator Hoar made a speech over an hour long in defense of the rights of all people to come to these shores. The bird of freedom would shriek to learn that men of any race or color were to be denied full protection under her broad wings. Such a proposition was preposterous and obnoxious to the good sense of all liberty-loving people. Mr. Hoar avoided details, but was outspoken, and even bitter, in his denunciation of the California idea on the general principles of liberty, and under the spirit of the constitution.

Senator Miller, of California, began, or announced, a speech, and will be heard in reply to Senator Hoar at to-morrow's executive session.

At 4:20 the Senate came out of executive session, and adjourned until 12 o'clock to-morrow.

MAY 5.—Immediately after the reading of yesterday's journal the senate went into executive session.

The senate transacted a remarkably large amount of business in executive session to-day, clearing the calendar of treaties and also taking final action on eighty-four nominations in about four and a half hours. The first matter disposed of was the Chinese immigration treaty, which, after continuation of yesterday's debate, lasting three hours, but developing no fresh points of interest, was ratified, without amendment, by a practically unanimous vote, there being only two senators recorded in the negative. The Chinese commercial treaty, after brief discussion, was also ratified without amendment and substantially without opposition.

Proceeding with the calendar of treaties, the senate next ratified, in quick succession, the extradition treaty with the United States of Columbia, the consular convention with Italy, modifying and defining judicial powers of certain consulates, the convention with Morocco respecting taxation prerogatives of the Moorish government, and the treaty with Japan prescribing reciprocal duties for the Japanese and United States governments in cases of shipwrecks upon their respective coasts.

A message from the president was received, withdrawing the following New York nominations: S. L. Woodford, United States attorney for the Southern district; Asa W. Tenney, United States attorney for the Eastern district; Lewis F. Payne, United States marshal for the Southern district; Clinton D. McDougall, United States marshal for the Northern district; John Tyler, collector of customs for the district of Buffalo.

The balance of the session was consumed in the confirmation of about 100 nominations, according to the list. Among the confirmed are: William Walter Phelps, of New Jersey, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Austria; Cortez Fessenden, of Romeo, Mich., to be United States surveyor general of Dakota; Richard W. Montgomery, to be receiver of public moneys at Bloomington, Neb.; Selden M. Bronson, to be postmaster at Menasha, Wis.; Lionel A. Sheldon, of Ohio, governor of New Mexico territory; Edward S. Meyer, United States attorney for the Northern district of Ohio; Henry Fink, United States marshal for the Eastern district of Wisconsin; Thomas Wilson, of the District of Columbia, consul at Ghent; John F. Senne, of New Jersey, consul at Nuevo Laredo.

At 4:30 the executive session ended and the Senate adjourned till to-morrow.

MAY 6.—After some dilatory tactics had been indulged in by the Democrats to prevent the pending resolution, the election of Senate officers, Mr. Dawes moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business. At 12.30 p. m. the doors were closed. After the confirmation of eleven nominations, none of general importance, the Senate devoted the remainder of the two and a half hours of the executive session to the discussion of the advisability of making public the Chinese treaties, and the debate that preceeded the adoption. The suggestion was made by some of the Senators who took part in the debate, and was followed by a tedious presentation of arguments in support of the old custom of the Senate of keeping the proceedings of executive sessions secret, and in favor of a relaxation of the rule in this case. Farley was the principal speaker, and based his affirmative argument in the great interest felt in the treaties. The debate had resulted in no conclusion being reached, when the Senate adjourned till 12 o'clock Monday.

HUGHES & WARD will address the citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity on the subject of temperance at the Opera House on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and in the evening at 7½ o'clock, May 15th. An admission fee of five cents will be taken at the door. "Let everybody come."

LEG BROKEN.

Tuesday afternoon Rudolph Hessen was drawing a load of rubbish from the yard to a dumping place on the Raisin river bridge. When going up the hill on the east side of the bridge the horse broke both of the traces. The wagon commenced to run down the hill backwards thus precipitating Dolph who was holding on to the lines over the dash board. As he fell his right leg struck one of the shafts, breaking the bone of his leg between the knee and ankle completely in two. He sent a young boy who was near to the stave factory for help. William Brown soon came and placed him on a cushion in the wagon. Dr. Woodward was hunting in the adjacent woods and upon being called came over to the place of the accident. He soon set the bone before the flesh had swollen any. Dolph was then taken home. He has experienced considerable pain, but the bone being so quickly set after the accident will probably heel much sooner and cause less pain than usual.

PIANO RECITALS.

To the citizens of Tecumseh and surrounding country. I beg respectfully to announce to you my intention of introducing a series of Piano Recitals, to be given either at Armory Hall or at the Opera House. The music for these occasions will comprise mostly popular music, also vocal music from the best talent within the neighborhood. There will be three concerts, to be held, one each week. Season ticket admitting one, 50 cents. Single admission, 25 cents. No reserved seats. Subscription list for season tickets now open at J. H. Sherrard's, Chicago st.

NEVER before did we so fully realize the fitness of the soda fountain as we did last Wednesday, with the thermometer too hot to look at and perspiration pouring from us, when Dan Hall dropped in and announced that he wanted us to pass judgment upon Baker & Hall's soda water. It was never better.

LAST Monday evening was one that is seldom equalled in this climate for its beauty. The air was of the most agreeable temperature and the moon cast a reflection upon the blooming trees that made them picturesque in the extreme, while the perfume of the blossoms permeated the atmosphere. It reminded us of the time "when we were in Europe enjoying the beauty of the Italian scenery."

THE Social club was received this week by Miss Shelmeyer, at the residence of Mr. N. Morse on Tuesday evening. The spacious rooms had been finely arranged for the evening, and everything furnished that would conduce to the pleasure of the evening. The floor of the two parlors was covered with canvass and the club passed a great portion of the evening in dancing to the mellifluous strain of Messrs. Wedeles and Severance.—Besides the members of the Club Mrs. Lamont Bidwell, of Toledo, was present.

WE took a ride "up north" last Tuesday. At Clinton stopped and took dinner with Frank Silvers. Frank certainly knows how to run a hotel. He keeps the best of entertainment for man and beast, and a man feels at home the moment he crosses the threshold. Called on Bro. Clough at the News office and found him as happy as a clam at high tide. At Manchester we dropped in upon Mat Blosser and Sid Clarkson. Of course they were feeling happy, they always do, and we enjoyed a very pleasant visit with them.

COLONEL FITZSIMMONS arrived home from New York last Thursday. He started out from Tecumseh during one of our spasmodic streaks of warm weather, and putting full confidence in the weather he bought a straw spring hat and a linen duster, but upon his arrival in Gotham his summer garb was an object of decided interest to all, from the street urchin to the Wall street bear. In the midst of hundreds of thousands the only one with a straw hat and duster; the circumstances were too embarrassing, the weather unwarranted it, so that the Colonel was forced to exchange the straw for a Derby.

SHEEP SHEARING FESTIVAL.

The Cambridge Farmers Exhibit a Fine Lot of Sheep—The Results of Their Work.

A few years ago the thrifty farmers of Cambridge became interested in the breeding of sheep. This interest lead them on, soon becoming general to a point in the raising of fine sheep that is equalled by but few other communities. As an outgrowth of this progress the Cambridge Sheep Breeders' Association was formed, which has for its purpose to inspire farmers to endeavor to excell in the sheep production. An interesting feature of the association is their shearing festivals where they meet to exhibit the results of their labor. Last week Wednesday, May 4, they held a festival on the premises of Charles Greenleaf. Mr. Greenleaf has a spacious barn which he put in order for the occasion and placed at the disposal of the association. During the forenoon the prosperous farmers of that township arrived, bringing their fleecy flocks. By noon a large gathering was present, and the pens were filled with sheep that tottered under their wooley burden. The following exhibits were made:

L. H. Sheeler, 2 rams, 1 year old; 4 ewes, 2 years old; 12 ewes, 1 year old.
F. P. Sheeler, 8 ewes, 1 year old; 4 ewes, 2 years old; 6 ewes, 4 years old; 2 rams, 2 years old.
O. L. Short, 20 breeding ewes with lambs; 4 rams, 1 year old; 1 ram, 4 years old.
W. R. Wimple, 9 rams, yearlings; 3 rams, 2 years old; 1 ram, 3 years old; 4 ewes, 3 years old.
F. I. Kinney, 10 breeding ewes and lambs; 4 ewes, 1 year old; 1 ram, 5 years old; 2 rams, 3 years old; 7 rams 2 years old; 9 rams, 1 year old.
James Newton, 2 rams, 2 years old; 1 ram, 4 years old.
Abner Simmons, 2 rams 1 year old.
Sirrell Desermie, 1 ram, 2 years old.
Allen S. Tayer, 1 ram, 4 years old.
J. O. Sheeler, 1 ram, 3 years old.

The shearers were deft with the shears and did excellent and quick work. The following table gives the results:

*Ewes that raised lambs.

The weather was very favorable for the occasion and the sheep all felt well. As we walked around and inspected the sheep we noticed a number of sheep that attracted unusual attention and deserved more than mere mention. One was a yearling April lamb from the flock of Abner Simmons, of Franklin. It was a Spanish Merino and the wool grew long and thick upon every portion of its body, covering him with a woolly blanket between 3 and 4 inches in thickness. Its form was perfect, having unusually stout and thick legs and a head that bespoke high breeding. Mr. Simmons disposed of this lamb to A. Raymond of Addison for the sum of $50. He has twenty more yearling bucks of the same breeding as the above. He is selling these bucks and if any fancier of high bred sheep wishes to invest he should certainly look over the flock of Mr. Simmons. Mr. Simmons also made an important purchase that day from the flock of L. Sheeler. It was an All Right ewe lamb.

* Another sheep that always had a crowd of admirers about it was a ram belonging to J. O. Sheeler, of Cambridge, who together with his brothers are the representative sheep breeders of their locality. This ram is a Merino brought to Michigan from one of the best flocks of the famous sheep breeding country of Vermont. It is registered on the Vermont registry as number 600, being three years old this spring. Mr. Sheeler's flock from which he is making fine sales, contains a lot of yearling lambs, ewes and breeding ewes, sired by this ram. The sheep of this flock are desirable for their size, the ram weighing 166 pounds, hearty constitution, length of staple which is of a very fine texture and exceedingly long. This ram last year sheared 25 pounds.

We cannot pass by without saying something about the flock of Frank Sheeler. His flocks contain twenty-one thoroughbred sheep, as follows: 8 yearlings, 6 two year old, 4 three year old, 2 two year old rams and 1 grade sheep. Eighteen of these are upon the Vermont register, coming from such well known rams as Peerless, Perfect and Posey. In the above table can be seen the best recommendations for these sheep, Mr. Sheeler's sheep taking the honors of the day. Mr. Sheeler is a man that is deeply interested in sheep breeding, and is now reaping the benefit of the great care and attention he has given to his sheep. Being only a few years in the business he has outstripped his worthy competitors, which he did not expect this year.

Franklin must now look out for her former laurels, for she has a competitor in the farmers of Cambridge, who will go neck and neck with her to the goal.

The festival closed about dark and every one went away well pleased with the exhibition, and thankful to Mr. Greenleaf for his kind hospitality.

ACTION OF THE CIRCUIT COURT,

Upon the Death of James A. Stacy—Remarks of Judge Pratt.

At a session of the Circuit Court, held last Tuesday afternoon, A. L. Millard, Esq., presented the resolutions which had been heretofore adopted on the death of James A. Stacy. Remarks appropriate to the occasion were made by Messrs. Millard, Bean, Saulsbury, Miller and Winnie. In directing that the resolutions be spread upon the journal of the court, Judge Pratt spoke as follows:

In the death of James A. Stacy we are called upon to mourn the loss of one of the youngest and most promising members of the Lenawee county bar.

We are again reminded that "death loves a shining mark," and that no age or condition of life is exempt from the summons of the stern messenger.

Our deceased brother, by his kindness and courtesy, by his frank and manly bearing, and by his genial good nature, made many friends, and won the esteem of all classes.

As a lawyer he was remarkable for the quickness of his perception, and the keenness of his observation; for his great industry, so necessary to success; for the maturity of his mind, the solidity of his judgment; for his honorable practice, and for the great candor, force and clearness of his addresses to court and jury.

Although cut off in the prime of life, he lived long enough to verify that proverb which says that "a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favor than silver and gold."

By his everyday life, honorable practice, and legal learning he reflected honor upon his profession, and secured the respect of the court and of his legal brethren.

To his venerable and bereaved father, the Nestor of the bar, we tender our heartfelt sympathy. And while he has lost a kind and dutiful son, one of the props and supports of his declining years, he has the consolation of knowing that his son attained an honorable position at the bar, and died enjoying the honors of his townsmen, loved and lamented by all.

I cordially concur in the sentiments contained in the resolutions, and direct that they be spread upon the journal of the court.

Court then, out of respect to the memory of deceased, adjourned to Wednesday morning.

JOHN B. GOUGH'S NEW BOOK.

"Sunlight and Shadow."

Ever since it became known that John B. Gough was engaged in writing a new book, its appearance has been watched for with intense interest. It has recently been published, and the enormous sales afford a striking instance of the success that is sure to be awarded to a really good work. Although only just published, the twenty-sixth thousand is already printed.

In short, "Sunlight and Shadow" is a mine of extraordinary interest. It can be truthfully said of it, that for thrilling interest, touching pathos and irresistible humor, no book has ever equaled it.

In point of paper, printing, binding, and above all beautiful and costly illustrations, we have not seen its equal in many a day. It is superbly illustrated with magnificent full-page engravings, engraved in the highest style from original designs by F. O. C. Darley, Frederick Dielman, and other famous artists.

THE Ice Cream season is upon us, C. K. Spafford opens his rooms to-day.

J. A. MUNGER has moved his quarters into the store lately occupied by E. H. Merritt as a cigar store. It will be a fine location for a harness store.

GEO. C. POCKLINGTON'S portable threshing machine engine did us good service for the past two weeks, while our boiler was undergoing repairs. It filled the bill very nicely for a temporary expedient in an emergency.

R. C. VANANTWERP will open his Ice Cream rooms for the season in J. Davidson's store to-morrow evening. Every one knows about Van's Ice Cream and will do well to go and see him.

A CERTAIN gentleman in this town has a pet pig. The pig is given unrestricted liberty to go wherever he wishes and he seems to enjoy the hospitality of the house more than that of the barn.

A New Antiseptic.

An antiseptic agent has appeared in Germany, which, if the statements regarding it is true, is one of the most important yet discovered. It is a double salt of borate of potassium and sodium, and is made by dissolving in water equal quantities of boride of potassium, nitrate of sodium, and boracic acid, and evaporating into dryness after filtering. Its cost is about twenty-five cents a pound, and its use in food, etc., does not in the least injuriously effect them, and gives no taste nor smell to substances. It has been extensively employed already by butchers, sausage makers, tanners, etc., but its most important use is at present in the manufacture of butter and cheese from sweet milk.

When butter is make from sweet milk in the ordinary manner, the milk must be kept very cold; when the "preserving salt," as it is called in Germany, is used, the milk may be kept at ordinary temperature without souring; the remaining sweet milk may be worked up into a superior quality of cheese. If fifteen grains of the salt are added for each quart of milk, the latter will keep sweet for at least a week.

Fresh meat, game, etc., may be preserved by dipping it in a solution of one pound of the salt in six pints of water. When the meat is intended to be kept for a long period, it is rubbed well with the powdered salt in the proportion of one and one-half drachms to each two pounds of meat. In twenty-four hours the impregnation is completed, and it needs only to be dried. A piece of meat prepared in this manner in January, 1877, was in perfect good condition in January, 1879. For pickling, the meat is prepared in the same manner, and then placed between layers of a mixture of two pounds of common salt, one-half pound preserving salt, and one-fourth pound of sugar. In this way the largest hams can be salted in four days.—Boston Journal of Chemistry.

The Straw on the Farm.

In mixed farming there is nothing grown that should be wasted. Everything should conduce to the fertility of the farm and the profit of the entire system. I do not think if I had a crop of 100 tons of straw, that I would think it advisable to sell any of it off the farm at $6 per ton. I think the farm offers a better price. But when I see an old stack that has stood for three or four years and is gradually settling into the ground, I cannot help wondering why the farmer has not sold it at any price. Although straw is not equal to good hay for feeding purposes, yet its value is not a little. Even when allowed to get dead ripe, if the crop is properly cared for afterwards, cattle do very well on a straw diet, provided it is not exclusive. I have made a practice of wintering young horses, and all horses not working, on a considerable portion of straw daily, what is left in the manger being used for bedding. I have been satisfied of its value when thus used. Store cattle are also fed on straw, alternating with hay, and they always eat the straw up clean. When I have taken the trouble to cut my grain a trifle green, but so ripe as not to injure the quality of the berry, I have found the value of the straw much enhanced. Straw, however, no matter how it may be cut and cured, is not equal to good hay. I have always been amply repaid for a generous use of straw in a hog pen, not only for the comfort of the pigs, but as a matter of economy, as straw is a perfect absorbent. Too much of the profits of farming is often lost through negligence of the straw crop. It is a valuable element in mixed husbandry, and I, for one, should not know how to live through the winter if it was not for my straw stack, which I can use in many ways to keep my stock clean, comfortable and healthy.

"In the second sermon I ever preached from that text, 'A mess of pottage,' I got it, 'A pot of message,' and the worst of it was that I kept repeating the blunder all through the sermon, to the intense amusement of the congregation,' and some impairment, I fear, of the lesson of the discourse. The Devil seemed to be on my tongue, and I spoke the text wrong in spite of myself, almost every time. I grew hot as a furnace; I perspired to my finger-ends; my face was like a beet; and when I came to that awful text I would make a great pause, fix my lips right, and then, to my intense mortification, say 'A pot of message!' I was in agony. Finally I ceased to try to pronounce it, but only said 'my text'—pointing at it."—Rev. De Witt C. Talmage.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca: with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independence, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Kedsauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.

At ENGLEWOOD, with the L. S. & M. S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.

At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.

At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.

At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.

At ROCK ISLAND, with "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line," and Rock Isl'd & Peo. Rds.

At DAVENPORT, with the Davenport Division C. M. & St. P. R. R.

At WEST LIBERTY, with the B. C. R. & N. R. R.

At GRINNELL, with Central Iowa R. R.

At DES MOINES, with D. M. & F. D. R. R.

At COUNCIL BLUFFS, with Union Pacific R. R.

At OMAHA, with B. & Mo. R. R. (in Neb.)

At COLUMBUS JUNCTION, with B. C. R. & N. R. R.

At OTTUMWA, with Central Iowa R. R.; W., St. L. & Pac., and C., B. and Q. R. Rds.

At KEOKUK, with Tol., Peo. & War.; Wab., St. Louis & Pac., and St. L., Keo. & N. W. R. Rds.

At CAMERON, with H. St. J. R. R.

At ATCHISON, with Atch., Topeka & Santa Fe; Atch. & Neb., and Cen. Br. U. P. R. Rds.

At LEAVENWORTH, with Union Pac. and Kan. Cent. R. Rds.

At KANSAS CITY, with all lines for the West and Southwest.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run through to PEORIA, DES MOINES, COUNCIL BLUFFS, KANSAS CITY, ATCHISON, and LEAVENWORTH.

Tickets via this Line, known as the "Great Rock Island Route," are sold by all Ticket Agents in the United States and Canada.

John J. Deem, for many years train dispatcher on the Grand Rapids & Indiana at Grand Rapids, has disappeared. It is the gossip that he married a widow Hopkins at Hastings last November, and for some reason wished the fact kept secret; but Friday morning it was published in the Grand Rapids papers and he left.

The appointment of Prof. Hewitt, formerly acting President of Olivet college, as professor of Greek in Dartmouth college, has kicked up a terrible bobbery among the professors, trustees, students and alumni of that ancient seat of learning, and the trustees are petitioned to ask the resignation of President Bartlett without delay. The objection appears to be, not so much against Prof. Hewitt personally as against the manner of the appointment.

Ingham County News: R. S. Collier, of Vevay, showed us last Friday a singular double-egg, laid by a hen belonging to Margaret Haire. It was a large egg inclosing a smaller one. The shell of the outer egg measured 5¼x8¼ inches, and the inner and smaller egg was about one-third this size. Between the inner and outer egg was the yolk and white of the ordinary egg in which was swimming the smaller egg, which was perfectly formed and had a hard shell.

How to Get Rich.

The great secret of obtaining riches is first to practice economy, and as good old "Deacon Snyder," says, "It used to worry the life out of me to pay enormous doctor's bills, but now I have "struck it rich" Health and happiness reign supreme in our little household, and all simply because we use no other medicine but Electric Bitters and only costs fifty cents a bottle. Sold by C. A Wright & Co., Tecumseh.

Chas. Fayre Hinkle, Jersey City Heights, N. J., writes: "My son, a lad of twelve years, was completely cured of a terrible case of Eczema by the Cuticura Remedies. From his head to his feet was one mass of scabs."

A prayer preferred by a somewhat simple New Englander, who was overheard offering his petition behind a stump of bushes in the field, was: "Oh, Lord, I want a new coat—good cloth—none of your coarse, flimsy kind of stuff, but a good, thick, warm, comfortable broadcloth—such as Bill Hale wears."

Bad blood always causes trouble. It may be a family fight or boils, pimples, itch, tetter, etc., but no matter, "Dr. Lindsey's Blood Searcher" is the cure-all.

COUNTY CRIMINALS.

The May term opened Tuesday morning and succeeded in disposing of the criminal calendar and some civil cases.

Harrison Maples, from Hudson, was first brought up for violating the liquor law. He bought whisky for Nathan Earl, a common drunkard. He was sentenced to ten days in jail.

The tramp, Edward Farrell, arrested for breaking into a freight car at Hudson and taking a free ride was given time to file an affidavit showing he had not had a fair examination.

Charles Briggs plead not guilty to the charge of larceny of a gun from the Clayton hotel, belonging to B. L. Sayles.

The Adrian butcher, Henry Freyhay, accused of selling diseased meat to the Butler railroad workmen pleaded not guilty.

The case of Joseph Kessler, of Deerfield, was then called. Kessler was the accomplice of Carroll in the stabbing of Dr. Hause, and concluded it would be better to plead guilty. He says that they came to Tecumseh on the night train that night from Deerfield, and that they could not gain admittance to the hotels so they went to a straw stack near by. Here they drank considerable whisky and then went to the Doctor's house. Kessler stood at the gate when Carroll went in. As soon as he heard the firing he started for the straw stack and waited there until Carroll came, when they struck out for Clinton together. The Judge gave the young fellow two years imprisonment at Ionia.

The following civil cases were continued: M. Adele Hazlett vs. Jacob C. Sawyer; Wm. Carey vs. John Fuller; John T. Price and others vs. Ira S. Roberts; Ira S. Roberts vs. Adolph Hirsch and L. S. Rogers.

The following were settled: John W. Cook vs. Zebina S. Taylor; Nancy Kearn vs. J. S. Peck; Burtin W. Lowe vs. James H. Bancroft; James H. Nell vs. Alonzo S. Mills.

Morenci Observer: Wellington Jones, formerly a Morenci boy, and for several years past the railway agent and operator at Grosvenor, is lying nigh unto death from consumption, of which he is a hereditary victim.

Adrian Record: We are reliably informed that the sales of Metcalf Bros. & Co., in Detroit, amounted yesterday to over $8,000, and that, on account of the rush, they were obliged to close their doors against all new comers at 4 o'clock.

ESTATE OF JAMES LOWRY.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the city of Adrian, on Monday, the 9th day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of James Lowry, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Charles Barridge, administrator of the estate of said deceased, praying for license to sell the real estate of said deceased in said petition described, for reasons therein set forth.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 6th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any, there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. (A True Copy.)

MACON CENTER.

The recent dry weather has diminished the prospect for wheat.

Mrs. W. H. Osborn is at her daughter's in Detroit prostrated from the rupture of a blood vessel leading to the brain.

Henry Karcher, Clem Lester and the Misses Easlick are taking lessons on the piano of Prof. Weddles, of Tecumseh.

The Universalist social at Uncle "Eben" Harmon's, Friday afternoon and evening, netted over $50. The next, in four weeks, at J. R. Vancelius', with a bowery dance in the evening.

We had a rousing temperance meeting Saturday evening. The hall was full, and Miss Houlton gave the best temperance lecture of the season.

At the next meeting of Macon Grange, May 27, the question of washing wool before shearing will be under discussion. It is also hinted there will be a Grange weddin the same meeting.

Job Burleson, an old pioneer fa er of this township, who has been quite indisposed for a number of years died very suddenly the 13th. There was $6,000 found in the house and $500 in his pants' pocket.

The directors of the county insurance company met at John Boyd's the 7th inst., to adjust the loss from the burning of his frame barn, but failed to agree on awarding damages, and left the same to referees. It appears that on the day of the fire Mr. Boyd was sowing oats, and with the hired man went to the barn after a couple of bags, stopping at the house for a drink of water. Mr. Boyd lighting his pipe, which has a cover, then going to the barn, shouldering the oats, and back to the field, soon after which a smoke was discovered at the barn and it was ascertained that the fire started in the barnyard manure near the path leading from the house to the barn, and is thought possible to have originated from the passing piper.—We are liable to assessment in the company, and would not encourage smoking around barns, but from an acquaintance with Mr. Boyd, knowing him to be a careful, judicious farmer and using no more indiscretion than many do in the use of lanterns, burning of rubbish near buildings, adjusting of stove pipes, imperfect chimnies, etc., would rather pay a few dollars than have Mr. Boyd lose the whole. In fact, fires seldom occur except from carelessness or over sight.

Robt. Stewart, who has suffered so long and terribly with hip disease, died the 8th inst., aged 23 years. The funeral was conducted by the Rev. J. H. Kershaw, at the M. E. church of Ridgeway, and the remains deposited in the Tecumseh cemetery. This case demands more than a passing notice. From the long and intense suffering, patient endurance, and the emaciated condition, there being nothing left but lung and brain power, the flesh and muscles having entirely wasted away. It is supposed that the injury in the first instance was caused by being thrown from a horse about two years ago, then aggravated by excessive labor, through his indomitable courage, then somewhat prolonged by false treatment, physicians differing as to whether it was hip disease or sciatica, and there is still a war of words as to the first diagnosis of the case; but the post mortem on the evening of the 8th by Drs. Jenkins, Peters and North set aside all controversy as to the real facts. It was found that the joint was entirely dislocated, the fenner very much decayed, and the acetabulum nearly gone. The case has been treated by Drs. Stevenson, Hess, Jenkins and six months at the University. A. E.

ADDISON.

The spring sprung last week and all nature unites in doing the movement honor.

A dangerous course. The sidewalk from Brown's block to the school building.

Two friendly gentlemen from Ohio filled the desk at the M. E. church Sunday afternoon.

Corn planting is nearly completed in this section, and people will soon give attention to mending their ways —highways of course.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cole started for New York state last week where they design spending the summer.

A too free use of "sweet cider" or something else has occasioned certain Woodstock men no small amount of trouble of late.

SPRINGVILLE.

As I see by your paper that your correspondent has failed to give you any communications from this place, I will take the liberty to send a few items to you.

Have read your report of our sheep shearing festival, which is all correct. Our young and old men engaged in that business are well pleased with their success, and welk they may be for I must say it was a grand display, and hard to be beat in quality of wool and weights of fleece.

It is now and has been very dry weather and the ground is about impossible to plow, but still the farmers are progressing finely and this week will finish planting.

E. Hubbard having purchased the Geddes farm, has commenced the foundation of a fine dwelling house. Jos. H. Smith of our place is the builder. He is now engaged building a barn in the town of Adrian 40 by 60 feet, with the new patent self-supporting roof, and he thinks it is going to success.

e Springville band was out on rday evening for practice. They ave made good proficiency for the time they have devoted to it, and play some very fine pieces of music.

Our road officers are in session, engaged in making the road warrants.

I. Brainard, of Cambridge, has been engaged for the past two weeks painting, papering and decorating the inner side of the residences of J. H. Smith and Thos. H. Mosher, and this week is doing the like for Dr. J. Vaughan, all for the purpose of keeping the ladies quiet.

Our townsmen are all eagerly looking for the coming of the Toledo and Grand Haven railroad. Then we will have the opportunity of getting out in the outer world.

John Hand commences to make brick and tile this week.

BROOKLYN.

Yesterday was the day for the reaper festival. Farm wagons and carriages were rattling over the bridge soon after breakfast, and the usual number of boys gathered at the corners and drummed on boxes while waiting the arrival of the Napoleon band, which was to lead the parade around the square and from thence to the hotel dining room, where all purchasers of farming machinery, for which Arch Lester is agent, were invited to lunch. No ladies were included in the invitation, but many availed themselves of the opportunity to see the show.

Thirty-five reapers were brought from the depot and many others newly bought were driven in procession. The horses were decorated with small flags, and some of them danced to the music which was voted good. All went well until a clap of thunder made them scamper, and lightning struck a large elm tree at the east end of the village, threw Mr. Philips across the house, and gave Mrs. Ellis a shock that paralyzed her arm for half an hour. The rest of us materialized in handy corners or crossed streets as lively as crickets. All efforts to extinguish the burning tree proved vain, and after two hours work at throwing water it was cut down to prevent further mischief. Though it is now Sunday evening it is still burning. The young ladies finished the evening with an ice cream supper in aid of mission work, and Mrs. G. P. Cook began receiving subscriptions for the Lyster memorial window, to be placed in the chancel of the All Saints' church.

PEARLIE.

Hudson Post: Alex McNair had a narrow escape from being crushed to death last Monday afternoon at Eaton Bros. Factory. He was working in the dry kiln with Peter Ward, when all at once a large pile of walnut lumber fell upon him, burying him up so that only the top of his hat was visible. Mr. Ward immediately run out and secured help, and they soon succeeded in extricating him. Those present did not think he would live, and he would have probably died if he had not been extricated as quickly as he was. The dray was secured and he was taken to his home, where he is now feeling as well as could be expected after such an accident.

Blissfield Advance: Tuesday morning, about 3:30, Miss Lida Burch was released by death from that most terrible of all diseases—consumption. In the flower of her youth, just budding into sweet womanhood, she passes from earth to that bourne "from which no traveler returns." Her dissolution had been expected for some weeks, and it was only a question of a few days more of suffering.

THE SPRING ANGEL.

BY MRS. E. QUACKENBOS.

I awoke from my sleep, and softly did creep
To open my blinds, when my heart took a leap
For a rustling I heard
Like the wings of a bird;
And a thought of the angels
My timid heart stirred.

E'er a moment passed by, the morning's bright eye
Peeped up from behind the hills, ever so sly—
For winter lay dead
On his cold frozen bed;
While March, reverentially,
Smoothed his bare head.

But when the sun rose, March blew his red nose,
And hinted that he might a secret disclose;
His hair stood awry
As he drew a long sigh!
Looked wise, and then
Pointed toward the blue sky.'

I looked, and behold! from a ladder of gold,
Which the sunbeams had run through a vapery mould;
An angel stepped down,
And flung her bright crown
To the winds, while stern March
Tried but vainly to frown.

She walked like a queen, in her sandals of green,
Laced up with the young wheat she'd gathered (I ween);
While the robe that she wore,
Swept the pebbly shores
Of many a brook
That with laughter ran o'er.

The violets blue, with their little hearts true—
The buttercups, daisies, and daffodils too,
All come out to meet
The "Spring Angel" sweet,
And dressed in light colors,
Knelt down at her feet.

The lowing herd too, spied the print of her shoe,
And welcomed spring queen, with a good-natured "moo;"
Then hastened away,
Where they heard the glad lay
Of a streamlet, that ran
Through the meadow for play.

A carnival grand, was held o'er the land,
And the little birds formed themselves into a band;
Then sang all the day,
Such a sweet "roundelay,"
(How April should weep
For the roses of May.)

Praise rang through the air, till the day knelt for prayer,
Then the warm south wind toyed with the beautiful hair
Of "Spring Angel," who slept
While the dews, with joy wept,
And the stars o'er her slumbers
A watchful eye kept.

VILLAGE OF TECUMSEH, MICH., Council Room, May 16, 1881.

Regular session.

Present the entire Council except Mr. Burridge.

Minutes of last two meetings read and approved.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

On Finance:

Recommending the payment of the claim of S. W. Temple—$2.34.

Accepted and adopted and an order drawn for that amount.

On Streets:

Report in writing as follows on the petition of L. A. Davis, Levi Martin and others, presented at last regular session of council:

"The undersigned member of street committee reports favorable.

J. ROOT."

"The undersigned returns petition without recommendation.

A. W. MILLS,
H. E. STOUT."

The report of the majority was accepted, and on motion the petition was laid on the table.

PETITIONS AND APPLICATIONS.

Of Kies Bros., D. Macham and 31 others asking that Lyman Thorp be permitted to draw water from the hydrants for the purpose of sprinkling the streets.

Referred to Committee on Fire and and Fire Limits.

NEW BUSINESS.

Bills presented and referred to Committee on Finance:

A. James, services as assessor making assessment rolls and cash paid	$45 44
W. F. Baxter, services as assessor	75 00

W. H. Mather comes before the council and asks that a correction be made in the deed he holds for a lot in the Tecumseh cemetery.

On motion, the matter was referred to the Committee on Cemetery, with authority to make any correction deemed necessary in accordance with the rights of the parties.

On motion, the marshal is instructed to notify all parties whose property adjoins the south side of Shawnee street to build and complete their sidewalks in accordance with the resolutions passed by this council October 4, 1880, and Nov. 8, 1880, within thirty days from this date.

A verbal proposition was presented by B. J. Bidwell and George Curtis in reference to a cistern located near the stores of said Bidwell and Curtis, which on motion was referred to Committee on Fire and Fire Limits.

On motion, the Committee on Ordinances are instructed to present an ordinance at next meeting of council against the common practice of jumping on the railway trains while in motion passing through the village.

The assessors of this village presented the assessment rolls for the year 1881, in which the maximum valuation of the assessable property in the village is shown to be as follows:

Real estate	$ 947,900
Less exemptions	8,950
	938,950
Personal estate	352,075
Total	$1,291,025

On motion the same is accepted and adopted as the assessment roll for this year.

Upon presentation of the various committees of estimates for necessary expenditures for the current year the Finance Committee recommended a levy of three mills on the dollar of the assessed valuation of property; therefore, it is on motion,

Resolved, That the Recorder be and he is hereby instructed to compute and levy a tax of three mills on the dollar of the assessed valuation of property in this corporation for the augmentation of the contingent fund for the current year.

On further motion:

Resolved, That the Recorder be and he is hereby instructed to levy a street tax on the basis of one day's work for each fifteen hundred dollars of the assessed valuation of property in this corporation for highway purposes for the current year.

On motion, the marshal's bond for the year ensuing his appointment was fixed at the penal sum of thirty-five hundred dollars.

Council then adjourned.

P. S. MCKINNON, Recorder.

Clinton News: On Sunday last Miss Della Sawyer was the cause of another accident by her careless driving. She started to town to attend church, driving a colt which had never been driven single until the Thursday previous, and soon overtook Dr. J. L. Tuttle in his buggy, and turned out to pass him when her buggy struck his, tearing off a wheel and otherwise injuring it and throwing the doctor out between the buggies in such a way as to make a narrow escape from serious injury to him. As it was he was badly bruised from falling on his head and shoulders. He heard her horse coming, looked around, saw that his buggy was about to be struck and was on the point of urging his horse out of the way, when he suddenly found himself on the ground. The damages to his buggy will amount to thirty or forty dollars. This is not the first time Miss Sawyer has been the cause of similar accidents, and, were she a man, she would have been long since thrashed for her recklessness. We do not suppose that the lady really means to do any harm, but her past success in that direction certainly proves that she is not a competent horsewoman, and public safety demands that she should not be allowed to drive colts or fast horses in future.

THE TAILOR'S LOVE.

It was a handsome tailor-man,
Full-dressed from head to foot,
Who left his press-board, goose and pan,
To go and press his suit.

His lady met him sneezingly,
Her style was rather loose,
And said, by years of contact, he
Had grown to be a goose.

"Oh, lady fair," the tailor said,
"You are my whole life's groats;
You must not judge me by my trade
I am not what I seems."

She took his measure with her eye,
Then said, "My dashing blade,
You must not raise your hopes so high
With phrases ready-made.

"Go, take your shears and cut your thread,
And from me keep aloof,
I've often seen you pad a seat,
Now you may pad for proof."

The tailor's heart with grief was torn,
He sadly wandered back
Although frock coats were then much worn,
His love gave him the sack.

But soon he found the cause of this:
The cutter caused his rout,
And spoiled his suit and marred his bliss
For he had cut the suit.

Then, like a cabbage wilted down,
The sad young tailor died,
The cause was whispered in the town,
"A bad stitch in the side."

A HUNTER'S YARN.

TREED BY A GRIZZLY BEAR—A WARNING AGAINST WEARING BUCKSKIN PANTS.

From a series of papers contributed to the Chicago Field, by T. S. Van Dyne, of California, entitled "Behind the Dog and Gun," we select the following "yarn," as being one of the best bear stories extant:

"Now," said Melville, "before we turn in, let's have another smoke, and one of your very best yarns."

"I don't know no yarns, and never could tell nothin' but the truth, nohow."

Who can tell a yarn when asked to, directly!

So thought Melville, and resolved on another plan. So after a few minutes talk, he said:

"You've been in California, haven't you?"

"Yes, a while."

"Ever see any grizzlies there?"

"A few on 'em."

"Ever kill any?"

"Well, I mussed quite a bunch of 'em."

"How are they to kill, pretty hard?"

"Yes, tol'ble."

"I've heard they're dangerous. Is that so?"

"Well, I come to that conclusion oncet and ain't had no chance to alter it yet. I was a mousin' around the edge of the chaparral one evenin' after venison, up in the mountains, and fuss thing I know'd I see the most unrighteous old pot-walloper of a grizzly a comin' along an old bridle trail right fur me. I hopped out o' there lively, and got behind a big rock. I potted a dead bead onto his harker, but jest as I was goin' to shoot he smelt where I'd been. 'Whoof!' he went, and turned his head around. I was a little nervous and unhitched at him instead of waiting for a better chance. I heard the ball sing in the air and knowed it had glanced on his top knot, an' in a second he come for me jest a biltin'. I had one of these yere pill dispensaries, and begun shellin' out lead with it right lively and give him seven doses afore he got to me. When he got cluss enough he give one wipe with one of his front meat-rakes, and the pill squirt went a flyin' one way and I the tother way; on my legs, though, for you can bet I didn't wait for him to shake hands. I was pretty lively in the hocks them days, and the way I dusted down hill fur a live oak-tree was a caution to snakes. He come after me a rollin', tumblin' and wollopin' along so fast that I had to dodge an' let 'im go past. He ketched himself, though, and come a pacin' up that hill faster'n any pacin' hoss you ever see. But I dodged 'im agin, started fur the tree and slipped round it jest as he come down hill after me agin. The lowest limb was jest about seven foot from the ground, and I made a jump and ketched it out about eight foot from the trunk with both hands, and had jest swung up and ketched it with my feet when the old sinner arrived underneath.

I was young in them days, an', like many another loon, thought buckskin pants was an in'spensible part of a reg'lar hunter. They were the meanest things I ever wore, except fur real cold weather. One day they was too hot; the next day a draggin' under my feet with the wet, and as soon as they was dry they was a foot too short and scrapin', and scratchin', an' rattlin' round my knee-pans like shriveled-up stovepipes. Howsomever, I read about 'em in books and thought they was smart an' fine, and would wear 'em; but they come nigh bein' the death of me that time.

"How so?"

Well, you see just as I was a-goin to h'ist my carcass over onto the limb, the cuss made a grab an' anchored one claw right square into the seat of them breeches. A ordinary pair of breeches would a tore, you know, and let him down; but them infernal buckskins was so strong they come near letting me down. I know'd it was all up, and was tryin' to get the hang of one of them store prayers what they keep in books for shipwrecks and all kinds o' accidents, but couldn't make none of 'em that I ever had beerd fit my case. It was all right, fur all at once't the waist button of them breeches busted and the rest all followed like a row of bricks. That broke my foothold loose from the limb and as my legs swung down I gave a lively kick and a shake, and the pants was off, and afore he could get his claws loose from 'em I swung up onto the limb and in a minute was up in the top branches.

By that time it was pretty dark, but I could just see him and hear him plain, a tearin' and chawin' them pants. When he got tired of that he sot down to sit me out. There come a little flurry of snow then, and after that it got clear and awful cold; but there he sot. I sot an' sot, an' tried to keep warm a rubbin' my drumsticks, an' all the time it kept gittin' colder and colder, and must a gone several hundred p'ints below the mercury. The wind blowed so hard I didn't have to mow my chin meadow agin' fur a month, and that's what makes so many bare patches in it now; took the grass right out by the roots and froze up the holes. Gospel fact—you needn't laugh. When I got to camp and got a drink of chain lightnin' I couldn't swoller it. It froze solid as soon as it touched my tongue.

"I should think you would have kept warm swearing."

"Swearin'? No, sir, not by a damned sight. I never swear, I was pious brought up. My old dad was a meetin' man an first boss of a way up Sunday-school back in York, and wore the irritatinest square-toed number tens I ever experienced. No, sir, I never swear.

Well, I couldn't tell you all the sufferin' of that night. I've thought ever since there was a great mistake made in the gittin' up of hell. Heat ain't nothin' to stand; but perch a rich sinner up in a tree like that on sich a night without his breeches, and afore he got half way up he'd squawk far Lazarus to fetch him a red-hot brimstone cocktail.

Mornin' come at last, after about two years waitin', and there lay the bear at the foot of the tree dead, with a skein of buckskin strings all around him. The camp was well supplied with moccasin strings fur the rest of the winter. But what do you think I found out when I got down?"

"What?"

"Why, the snow from that little flurry I told you come jest about dark laid all over him, and showed that he was dead thee, an' I'd set up garret polishin' my toes all night fur nothin'.

"Then you must surely have sworn a little."

"Well, while I'm at it I spose I might as well tell the hull truth. You see I had several tons of cusswords bottled up inside that I'd always choked down out of respect fur them square toes I told you about; but now they bust out all in a heap. You've heerd of Echo Canyon ain't you?

"Yes."

"Well, that was the place, an' that's how it got its name; an' I—I'm a leetle ashamed to tell it, but since I'm tellin' you the truth I might as well tell the hull truth while I'm at it—a geology party that was out thero last year reported that some o' them cuss words is echoing there yet."

House Drainage.

ESSENTIAL REQUIREMENTS AS SET FORTH BY EXPERTS.

Every house-drain should have an inlet for fresh air entering at a point inside the main trap, and carried to a convenient location out of doors, not too near the windows. This pipe will relieve the small house traps from pressure occasioned by a descending column of water that would otherwise be likely to force the seals of these traps. The air drawn through this inlet to the lower part of the drainage system assists the circulation within the drains and is essential to insure the diffusion of the gases generated within them.

A trap should be placed on every main drain to disconnect the house from the sewer or cess-pool. In places liable to unusual pressure from the sewer it should be a double trap, with vent from between the two traps, running up full size above the roof; or, where the pressure from the sewer is only occasional and the rigor of climate will permit, this vent may be carried to the sidewalk or area, at a safe distance from windows. If the first trap is forced, the gas can gain easier exit through this pipe than through the second pipe.

Every vertical soil or waste pipe should be extended at least a full size through the roof.

No traps should be placed at the foot of vertical soil pipes to impede circulation.

Traps should be placed under all sinks, basin baths, wash trays, water-closets, etc., and as near to these fixtures as practicable.

All traps under fixtures, wherever practicable, should be separately ventilated in order to guard against syphonage. Such vent pipes should not branch into a soil pipe below where any drainage enters it. In some cases it is preferable to carry it to outer air independently. The extension of soil pipes through the roof is not certain protection against syphonage of traps branching into it, and no protection when traps are on a horizontal pipe at a distance from the vertical soil pipe.

Rain-water leaders should not be used as soil pipes, and when connected with house drains they should be made of cast-iron in preference to galvanized sheet-iron or tin, there being less liability of corrosion. Joints should be gas and water tight, to preclude the possibility of drain air entering open windows.

No safe waste should connect with any drain, but it should be carried down independently to a point where its discharge would indicate the existence of a leak or any overflow above.

No waste from a refrigerator should be connected with a drain.

Unless the water supply is ample, so that it will rise to every part of the building, insuring at all times the proper flushing of fixtures and traps, a cistern should be provided into which the water will rise at night, or into which it may be pumped. Said cistern should be large enough to hold an ample daily supply, be kept clean, covered and properly ventilated. The overflow-pipe from it should never be run into any drain under any circumstances. The supply for drinking water should not be drawn from it, but from a direct supply, i. e. direct from the street main.

Water-closets should not be supplied directly from street pressure or by a pipe from which branches are taken for drinking water. Where the valve closets are perferred to those that are supplied from a small cistern immediately over them, then the supply should be taken to a storage tank, from which it can be conveyed to the valves on the closets, thereby insuring an equitable pressure and securing more reliability in their working.

All drain pipes within a house should be of metal in preference to stoneware, owing to the liability of the latter to crack and the difficulty of keeping the joints tight. It is best to run them along the cellar wall or ceiling, with a good incline. They should never be hidden underground, as then leaks will not be perceptible. In some places it is common to paint pipes white, so that any leakage will show itself to the most careless observer.

All drains should be kept at all times free from deposits, and if this cannot be effected without flushing, special flushing arrangements should be provided so as to effectually remove all foul matter from the house drains to the public sewers.

All drains should be laid in a straight line, with proper falls, and should be carefully joined and made water-tight. No right-angled junction should be allowed, except in the case of a drain discharging into a vertical shaft.

The Heart as a Machine.

The heart is probably the most efficient piece of physical apparatus known. From a purely mechanical point of view it is something like eight times as efficient as the best steam engine. It may be described, mechanically, as little more than a double force-pump furnished with two reservoirs and two pipes of outflow; and the main problem of its action is hydrodynamical. The left ventricle has a capacity of about three ounces; it beats 75 times a minute; and the work done in overcoming the resistance of the circulating system is equivalent to lifting its charge of blood a little short of ten feet (9.923.) The average weight of the heart is a little under ten ounces (9.39 oz.) The daily work of the left ventricle is, in round numbers, ninety foot-tons; adding the work of the right ventricle, the work of the entire organ is nearly one hundred and twenty-five foot-tons. The hourly work of the heart is accordingly equivalent to lifting itself twenty thousand feet an hour.

An active mountain climber can average 1,000 feet of ascent an hour, or one-twentieth the work of the heart. The prize Alp's engine, "Bavaria," lifted its own weight 2,700 feet an hour, thus demonstrating only one eighth the efficiency of the heart. Four elements have to be considered in estimating the heart's work: (1) The statical pressure of the blood column equal to the animal's height, which has to be sustained; (2) the force consumed in overcoming the inertia of the blood veins; (3) the resistance offered by the capillary vessels; (4) the friction in the heart itself. This, in a state of health, is kept at its minimum by the labricate serous membrane of the pericardium.—Scientific American.

Care of House Plants.

In many households no sitting-room is regarded as complete without plants in the sunniest window. They are the only representatives of Summer life we are permitted to see for many months, and to keep them in a flourishing condition is an art worth studying. Plants are often killed by kindness, but much more frequently by neglect. They are fed and watered too often during a quiet time of rest. They are subjected to violent transition, and especially to excessive heat. Chills are fatal to their beauty. Air and light are essential; but the air that plants like best is that which we have breathed and charged with carbonic acid. They feed on it, retaining the carbon if they are growing in full light, and thus their company is, physically as well as esthetically, beneficial to the human occupants. Water is another essential. The dry air of our heated rooms makes evaporation rapid. The water should be freely given, so as to soak every particle of the soil; but the drainage—excepting for callas and other aquatics—must be free, and no more water should be given until the pot and soil become noticeably dry again. Over-watering and sodden soil are a most fatal and common ruin of room-plants. No other food than good, sweet, well-aired soil and pure water should be used until growth and bloom are expanding, when some diluted liquor fertilizer once a week greatly improves the volume and color of foliage and flowers if the light is good. A few drops of ammonia added to the water may occasionally be used with a good effect.

Hats.

The felt hat is as old as Homer. The Greeks made them in skull-caps, conical, truncated, narrow, or broad-brimmed. The Phrygian bonnet was an elevated cap without a brim, the apex turned over in front. It is known as the cap of Liberty. An ancient figure of Liberty in the times of Antonius Livius, A. D. 115, holds the cap in the right hand. The Persians wore soft caps; plumed hats were the head-dress of the Syrian corps of Xerxes; the broad-brim was worn by the Macedonian kings. Castor means a beaver. The Armenian captive wore a plug hat. The merchants of the fourteenth century wore a Flanders beaver. Charles VII., in 1469, wore a felt hat lined with red, and plumed. The English men and women in 1510 wore close woolen or knitted caps; two centuries ago hats were worn in the house. Pepys, in his diary, wrote: "September, 1664, got a severe cold because I took off my hat at dinner;" and again, in January, 1665, he got another cold by sitting too long with his head bare, to allow his wife's maid to comb his hair and wash his ears; and Lord Clarendon, in his essay, speaking of the decay of respect due the aged, says "that in his younger days he never kept his hat on before those older than himself, except at dinner." In the thirteenth century Pope Innocent IV. allowed the cardinals the use of the scarlet cloth hat. The hats now in use are the cloth hat, leather hat, paper hat, silk hat, opera hat, spring-brim hat and straw hat.

In Case of Stings.

The pain caused by the sting of a plant or insect is the result of a certain amount of acid poison injected in the blood. The first thing to be done is to press the tube of a small fly from side to side to facilitate the expulsion of the sting and its accompanying poison. The sting, if left in the wound, should be carefully extricated, otherwise it will greatly increase the local irritation. The poison of stings being acid, common sense points to the alkalies as the proper means of cure. Among the most easily procured remedies may be mentioned soft soap, liquor of ammonia, (spirits of hartshorn), smelling salts, washing-soda, quicklime made into a paste with water, lime-water, the juice of an onion, tobacco juice, chewed tobacco, bruised dock leaves, tomato juice, wood ashes, tobacco ash and carbonate of soda.

If the sting be very severe, rest and coolness should be added to the other remedies, more especially in case of nervous subjects. Nothing is so apt to make the poison active as heat, and nothing favors its activity less than cold. Let the body be kept cool and at rest, and the activity of the poison will be reduced to a minimum. Any active exertion whereby the circulation is quickened will increase both pain and swelling. If the swelling be severe, the part may be rubbed with sweet oil or a drop or two of laudanum. Stings in the eye, ear, mouth or throat, sometimes lead to serious consequences; in such cases medical advice should always be sought for as soon as possible.

"Why do clumsy men always have big feet?" asked a Mount Pleasant correspondent. Oh, thou that questioneth without reason, walk on. Did you suppose he wanted them to comb his hair with, or that he needed them to scratch his back?—Rural Life.

MONEY—FARMS—ABSTRACTS.

If you want to hire money at very low rates.

If you have money to loan.

If you want to buy a farm or a home.

If you want to sell your real estate.

If you want a deed or mortgage correctly made.

If you want a complete abstract of title. Call on A. L. Bliss.

Among other Farms for sale I have one of 160 acres and one of 80 acres in Palmyra both being well tiled and fenced, and first class in every respect, with four market towns within easy driving distance, in good neighborhood. Also 125 acre farm 1½ miles west of river road from Deerfield. Also 160 acre farm and 80 acre farm, and 20 acre farm in Riga, any of which are decided bargains, and good reasons given for naming low prices.

Every purchaser of Lands should insist on being furnished an abstract of title, for our experience of more than 20 years shows that not more than one title in ten is perfect of record, and every week purchases agreed upon are abandoned owing to imperfections of title. I have a good carriage or farm horse, 1300 lbs. in weight for sale at a bargain.

A few thousand dollars now on hand to loan at six per cent, and on long time if desired.

TO THE AFFLICTED.

Since the introduction of Kellogg's Columbian Oil it has made more permanent cures and given better satisfaction on Kidney complaints and Rheumatism than any known remedy. Its continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it known as a safe and reliable agent to employ against all aches and pains, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders. It acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering and often saving life. The protection it affords by its timely use on Rheumatism, kidney affection, and all aches and pains, wounds, cramping pains, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, coughs, colds, catarrh, and disorders among children, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. It is absolutely certain in its remedial effects and will always cure when cures are possible. Call at C. A. Wright & Co's. and get a memorandum book giving more full details of the curative properties of this wonderful medicine.

Cream Tartar—Where and How Procured.

The pure cream of tartar of commerce exists naturally in the grape, and during fermentation of the tart wines in France it is deposited on the sides and bottoms of the casks. In its unrefined state it is called crude tartar, or argols, and is taken from the cask after the wine has been drawn off. Each farmer has his crop of it according to the amount of wine he has produced.

It is imported into this country as argols, and does not appear upon the Custom House entries except as argols—never as cream of tartar, for the reason that the facilities for refining in this country are superior to that of the old countries; hence, it is brought here in the crude form, and then subjected to the process of refining.

This dispels the impression many have that this article cannot be procured in its native purity. There is no doubt but what cream tartar is largely adulterated, and that ordinarily found in the shops is cheapened by either burnt bones, terra alba, or the hurtful alum, from 10 to 90 per cent.

Greatest Remedy Known.

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumptive is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity.—Thousands of once hopeless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this Discovery to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggists, M. Wright & Son, and get a trial bottle free of cost which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar size bottle will do. For sale by M. Wright & Son, Tecumseh.

Complaints are made by the Jews that there exists at Jerusalem no school at which instruction in modern departments of knowledge can be had. Charities there are, it is said, in abundance, but of teaching in practical things there is none. Meanwhile ecclesiasticism prevails in the synagogues, and hospitals and alms-houses are provided for, but the active man who has to do with the busy world is left in his ignorance.

How to Get Rich.

The great secret of obtaining riches, is first to practice economy, and as good old "Deacon Snyder," says, "It used to worry the life out of me to pay enormous doctor's bills, but now I have "struck it rich." Health and happiness reign supreme in our little household, and all simply because we use no other medicine but Electric Bitters and only costs fifty cents a bottle. Sold by C. How Snuff is Scented.

The oils used in perfuming are quite costly and form one of the most important items in the manufacturers' bills of expenses. They vary in price from $2 to $3 to over $100 per pound. Oil of roses, which is used in scenting many kinds of snuff, and which is a great favorite with snuff-takers, costs the manufacturer $7 to $8 per ounce.

Great quantities of oil of lemon, bergamont, and tonka bean are consumed annually in snuff mills. The tonka bean appears to be in especial demand, and many old gentlemen and old ladies can be found carrying them around in their snuff-boxes, which they have possessed for years.

The olfactories of snuff-takers are very sensitive to perfumes, and many manufacturers find it quite a difficult task to cater successfully to their tastes. The coarse rappee snuff is usually put up without being scented. After the snuff has become scented it is put up in jars, bladders, or foil, and stamped with the Government's internal revenue stamp.

Yellow or Scotch snuff, as it is usually called, previous to being packed, is toasted or "scotched" upon iron racks, before open fires. This kind of snuff is always packed in bladders previously prepared with a great deal of care.

The amount of snuff produced in the United States is very small compared with the other kinds of manufactured tobacco. In the year 1874, which was a fairly average year for the manufacturers of tobacco, some 1,800,000 pounds of snuff were produced in Boston, and over 1,000,000 pounds of it were manufactured in New York City and its immediate vicinity.

Meat for Poultry.

Some time since I noticed among other useful hints the advice to feed meat to the poultry, and lambs plucks, as cheap and good, were recommended. I have used them for a number of years, and think I get more good with less trouble from them than from any thing else I can feed in the shape of animal food. They do not have to be prepared in any way, having no skin or bone, and if there is no time to chop them up they are so tender when boiled that I have no doubt but that the fowls could easily pick them to pieces.

When I boil a pluck for my chickens I put in a few onions, all the scraps of bread in the house—they having been saved for this purpose—plenty of black pepper and a little salt; a tablespoon of salt is about right for one pluck. I think there should always be about the same quantity of salt cooked or scalded for poultry as we would use in preparing the same quantity of food for the table. When the pluck is cooked I take it out of the pot and thicken the water containing the onions, bread, etc., with coarse meal, feed the meal warm, and the pluck when I get ready.

A lamb's head is also good. It may be skinned, but that is not necessary; when boiled it may be split open and fastened in a handy place for the fowls, and they will take care of all that is on the bones. The brains also form quite a quantity of food.

These things I consider preferable to scraps—do not cost much more, but perhaps make more trouble.

Diamond Cut Diamond.

Some time in '64 there were a number of army officers stopping at a hotel in Washington. Among them was a Capt. Jones, who was a first rate fellow, a good officer, and very pompous. Emerson and Jones used to have a good deal of joking together at the table and elsewhere. One day at the dinner table, when the dinner hall was well filled, Capt. Jones finished his dinner first, got up, walked almost across to the dining hall door, when Emerson spoke to him in a loud voice and said: "Hello captain! see here; I want to speak to you a minute." The Captain turned and walked back to the table and bent over him, when Emerson whispered: "I wanted to ask you how far you would have gone if I had not spoken to you?" The Captain never changed a muscle, but straightened up and put his fingers in his vest pocket and said in a voice loud enough for all to hear: "Captain Emerson, I don't know a man in the world I had rather lend $5 than you, but the fact is I haven't a cent with me today," and turned on his heel and walked away. Emerson was the color of a half a dozen rainbows, but he had to stand it.

Gaps made in the flesh by cuts, speedily disappear without leaving a scar, when Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment is used.

Parents who allow their children to grow up with scrofulous humors bursting from every pore are guilty of a great wrong. Think of them pointed out as brangled with a loathsome disease, and you will readily procure them the Cuticura Remedies.

Chas. Eayre Hinkle, Jersey City Heights, N. J., writes: "My son, a lad of twelve years, was completely cured of a terrible case of Eczema by the Cuticura Remedies. From his head to his feet was one mass of scabs."

Bad blood always causes trouble. It may be a family fight or boils, pimples, itch, tetter, etc.; but no matter, "Dr. Lindsey's Blood Searcher" is the cure-all.

Constipation invariably follows Liver Complaint; but is easily overcome by the timely use of Baxter's Mandrake Bitters. Dyspepsia also readily yields to this potent remedy.

After all, a gentle purgative is the best means of curing headache, liver complaint, biliousness, &c. Use "Seller's Liver Pills."

How It Was Stolen.

The true story of how the President's message and secretary's report was surreptitiously obtained for publication is as follows:

The matter was engineered by Thomas D. Crawford, the correspondent of the Chicago Times, and formerly of the Pittsburgh press. He approached a Government printer, and finaly secured a bargain to obtain proofs of the document for $1,500. He made arrangements with several papers to receive the message and divide the expense. Some of them were disposed to weaken on Saturday, but Mr. Crawford was instructed by the Times to go ahead, if that paper had to assume all the expense itself. The message was telegraphed so as to close about four o'clock in the morning, when the Chicago Tribune got wind of it, and immediately telegraphed to New York, where a copy of the New York Times, with the message in it was obtained. The work of telegraphing it from New York to the Tribune commenced at four o'clock in the morning. Ten wires were used, and the Tribune was enabled to appear with the message in a late edition about half-past seven o'clock in the morning. This is, perhaps, the most remarkable feat of telegraphing and setting up of matter on record, as the entire work of making arrangements, telegraphing and setting up over 20,000 words was accomplished in less than four hours.

"Our best people take Malt Bitters."

"Sure cure for chills and liver diseases."

Gould's Start in Life.

The millionaire started as a self-made surveyor, He put his few rude instruments in a wheelbarrow, and trundled it from point to point, very much as Fisk peddled about the country in a wagon. One of the best maps of Delaware county has on the margin, "Surveyed by Jay Gould." He had quite a nack for trading, was very sharp as a cattle-dealer, and one time he got a lesson that lasted him for life. A farmer had a herd of cattle and Jay went to look at it. In the midst of the bartering a woman appeared who had a talk with the old farmer, and Jay catching a word or two, heard her imploring him not to sell her cow. "I shall die if you do," she cried. "What's the matter with that woman?" asked Gould in his quiet way. "Oh, nothing; she's afraid I'm going to sell her favorite cow, old Pailful." Gould thought he had found a prize. He demanded that the cow be brought out, and insisted when he saw her that she must go with the lot. The cattle were driven home, and Jay's father sent him to see what kind of a milker old Pailful was. Jay had hardly seated himself before the cow kicked him, pail and stool sky high, tore around the pasture, leaped the fence, and started towards home. Jay has never bought anything from that day to this that a woman wanted to keep.

Astonishing the World.

Their wonderful cures are astonishing the world. For Kidney or Urinary complaints they are a perfect specific. Do not give up in despair, for Electric Bitters will positively cure, and that where everything else fails. Sold by C. A. Wright & Co., at 50 cents a bottle.

Newspaper Slander.

A journalist has the same right to assail the private character of a citizen that a highwayman has to attack and cudgel the unarmed man who walks the streets, and no more. Of the two, the malignant and unscrupulous journalist and the man with a slung-shot, the former is the worst, from the fact that the wounds given by him have in them a virus that do not heal. This does not mean that honest journalism should cease to antagonize every crime of individuals against the public, for as long as newspaper articles are backed up by facts, they are safe protectors of society. When they leave this honored path, and nose around for possible scandal, catching up the barest threads of truth and winding them around their victim, they are simply "busy-bodies," described in the sacred Word as having "tongues set on fires of hell." A gossip in any neighborhood can keep the whole community in an uproar and by the ears, and a newspaper, with the ears of its editor ever eager for a whisper of slander, will keep a community anxious, while a thousand good things will be passed unnoticed. The tongue has always been an unruly member, and protection from its venom is more difficult than from the bludgeon of the highwayman.

The Ventilation Fiend.

Ever since fresh air was invented has earth been cursed with people who fancied themselves appointed to ladle out vast volumes of aerial cataracts, chilling torrents of fresh air, to nervous, timid people, who don't want a pint of it. The ventilation idiot, who has not seen him? Who has not longed to kill him? He haunts the railway train, and makes his dwelling in the church; he goes to the theatre; he invades your offices; he tramples on the sanctity of your home; and wherever he goes and wherever he comes he brings with him blasts from Greenland and theories from the caves of Æolus. And he sweeps down upon you, and your peace, and your tranquil home like a tornado, and he overwhelms you with fresh air until you want to suffocate. How you do hate him, the man whose hobby is ventilation!—Burdette.

THE SYMPTOMS

Liver Complaint are a bitter or a bad taste in the mouth; Pain in the Back, Sides or Joints, often mistaken for Rheumatism; Sour Stomach, Loss of Appetite, Bowels alternately costive and lax; Headache, Loss of memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done; Debility, Low Spirits, a thick yellow appearance of the Skin and Eyes, a dry Cough often mistaken for Consumption.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few; but the LIVER, the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of disease, and if not Regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and death will ensue.

PILES! PILES!! PILES!!!

A Sure Cure Found at Last. No One Need Suffer.

A sure cure for the Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams (an Indian remedy), called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 and 30 years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, Instruments, and Electuaries do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching (particularly at night after getting warm in bed), acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for Piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment: "I have used scores of pile cures, but it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment."

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

TECUMSEH, MICH., MAY 19, 1881.

CONGRESSIONAL

SENATE.

MAY 9.—Mr. Brown called up the resolution offered by him March 31, relating to the committee on Commerce in regard to the improvement of the Potomac River from the city of Washington, the navigation of said river, and the effect of a bridge across the same with regard to navigation, locks and the health of the city, and to report at the next session what steps, if any, should be taken with reference thereto. Adopted.

Mr. Kellogg offered a resolution calling on the Postmaster General, secretaries of War, Navy, State, and Treasury for the names of all clerks and other employees in their respective departments, together with the date of their appointment, the state to which each is charged, and the person or persons recommended each was appointed. On objection from Mr. Ferry, the resolution was laid over under the rules.

The Senate then, on motion of Mr. Dawes, went into executive session, and when the doors were reopened adjourned until to-morrow.

MAY 10.—The unfinished business came up and the senate on motion of Mr. Pendleton, went into executive session. When the doors were reopened the senate adjourned.

MAY 11.—Mr. Kellogg called up the resolution offered by him some days ago, calling on the heads of executive departments for the names of clerks and employees employed in their respective departments, etc.

Mr. Brown offered an amendment requiring additional information as to whether such clerks and employees are white or colored.

The resolution and amendment were laid over for future action.

Mr. McDill offered a resolution that hereafter the "Official Register of the United States" shall contain, in addition to the statistics required by section 154, Revised Statutes, information as to the congressional district from which each officer, clerk, and employe in the service of the United States is appointed, and the date of his appointment. Laid over for future action.

The senate then went into executive session, and when the doors reopened the senate adjourned.

MAY 12.—Mr. Kellogg called up the resolution calling upon the heads of the various executive departments for information relative to clerks and employes in their respective departments, including information as to the persons or persons on whose recommendation such clerks or employes were appointed.

Mr. Sherman opposed the resolution. Under existing law there was a regular made up of all officers and employes of the government, which was of itself a very expensive document. It contained all the information called for by the present resolution, with the exception of the formation relative to the person or persons on whose recommendation the appointments were made. That information would only give a handle to enable persons seeking office to get out men who were already in the public service.

Mr. Bayard agreed with the senator from Ohio (Sherman) in opposing the resolution, and moved that it be referred to the committee on printing.

Mr. Brown contended that the object sought by the resolution was a proper one, but thought it could be better attained by the resolution offered yesterday by the senator from Iowa (McDill).

Mr. Kellogg argued that the information asked for by the resolution was not contained in the "blue book," if it were true that there were scores of persons employed in the various departments, who were born in northern states, and who had never seen a state south of Mason and Dixon's line, and who were, however, credited to southern states. That wrong ought to be righted. Let the resolution be referred to the committee on printing, and let the whole question be taken into consideration. The resolution was referred to the committee on printing.

Mr. McDill called up the resolution offered by him yesterday, directing that hereafter there shall be contained in the official register of the United States information as to the congressional district from which each government employe is appointed.

Mr. Brown offered an amendment providing that it should also contain information as to whether such employes are white or colored.

Mr. Hoar offered a resolution directing the committee on privileges and elections to inquire and report at the next session of congress what measures are needful to secure the ascertainment and declaration of the election of president and vice president. Adopted.

The senate then went into executive session. When the doors reopened the senate adjourned.

MAY 13.—The senate, in executive session, confirmed the nomination of Don A. Pardee for United States circuit judge of the Fifth Judicial district, and George K. Stimer for postmaster at Richmond, Va., and Jerome H. Fee at Adrian, Mich., J. C. Dickey at Marshall, Kan., and W. W. Lambert, at Brackenville, Tex.; Malachi Kiehs, to be receiver of public moneys at Boise City, Idaho, and Moses M. Bane to be receiver of public moneys at Salt Lake, Utah. Adjourned until Tuesday.

FRUIT AND GRAIN PROSPECTS.

More recent reports in local papers and to the Agricultural Department, in regard to the prospects of winter grains in Virginia, Maryland and the great wheat States of the West, indicate better results than were expected two or three weeks ago; late rains have benefitted the wheat crop very much. The prospects of the peach crop is better, and the disaster of the frost is not so great as was feared in March. Strawberry patches and other small fruits promise abundance.

Just now we are having balmy, warm weather; and to-day (April 25) the shade trees of the streets show almost half foliage, having sprung from the bud in two days, and all is lovely once more. D. S. C.

The son of a Broadway cab driver found in a dilapidated trunk which he had purchased a cluster diamond brooch lost by Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt, at Saratoga, and valued at $2,000. The youngster, in returning the prize, said he did not ask a reward, but hoped the affair might aid his father in securing an easier job.

The suits against the bonanza mining firms, involving about $35,000,000, have been quietly dismissed by consent of the parties thereto. The entries were made in a manner so clearly illegal that Judge Sullivan, of San Francisco, ordered the parties to show cause why the dismissal shall not be annulled. It is believed that Burke, the litigant, was handsomely paid for making a compromise.

Mrs. Garfield is said to be in a critical condition of health, the temperature of her blood being 104 degrees. She is too ill to be removed from the white house to the Soldiers' home, and the president is greatly exhausted from attending her. Three physicians have been summoned from Ohio to her bedside.

LATER—Mrs. Garfield is said by her physicians to be out of immediate danger.

The Anti-Monopoly leaguers of Jersey City have thirty-five hundred active members. Their main purpose is to force the railroads to share the burdens of local taxation. The railways have secured the whole water-front of the city, ten miles in extent, with the exception of one public dock, and hold lands valued at $35,000,000, none of which pay any municipal taxes.

Strikes have become so popular in Canada that the Caughnawega Indians have taken a hand. For piloting rafts of timber down the Lachine rapids they demand an increase to $2.50 per day, with the condition that no white men be employed. The reds assaulted a timber agent for hiring some French Canadians.

A picnic party near Talledeje, Ala., had among the participants a child of 7 years, adorned with gold ornaments and a diamond pin. On being missed, search was made, and she was discovered dead in the arms of a negro thief, who was about to throw her body over the falls. He took but a moment to hang the scoundrel to a tree, where his corpse was left to dangle in the wind.

In the suit of Rufus Hatch against the telegraphic consolidation, Judge Speir, of New York, continued the injunction against the distribution of the increased stock. In a similar action brought by William S. Williams, an adjournment was refused, and J. Gould and Dr. Norvin Green will be called to the witness stand.

Full details from Fort Niobrara of the death of Lieutenant Cherry, show that he was deliberately shot dead by Thomas Locke, one of his soldiers, while engaged in the pursuit of deserters who were robbing ranches. The murderer then fired upon a fellow soldier, named James Conroy, who was knocked from his saddle. Sergeant Harrington, believing that his lieutenant and him had been betrayed by the soldiers, rode away to overtake another section of the party. Locke's motive cannot be imagined.

ESTATE OF LUCINDA THORPE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, on Monday the 16th day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

Present Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Lucinda Thorpe, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Lyman Thorpe, praying that administration on the estate of said deceased may be granted to Edwin B. Wood or some other suitable person.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 13th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee, for three successive weeks, previous to said day of hearing. (A True Copy.)

The Adrian Light-Guard are moving toward the observance of decoration day.

A SERMON to young people will be given next Sabbath eve at the Methodist church.

SUBSCRIBERS to the Butler bonus at Adrian have already begun to pay their notes.

W. AND S. W. ANDERSON have placed some fine new curtains in their store windows.

ONLY eleven miles of the Butler road remain unironed and that will be soon completed.

LAST Tuesday Wilson McClure's stock of groceries was sold to Henry McClure for $865.

NOT within ten or fifteen years has there been so much repairing done in Tecumseh as this spring.

J. G. ROBERTS left at our office a big buff cochin egg which measured 7½ inches in circumference.

LAST Friday morning John Durling, who has been gradually sinking for months back with consumption, died.

ED. MCKINNEY has as yet made the largest run of billiards for the gold headed cane offered by Charlie Severance.

MORENCI had three fires in one day last week. A lime house, a straw stack and a saw mill were reduced to ashes.

PRIMROSE & MCKINNEY have a new ad. in this week's HERALD.—Their new carriage works are getting finely started.

THE State Band Tournament will meet at Lansing on the 8th and 9th of June. Several bands have already entered for the contest.

WE were glad to learn that "Benny" Rowland had so much improved that he was able to take a short walk in the open air last Saturday.

SUNDAY afternoon and evening Messrs. Ward and Hughes lectured in the Opera House. They are as enthusiastic in the cause of temperance as ever.

THE State has let a contract to Col. E. T. Pierce, of Grand Rapids, to make 1,500 new blouses for the State troops. These are for fatigue wear in camp.

ORLANDO PALMER is in Cleveland doing finely. He is the foreman in one of the rooms in a large iron manufactory having about sixty men under him.

ROBERT MCGILL on complaint of Abram Mangus was arrested for assault and battery. Justice McKinnon imposed a fine of $10 upon Robert last Monday.

REV. J. A. DE SPELDER has declined the call of the church at Detroit and will remain at Macon. His many friends in this section will rejoice in this decision.

JACOB WALTON, of Cheboygan, formerly supervisor of Raisin, is circulating around among his old friends this week. He made us a pleasant call last Monday.

THE whiffletree business of Tecumseh is attaining considerable dimensions; there are three firms manufacturing them and they are filling large orders from all parts of the state.

CHARLEY MATHER has so far recovered as to be about again. Last Tuesday he started for Waterloo, N. Y., with Mrs. Mather, to recruit his health. A change of climate will undoubtedly be beneficial to him.

LAST Sunday part of the floor in Hayden's warehouse gave away and precipitated about 500 sacks of flour to the ground. Luckily no sacks were broken and the damage only amounts to the cost of rebuilding the floor.—There were about 15,000 sacks of flour, weighing 200 lbs. each, in the warehouse, and the extraordinary pressure was too much for a part of the floor.

A CONCERT benefit for Mr. Buck is on the tapis.

O. W. BEAN is the happy father of a new 10-pound baby.

THE foundation walls of the Hough building are completed.

J. L. REMINGTON is greatly improving the looks of his residence.

THE Common Council have been building some good crosswalks.

JOHN F. HICKS will soon start for Wisconsin with men and teams for the purpose of selling the Howe scales.

THE Tecumseh public schools will have exercises Friday afternoon, June 3, commemorative of Washington Irving. This time has been selected because it was found to be more convenient than the anniversary of his birth.

THE Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway decided at its meeting in Detroit last week to push the extension of the Chicago & Canada Southern from Fayette quickly through. This will be a competing line with the Butler.

AT the spring meeting of the Michigan Association of Superintendents of City Schools, to be held at Lansing, May 19 and 20, Supt. Fairfield of the Tecumseh schools has been appointed to discuss the subject of "Supplementary Reading."

LAST Tuesday Del Cairns obtained a fine side bar buggy of Messrs. Primrose & McKinney, made especially for him. The work is a high recommendation for the firm, being one of the neatest buggies of that style that we have ever seen.

THE new No. 13 safe which we have lately placed in the HERALD Counting Room, is a model of strength and beauty. It was made by the Detroit Safe Co. and it is certainly no exaggeration to say that outside of the two banks it is one of the best safes in the village. The Detroit safes cannot be beat.

THE following named fourteen pupils of the Tecumseh High School were granted a holiday last Friday, having been excused from written examinations as a reward for regularity of attendance and uniform excellence in all their studies: Wm. Aten, Metta Adams, Eva Clement, May DeWolf, Leila Doty, Fred Eccles, May Farley, Wm. Hastings, Lizzie Hayden, Louise Hialey, Hettie McClue, Chas. Patterson, Myra Reynolds, Allie Satterthwaite.

DEPUTY Sheriff Bostwick of Pontiac made a complaint against Mayor Navin, of Adrian, for slander, claiming that he accused him of taking the money that Homer Andrews stole from Johns. The arrest was made in Pontiac last Monday. The Mayor was taken before a Justice and released till June 14, the time of the trial, upon his own recognizance in the sum of $100. This is the result of a little sore-headedness on the part of the Oakland county officials and will probably do nothing more than generally advertise the law firm of Merritt & Navin.

CHARLEY WILEY went out the first part of the week to shoot woodchucks. He loaded the old reliable family gun and started for Evans creek, which runs through the rear part of his farm. When near the creek he saw a lot of ducks which he fired at. The gun bursted, filling his face with powder and injuring the right eye so badly that it will probably have to be taken out. The pieces of the gun flew in all directions, but luckily none hit Mr. Wiley. The barrel was found in the creek but the lock could not be found. It is useless to say that no woodchucks were killed by Mr. W. that day.

THE will of the late Job Burleson, of Macon, was very peculiar. He had by dint of hard labor and penuriousness amassed a fortune of $70,000.—The will bequeathed only $200 to his son Stephen, who has been a steady companion to his father on the farm, the same to Jerry, but to Charles, who was never contented to remain upon the farm and was always roaming about the country, he left $60,000.—When E. B. Wood, Esq., read the will in the presence of the three sons, Charles realizing the unfairness in the distribution of the property, with open heartedness told Mr. W. to divide the property equally among the three, as he was not entitled to more than either of the others. This was certainly kind.

WE are glad to see again on our streets, after a short illness, Mr. T. E. Gridley, manager for Appleton's American Cyclopedia. Messrs. G. & son are the right men, both genial and honorable, and in their quiet business way, so representing the house, and their great work in presenting its merits to our people that they have made fast friends among our best citizens. We recommend them and their authoritative storehouse of knowledge and library, the educator of the people, to the citizens of Lenawee county, (as the terms of payment are such in long installments,) that all can purchase this great work. Let none fail to get it. It can only be purchased through the legal representative of the house.

HOUSEKEEPING and the measles go hand in hand this spring.

SINK'S hotel has undergone a thorough fixing up. Mr. Sink has refurnished the parlor in fine style, placing in it a nice piano for the amusement of his guests, and recarpeted all the halls on both upper floors so that they have an exceedingly neat appearance. Mr. Sink is a first-class landlord and knows how to manage a hotel where people are pleased to stop.

A play at the Adrian opera house last week was advertised by sticking bills on the sidewalks, with simply the name of the play printed thereon—"Pirates." A large number of these happened to be plastered where the wood merchants are wont to congregate when they drive into the city, and seeing the too significant and descriptive word staring at them at every step, it is said they took the matter in high dudgeon, not liking to have their short measures and high prices flung up at them in that way.

FROM the Sunday Bazoo, of Sedalia, Missouri, we clip from their notice of a Congregational church concert the following compliment to one of Tecumseh's formerly fair maidens:

"Miss Mabel Van Camp is a general favorite in the city, both as an amiable and attractive young woman, and as a sweet and gifted singer. She sings from the heart, and reaches the hearts of the audience. She fairly surpassed herself Friday night in solo and chorus. One never wearies of her rich, sweet tones—so natural and soul-moving. Many hearts were touched when she sang, "'Tis the last rose of summer."

THE reader must be hard to please indeed who in the diversified contents of the North American Review for June should find nothing to win his attention. First we have an article by Hugh McCulloch on "Our Future Fiscal Policy", treating of the problems of refunding, the remonetization of silver, and the restoration of the United States to their just rank among the maritime nations of the world. George B. Loring writes of "The Patrician Element in American Society". Dorman B. Eaton makes a spirited defense of civil service reform; and there are other valuable articles.

Pioneer Meeting.

The sixth annual meeting of the Lenawee County Pioneer society will meet at the council room, in the city of Adrian, Saturday, May 28, at one o'clock P. M. Officers will then be elected. A record of the names and ages of early settlers of this county, whom the Angel of Death has called away the past year will be read.—There will also be addresses and reminiscences of former times. A cordial invitation is given to attend the annual pioneer meeting.

F. A. DEWEY, President.
W. A. WHITNEY, Secretary.

Speak to Your Clergyman.

The pastor would be greatly aided in his work if his people would be more ready to confide in him their religious difficulties and doubts and troubles; if they would speak more freely of their particular trials and perplexities, and would go to him for help and instruction in the many little and great matters that arise, or questions and their minds—suggested perhaps by the objection of some critical or skeptical neighbor, or may be in reading the word of God. Besides being themselves directly benefited, they would in this way help to give their pastor that insight into the character and thoughts and spiritual needs of his people which is so necessary to the efficacy of both his pastoral and pulpit ministrations.—Selected.

Morenci Observer: The coming June fair to be held in this village is entirely an experiment in this part of the State, and its success or failure will depend largely on the action of the friends of the new departure. In several of the western counties we hear the spring fair, as it is termed, is a great success; but in this part of the State no agricultural society has had the nerve to get out of the ruts of the past in this respect, and only autumn fairs have been held. The vast revolution in agricultural implements which the last two decades have brought about, together with the introduction of new varieties of cattle, horses, sheep and swine, would seem to make a spring fair almost a necessity, as at that season all those matters can best be inspected by the farmer; and then if he has any progressive enterprise in his composition he can best utilize at once the improvements he may discover. We are pleased to hear that the ladies are fully alive to the importance of the new enterprise, and are making arrangements to have one of the finest displays of home fabrics ever seen in floral hall, and if the brethren of the male "persuasion" shall do as well, we shall have a grand success to report on the coming June gathering. We trust that every wide awake farmer in this section of the country will devote a day to the new fair, believing it will be beneficial to all concerned.

Hudson Gazette: Harrison Maples, of this village, plead guilty in the circuit court on Tuesday, to buying liquor for Geo. Earl, and was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 and the costs of the suit, (making $50 in all,) on default thereof to go to jail for twenty days. Failing to raise the money, he submitted to incarceration. The following morning his infant child died very suddenly. Considerable sympathy was aroused by the sad event, and Norman Weaver soon raised forty dollars among our citizens towards paying Maples' fine, for which liberality Mr. Weaver requests us to return his own as well as the thanks of the bereaved family. The Judge very readily ordered the release of Mr. Maples, and himself and a number of court officers voluntarily donated means to purchase a coffin for the child that had died.

Hudson Post: As Mark Frazier was going by the Spencer place, just south of town, he was arrested by the cries of a woman, and on stopping to learn the cause, was told that a child about two years old had fallen into a cistern. Mr. Frazier got into the cistern as soon as possible, and found the child up to its neck in the water, but unharmed. He quickly placed the child upon dry land, and went on his way, but not until he had received the heart-felt thanks of the mother, whose joy upon recovering her child can be better imagined than expressed.

Blissfield Advance: Peter Thompson, living about a mile and a half east of this village, was arrested last week by Officer Barrows, as an insane person, and lodged in Adrian jail. He was in the habit of abusing his wife, whipping and pounding her terribly, because she would not kneel and pray to him, imagining himself Jesus Christ. Judge Geddes adjudged him insane and ordered him sent to the insane asylum. The necessary papers were made out, and Barrows took him to Pontiac last Wednesday.

Hudson Gazette: Hudson receives $436 primary money. This is more than double the amount of previous years. This unexpected addition to the school treasury should help swell the usual "balance," with which to begin the fall term. So far from the anticipated balance, there will be an empty treasury and a debt besides we learn.

Deerfield Record: Several of our citizens were fortunately the holders of tickets drawing cash prizes in the Detroit Commercial Advertiser gift distribution. Ed. Plunket drew $10 on the same number that he drew the same amount last year. Lightning does not strike twice in the same place very often.

United States Map Free.

All persons sending their address on a postal card to General Passenger Agent, C., B. & Q. R. R., Chicago, Ill. will receive free of all charge, an elegant folded and complete county map of the United States. We advise readers to send in their application at once and secure a valuable and handsome document. It is the most complete map now out.

Anecdote of Tom Corwin.

When quite a young man he was elected a member of the General Assembly of the state of Ohio, and early in the session he brought in a bill for the destruction of the whipping post. He made an earnest speech in favor of the measure, to which an elder member replies as follows:

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not as old as I am, and has not seen as much of the punishment he desires to abolish. When I lived in Connecticut, if a fellow stole a horse, or cut up some antics, we used to tie him up and give him a real good thrashing; and he always cleared right out, and we never saw anything more of him. It's the best way of getting rid of the rogues that ever was tried, and without expense to the state." Mr. Corwin, who never failed to carry his point by a joke, if the argument was against him, only made the brief reply: "Mr. Speaker, I have been puzzled to account for the vast emigration from Connecticut to the West, but the gentleman last up has explained it to my satisfaction." It is almost needless to say that Mr. Corwin's bill passed by an overwhelming majority.

IN ALL WEATHERS.—It was once a problem in mechanics to find a pendulum which should be equally long in all weathers—which should make the same number of vibrations in the summer's heat and in the winter's cold. They have now found it out. By a process of compensations they make the rod lengthen one way as much as it contracts another; so that the center of motion is always the same, the pendulum swings the same number of beats in a day of January as in a day of June; and the index travels over the dial plate with the same uniformity, whether the heat tries to lengthen or the cold to shorten the propelling power. Now, the moving power in some men's minds is sadly susceptible of surrounding influences. It is not principle, but feeling, which forms their pendulum rod; and according as this variable material is affected, their index creeps or gallops, they are swift or slow in the work given them to do. But principle is like the compensation rod, which neither lengthens in the languid heat nor shortens in the brisker cold; but does the same work day by day, whether the ice winds whistle or the simoon glows.

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca: with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independence, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.

At ENGLEWOOD, with the L. S. & M. S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.

At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.

At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.

At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.

At ROCK ISLAND, with "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line," and Rock Island & Peo. Rds.

At DAVENPORT, with the Davenport Division C. M. & St. P. R. R.

At WEST LIBERTY, with the B. C. R. & N. R. R.

At GRINNELL, with Central Iowa R. R.

At DES MOINES, with D. M. & F. D. R. R.

At COUNCIL BLUFFS, with Union Pacific R. R.

At OMAHA, with B. & Mo. R. R. R. (in Neb.)

At COLUMBUS JUNCTION, with B. C. R. & N. R. R.

At OTTUMWA, with Central Iowa R. R.; W., St. L. & Pac., and C., R. and Q. R. Rds.

At KEOKUK, with Tol., Peo. & War.; Wab., St. Louis & Pac., and St. L., Keo. & N. W. R. Rds.

At CAMERON, with H. St. J. R. R.

At ATCHISON, with Atch., Topeka & Santa Fe; Atch. & Neb., and Cen. Br. U. P. R. Rds.

At LEAVENWORTH, with Union Pac. and Kan. Cent. R. Rds.

At KANSAS CITY, with all lines for the West and Southwest.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run through to PEORIA, DES MOINES, COUNCIL BLUFFS, KANSAS CITY, ATCHISON, and LEAVENWORTH.

Tickets via this Line, known as the "Great Rock Island Route," are sold by all Ticket Agents in the United States and Canada.

CHANCERY NOTICE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, First Judicial Circuit in Chancery. Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the County of Lenawee, in Chancery.
Byron A. Beach, Complainant, vs.
Susan Beach, Defendant.

Before Frank R. Payne, Esq., one of the Circuit Court Commissioners in and for said County, at the City of Adrian in said County, this 27th day of April, A.D. 1881.

It satisfactorily appearing by affidavit on file, that the defendant Susan Beach, is not a resident of the State of Michigan but that she resides in the State of New York.

On motion of L. H. Salsbury, complainant's solicitor, it is ordered that said defendant appear in this cause within three months from the date of this order, or in default thereof, that the bill of complaint in this cause be taken as confessed by said defendant. It is further ordered that within twenty days from the date hereof, said complainant cause a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper published in said county, for six successive weeks, once in each week, or that a copy of this order be personally served on said defendant at least twenty days before the time herein fixed for her appearance.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

PARDEE, AND CHANDLER.

The senate judiciary committee has adopted a favorable report on Pardee for judge of the fifth circuit of the United States court. Senator Edmunds did not vote for Pardee, but the action of the committee was virtually unanimous, as only a favorable report was submitted to the senate in executive session. It is understood that there will be no opposition to Pardee's confirmation.

LIQUOR AT ARMY POSTS.

A delegation from the National Temperance society called on President Garfield, and presented an appeal to the president to so define the order of ex-President Hayes forbidding the sale of liquors at army posts and posts as to show it include fermented as well as distilled liquors. The deputation presented petitions from thirty states and territories, representing more three hundred thousand members of churches and temperance societies. Among the petitioners are Gov. Long, of Massachusetts, and Gov. St. John, of Kansas.

STAR ROUTE SAVINGS.

The following is a statement of a net annual saving in the cost of the star routes and steamboat mail service under the administration of Postmaster General James: For the month of March, $215,490; April, $81,531; May 1 to 13, $112,622; total, $412,654. This saving has been effected without any way crippling the service or curtailing its efficiency, and has been made on the information gathered by the inspectors of the department, who have carefully examined the various routes.

OUT OF MONEY.

Gen. Walker, superintendent of the census, will discharge nearly five hundred clerks from his office this week, owing to a lack of money to go on with the work as originally laid out. These discharges are not owing to a decrease of the work, for the present force of over twelve hundred employes could be kept busy a year or more. Much of the important work remaining to be done will have to lie over until it is ascertained whether congress will appropriate sufficient money next winter for its completion. Next week about two hundred more clerks will be discharged, making in all about seven hundred.

HOAR CAN PUBLISH HIS SPEECH.

In Executive session it was agreed that Senator Hoar's speech against the Chinese treaties, if he so willed it, be made public. It seems that the fact having leaked out that Hoar and others voted against the treaties certain severe strictures, and what they consider unjust imputations, have been passed upon their conduct, among other charges that have been made being that they so voted because of the Boston opium companies, and they are now anxious, by the publication of the speeches, to place themselves in a proper light before the public.

INDIAN CAMP ATTACKED.

The following telegram has been received at the war department, under date of New Orleans:

TO THE ADJUTANT GENERAL, Washington, D. C.: Lieut. Bullis, 24th infantry, commanding the Seminole scouts, has reported from camp ten miles below the mouth of the Pecos that, on the 24th, at daybreak, he struck an Indian camp, killed four bucks and one squaw, and captured one boy, one wounded squaw, and twenty-one animals. He found various articles of women's and children's clothing in the camp, and states that the party is the one that killed the McLawrins. There are no official reports here as to the McLawrin family, but it is believed to be a family recently murdered in Frio canon.

SCHOFIELD, Major General.

THE PRESIDENT'S COURSE COMMENDED.

President Garfield has received a letter from Anson Strong, a well known politician of the old school, who commends the action of the Executive in insisting on Robertson's nomination being considered, and calling the President's attention to the fact that during the Presidency of Zachariah Taylor, the same question which is now before the republican of the Senate was effectually set at rest, when the President appointed Hugh Maxwell as Collector of the Port of New York, in defiance of the wishes and the strongest protests of the Senators from that State, Hons. William H. Seward and Preston King, Thurlow Weed, ex-Mayor Woodhull, of New York City, Hon. George Evans, M. C., and every Whig Member of Congress from the State, at that time, advocated the nomination and appointment of William V. Brady for that position, and even Vice President Fillmore himself warmly endorsed him, yet President Taylor heeded them not, and nominated a man whom he knew to be a tried, and fast friend, and whom he knew no party was beyond reproach as a nominee.

TIMBER GRANTS FOR NEW RAILROADS.

Senator Hill, of California, has been interesting himself to obtain from the land department a more liberal interpretation of the act of 1875, which, while granting to all duly incorporated railroad companies the right of way over public lands and such timber, stone and other material as may be required for use in constructing their roads, the ruling of the department entirely excludes railroads from the timber benefits of this act in cases where there is no timber immediately adjacent to their lines. Senator Hill has represented to the department that the continuance of this ruling would impede the progress of railroad building in nearly all the far Western States and Territories. There is believed to be full warrant for saying the law can be so construed as to give railroad companies the right to the timber necessary for construction purposes from the nearest public lands where suitable timber can be found.

THE FIVE PER CENTS.

On May 1 there were outstanding $456,022,000 in 5 per cent. bonds, series of 1881, including registered and coupon, and also those embodied in the 1st call, issued by Secretary Sherman, which had not been redeemed. Of the $25,000,000 embraced in the 1st call, there remains outstanding but $10,257,400—$5,940,950 having been redeemed since May 1, at which time there were $16,198,350 outstanding. The total amount of 5 per cents outstanding now, is therefore $450,081,100, which amount includes registered and coupons, and called and uncalled bonds. Under the third call for bonds, which was issued by Secretary Windom on Friday, the first of the 5 per cents received for continuance at 3½ per cent. will be the last to be redeemed by call under section 3 of the act of 1870, which requires that the last number issued shall be the first call for redemption. There were received at the department Friday $21,507,500 of registered 5 per cents to be continued at 3½ per cent. The bulk of this amount came from national banks. Treasury officials are of opinion that the large amount to be continued is unusual. Others think the large amount is due to the fact that the first numbers of continued bonds issued will be the last called for redemption.

OPENING OF THE COREA PORTS.

Commodore Schufeldt left for China, Tuesday, taking instructions from the State Department, as attache of the Legation in China, and naturally goes to carry back the ratified Chinese treaty. What he really goes for, and what he is expected to accomplish eventually is the opening of the ports of Corea to the world. The Commodore is the only foreigner who ever yet succeeded in getting a letter to the King and having an answer. He was there at the time of the bombardment some years ago, but his last visit was a year ago, while on his eventful cruise around the world. He thinks that in the course of six months or a year he can accomplish the object of his mission, and have Corea accessible to the commerce of the world. He does not think it very important, however, for purposes of trade, because the country is small and the people poor, producing nothing but rice and a little gold. He regards it important, though, that a treaty of friendship and amity should be negotiated, for our vessels in the India trade are frequently stranded there, and the savages are liable to put the shipwrecked sailors to death. To accomplish this arrangement will be his first task, leaving the matter of trade for future consideration. Although of small account now, the Commodore thinks the commerce of the country will grow after communication with the outside world is established.

YPSILANTI is the next town which proposes to have a telephone exchange.

In the matter of the estate of Job Burleson, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Jeremiah M. Burleson and Stephen Burleson, praying for the probate of an instrument now on file in this court purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, and that letters testamentary thereon be granted to Charles Burleson, executor in said will named, or to some other suitable person.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the 13th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. ESTATE OF JOHN V. HOAGLAND.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian on Tuesday, the 17th day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of John V. Hoagland, deceased.

On reading and filing the report of John Linton, Edgar C. VanVleet and John Boyd, commissioners in partition of said estate.

It is ordered, that Monday, the 13th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said report, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the said report should not be confirmed.

And it is further ordered, that the petitioners for partition give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said report and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. AROUND THE COUNTY.

BROOKLYN.

Ill humor has subsided and a semblance of bravado resumed since a path has been found leading around those shadowy lions that did not bar the way. Our new version of "Much ado about nothing," ended with as much dodging as Yankee Robinson's spring board feat, minus his coming down to a business jump.

My information regarding Miller's bondsmen was incorrect. Instead of the respectable farmer and mill owner they were a mowing machine agent and a man who sighs for Rhine wine. A notary public was imported on the sly from Lenawee county to examine their fitness, and their acceptance was announced in the same style as funerals, that somebody has got to attend anyhow. The third man did better yet by taking to himself a partner with both money and experience. The twain procured license for a boy, and got themselves accepted as his sponsors. Then they measured the fluid, and hired the boy to sell them, and each placed one dollar in the till to begin to make change with. They trade on the principle of quick settlements making long friends and divide each days profits at bed time. By this means they guard each other's honesty and avert unpleasant dreams; but it looks as if some Quaker guns protected the Brewers' moro. Mr. Sheridan still waits for light ere proceeding, and I have waited two weeks to have this statement contradicted, and if anything more truthful comes to hand I will forward it.

Godey's Lady's Book for June

Completes the one hundred and second volume. It opens with a beautiful steel plate illustration of Sir Kenneth and Saladin, from Sir Walter Scott's "Talisman;" contains the usual rich array of fashions in beautiful colors, and numerous illustrations of dress for ladies and children. The literary department contains an intensely interesting novel (all complete) by Margaret Vandegrift, various short stories by good writers, and the usual work department, fashion department, puzzles, and games, rich recipes, etc. By all odds it is the best of the fashion books.

Adrian Times, May 21: The crowd of Adrian girls and their friends who drove to Tecumseh, yesterday afternoon report a jolly time. They tried to have their pictures taken in a group but the artist said his camera couldn't stand such a strain. Then they raided the confectionery stores, and picnicked in the school-yard on candies, nuts and oranges. The Tecumseh girls turned up their noses, but everybody else was clever, and the party had sundry invitations to accept hospitality at different houses. On the return trip some of the party diverged and lost their way, but finally caught up again, and the procession drove into town soon after dark.

Wide Awake for June is noticeable for its exquisitely illustrated poems from well-known poets, chief among them being "Mary in the Morning-glories," by Mary Clemmer, "The baby's prayer," by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, "Courtesy," by Mrs. L. C. Whitou, and "Out of Tune," by Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt. Only $200 a year. Ella Farman, Editor. D. Lothrop & Co. publishers, 32 Franklin St. Boston, Mass.

LENAWEE COUNTY ITEMS.

THOSE who were indulging in the hope that the festive potato bug had been squelched by the intense cold of last winter, are finding themselves mistaken; as these pests are just now appearing in about the usual quantities.

THE tax-payers of Adrian are kicking against their assessments this spring. The supervisors have attempted to comply with the law, and in doing so have aroused the capitalists of that city who have heretofore escaped with light assessments. Some of them threaten to resist the payment of their taxes, but do not swear them down.

Adrian Times: The committee of the board of supervisors in charge of the public buildings, are doing some good work in brightening up and renovating the co. offices. The register's office is being papered to-day and the probate offices will be in order next. The committee headed by supervisors Warren and Jess, will do a work of humanity in making these dingy old offices as cheerful and habitable as possible while the county retains them.

Hudson Gazette: The debt of Adrian is some $16,000. We thought, from the tone of Mayor Navin's Inaugural, that he would probably pay it out of his own pocket. But there is talk now of funding the debt, so as not to deprive new residents and manufacturers and mechanics yet intending to locate in the "future great" of the high privilege of "chipping in."—Such financiering is quite ingenious to say the least.

Adrian Times: The case of George Sparrow vs. the Lake Shore road is on trial in the circuit court. The Canada Southern road appointed Sparrow agent at Grosvenor, and gave him permission to put up buildings at the crossing of the Lake Shore. The buildings were built on posts so as to be personal property, and were used partly as a waiting room and partly for private purposes. When the Canada Southern passed in the hands of the Lake Shore, Sparrow attempted to remove the buildings, but was prevented by the company.

Last season the Adrian driving park association and other members of the Michigan grand central trotting circuit advertised that all associations would be responsible for the premiums offered by any one of them.—Adrian failed to pay, R. C. Pate being a creditor to the amount of $1,300.—Recently the board of review of the national trotting association, in session at Chicago, decided that the other associations were holden for the amount, and that unless Pate was paid by August 1 they will be suspended from the national association.

Morenci Observer: There is a good deal of excitement this week in Blissfield over the small pox scare, there having been a few cases in the vicinity, and fears are entertained that it might become prevalent in the village also. Dr. Newcomb who has been attending the cases, was taken very suddenly ill on Wednesday with what was at first supposed to be pneumonia, but subsequently his disease began to assume a small pox type, and fears were entertained for his recovery.—When heard from yesterday there was great anxiety as to the result of his case.

Morenci Observer: Two farmers, Gardner Davis and Levi Arnold, living near the line dividing Ogden and Fairfield townships, on Tuesday morning discovered that a thief or thieves during the night had made a raid on their property. The first named found that there had been stolen from him a buggy, single harness, buffalo robe, some oats, etc.; and his neighbor also found that he had been robbed to the extent of a valuable pair of horses, a double harness, a blanket and an overcoat. The search for the thieves has thus far been unavailing.

Adrian Times: Thursday afternoon, Deacon Hervey, a well known resident of Adrian township, sustained a quite serious accident. He and his son were at work driving stakes, with a beetle, the deacon holding the stakes. While thus engaged the beetle suddenly flew of the handle, striking Mr. Hervey on the head, and cutting an ugly gash. The implement severed an artery, from which the blood gushed in large quantities, but his son checked the flow and no physician was called. During the night, however, the wound reopened, and Dr. Allen was summoned about one o'clock. The loss of blood had occasioned some apprehension by the time the doctor arrived, but the proper surgical aid allayed the fears of the family.

Presiding Elder Shier notifies the brethren that on these occasions he shall expect written reports from pastors, local preachers, Sunday-school superintendents, committee on church records, class leaders, and trustees. This quarter will in all probabilitiy close the labors of the present talented estimable and untiring presiding elder in this district, and we presume the various meetings will be marked by more than the usual degree of interest and Christian feeling.

Blissfield Advance: On Tuesday afternoon, as Ambrose Hawes and Henry Colyer were driving in the vicinity of Stephen Miller's, one of the horses suddenly became frightened at some object in the road, and both started on a run. Being near a corner, where they were obliged to turn either to the right or left, Mr. Hawes said that he could not stop them, when Colyer also grasped hold of the reins, and the sudden strain broke them in two. The horses went whirling around the corner, and Messrs. Hawes and Colyer, were precipitated from the buggy, taking top, seat and all. Mr. Hawes sustained severe injuries about the face and chest, while Colyer was hurt on the head, chest and knees, necessitating the attendance of Dr. Parker. The horses ran some distance further, when they broke away from the buggy, and did not stop until they had reached the residence of John Smead. The damage done amounts to about $50, besides a new Howe sewing machine which was badly demolished.

Adrian Press: The Butler railroad is now nearly completed, and regular trips will shortly be made over the line. The notes given in aid of the road will shortly fall due and we apprehend, will be paid as cheerfully as any paper was eyer paid. The company who, at first, proposed locating the depot on the south side of the wagon road, altered their purpose and a considerable quantity of material was deposited on the north side. Suddenly there came a reaction of purpose and the material was hauled off deposited on the south side, it having been discovered that the spot on the north side was out of the corporate limits of the city, and to build there would invalidate the notes given in aid of the road. The company has no notion of leaving any holes in the skimmer.

Hudson Gazette: The Adrian papers are disposed to be a little exultant and facetious over the removal of Rose's wheelbarrow works to Adrian. Now there was no such giggling up here when Mr. Abbott left Adrian and came to Hudson to manufacture his celebrated hub borer, which enterprise keeps one of our machine shops constantly employed. Mr. Abbott is at least a fair exchange for Mr. Rose. By-the-by, we notice the wheelbarrow stock goes a-begging yet in Adrian. From first reports we thought some bad feelings might be engendered because all couldn't have their fill of the enterprise. It would be a good joke on our swelling neighbors if the wheelbarrow works should follow that windmill factory!

Mr. Geo. W. Hoadley owns a farm of 200 acres. It is in one body but lies in four townships, two counties and two states. It crosses the Ohio and Michigan line and is therefore divided by the county line, while four townships corner on his premises. Mr. Hoadley votes in Ohio and pays the bulk of his taxes in Fairfield, Lenawee county.

Hudson Post: The new creamery of Loyster & Son is now fairly in running order, and churning is done every day. The butter produced by this process is without doubt the best ever made in Hudson, and will command the highest price in the market. The firm is deserving of a good deal of credit for what they have done in the matter, for while they are probably doing well for themselves they are taking from the farmers' wives and daughters a large amount of work and paying for the cream all the farmers would get for their butter if churned at home. Mr. Daniel L. Frisbee, a man of considerable experience in butter making, having been brought up on a large dairy farm in Delaware county, N. Y., is engaged in the creamery here, and gives his personal attention to the churning and packing. We were presented with a sample of butter from the first churning, and must say that it was the best article of butter we have ever tasted in Michigan.

THE same mosquitoes are around this year that were here last, at least they answer to the same name: "Dammum."

THE WONDERFUL FLOWER.

A maiden from the city
Tripped lightly and she trem,
And sniffed a pungent odor
That floated on the breeze.

"O, tell me, ancient farmer,
With arms so brown and hare
What is that wondrous flower,
That scents the morning air?"

And laughed the ancient farmer
Till the tears rolled down his cheek
"Why, bless your heart's a pole-cat,
I've struck him for a week."

CHANGES HIS BUSINESS.

"Lo, the poor Indian" whose uncouthed mind
Can't resist the temptation of the white man's wines
Who cannot cheer when prosperous run off,
Nor view the loss of grazing herds with stolidness.
What, when he's not allowed to raise his sheep
Throws up his hands and seeks a farm experiment
And when he sees that raising wool pays
Does shaken a change and goes to raising hair.

Anecdotes of Elephants.

Children are always delighted with stories of elephants, and here are some remarkable ones, all authentic.

AN ELEPHANT PROTECTS THE SICK CALIFORNIAN.

In the Lancaster, the capital of Scotland, during the rage of an epidemic distemper, the principal road to the palace gate was covered with sick and dying people, extended on the ground and incapable of moving, though at a time when the Nabob was to pass on his elephant. The indifference of the prince about the lives of his perishing subjects, the haste with which he sought to pass, and the towering motions and heavy steps of the elephant, seemed to threaten inevitable death to those unhappy wretches who chanced to be in his way. But the generous quadruped, without receiving any command to the purpose, and even without slackening his pace, dextrously assisted the poor creatures with his trunk, removing some, raising others, and stepping over the rest so that none suffered the slightest injury

AN ELEPHANT GOES REGULARLY TO A HOSPITAL TO HAVE HIS WOUNDS DRESSED.

An elephant which, in the course of the war between the French and English in the East Indies, in 1759, had received a wound by a cannon ball, after being once or twice conducted to the hospital to have his wound dressed, constantly attended to it himself at the proper time, till it was healed. That the surgeon might operate, he readily extended himself on the ground. He bore with patience the application even of burning caustic to his wound. The acuteness of the pain would sometimes force from him a plaintive groan; but to the person who, by inflicting momentary torture, sought to accomplish his cure, he expressed none but emotions of gratitude.

GREAT AFFECTION OF THE ELEPHANT FOR ITS SPECIES.

A shot from one of the hunters had broken a male elephant's fore leg, which completely disabled him from running. On this occasion, there occurred a touching instance of affection and sagacity in the elephant, which will illustrate the character of this noble animal. Seeing the danger and distress of her mate, the female, regardless of her own safety, quitted her shelter in the bush, rushed out to his assistance, walked round and round him, chasing away the assailants, and still returned to his side and caressed him; and when he attempted to walk she placed her flank under his side and supported him. This scene continued nearly half-an-hour, until the female elephant received a severe wound, which drove her again to the bush, where she speedily sank exhausted from the loss of blood; and the male soon after received a mortal wound.

DOES THE ELEPHANT REASON?

When an elephant is employed upon the banks of a muddy river, he frequently begins to sink from his excessive weight. He will then endeavor to throw himself upon his side to prevent his sinking deeper. The manner in which he seconds the efforts which are made to extricate him, when situated as above stated, is very remarkable. Liberal supplies of straw, boughs and grass are thrown to the distressed animal; and these he forces down with his trunk till they are lodged under his fore feet in sufficient quantity to resist his pressure. Having thus formed a sufficient basis for exertion, the sagacious animal next proceeds to thrust the bundles under his belly, and as far back under his flanks as he can reach; when such a basis is formed as may be, in his mind, proper to proceed upon, he throws his whole weight forward, and gets his hind feet gradually upon the straw. Being once confirmed on a solid footing, he will next place the surrounding bundles before him, pressing them well with his trunk so as to form a causeway, by which to reach the firm ground. The instinct of the animal, and probably the experience of his past danger, actuates him not to bear any weight definitely, until, by trial with his trunk and the next foot to be planted, he has satisfied himself of the firmness of the ground he has to tread upon. When he succeeds in reaching dry ground, he evinces his pleasure in unmistakeable sighs.

A TOOL-MAKING ANIMAL.

The Duke of Argyll, in his "Reign of Law," was, I think, the firs. who promulgated the dictum that man is the only tool-making animal. As far as I can ascertain, the assertion is admitted by developmentists, yet it is undoubtedly true that the Indian elephant makes two implements, or forms and alters certain things so as to adapt them specially to fulfil definite purposes, for which unaltered they would not be suitable.

One evening soon after my arrival in Eastern Asam, and while the five elephants, were, as usual, being fed opposite the bungalo, I observed a young and lately-caught one step up to a bamboo-stake fence and quietly pull one of the stakes. Placing it under foot, it broke a piece off with its trunk, and after lifting it with his mouth threw it away. It repeated this twice or thrice, and then drew another and commenced again. Seeing that the bamboo was old and dry, I asked the reason of this, and was told to wait and see what it would do. At last it seemed to get a piece that suited, and holding in the trunk firmly, and stepping the left fore-leg well forward, passed the bamboo under the armpit, so to speak, and began to scratch with some force. My surprise reached its climax when I saw a large elephant-leech fall to the ground, quite six inches long and thick as one's finger, and which, from its position, could not easily have been detached without this scraper or scratcher, which was deliberately made by the elephant. I subsequently found that it was a common occurrence. Leech scrapers are used by every elephant daily.

On another occasion, when traveling at a time when flies are so tormenting to an elephant, I noticed that the one I rode had no fan or whip to beat them off with. The mahout, at my order, slackened pace and allowed her to go to one side of the road, where for some moments she moved along rummaging the smaller jungle on the bank. At last she came to a cluster of young shoots well branched, and, after feeling among them, and selecting one, raised her trunk and neatly stripped down the stem, taking off all the lower branches and leaving a fine bunch on top. She deliberately cleaned it down several times, and then, laying hold at the lower end, broke off a beautiful fan or switch about five feet long, handle included. With this she kept the flies at bay as we went along flapping them off on each side every now and then.

Say what we may, these are really bonafide implements, each intelligently made for a definite purpose.

All About Amber.

NEW YORK IN—WHAT YOUNG FOLKS

Amber is a semi-transparent substance, of a light yellow or brown color, capable of taking a high polish, and therefore very much employed in the manufacture of heads of canes, mouth-pieces of pipes, necklace beads and such small matters. Probably the most important use that has hitherto been made of amber is to be seen in Farskoga Selo, a favorite residence of the czars of Russia, not far from St. Petersburg. Here there is a room about thirty feet square, the walls of which from floor to ceiling are entirely lined with this substance. It was presented by Frederick the Great to the Empress Catherine, whose initials are interwoven with the Prussian arms in devices on the walls. If we may give credit to old Homer, this is not the first time that amber has been used for decoration of a palace, for he writes

"And spoils of elephants the roofs inlay
And studded amber darts a golden ray."

The principal source of supply is the coast of the Baltic sea in eastern Prussia, between Mensel and Dantzig, where it is disseminated in the sand or clay. It is searched for in the sea or on the shore, or is picked from the cliffs with iron hooks at the end of long poles, or, lastly, it is regularly mined, the shafts being sometimes sunk to a depth of a hundred and fifty feet. Saxony supplies a small quantity in bituminous clay, mingled with lignite. It also occurs in Sicily in beds of clay and marl; in Poland it is found in sandy districts at long distances from the sea; it also occurs in Siberia and Greenland, Sweden, Italy and other parts of Europe. Amber occurs in varying quantities in nodules or nuggets of different sizes, sometimes as fine as grains of coarse sand, and others of much larger dimensions. One of the largest pieces on record is found in the museum of natural history at Berlin. This great mass which measured upward of thirteen inches in length, eight inches broad, and four to six inches thick, of a weight of over thirteen pounds, was found near Gumbinne, in eastern Prussia, in the year 1803. The fortunate finder received one thousand thalers for his prize. The total value of amber for each year is large sum. There is no doubt of the vegetable origin of amber; it is, in fact, a resinous exudation from an old world pine tree, which was nearly allied to our modern spruce. Consequently, amber in its nature is exactly analogous to the lumps of resin, which occur at the present day in every pine forest. Indeed, if anything were wanting to prove its originally fluid condition, it would be the fact that particles of leaves and wood, fragments of insects, and above all, insects, are constantly imbedded in it. Of the latter no less than 300 species have been detected. It is evident, that the little creatures settled upon the treacherous resin when it was in a half fluid condition, and were of course retained there by the viscid nature of the substance. The gummy matter, as it flowed from the tree, gradually surrounded its victims, and at last gradually enclosed them in their premature and transparent tomb. The insects themselves are in different degrees of preservation. Some, which were evidently ingulfed in the sticky matter, immediately after they got entangled in its folds, are as perfect as on the day they were suffocated. Others have been consigned to a more lingering death; the resin has exuded very slowly, and the victims have not only died before they were surrounded with it, but having been trapped in bright, dry weather, their bodies have become desiccated and withered; nay, in some instances a white mold has begun to be formed around them, plainly discernable in the pellucid amber. As a rule, the inclosed insects are not widely different from those now in existence. Indeed, many species are identical with them.

Arithmetic.

We spend too much time on arithmetic in our schools. That is, we spend too much time on no-essentials. There are a great many things in our school arithmetics which never or seldom come up in after life, and yet we drill as thoroughly on those points as we do on those which enter into all the business calculations of life. For instance, how many men find it necessary to use their knowledge of duodecimals in the business which they follow? How often do circulating or repeating decimals enter into a merchant's transactions? How many times in his life does a farmer have occasion to multiply or divide compound numbers? How many bankers remember anything about least common multiple, or greatest common divisor? How many men in any branch of business can tell how to find the "true remainder"? Not one in ten thousand, unless he has been a teacher.

Now it is nonsense to drill pupils day after day on those mere tricks with numbers, when the thing which they need is a good understanding of business arithmetic.

A thorough, persistent drill on the principles of common and decimal fractions and precentage is what the pupils need most, and it is just what most of them do not get.

The grave of Thomas Lincoln, father of the martyred President, lies about nine miles southeast of Mattoon, Ill., in a country church-yard, and is unmarked save by a small heap of boulders. When Abraham Lincoln was on his way to Washington to take his seat as President, he stopped off at Charleston, paid his father's grave a visit, and, it is said, left $50 for a head-stone, but his instructions were not carried out, and the money went where the woodbine twineth.

About Birds.

Nothing in natural history is more wonderful than the migration of birds. During the winter but few are seen in this northern country. The swallow, martin, robin, and many other species, leave us on the approach of cold weather, and retire to a warmer climate. Each has a specific time to make ready and commence their flight, and it is wonderful with what exactness this time is observed. In the summer they hold a convention, to consult upon the subject of their journey. Thousands of martins and swallows fill the air and cheer us with their sports and songs; but soon after, they have all disappeared. Black birds, storks, cranes, and wild geese are also migratory and observe the annual season of departure. In the spring they return to us, to share our labors and blessings in the great field of nature. Some migrate only from one part of the country to another, while others fly from northern regions, journeys from six to eight thousand miles per year. The object of this migration is either to enjoy a warmer climate or to obtain food, or to rear their young. The old proverb that "one swallow does not make a summer," implies that when they all return to our latitude summer has actually come; or, in other words, that swallows live in a summer atmosphere. Wild geese, cranes, and some other birds are supposed to rear their young farther to the north than any human being has ever penetrated. But who has taught these birds the physical geography of the continent so that they can distinguish between the different climates? Who has instructed them when the cold season approaches, to seek a milder home? Does experience or tradition impart this knowledge? It seems impossible. And even if they do know the facts, who has taught them to start on their long voyage, and just when to return? How can they know whether to fly east, west, north or south? Man with all his reason, experience, and education, cannot travel even on a beaten road, without a guide; he cannot sail on navigable seas without a compass. But the untutored bird not only knows the sunny clime, and the time when it must spread its wings for a long voyage, but it knows by unerring instinct, both the way to fly and how to keep its course over wide oceans and continents to the place of destination. Who can answer these questions, and explain these facts? Human reason is baffled, and admiring wisdom bows in silent adoration before the Creator of the animal world. Birds are the source of unfailing pleasure to man. Their beautiful plumage delights the eye; their sweet music charms the ear, as they visit our homes and sport upon the trees in our cultivated grounds. Birds are the source of profit to man. They feed upon the insects that destroy the fruits of our gardens and fields. Without their timely aid the toil of the gardener and the husbandman would often be in vain. The extent to which birds are useful in destroying insects can hardly be estimated. Mr. Bradley, a writer on gardening and husbandry, informs us that a pair of sparrows once carried to their nest on the average of forty caterpillars every hour during the day, or five hundred during each twelve hours. At this rate, ten pairs of birds would destroy thirty thousand caterpillars per week, enough to ruin any garden or fruit orchard in the land. The question here arises, were these caterpillars made to feed the birds, or to annoy the "lords of creation." They answer both purposes, and no doubt even the vile worm holds an important place and serves an important purpose in the economy of nature.

Why do Men Work?

Of all the mysteries in this mysterious world, none are more inexplicable than the restless energy by which men are kept actively engaged in their various pursuits. It cannot be that they work merely to supply their physical wants. Many of those who are least dependent upon their own exertions to procure the necessaries, and even the comforts, of life work the most persistently. It cannot be that they find pleasure in the painful toil that exhausts their strength and saps their vitality. It cannot be that a mere love of notoriety incites them to incessant exertions; for the larger part of the labor of the world, aside from that which has physical sustenance for its immediate object, is performed by those who never dream of laurel wreaths, or that blazonry of their names which the world calls fame.

There seems to be implanted in the mind of every one an innate desire to create. This desire is most nearly satisfied by a contemplation of work done to its own satisfaction. The thrill of joy felt when others approve proceeds not so much from the love of praise as from the recognition of this additional evidence of creative success.

The body becomes tired, and yearns for rest and refreshment. Physical idleness is the sensuous aim of all labor. But when the body ceases to be active, the restless mind begins to goad it, as the impatient traveler spurs on his jaded horse. The mind finds its restful moments only when the body is active.

The most irksome labor of the mind is uncreative thought. So, when mental operations are unproductive, except as aided by physical exertion, the mind harnesses the body, and stimulates it by the most extravagant hopes or the wildest fears, to toil without ceasing until its energies are spent and these two contending forces are separated, the body to rest and the mind to build for itself.

How to Restore Life.

Dr. T. S. Lambert, of New York, who has given a good deal of attention to processes and possibilities of restoring suspended animation, in a lecture on the subject, insists that heat to restore the normal temperature of the body is an absolute necessity, and frequently is alone sufficient; but should artificial respiration become necessary to restore the functions of the lungs, an incision into the windpipe below the Adam's apple, which would allow a free passage for the required air, was, he thought, the surest means of salvation. In cases of choking, such an incision would, he said, allow breathing, and would in all cases save the life that would otherwise be lost, for time would thus be obtained to remove the obstruction. In cases of hanging, the same incision was recommended, and he assured the audience that any one could make the opening, and no serious result would follow, as there were no large veins or nerves in that portion of the human frame divine, and it would close up after its object had been accomplished, and the healing process would be rapid and sure. The doctor insists that in drowning cases life can always be restored if no vital part has been impaired.

MONEY—FARMS—ABSTRACTS.

If you want to hire money at very low rates.

If you have money to loan.

If you want to buy a farm or a home.

If you want to sell your real estate.

If you want a deed or mortgage correctly made.

If you want a complete abstract of title. Call on A. L. Bliss.

Among other Farms for sale I have one of 160 acres and one of 80 acres in Palmyra, both being well tiled and fenced, and first class in every respect, with four market towns within easy driving distance, in good neighborhood. Also 125 acre farm 2½ miles west of river road from Deerfield. Also 160 acre farm and 80 acre farm, and 20 acre farm in Rico, any of which are decided bargains, and good reasons given for naming low prices.

Every purchaser of Lands should insist on being furnished an abstract of title, for our experience of more than 20 years shows that not more than one title in ten is perfect of record, and every week purchases agreed upon are abandoned owing to imperfections of title. I have a good carriage or farm horse, 1300 lbs. in weight for sale at a bargain.

A few thousand dollars now on hand to loan at six per cent, and on long time if desired.

TO THE AFFLICTED.

Since the introduction of Kellogg's Columbian Oil it has made more permanent cures and given better satisfaction on Kidney complaints and Rheumatism than any known remedy. Its continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it known as a safe and reliable agent to employ against all aches and pains, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders. It acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering and often saving life. The protection it affords by its timely use on Rheumatism, kidney affection, and all aches and pains, wounds, cramping pains, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, coughs, colds, catarrh, and disorders among children, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. It is absolutely certain in its remedial effects and will always cure when cures are possible. Call at C.A. Wright & Co's. and get a memorandum book giving more full details of the curative properties of this wonderful medicine.

A CAPITAL LESSON.—That was a capital lesson which Prof. Faraday taught one of his students in the lecture-room after some chemical experiments. The lights had been put out in the hall, and by accident some article dropped on the floor from the professor's hand. The professor lingered behind, endeavoring to pick it up. "Never mind," said the student "it is of no consequence to-night, sir, whether we find it or not." "That is true," replied the professor, "but it is of grave consequence to me, as a principle, that I am not foiled in my determination to find it." Perseverance can sometimes equal genius in its results. "There are only two creatures," says the Eastern proverb, "that can surmount the pyramids—the eagle and the snail."

Greatest Remedy Known.

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumptive is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity.—Thousands of once hopeless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this Discovery to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggists, M. Wright & Son, and get a trial bottle free of cost which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar size bottle will do. For sale by M. Wright & Son, Tecumseh.

When once you have determined to fatten an animal for beef, let the process be as quick as possible. Any stint in feeding at such times will tend to make the meat tough and dry. Stall-fed animals will fatten more readily than others, and young animals require richer food than older ones. In Winter fattening do not forget that much depends upon the warmth of the stable. The warmer the cattle are kept the less food will be needed.

How to Get Rich.

The great secret of obtaining riches, is first to practice economy, and as good old "Deacon Snyder," says, "It used to worry the life out of me to pay enormous doctor's bills, but now I have "struck it rich." Health and happiness reign supreme in our little household, and all simply because we use no other medicine but Electric Bitters and only costs fifty cents a bottle. Sold by C. A Wright & Co., Tecumseh.

Bad blood always causes trouble. It may be a family fight or boils, pimples, itch, tetter, etc.; but no matter, "Dr. Lindsey's Blood Searcher" is the cure-all.

OUR CHIP BASKET

The talent of success is nothing more than doing what you can do well without thought of fame.

The meaning of economy has been foolishly narrawed to be almost synonymous with stinginess.

It is easy to pick holes in other people's work, but far more profitable to do better work yourself.

Pleasant occupation tends to prolong life, for longevity is much dependent upon the feelings of the mind.

Don't carry your head so high that you cannot see stumps in your way, over which you may stumble.

A succulent diet, delicate and well attended to, repulses for a long time the exterior appearance of old age.

Oil your mind and your manners to give them the necessary suppleness and flexibility; strength alone will not do.

One should not dispute with a man who, either through stupidity or shamelessness, denies plain and visible truths.

Occasionally complaining about things over which you have no control may do good, but more frequently will not.

A man has no right to occupy such high moral grounds that he is constantly so far above his fellows that he can be of no earthly assistance to them.

Any minister can very readily see that the brother who has not paid his pew rent should not throw too much unction into his prayer.

Every person has two educations—one which he receives from others, and one, more important, which he gives himself.

Any coward can fight a battle when he's sure of winning; but it's the brave man who has pluck to fight when he is sure of losing.

It is more necessary to conceal contempt than resentment, the former being never forgotten, but the latter sometimes forgot.

Very seldom, except in romance and melodramas, does true love beat cunning, and simplicity make victorious way gainst worldly success.—Pretzel's Weekly.

A school boy studying the Italian system of penmanship, being adjudged a flogging, requested his teacher to give it him with the heavy strokes upwards and the downward one light. He had studied the system to advantage.

"Sammy, my son, don't stand there scratching your head; stir your stumps, or yor'll make no progress in life." "Why, father, I've heard you say the only way to get along in this world was to scratch ahead."

"Is the howling of a dog always followed by a death?" asked a little girl of her father. "Not always, my dear; because sometimes the man that shoots misses him," was the reply.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said an Irish barrister, "it will be for you to say whether, this defendant shall be allowed to come into court with unblushing footsteps, with the cloak of hypocrisy in his mouth, and draw three bullocks out of my client's pocket with impunity." The gentlemen of the jury said he shouldn't.

A member of the rhetorical class in a certain college had just finished his declamation when the professor said: "Mr. —, do you suppose a general would address his soldiers in the manner you spoke that piece?" "Yes, sir, I do," was the reply, "if he was half scared to death."

Village Doctor—"Well, are you better? Have you taken your medicine regularly, and eaten plenty of animal food?" Patient—"Yes sir, I tried it, and so long as it were beans and oats I could manage pooty well, sir; but when you come to that there chopped hay, they right-down choked, me sir!"

"This is Neptune," said the Professor, placing his finger on the outside ball of the system, "and we are two thousand, seven hundred and fifty millions of miles from the sun." Rheumatic student on the back seat turns up his collar and shivers perceptibly.

"Things, quoth David, in poetical mood, are not what they seem." "Of course not," commented Sadie, "the sewing machine seams, but everybody knows it isn't the skirt it seams." And then nobody said anything for a long time, when David made some remark about people who couldn't appreciate sentiment.

Thoughts for Sunday.

Ability and necessity will dwell near each other.

There is nothing so imprudent as excessive prudence.

Men may be ungrateful, but the human race is not so.

A good article is always worth the money you pay.

By over sugaring of all good qualities, you may turn them to acidities.

Success in most things depends on knowing how long it takes to succeed.

No man can end with being superior who will not begin with being inferior.

Blushing is a suffusion—least seen in those who have the most occasion for it.

Cheerfulness or joyousness is the heaven under which everything not poisonous thrives.

Knowledge without justice becomes craft; courage without reason becomes rashness.

If mortals could discover the science of conquering themselves, we should have perfection.

We all have our secret sins, and if we knew ourselves, we should not judge each other harshly.

Constipation invariably follows Liver Complaint; but is easily overcome by the timely use of Baxter's Mandrake Bitters. Dyspepsia also readily yields to this potent remedy.

After all, a gentle purgative is the best means of curing headache, liver complaint, biliousness, &c. Use "Seller's Liver Pills."

Don't Take Quinine.

If you want to get rid of Malaria or the Chills don't take quinine, but wear the harmless remedy—the Lion Malaria and Liver Pad and Body and Foot Plasters. The cheapest remedy ever offered. The whole combined for one dollar. For sale by druggists.

English Property.

The god of English social life next in dignity to mammon is property. Now property rightly worshipped is a very good god; his very rights are sweetness, order, decency, and in their practice they involve that consideration for others which is the highest form of morality and even of piety. But the British Philistine (and all England is more or less given over to Philistinism, which invades the very social regions in which it is most decaded and decried) makes property a Moloch, before whom he prostrates himself, and before whom he often makes his very children sacrifice some of the beauty of their youthful lives. The highest social aim, the greatest social law, o this sort of English man is to do the correct thing. Having attained this, he feels that he has absolved himself of every social duty, and clothed his soul in panoply of proof. Whether the correct thing be really the right thing he does not know, does not seek to know. That, so it has been and that so it is, are for him both logic and religion. In his mouth the greatest reproach is "unprecedented;" the mere statement of the fact that an act has no been done before, that a word has not been spoken before, being to him its condemnation. Wherefore he lives his life surrounded by dead, shriveled forms eyeless, brainless, bloodless, whose only voice is from the grave of a dead past. If he breaks away from this oppression he is likely to run into extremes which violate all decency, all decorum, all propriety. Freed from his accustomed restraint, he is apt to add a grossness to vice which makes it more hideous, if not more harmful.—Richard Grant White.

The Weather Affecting the Mind.

Dull, depressing, dingy days produce dispiriting reflections and gloomy thoughts, and small wonder when we remember that the mind is not only a motive, but a receptive organ, and that all the impressions it receives from without reach it through the medium of senses which are directly dependent on the conditions of light and atmosphere for their action, and therefore immediately influenced by the surrounding conditions. It is a common-sense inference that if the impressions from without reach the mind through imperfectly-acting organs of sense, and those impressions are themselves set in a minor æsthetic key of color, sound, and general qualities, the mind must be what is called "moody." It is not the habit of sensible people to make sufficient allowance for this rationale of dullness and subjective weakness. Some persons are more dependent on external circumstances and conditions for their energies—or the stimulus that converts potential kinetic forces—than others; but all feel the influence of the world without, and to this influence the sick and the weak are especially responsive. Hence the varying temperaments of mind changing with the weather, the outlook, and the wind.

Astonishing the World.

For a perfect renovation of exhausted and enfeebled constitutions, female weakness and decline, nothing so surely and speedily produces a permanent cure as does Electric Bitters. Their wonderful cures are astonishing the world. For Kidney or Urinary complaints they are a perfect specific. Do not give up in despair, for Electric Bitters will positively cure, and that where everything else fails. Sold by C. A. Wright & Co., at 50 cents a bottle.

Among the many stories we have heard of men noted for their absence of mind, the following we think, excels them all, being about an individual who thought he smelled burnt meat:

A gentleman of studious habits, an explorer into the mysteries of chemical science, burnt his nose by a fluid lamp with which he came in contact. We met him a day or two afterwards, with a large plaster on his nose, and asked him about his hurt. "It looks bad, don't it?" said he. We assured him that it didn't look anyting else, and asked him if it hurt him much when it was roasting. "Ne'er a bit," said he; "in fact, I didn't feel it at all, I was so much absorbed with my experiments—and though I kept smelling something like burnt meat, I imagined it was dinner cooking somewhere, and kept right on till a friend told me my nose was on fire, and, putting my hand upon it, I found that it was even so. I thrust it into a bucket of water and extinguished it; but it has left the mark, you see."

HOME LIFE.—Of all sweet humanities, the home life is the tap root. Nor will anything fit us so well for the same performance of social and public duties as a smypathetic share in young lives and growing hopes. One of the busiest of busy men in a great city says, "I can go through anything if I can only get an hour a day with my children."

Downs' Elixir will cure all lung diseases. The best medicine known for whooping cough.

THE SYMPTOMS

Liver Complaint are a bitter or a bad taste in the mouth, Pain in the back, sides or joints, often mistaken for Rheumatism, Sour Stomach, Loss of Appetite, Bowels alternately costive and lax, Headache, Loss of Memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done, Debility, Low Spirits, a thick dull appearance of the skin and Eyes, a dry cough often mistaken for Consumption.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few, but the liver, the largest organ in the body, is the seat of disease, and if not Regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and death will ensue.

AS AN UNFAILING SPECIFIC FOR DYSPEPSIA OR CONSTIPATION, Jaundice, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Colic, Depression of Spirits, Sour Stomach, Heart Burn, &c., &c.,

DR. A. TRASK'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

ALL SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have never used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

ARTHUR'S CHEMICAL SULPHUR

PILES! PILES!! PILES!!!

A Sure Cure Found at Last. No One Need Suffer.

A sure cure for the Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams (an Indian remedy), called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 and 30 years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, Instruments, and Electuaries do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, particularly at night after getting warm in bed), acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for Piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment: "I have used scores of pile cures, but it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment."

SELECT LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS.

☞An advertiser who spends upwards of $5,000 a year, and who invested less than $450 of it in this List, writes: "Your Select Local List paid me better last year THAN ALL THE OTHER ADVERTISING I DID."

IT IS NOT A CO-OPERATIVE LIST.

IT IS NOT A CHEAP LIST.

IT IS AN HONEST LIST.

The catalogue states exactly what the papers are: When the name of a paper is printed in FULL FACE TYPE it is in every instance the BEST.—When printed in CAPITALS it is the ONLY paper in the place. The list gives the population of every town and the circulation of every paper.

The rates charged for advertising are barely one-fifth the publishers' schedule. The price for single States ranges from $2 to $80. The price for one inch one month in the entire list is $625. The regular rates of the papers for the same space and time are $2,980.14. The list includes 952 newspapers of which 187 are issued DAILY and 765 WEEKLY. They are located in 788 different cities and towns, of which 26 are State Capitals, 363 places of over 5,000 population, and 468 County Seats. For copy of List and other information, address GEO. P. The NEW EDITION contains

4600 NEW WORDS and Meaning

Biographical Dictionary of Over 9700 Names.

Published by G. & C. MERRIAM, Springfield Mass.

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, best, and most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions, promotes energy and strength, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures of cheap materials, and without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its compositions and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

TECUMSEH, MICH., MAY 26, 1881.

ANOTHER VOLUME.

The present issue of the HERALD is the first number of the thirty-second volume. For thirty-one years it has pursued the even tenor of its way, through sunshine and storm, bearing its weekly message of home happenings to the families of Northern Lenawee. During all these years it has labored zealously for the business prosperity of Tecumseh, and judged by its labors in this direction, we can confidently say that the HERALD has been a success.

The position of a local newspaper man is in some respects a peculiar one. He is expected to work for his own village collectively and for all its business men individually, to publish its advantages to the world and to labor in season and out of season for the general good. Much of this work is gratuitous, and when the ledger is balanced at the close of the year it very frequently happens that the publisher of the home paper has a smaller margin of profit than almost any business man in town. People are too prone to find fault with editorial shortcomings, and too careless about extending financial aid and comfort to their own home newspaper, and consequently the proprietor is frequently overworked on small pay until he gives up the battle and sells out his business. These reflections are not made in a complaining spirit. We are under deep obligations to our friends in this vicinity for their generous support. Yet we cannot overlook the fact that many Tecumseh people are doing but very little to strengthen the newspaper which is always expected to say a good word for them.

There is another point on which public sentiment is somewhat at fault, in connection with the local newspaper. Men naturally buy where they can buy the cheapest. This is a laudable habit. We are a believer in free trade, that every man should have the privilege of buying where he can buy the cheapest. But a literal application of this principal to the newspaper field would wipe out two-thirds of the local journals in Michigan within six months. The New York and Chicago weeklies can be bought for one dollar a year. Therefore, says our economical friend, the Local Astonisher should be sold at the same price. But the Astonisher places its subscription price at $1.50 per year. This excess is only 50 cents on each paper, but our economical friend stops his home newspaper because he will not be swindled out of 50 cents to help anybody. Did he ever reflect that the one dollar per year for the N. Y. Sun builds up a profit of $50,000 a year for its proprietor, while the $1.50 per year for the local paper represents but little if any profit at all. A circulation of 1,000 is fully up to the average of a local newspaper. Fifty cents only on each paper makes $500 a year, and this sum frequently covers the entire profits of the home paper for one year. Strike off fifty cents on each subscription and you wipe out the entire profits of the concern. And when the small pitance of profit that a country publisher makes is equitably distributed over his entire subscription list it hardly seems gracious that his patrons should begrudge him the modest sum of fifty cents a year towards keeping his balance on the credit side of the ledger.

Another source of income for the country paper, and one which is absolutely essential to its existence, is its advertising patronage. The duty which a paper owes its own town and that which the business men of a town owe the paper is reciprocal in its character. Business men should advertise. It not only aids them in a business point of view but keeps up a strong local paper in their own home. We are happy to state that the business men of Tecumseh as a general rule appreciate this fact and emphasize their belief by their actions, although in a few cases there is still room for improvement in this direction.

During the past six months the HERALD has experienced rather more than its share of bad luck. The breaking down of the water works last winter, the burning out of our boiler this spring and other mishaps have levied a heavy extra tax upon us, but our motto is "never give up the ship," and we are glad to say that business is again settling into its accustomed channels, and the future outlook is encouraging.

The business boom which has struck the country effects all kinds of business alike and even the impecunious country editor can expect to make enough during the summer to enable him to buy a new suit of clothes for the fall campaign.

WASHINGTON IRVING.

A few days ago, at Chicago, the Hon. Schuyler Colfax, in an oration delivered at the unveiling of the monument erected to the memory of George B. Armstrong, the originator of the postal car system, said, "Monarchies may erect and dedicate the statues of kings and queens born to rule. But here we honor with statues and crown with fame monarchs of thought, of action, and of progress." And thus do we perform our part in the crowning with fame that monarch of thought, Washington Irving, by commemorative exercises, on the afternoon of June 2.

Irving has been called "The Greek-smith of America," and Goldsmith has long been regarded as one of the most pleasing of English writers. Irving has expressed some of the grandest thoughts to be found in prose. Almost every page of his writings contains some expression worth studying and remembering. He is almost universally regarded as standing at the head of the list of American prose writers. We generally feel more secure of our position when we know that others have thought as we think, have done as we are doing, and have given substantial reasons for the faith that was in them. I therefore give two quotations from an oration of one of the most eminent of classic authors. Cicero, in his plea for the poet Archias, extols very highly the study of literature and gives many reasons for the pursuit of liberal studies. He states, also, that they are of much practical value, and names some eminent men who so regarded them. In order, however, to include all the possibilities, he says: "Even if this so great advantage should not be made apparent, and if delight only is sought from these studies, however, as I think, you would judge this employment of the mind most human and most liberal. For other occupations are proper neither for all times, nor for all ages, nor for all places: these studies foster youth, delight old age, adorn prosperity; in adversity they offer a refuge and a comfort; they delight us at home, they do not hinder us abroad, they pass the night with us, they accompany us in our journeys, they pass the time with us in the country."

In another place Cicero says: "You ask of us, O, Gratius, why we are so greatly taken up with this man? [the poet Archias.] Because he supplies us with that whereby both the mind may be refreshed after this forensic noise and the ears, fatigued with wrangling, may find repose. Or do you suppose, either that it would be possible for us to have a sufficient supply of subjects which we might discourse on daily, in such a variety of pleadings, unless we cultivated our minds by the study of literature, or that our minds could bear such great efforts, unless we relaxed them by the same studies?"

Accepting, as we must, the fact that these studies "foster youth" and "delight old age," let us encourage the youth to read literature of a character to "offer a refuge" in adversity, that will "not hinder us abroad" and will "delight us at home." When we demand that they shall not read that which degrades, let us furnish them that which elevates.

Remember that we do not "gather grapes of thorns or figs of thistles," but that we must begin early to train the mind to virtue and honor if we would reap purity and nobility of character. E. B. FAIRFIELD, JR.

A $10 Biblical Prize.

The publishers of Rutledge's Monthly offer the following easy way for some one to make $10:

To the person telling us how many times the word "Galilee" is found in the New Testament Scriptures, by June 10th, 1881, we will give $10 in gold as a prize. The money will be forwarded to the winner June 15, 1881. Those who try for the prize must send 10 cents with their answer for which they will receive the July number of the Monthly an excellent Magazine of 32 pages, in which will be published the name and address of the winner of the prize, with the correct answer thereto. Address, Rutledge Publishing Company, Lansing, Mich.

GOOD COMPANY, $3.00 a year Springfield, Mass.) issues Nos. 19 and 20 together—making a double number. Lieutenant Frederick Schwatka, the commander of the Franklin search expedition which returned last autumn, has two of his series of articles on experiences and adventures in the Artic world, under the title, "In the Land of the Midnight Sun." The first tells of previous Franklin expeditions, and the second begins the narrative of his own. In future articles he will continue the story. S. J. Douglass has a paper on the Eskimo race. The opening of the new serial, and the papers on Arctic experiences by Lieut. Schwatka, offer special attractions to new subscribers, who if they like to read of novel scenes in strange lands will find this number additionally attractive because of its articles of this kind.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENTS' ASSOCIATION.

The annual session of the State association of superintendents of city schools convened last Thursday evening at the Lansing House parlors. The following superintendents were present at the opening:

J. W. Morley, President, Bay City.
J. G. Pinnebanan, Secretary, White Pigeon.
W. S. Perry, Ann Arbor.
Ira P. Simmons, Manistee.
O. C. Evelyn, Owosso.
C. L. Spaulding, Muskegon.
Horace Phillips, Grand Haven.
T. C. Carmer, Big Rapids.
H. W. French, Kalamazoo.
D. Morrell, Three Rivers.
R. W. Lawton, Jackson.
D. E. Inness, St. Johns.
F. M. Parker, Chelsea.
E. B. Fairfield, Tecumseh.
A. S. Miller, Constantine.
C. A. Sanford, Lansing.
G. Schurte, Saint Ignace.
E. P. Rodenbach, Sandusky.
E. I. Sage, Flint.
W. Coppins, Vicksburg.
Mr. J. A. King, Charlotte.
H. Bastin, Leslie.
J. Trescott, Portland.

The meeting was called to order by the President at 8 o'clock P. M., and the partial program announced as previously published in the Republican, but owing to the absence of some of the members it was varied, and Prof. Fairfield gave a syllabus of his ideas of how, when, and where supplementary reading should be given to pupils to gain the best results. A general discussion followed, showing a marked division of opinion as to the benefits to be derived from the use of reading matter in schools other than that furnished in the regular books of the course, with strong advocates on both sides, who claimed to speak from experience. The association adjourned at 11 P. M., to meet at the same place at 9 A. M., Friday morning.

FRIDAY'S SESSION.

The association resumed business at 9 A. M., with the following addition to its members:

D. A. Harrison, Blissfield.
M. MacVicar, Ypsilanti.
T. R. Cook, Dexter.
J. M. B. Sill, Detroit.
Clark Stanton, Holly.
J. McFarlan, Fenton.
O. D. Thompson, Kenowa.
J. W. Ewing, Ionia.

Miss King of Charlotte gave her views on teaching arithmetic, and the subject was discussed by Supt. Phillips of Grand Haven, Garnier of Big Rapids, and Daniels of Grand Rapids.

The committee on course of study for high schools, and the requirements for admission to the university, reported through Sup't Perry of Ann Arbor, and the report was accepted. It was also moved to take up the subject of physics, which was discussed by Sup'ts Sill, Lawton, Fairfield and Thomas; and Prof. Fairfield, by request, gave his views in detail.

A resolution was offered, as the sense of the association, that the subject of physics ought to be taught at least one year in all high schools, and adopted after discussion. Resolutions were also adopted as the sense of the association that geology and zoology should be dropped from the high school course; also, that the faculty of the university be requested to state the definite requirements in botany and natural philosophy, and give the high schools the privelege to elect one of the other four. The association also expressed by motion its sense that 20 weeks should be devoted to botany.

Sup't Sill presented the following, which was adopted:

"Resolved, That the committee be appointed to confer with the authorities of the university in reference to preparatory courses in the high schools be requested to urge upon said authorities that this association deems it desirable to establish, as a part of the preparation required for the scientific courses, a course in English language and literature, including analysis, practical composition, correspondence, rhetoric, history of English literature, and a special study and criticism of certain English classics, to be prescribed by the university, such course to be made fully equivalent in amount required as the Latin course prescribed as preparation for the classical course."

A motion was also carried to request the faculty of the university to state in their circular of this year their requirements, according to said resolutions. The association passed the usual votes of thanks and adjourned, to meet in Lansing for the holiday session near the close of this year.

PROF. MOSES COIT TYLER.

Detroit Free Press: The Michigan University is about to suffer another severe loss in the resignation of Prof. Moses Coit Tyler, who has accepted the chair of history in Cornell University. It has been known by a few of his friends that during the past year he has received several attractive offers from other colleges and more recently that he was considering an invitation from Cornell University, an invitation which he has only recently decided to accept. Having, however, finally decided to leave the Michigan University he notified the Cornell authorities, on Monday, of his intention of accepting the offer which they had made him. He will remain in Ann Arbor the remainder of the year and enter upon his duties at Cornell in the autumn, at the beginning of the next college year. His departure from Michigan University will occasion a genuine feeling of sorrow, not only among the faculty and students, but also among the citizens of Ann Arbor, by whom he was universally esteemed. No professor is more popular with the students or more generally beloved. Nor indeed is it easy to see how the chair of English Literature, which Prof. Tyler has so long, so ably and so faithfully filled, can well be supplied.

THE Chicago Times, Saturday morning published 83,715 words of the new revised New Testament, giving twenty-eight chapters of St. Matthew, sixteen of St. Mark, seven of St. Luke and five of St. John. This formed one telegraphic despatch from New York.

THE SALINE SCORCH.

Last Saturday morning about half past three the citizens of Saline were awakened by the cry of fire, to find the business portion of their town in jeopardy of total conflagration. The fire originated in an unoccupied frame building on Adrian street in the rear of Nichol's corner drug store. The town being without any fire protection, the flames soon had complete control and quickly spread to the adjoining buildings. All the buildings on Adrian street to the M. E. church and all the buildings on Chicago street on, and including the residence of Daniel Weinsette were burned. Among the number was a building belonging to A. W. Slayton of this place.

The amount of loss and insurance, with names of parties were as follows: Dr. S. W. Chandler, house and barn, $1,200, Mrs. Laura Wallace, residence, $1,600, insurance $1,200; J. H. Schwalm, store, $2,600, insurance $1,500; A. W. Slayton, store, $2,000; C. N. Webb, groceries, $1,000; Geo. H. Jewett, building, 200; Nichols Bros., store, $3,000; H. J. Miller, building, $300; Fred Derringer, store, $1,000; Sherman Hinkley, buildings, $3,000; Hauser & Hinne, stock, $500; Mrs. C. Hauser, residence, $1,300; D. Weinette, residence, barns, etc., $1,300; Orrin Culver, household goods, $100; Mrs. Jesse Gates, dressmaking goods, $100; Lorenzo Haight, barn, $350; A. Gordon, barn, $200. Part of the above losses and of others not enumerated are covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Made to order in the best possible manner at Goodrich & Stacy's box factory, in the Merritt Stretch building.

SECURE YOUR PICTURES.

My Galleries in Tecumseh and Clinton will be closed for a few weeks after July 4th.

☞ Do not wait until the last week. Come early and be better pleased. It is now eight weeks since my children came down with the whooping cough, and we think there is no danger of your children taking it. Children's pictures a specialty. We go to Clinton every Friday.

BROWN, the Photographer.

PAINTING.

Miss E. S. Hebard, of N. Y., would give instruction in Landscape painting if sufficient pupils could be obtained. Specimen on exhibition at the HERALD Office. Address P. O. Box 413.

PAPER HANGING.

John B. Beasley, Paper Hanger, East Ridgeway. I beg most respectfully to state that I am now in a position to do paper hanging on the shortest notice and the most reasonable terms, and shall be enabled to give your orders prompt and creditable dispatch. Should you require my services be kind enough to send postal card to Ridgeway Postoffice.

ROBBERS

Of the graves of our dead friends are becoming so numerous that we have thought best to avail ourselves of the agency of the BOYD

Burglar-Proof Grave Vault.

An article which is undoubtedly the invention of the age, being made of boiler iron and so constructed as to be thoroughly burglar-proof. It is also a really desirable arrangement for the protection of the Burial Case. The public generally are cordially invited to call at our business rooms and examine the vault for themselves.

Respectfully,
WM. McCOWEN, Tecumseh, Mich.

THE MAN WHO BORROWED

my Cross Cut Saw and Ice Tongs will please return the same immediately, if he wishes to save trouble and costs. J. W. COLE.

FAIRBANKS SCALES

For sale. Inquire of A. W. SLAYTON.

THE IMPROVED HOWE SCALES.

Last Monday afternoon we took a ride over to Uncle John Rector's to inspect his new Howe wagon scales, which he has just purchased of John F. Hicks. They are certainly one of the best set of wagon scales we ever saw. Mr. Rector's son Will laid the foundation walls himself, as he could not obtain a mason when he wanted one, and the scales are certainly well planted.

The Howe wagon scale is much simpler than the old Fairbanks, requiring much less excavation of earth underneath it to properly place it.—This scale was tested while we were there, and with two men on the platform a dollar bill placed on the weight at the end of the rod beam brought it down We would not have believed this to be possible had we not seen the test ourselves.

Hr. Hicks claimed that when a load of hay was on the scales exactly balanced, the addition of a silver dollar would bring up the rod beam. Uncle John Rector says he is now prepared to sell his farm produce and know exactly how much he sells. Mr. Hicks has put in a similar scale for Kelly, Hoxsie & Wilson at Holloway's station, and he has made that firm agents for selling all the Howe scales in that vicinity. Sutton & Swan are the agents at Tecumseh for these scales where parties wishing to purchase will find a full supply.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our kindest thanks to those friends who so graciously rendered their assistance to us in our recent bereavement and sorrow.

WOLCOTT W. MARSH.
KITTIE MARSH.

CHAS. W. AKIN has got his grove at the east end of Wampler's Lake in readiness, and is now prepared to entertain picnics and private parties to good advantage. He has a fine lot of new boats, and everything in apple-pie order. He wants all his friends to call and see him.

DR. D. J. DEWEY, of Washington, Iowa, is visiting his old Tecumseh friends. He expects to remain about a week.

ORDERS for Ice Cream left at J. Davidson's store will be promptly attended to by R. C. VanAntwerp

MRS. WRIGHT, who has been in Jackson during the winter, is back visiting friends here.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

TECUMSEH, MICH. MAY 26, 1881.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

THE pay car was here Tuesday.

THE farmers are crying for rain.

THE picnic season has commenced in Adrian.

FRED BURLINGAME is visiting in Coldwater.

A. O. MILLER as "Wool" to-morrow evening.

SUTTON & SWAN are indulging in a new sidewalk.

ADRIAN butter dealers are shipping their butter to Petoskey.

The whist club went to the lakes last Tuesday for a picnic.

THE funeral of the wife of George Mangus occurred last Monday.

THE street sprinkler is a very handy man to have around these days.

TECUMSEH had a narrow escape from a big fire last Monday night.

THE last section of track laying on the Butler road is now being placed.

PROF. WEDDELES and Carl Burton's concert is at Clinton to-morrow night.

DR. HOUSE is in Florida, being called there by the sickness of Mr. Cram.

A NUMBER of young people had a social dance at Merchants' Hall last evening.

I. P. KEYSER is arranging his store in good shape for his flour business.

MR. AND MRS. ALONZO C. of Clinton, favored the HERALD office with a call last week.

MR. FULLER J. WOODARD is building a new house on the corner of Logan and Union streets.

LAST Monday evening the Misses Hayden entertained a company of young people at their home.

LAVERN WHEELER has returned to Chicago, where he is engaged in painting at a salary of $100 per month.

ALL signs of rain fail in a dry time. Easterly winds have lost their virtue this spring, as they fail to bring rain.

FRANK BENNETT has resigned the local editorship of the Adrian Times, and is succeeded by Geo. Miller, of Palmyra.

JIM SIMONDS, who was so unfortunate as to have had a span of horses stolen last week, has not heard anything of them yet.

THE gardens in and about our village were never looking better than they do now, and the lawns present a solid sheet of green.

A NUMBER of young ladies from Clinton, imbued with the love of aesthetics, are receiving instructions in painting from Miss Nealie Pangburn.

THE board of supervisors will meet in June for the purpose of equalizing the assessment rolls. Already the question of chairman is being canvassed.

MARSHAL Anderson and Constable Smyth think that they tracked the thieves who stole the Simond's horses through Woodstock into Jackson county.

THE Christian church of Fairfield is to have a woman preacher—Rev. Mrs. Garwood—for its pastor, and the lady is about to take up her abode in that village.

THE Social Club were very hospitably entertained by the Misses Knox last Tuesday evening. The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Lizzie Hicks.

CHAS. WALDRON seems to have excellent success as a veterinary surgeon. John Clemens had a very sick horse last week, and Waldron pulled him through all right.

THE wheat prospects in this section are decidedly discouraging. The continued dry weather prevents the wheat from starting which will reduce the yield per acre very largely.

MISS DELLA SAWYER whom the Clinton News man attacked for driving into another person's buggy replies to brother Clough in a very convincing and decided manner.

MRS. TWISS, wife of Judge Twiss of the United States Circuit of Utah, is visiting friends here. Mrs. Twiss will be remembered by some as Mrs. Alonzo Bidwell of Coldwater.

THE ice wagons have commenced to peddle out their congealed water.—This year they demand only fifteen cents per hundred weight, while last year they received fifty cents.

Under the amended liquor law, the dignity of the business is increased by making the license $300 instead of $200. It will cost the latter figure hereafter to retail cider and malt and vinous beverages alone.

REV. R. S. PARDINGTON will deliver a lecture at the M. E. church to-morrow, Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Subject: The Source and Force of Character. Admission, 15 cents. Tickets can be procured at McCowen's, Sherrard's, Baker & Hall's and Jehiel Davidson's. The proceeds will go to replenish the treasury of the Ladies Aid Society.

BOATS are now undergoing repairs, and boating parties are being inaugurated.

MR. AND MRS. CYRUS PALMER, of St. Joseph county, are visiting friends in this vicinity.

MRS. ABBIE FISHER has placed a fine fountain on the lawn in front of her residence.

Co. C. will observe Decoration Day next Monday, but there will be no public celebration.

THE public schools of Tecumseh will be closed on Monday next, it being Decoration Day.

MRS. BAINBRIDGE, of Clinton, is now boarding in the county jail for drunkenness from the use of morphine.

REV. R. L. PARDINGTON will preach on Sabbath A. M. "The rewards of Obedience," and in the afternoon, "Christ the Great Teacher."

MRS. ANN BOWEN, formerly of Raisin is spending a few weeks with her friends in Palmyra, Adrian and Tecumseh. Her home is now in Arcada, Iowa.

HON. C. E. MICKLEY has made 32 speeches at prominent points in the State, on the Grange question, since the commencement of the present year. He is engaged for an immense grange picnic to take place at Muskegon June 2d and 3d.

SUPERVISOR BRADNER informs the Clinton News that his assessment roll this year shows $901,830 real estate, against $895,420 last year; $281,680 personal, against $280,380 last year; total $1,183,520, against $1,175,300 last year. Births, 28; deaths, 26; blind, 1.

MR. & MRS. A. O. MILLER will reproduce at the Opera House, to-morrow evening, May 27th, "The Hidden Hand." This drama is "A. O's" old favorite, where he is at his best. They come here at the instance of Charlie Severance and will undoubtedly be well received.

Now is the time, if it is not already done, to see that the alleys and back yards are thoroughly cleaned out, and the filth removed that has been accumulating all winter. Much sickness and many lives may be saved by timely and proper attention to this important subject.

TO-MORROW an excursion train runs from Adrian to Detroit to enable those wishing to attend the base ball game in the afternoon between the Boston's and Detroit's, and the theater in the evening. If 20 will go from Tecumseh a special train will run up here. The fare for the round trip from here will be $2.00

AT the county grange, which convened at Adrian recently, it was decided that the patrons should mass their wool crop for the current year and forward the same to an eastern house for sale to manufacturers. Jas. Cook, of Raisin, was appointed agent of the grange to attend to the details of this business.

WE are indebted to Sumner Spofford for late copies of the Iowa State Register and Minnesota Farmer, both of which contain lengthy descriptions of the city of Des Moines. Des Moines is now the first city in Iowa, and is going forward with rapid strides. She will have four new railroads completed this summer.

THE demand for labor has not been so great for many years in Michigan as at present. Workmen are in great demand in the cities the papers tell us. Orders of different kinds have to stand over for days because the laborers are not able to fill them. Much money is being expended in improvements of different kinds, and a general waking up in all kinds of business seems to be taking place this season.

DR. HOUSE was again re-elected to the office of General Secretary of the State Homœopathic Society at their last annual meeting at Ann Arbor. His services to the society in this connection have been so valuable that they are determined to keep him as General Secretary as long as possible. The HERALD job rooms have just received the copy of the proceedings of their last session for publication. It will make a one hundred and fifty page octavo pamphlet.

A rather amusing incident happened at the Baptist church last Sunday evening. Mr. Conley was in the midst of his sermon when the patter of little feet was heard ascending the stairs that lead from the ante-room to the pulpit. Then the form of the minister's little son was seen standing up in the pulpit at the feet of his father. The little fellow had wandered into the yard from the house in the rear of the church and hearing his father's voice went into the church and up in the pulpit to see what the matter was.

ALMOST A FIRE.

From time to time the extreme necessity of a night watch for the business portion of the town is demonstrated. Last Tuesday morning a circumstance happened where the faithful services of nightwatchman Haynes undoubtedly saved to certain business men a number of thousand dollars.

About three o'clock in the morning the watchman noticed some smoke in the jewelry store of J. H. Sherrard. He at once ran to the hotel and notified Arch. who gave him the key to the store. Upon returning Haynes found the store filled with smoke, and a large blaze was shooting from the floor in the rear of the store. He then gave the fire alarm. In the meantime Arch. with a number of the boarders at Sink's hotel had entered the store and applied water to the fire. When the smoke had cleared out and the fire became extinguished it was found that the fire was caused by some one throwing a live cigar stub into a wooden box filled with sawdust. The fire had eaten through the box and the floor, and in a half hour's more time it would have gained such proportions that the efforts of no fire company could have saved the store with its contiguous ones.

We can clearly see how we would have suffered the same fate as our sister village, Saline, if it had not been for the watchful eye of Mr. Haynes. The firemen had the engine out ready for business in a short time after the alarm, but their services were not required. Perhaps as many fires have arisen from saw dust spittoons as from kitchen maids pouring kerosene oil into stoves, and it is about time for them to be discarded.

ANOTHER RESIDENT GONE WEST.

John F. Hicks, Esq., took his departure on Monday last for Oshkosh, Wis., where he intends to establish his headquarters, for the summer, for the sale of the Improved Howe Scales. Mr. Hicks has been a resident of Tecumseh for the past twenty-five years, and he has a large circle of friends who will regret his departure. He has always been an active business man and public spirited citizen, having always done his share in promoting the business welfare of Tecumseh. He has been for many years an active member of both the Odd Fellows and Masonic lodges of this place, having held the responsible position of High Priest in the Chapter for four years.—He has sold his fine residence on Chicago street, and now bids farewell to Tecumseh as a citizen, but his family will remain here during the summer, and he will no doubt pay us frequent visits himself.

Mr. Hicks controls four of the Northwestern states for the sale of the Howe scales and Wisconsin will be a more central location for him to operate from as headquarters. This is his only reason for breaking up and leaving his old home. His business has increased remarkably since he took the agency of the Howe scales, and he expects this year to do four times the volume of business that he did last year. And we have no doubt he will. He is just the man to push an enterprise of this kind. He will hold the scales of justice equitably and How(e) he will sell scales when his teams get among the badgers. May success attend him always.

THE sister of Mrs. Henry Holderman died very suddenly at her home in Riga, and was buried last Tuesday. She was a woman between 30 and 40 years of age, and seemingly quite healthy. For some time she has been in the habit of taking a nap during the day. The day of her death she went in the bed room to take her usual nap, and some hours afterwards one of her children enquired for her. Being told that the mother was in the bedroom asleep he did not enter. But finally the children thought that she had been sleeping an unusual length of time and entered the bed room. A sad sight it was, the mother was lying upon the floor dead with no apparent cause for her death.

THERE are a great number of readers of newspapers who should profit by the following from the Grand Ledge Independent: Newspaper subscriptions are always paid in advance; that is to say, if the subscriber does not do it the publisher is obliged to, as the paper dealers, the compositors, the type makers, the ink dealers, the scissors grinder, the pencil sharpener, the pressman, the landlord and others will not wait for their pay until the year expires. We leave the delinquent subscriber to finish this item to suit himself.

Adrian Times: The benefit which the Butler road has already been to city and county is shown by the fact that Whitney and Wilcox have paid over the counter for construction expenses $468,114, 14. Much of this amount, of course, has been disbursed all along the line, but no small sum has returned to the city in one way and another.

Adrian Times: The fourth annual fair of the Lenawee county agricultural society will be held five days, the dates being Sept. 26, 27, 28, 29 and 30. The premium list has been revised and changed somewhat for the better, and the officers of the society will leave nothing undone on their part to make the coming exhibition second to no county fair in Michigan. Thro' the courtesy of secretary Mann we have been furnished the dates of the following neighboring fairs:

Hillsdale county—Oct. 4, 5, 6, 7.

Ingham county—Sept. 19, 20, 21, 22, 23.

Western Michigan—Sept. 26, 27, 28, 29, 30.

Tri-state—Sept. 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17.

Rineheart Frank contracted rheumatism and disease of the lungs in Andersonville prison, with which he lingered several years and died. He applied for a pension about a year before his death, and after his death his widow applied and within a year she too died, leaving their four little children destitute. Mr. Stearns persevered in the claim, and this week Andrew Frank, the gurdian, received a check for nearly $1,000, on a certificate awarded to the father. He will forward an application as guardian, to secure a pension for the children until they are 16.—Adrian Press.

Scribner's Monthly has been arranging, during more than a year past, for an illustrated article on Saint-Gauden's Farragut Monument, which was to have been unveiled in Madison Square, New York, on May 20th. The postponement of the unveiling till the 25th inst. gives the magazine five days start! The article, which includes a sketch of the sculptor's life, will be accompanied by four illustrations, one of them a full-page engraving, by Cole, of the statue. The same number of Scribner's will have an engraving by Fred. Juengling, of Saint-Gauden's medallion of Bastien Lepage.

A SPECIAL meeting of the county grange is called at Adrian on Monday May 30, at Workingmens' Hall. The meeting is called for the purpose of further discussing the propriety of massing and shipping wool. It is hoped that all who are interested will attend. EX. COM.

A LARGE number of our citizens seem to be taking advantage of the very low price of paint and are making great improvements in the looks of their houses by the liberal use of paint and brush.

WEDNESDAY the first excursion calamity of this season happened one mile from London, Ontario. Six hundred pleasure seekers were plunged into the water and covered with the debris of a broken rotten boat. One hundred and seventy-five persons were drowned.

Arndt, of Grand Rapids, on one branch of materia medica, and other papers were presented and followed by more or less discussion. J. S. Cady of Niles; S. S. Moffatt, of Norvell; S. F. Chase of Caro; E. D. Weed, of Detroit; J. O. Spinning, of Litchfield; and A. A. Allen, of St. Johns, were elected members of the society. From statistics presented it appears there are now in the state 450 homeopathic physicians, whose patrons number between 200,000 and 300,000 persons. There are five local and one state society, the latter having over 100 members. Dr. A. I. Sawyer, of Monroe, and Prof. T. P. Wilson of Ann Arbor, were elected delegates to the world's homeopathic convention at London, England, and Drs. House, Franklin, Allen, Botsford, S. A. Jones, Olin Gilchrist and L. M. Jones, delegates to American institute of homeopathy at Brighton Beach in June. Dr. Arndt, of Grand Rapids, was elected president; A. B. Grant, of Lowell, corresponding secretary, and G. A. Robertson, of Chelsea, treasurer of the society for the ensuing year.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

Is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca; with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Walton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Elkton, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independence, Elkton, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes, and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it, we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.

At ENGLEWOOD, with the L.S. & M.S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.

At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.

At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.

At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.

At ROCK ISLAND, with "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line," and Rock Isl'd & Peo. Rds.

At DAVENPORT, with the Davenport Division C. M. & St. P. R. R.

At WEST LIBERTY, with the B. C. R. & N. R. R.

THE GREATEST MEDICAL DISCOVERY OF THE AGE.

Kellogg's Columbian Oil is a powerful remedy, which can be taken internally as well as externally by the tenderest infant. It cures almost instantly, is pleasant, acting directly upon the nervous system, causing sudden buoyancy of the mind. In short the wonderful effects of this most wonderful remedy cannot be explained in written language. A single dose inhaled and taken according to directions will convince any one that it is all that is claimed for it. Warranted to cure the following diseases: Rheumatism or Kidney Disease in any form, Headache, Toothache, Neuralgia, Sprains, Bruises, Flesh Wounds, Bunions, Burns, Corns, Spinal Affection, Colic, Cramping Pains, Cholera Morbus, Flux, Diarrhoea, Coughs, Colds, Bronchial affection, Catarrh, and all aches and pains, external and internal. Full directions with each bottle. For sale by C. A. Wright & Co., Tecumseh

FLAVORING MEAT ON FOOT.—M. Monclar, a noted agriculturist in France, advocates the flavoring of meat on foot, by appropriate feeding. He says that by flavoring the food of cattle, sheep, pigs and poultry, their flesh may be rendered much more agreeable to the palate than it often is. He is substantially right, for reasoning by contraries, we know that rabbits, quail, deer, etc., which feed and browse upon the artemisia and bitter seeds have a disagreeable flavor when eaten. Any flavor may be given the meat, mint, thyme, anise, etc., and several tastes may be given the meat, or a compound flavor be added by a variety of flavors of any selection. For invalids particularly, or for epicurean palates, the common meaty flavor can be modified in flavor to suits the palate, and the aversion to healthy, nutritious meat be overcome by a delicious conglomeration of sweet flavors.

Chicago Ahead.

All the world now looks up to Chicago as the great western metropolis of America, being far ahead of all competing cities; but none the less so, in its line, is Electric Bitters. From their real intrinsic value they have advanced to the front, and are now far ahead of all other remedies, positively curing where everything else fails. To try them is to be convinced. For sale by C. A. Wright & Co. at fifty cents per bottle.

A curious thing about the fish in the Yellowstone is related by General Whipple. Below the falls the trout are fine fellows for table use, but above the falls the fish are wormy. It is no trick at all for a fisherman to land three hundred trout in three hours, provided his arm doesn't become tired and the bait holds out; but the fish are unfit to use after they have been caught. No trout has ever been caught above the fall that did not carry a worm somewhere about its scales. The General examined a large number of trout and every one contained the worm. When examined it was found to be in most cases about eight inches in length, and resembling a piece of white tape. This reptile, when freed from its bed in meat would wiggle and writhe as if suffering from an attack of colic. Some think the worms breed in the fish and then eat their way into the flesh. Millions of these fish die of the worms and float over the falls, and the gulls can be seen feeding upon them almost any minute in the day.

Do not die of neglect. And yet, how many do. We believe neglected coughs and hard colds are the surest foundations for Consumption and other fatal lung diseases. Arthur's Elixir of Sulphur if taken early is a certain and rapid cure. Sold by C. A. Wright & Co., Tecumseh.

ESTATE OF SHEPARDSON, MINOR.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, s. s.

At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the city of Adrian on Tuesday, the 24th day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

Present Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Newell Shepardson, minor.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Solomon C. Wynn, guardian of said minor, praying for license to sell the real estate of said minor in said petition described for reasons therein set forth.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 27th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the next-of-kin of said minor, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. ESTATE OF ALMERIA JONES.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, on Monday the 23d day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Almeria Jones, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Henry L. Jones, praying for the probate of an instrument, now on file in this court, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, and that letters testamentary thereon be granted to Henry L. Jones and Charles A. Jones, executors in said will named, or to some other suitable person.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 20th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. AROUND THE COUNTY.

SPRINGVILLE.

On looking over your paper of last week it seems your Springville correspondent was non est, but it is on account of the scarcity of items.

Our townsman, Thos. H. Mosher, returned from Detroit last week where he has been for the purpose of purchasing a few goods, and which have been received and are now being opened, and he says they are to be sold as low as in any other market. While absent he spent two days at the Mt. Clemens mineral springs, from which heretofore he has received great benefit. Within the past year that city has improved. A splendid hotel, a block of brick stores, and a fine substantial court house is drawing near to completion, costing $25,000, without a dollar tax to the county, the city of Mt. Clemens giving $20,000 and the country in the vicinity donating $5,000, and to-day there is no necessity of the county of Lenawee being without a court house, if it was not for the extravagance showing itself in demanding so large a sum to be expended for outward show. $30,000 is sufficient sum if applied to the purpose to accomplish it, and if the pride of Adrian is not satisfied they might be allowed to put as many of their loose dollars on top of it as they saw fit.

Our farmers the past week have been engaged in washing sheep.

Robert Hastings and wife, of Palmyra and Chas. Raynor and wife of Adrian have been the guests of Thos. M. Mosher for a couple of days last week enjoying themselves in riding over hill and dale visiting the beautiful lakes that lay about us.

On Wednesday Mrs. Marian F. Mason returned from Dundee, where she has been for over two weeks at the bedside of her sick sister.

BROOKLYN.

Oh how dusty! is the plaintive salute, when friends meet, and in trying to make some pioneer remember a similar time, they forget to mention late happenings or trials with teething babies.

Ben Pitts has just bought one without teeth that weighs 3 pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Clark, formerly of this place, but now of Fork, Neb., called to see us last night. They speak in glowing terms of the west and think it the only live place for business.

Everything is cheap, even the newspapers, but those who are enthusiastic over the latter will find it profitable to take such a one as the eight page Chicago Express, and compare it with the HERALD or Enterprise, or whatever may be the name of their local. They will scarcely find as much solid reading, or the kind that will benefit them in their business, or foreign news that enlightens, instead of depressing prejudice, on two of its pages as on one of the carefully edited county paper. When sharpers' advertisements, and office hunters shallow fault finding are subtracted from such cheap city columns, there is little left. People ought to be willing to pay a higher price, for work done expressly for them.

W. B. Sherman seems to think druggists bonds are as liable to be made a hoax as any other and refuse to sign them.

The star route is not the only line where discoveries are made, or else it extends to B.

My friend of the Enterprise has found a case of plethoric affection that would be a jewel in the crown of Ann Arbor science. With characteristic sympathy he petitions the lenient to extend charity to the sufferer. Oh, Doctor did you ever think that charity must begin at home if one keeps in good repair? In case the patient succeeds in adopting the numerous family spoken of, she will be glad to accept the surplus dividend asked for, she cannot afford to sell even one boy to help defray taxes, or build shaky sidewalk.

PEARLIE.

ADDISON.

Quite a number of our town's people were in attendance at the camp meeting at North Wheatland, Hillsdale Co. last Sunday.

Monday's rain shower would answer very well as a prelude to a three days rain, but taken alone it came far short of filling demands.

Cadet John Millis formerly of this place, but for the past four years of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., will be home on a furlough in a few days.

Report says that Andrew Spears, who resided near this place some years since, was hung for murder in one of the southern states last week. He had been traveling with a circus troupe for some time.

Work is about commencing on the large ditch No. 1 of Wheatland, Somerset and Rollin, which will have a tendency to cause an advance in the price of labor in these parts during the season.

Notwithstanding the late opening of spring, and subsequent dry weather, vegetables of all kinds compare quite favorably in this section with that of the average year.

We believe the assertion true that Addison business houses now offer as great inducement to the public in nearly every line of goods handled, as do those of any other town in the county. Buyers will do well to look this matter up before going elsewhere to make purchases. According as home institutions are supported or discouraged, so will their facilities for accomodations in trade expand or contract.

CLINTON.

George Lazell, living about two miles north of here, and one of the oldest settlers in this section is reported in very feeble health.

A large number of Macon and Saline people passed through here last Saturday on their way to the lakes to spend the day fishing &c.

Hotel required to pay into the village coffers, five dollars for the privilege of trying to convert these little four corners into a respectable thriving village, where men would stop off, patronize the place and come again. Consistent council.

Frank Pugh, a German laborer who came here from Pennsylvania about two years ago, advertises his house and lot for sale, and will return to that state again.

Last fall at about the same time, two jewelry stores, each claiming to have immense stocks of goods opened up in this place for business. Everyone felt pleased to have two establishments of the kind added to the business places of the village, and for a while it looked very much as though they might make it stick. Both owners advertised liberally, claimed they had come to stay, etc., and all wished them success. But last March however a rupture in the family of one knocked the bottom out of his calculations, and with it his business among us as jeweler. The other lingered along (dogs and all) until last week, when he commenced closing out, and finally, Friday night petered out entirely, since which time he has not been seen or heard from. He however succeeded better while here than his unfortunate rival, for when he came he only brought one dog, and when he left he had two, having doubled his stock in the meantime. The other however had lost two-thirds of his, wife and child having left him. Stock shrunk 66⅔ per cent.

Bainbridge & Hause have now by far the largest and most elegant stock of furniture ever seen in this market. Their new store being filled with everything in the house furnishing line. They are young men of enterprise and seem to know the wants of the trade in their business, and are bound to please if possible.

C. F. Field, of Manchester, has bought out the good will and business of the Clinton News. We understand when Mr. Field takes possession sometime in July, it will be with an entire new outfit, presses, type &c. Mr. Field, though not a journalist is a young man of fair ability and well known in this place, having occupied the position of principal of our high school some two or three years ago, with entire satisfaction to the district, and consequently full credit to himself. We bespeak for him abundant success in his new enterprise.

Miss Angie Hard of Pittsfield, Ill. is visiting friends here.

The festive potato bug is on his travels, making his annual visit.

At the congregational house they have singing Sunday evenings instead of preaching.

L. B. Chubbuck our jeweler, with his two dogs has departed, whither, his creditors know not.

Two of our street lamps that stood near the bridge west of town had to be removed nearer civilization on account of the pure cussedness of young America.

Our people prefer dust, and they are getting a full amount. An effort was made to raise funds to start a sprinkler, but it failed for want of interest in the scheme.

Clough, of the Clinton News has put an awning of matched lumber in front of the printing office; he is preparing it to rent.

The boiler in D. Woodward's foundry burst a hole in the bottom, which is repaired and running again.

About midnight, Sunday, one of our street lamps exploded. It stood near the residence of D. St. John, and he avers that it blazed up 20 feet high, and if there had been a wind in the right direction his house could not have been saved.

We learn Tecumseh had a fine rain Monday. Now we protest against this discrimination all in favor of Tecumseh. Of late they have enjoyed two showers, while here, metaphorically speaking, it is as dry as the dust of that locality they spell with an H. It is nearly two months since we have had a rain.

Monday evening J. B. Wells and A. B. Vandemark saw some galoot looking into the windows of J. B. Hause's dwelling; evidently he was getting the lay of the land for future operations. Wells and Vandemark concluded they would nab him by going around the house in opposite directions and meeting where the would-be burglar stood, but he took the alarm and ran. Then there was a lively chase, but in the darkness the scamp escaped.

John Piket, living in the south part of Bridgewater, has discovered a new use for strychnine. Being very much annoyed by crows pulling up his corn, he procured some of the poison, soaked a quantity of corn and sowed it in the field. The first morning they picked up 18 in one field, besides several others in contiguous localities.

RIDGEWAY.

Dr. R. H. Nelson spent last Sunday with his parents at Ligonier, Ind.

Mrs. Sanford is suffering from a severe felon on her right hand.

The drouth has been severe, and the farmers feel rather blue.

Wheat heading out, about a foot high. No great demand for self-binders.

Preparations are being made for the proper observation of children's day, by the M. E. church.

Dr. D. W. Loree is spending a few days in Detroit.

Mr. Alvah Waring of New York is visiting his brother Joshua Waring, of this village.

Miss Ella Hall is expected home soon to spend the summer.

The residence of Jonathan Wilkes, of Macon township was totally destroyed by fire Tuesday forenoon. $100 in money was burned. Partially insured in the Farmers. One more for Macon.

A son of Albert Eaton while on his way home from school Monday was badly bitten by a dog belonging to Ben Hinds. The boy was either playing, or plagueing the dog, when Hinds yelled "sic 'em," and sic 'em he did. It required a dozen stitches to close the wound in the boys leg. Would the survival of the fittest cut off dorg or master.

I. S. Osborn is in Milwaukee.

The farmers along the line of the D.& B. are not satisfied with the R.R. fence. The fence does not turn stock as was demonstrated the other day, when a drove of hogs went through it taking wire and all, making a clean sweep.

The meeting of the temperance alliance which was announced for last Sunday eve was postponed for one week, and will take place next Sunday evening. The Rev. R. S. Pardington will address the meeting. All who heard Mr. Pardington on the "Formation of Character," feel assured that the temperance talk will be a good one. Let everybody come out.

THE Bay City Morning Call heartily indorses what was said not very long since in the Free Press as to the inducements which Michigan holds out to immigrants, and adds: "We urge particularly in this connection the claims of northern Michigan. In the fertility of soil, in the wealth of forest products, in the inducements offered to the tiller of the soil, the mechanic, manufacturer and tradesmen, northern Michigan is unsurpassed. There is room here for thousands who are seeking out a scanty subsistence in the crowded thoroughfares of the East, to work out with willing hands a competance and happy homes.

THE Supreme Court of New York has granted the order to change the name of the corporation of "Scribner & Co." to "The Century Co."—the order to take effect on the 21st of June. The July issues of Scribner's Monthly and St. Nicholas will have the new incorporate imprint.

Adrian Times: Mrs. Wm. Johnson, a very estimable lady who lives in the south part of Ogden township, and who is a sister to the well-known family of Young brothers, of the same township, has been ill in a singular manner several months. Some time since the lady was confined and it is feared that her continued illness is caused by some complication arising at that time. Lately her disease has taken a very singular and mysterious form. She can walk with considerable facility, apparently retains her reason, and even performs some kinds of light work, which can be done while sitting. But for some time past she has been gradually and surely losing her power of speech, until for the last two weeks, she has not been able to utter a single word. She is to be removed to Ann Arbor to receive treatment by the faculty of the medical college. Mrs. Johnson is very highly esteemed by her wide circle of friends and relatives, and in this, her great affliction, she has the tender sympathy of the entire community. Strong hopes of her recovery are entertained.

Adrian Press: Major Robbins has been appointed by the President Commercial agent for this government at Ottawa, Canada. The office is a grade lower than Consul, and is one of considerable importance and the salary is from fees which aggregate about $2,400 per year. We congratulate the Major on the mark of confidence the appointment designates, and we are frank to say he is every way worthy of the position and should he take up his residence in Ottawa, our Canadian neighbors will find in him a genial gentleman whose acquaintance they will value.

THE monthly pay-roll of the Peninsular car company of Adrian is about $14,000.

ON THE TRAIN.

From the car window he looked to see
The landscape rushing by;
It came along, he picked it up,
He caught it with his eye,
Wrathfully jerking in his head,
To dig for the stinging cinder,—
We dare not print the words he said,
When his hat flew out the winder.

MORTALITY.

How do the roses die?
Do their leaves fall together,
Thrown down and scattered by the sky
Of angry weather?
No, the sad thunder-stroke
O'ersweeps their lowly bower!
The storm that tramples on the oak
Relents above the flower.

No violence makes them grieve.
No wrath hath done them wrong,
When with sad secrecy they leave
The branch to which they cling.
They yield them, one by one,
To the light breeze and shower,
To the soft dew, cool shade, bright sun,
Time and the hour.

THE BATTLE OF BRUGES.

The old chronicles of the year 1382 have numerous details respecting this affair, and the escape of the Earl of Flanders, from which the following account is compiled:

The rebellious people of Ghent began to perceive that the time in which vengeance was to be taken on them for their outrages was at hand. The Earl of Flanders, with the help of his French allies, had made himself master of the surrounding country, and threatened an attack upon Ghent. Unprovisioned and unfurnished with any adequate means of holding out for a long defense, the wretched inhabitants felt that they had nothing to hope for but the clemency of their sovereign, against whom they had committed so many insulting outrages that they were almost unpardonable. Artaveld and his confederates saw that they could not resist; and, like men who had played a desperate game, and knew that there was a chance of their losing, they did not hesitate to offer themselves up to appease the fury of the Earl, provided the safety of their countrymen could be insured by that means.

The Earl received them angrily and haughtily; and, having heard their request, promised to send his answer. It was even more severe than had been expected. He insisted that all the people of Ghent, between the ages of 15 and 60, should come bare-foot, scarcely clothed, and with each a rope about his neck, half way between Ghent and Bruges, and there submit themselves to his mercy.

The summer day was done, and all the people of Ghent were assembled, expecting the return of Artaveld. It was almost night when he arrived. The archers, and the white-hood men at arms, who accompanied him, showed none of the gayety which commonly marked their deportment. They rode slowly through the market place, and Artaveld, who appeared extremely dejected, alighted from his horse, and, entering the Town House, soon afterward appeared in the balcony.

He related to the assembled citizens the success of his errand, and the terms which the Earl required them to submit to. The distress of the people, at this announcement of their hard fate, was deep and universal, and vented itself in loud and heart-rending cries.

When the first burst of this emotion had subsided, Artaveld, having procured silence, again addressed them.

"Nothing remains for us, then, my fellow citizens, but to adopt a prompt resolution. You know that our provisions are exhausted, and that we are 30,000 souls, who for the last fifteen days have not tasted a morsel of bread. There are three courses, and three only, which we can follow. The first is to shut ourselves up in our town, to confess our sins, to throw ourselves on our knees in the churches, and there to await death like martyrs, to whom all human pity has been denied. God will surely have pity on our souls, and even our foes will say that we died the death of brave people. The second is for all of us to go, men, women, and children, bare-footed, and with ropes about our necks, on the road to Bruges, there to implore the mercy of the Earl of Flanders. His heart cannot be so hard but that, when he sees his people in that state, he must take pity on them. I will be the first to offer him my head to appease his rage. And the last thing for us is to choose five or six thousand of the bravest, best-armed men our city holds, and to hasten to attack the Earl of Bruges."

Some of the populace who were nearest to Artaveld, asked, "What would you advise us to do?" The cry soon became general. "We will follow the advice of our tried friend."

"Since it is so, then, said Artaveld, with increasing earnestness, and his voice growing louder with the excitement, "this is the advice I give, and I am ready to do my utmost to carry it into effect: Let us go with arms in our hands, to find the Count, and teach him that we are not the tame and worthless slaves he would make of us."

A loud and unanimous shout was the reply which the people made to this speech.

"Return, then, to your homes, prepare all things to effect this design, and we will proceed to make a selection of such of you as are fittest to help in it."

The crowd dispersed at his bidding, and every one bestirred himself in getting ready for the attack. The greater part of the inhabitants followed the troops to the gates to bid them farewell; and the soldiers, bidding them implore the assistance and protection of Heaven, set off upon their expediton.

On the following morning they halted within a league of Bruges; and Artaveld disposed the baggage in such a manner as to protect his troops from any sudden attack. This man, in the course of the extraordinary events of which the Low Countries were then, and had for a long time been, the theater, had gained a thorough knowledge of the people with whom he had to deal. Without any of the advantages of education, for he had been originally a fisherman on the Scheldt, Artaveld possessed a ready and striking eloquence, which he knew how to adapt perfectly to the capacities of his hearers. He had taken care to provide friars to attend the army, and he now set them to preach to the soldiers. Their sermons were of course directed to the ensuing combat, and by drawing parallels between the people of Ghent and the Israelites, assimilating the persecutions of the Earl of Flanders to those which the ancient Jews suffered under Pharaoh, they succeeded in rousing the indignation of their hearers to the highest pitch. The holy sacrament was then administered, and the whole army joined in prayer.

Artaveld then addressed them, and after recapitulating, in a forcible manner, the wrongs and oppression they had suffered under the Earls of Flanders, he pointed to the carts. "Yonder," he said, "is all that we possess to feed 5,000 hungry men; that consumed, if you want more you must win it with your swords. Let us, however, share it now in peace and brotherly affection." Rations were then distributed, and the outposts formed, for the outposts brought news that the Earl and his forces were at hand.

When the Earl learned that this army from Ghent was coming against him, he believed that it was an act of mere desperation, and scornfully ordered all his forces to the attack. The people of Bruges, who partook of this feeling, and who were not sorry of an opportunity to wreak their old animosity against their neighbors of Ghent, prepared to win this, as they thought, easy victory. The more experienced military men would have dissuaded the earl from beginning the attack at so late an hour; and, notwithstanding that he was convinced of the expediency of this advice, he suffered himself to be influenced by the eagerness of the Bruges towns-folk. Although the morrow would have delivered his enemies into his hands, his rashness and pride prevented him from availing himself of this certain advantage, and he gave orders for the attack.

Artaveld then unmasked his artillery, which was behind the wagons, and fired three successive times. At the same moment, by a judicious and unexpected maneuver, Artaveld attacked the main body of the Earl's forces, so as to get the sun, which was now sinking, but very bright, at the back of his own troops, and consequently in the faces of his enemies. An almost instant disorder ensued in their ranks; while the assailants, keeping in close order, and shouting their battle-cry, "Ghent," fell on them with resistless fury. The people of Bruges soon took to flight, and throwing down their arms, saved themselves as well as they could. Never was so disgraceful a rout of people who had before displayed so much presumption. The knights and gentlemen attempted in vain to rally them; a panic of fear had seized them; they heard not the voices of their leaders; the ties of friendship and kindred were forgotten, and every man was busied in providing for his own safety. In the confusion which ensued, the Earl was thrown from his horse, and nothing but the strenuous and powerful exertions of those who were about him could have saved him from being thrown down and trampled to death.

Finding that it was impossible to rally the terrified troops (for his own soldiery had been infected by the terror of the Citizens) his next object was to save Bruges, and for this purpose to get to the town, and shut the gates; but this was impossible. A religious festival had been celebrated there with great pomp, and the carriages used in the procession encumbered the streets, and prevented the frightened soldiers from acting.—When the earl arrived at the market-place he found it was in the possession of the enemy, into whose hands he must have fallen, but for the fact that it was now quite dark.

The Earl wandered through the streets for some time, when he found himself in a little obscure street, opposite the dwelling of an old woman. After a moment's hesitation he entered. The house consisted of a low, dirty, room, half filled with smoke, and an upper loft or chamber, the only mode of access to which was by a rude ladder. "Woman," cried the Earl, "save me or I am lost; I am your liege lord, and my pursuers are at my heels." "I know you, my lord," replied the poor woman, "and I ought to know you; for I and my infants have been often fed with alms at your gate. Quick, mount the ladder, and the bed in which my children are sleeping—but be silent for your life."

The Count stepped nimbly up the ladder, and getting to the further side of the wretched pallet in which the children were sleeping, effectually concealed himself. He had scarcely done so when some of the Ghent soldiers arrived, saying they had seen a man enter.

"You saw no one enter but me," replied the woman, sulkily, and went on with her occupation at the fire place; "but you may search my hovel, if you will," she added.

One of the soldiers mounted the ladder; but seeing only two sleeping children in the loft, his suspicions were at once removed, and he left the house with his comrades, swearing with true military vehemence.

The Earl knew that this could not afford him a safe asylum for long; and, thanking the poor woman, whose fidelity had preserved his life, he again issued into the streets.

He succeeded in getting a country-man's mare, on which, without a saddle, and in the dress of a serving man, the Earl of Flanders, who had a few hours before been at the head of a numerous army, reached Lille. He was soon joined there by all the men-at-arms who had escaped from the fight at Bruges; and, wise by the experience of that day's vicissitudes, vowed never again to think too scornfully of an enemy, who, with arms in their hands, and goaded by despair, should come to give him battle.

About Cats.

A article in a recent English review says:—

"The palmy days for cats were in the time of Egypt's power as a nation, some 500 years B. C. They were held there as sacred as dogs or crocodiles, and death was the penalty for killing them. From their nocturnal habits and glossy fur, the Egyptians deemed them symbolical of the moon, and a golden cat was worshiped at Sphe. Herodotus tells us some marvels about them. The Tom's it seems, in his time, had a peculiar liking for making away with kittens—a very fortunate thing, too, or the land would have been overrun with cats. Crowning wonder of all, when a fire breaks out, the sole care of the natives is to keep the cats from it; to do which they post themselves as guards around the burning house, and take no thought for putting out the flames. A divine impulse, however, says our chronicler, seizes the cats; they dart under the men, or leap over them, and fling themselves into the flames; then great mourning takes possession of the land. If a cat was found dead in any one's house, the inmates had to shave off their eyebrows; the defunct animals were carried into the temple, where they were embalmed and solemnly deposited."

Depend upon it our Heavenly Father, like our earthly parents, takes many of our dearest things from us only that He may keep them for us.

Westminster Abbey.

This famous structure is distinguished not only for its attractiveness, but also as the oldest church in Christendom. It antedates St. Peter's five centuries. In early times, that part of the town of Westminster, which adjoines the Thames, was surrounded by a branch of the river so as to form an island called Thorney, so named from its being covered with brushwood. Here on the site of the present Abbey, Sebert, King of the East Saxons, is said, in the seventh century, to have built a church. This was shortly after the introduction of Christianity into the southern part of Britain by Augustine, who came thither in 597. This church was replaced by an abbey, and called Westminster, to distinguish it from the cathedral church of St. Paul's, called originally Eastminster.

The first edifice of stone built on the site was by Edward the Confessor, between 1045 and 1065. The Pyx House, a low apartment 110 feet long by 30 feet wide, is nearly all that remains of it. The principal parts of the existing Abbey were built by Henry III. In 1220 he erected a chapel dedicated to the Virgin which was afterward pulled down by Henry VII. who erected on its site that which is known as Henry VII.'s Chapel.

Henry III. took down the old abbey of Edward the Confessor, and erected the existing choir and transepts and the chapel of Edward the Confessor. The remainder of the building was completed under the Abbots, the western part of the nave and aisles having been erected between 1340 and 1483. The only important additions made since then have been the upper parts of the two western towers, which were the work of Sir Christopher Wren. The whole building forms a cross, its extreme outer length being 500 feet, and its width across the transepts 203 feet. The height of the roof is 102 feet, and the west towers 225 feet.

The Abbey was at one time the burying place of English Kings, and it has become a national honor to be interred within its walls. The famous remark of Lord Nelson: "Victory or Westminster Abbey," indicates this. It is crowded with tombs and monuments. The noble dead of England lie here. Some whose only title to nobility was their birth. Some to that birth have added infamy—more have added glory. Side by side lie three women famous in English history. One remarkable for her courtesy; one for her beauty and sad, unfortunate history; and the other for her genius. These are the Bloody Mary, whose passionate devotion to Rome and Philip II. of Spain, almost cost England her existence, as well as the Protestant religion its foothold. The other is Mary Queen of Scots, whose tragic death at the hands of Elizabeth, has gone far to obliterate the memory of her intrigue and crime. The other is the "good Queen Bess," whose title to goodness lies more in her achievements and sagacity than in her virtue. The Poet's Corner contains the remains of many, the lustre of whose memory sheds a glory not only over the venerable Abbey, but over the whole English speaking race.

Here are monuments to Chaucer, Dryden, Milton, Gray, Shakspeare, Goldsmith, Addison, and others. In the north transept are monuments to such parliamentary celebrities as Pitt, Fox, Chatham, Channing and Wilberforce. Elsewhere are monuments to Watt and Stephenson. One of the most recent is one to Livingstone, the devoted missionary, the intrepid traveller, the friend of humanity.

The coronation of the Kings and Queens of England takes place in the Abbey. Here are kept the coronation chairs and the stone of Scone—not things of beauty, but nevertheless things of interest. The coronation chair is of ancient date. It encloses the stone upon which the King sits during the ceremony of coronation. This stone was formerly in the possession of the Scotch, and used by them at Scone, where their kings were crowned. It is called the Stone of Destiny, and was carried off by Edward I. from Scone in 1296. It is claimed to be the veritable stone which Jacob took for a pillow at Bethlehem. This fact of tradition is not to be molested by critical investigation, for it is more than possible that the story would not stand the test. The other chair was made for the occasion of crowning Mary, when she and her husband, William III., were declared King and Queen of England. Since which time both chairs have been used.

I will close this paper with a reference to the Jerusalem Chamber, made somewhat famous by several incidents. Here it is that Henry IV. died. Shakspeare thus refers to it in his Henry IV.:

King Henry—Doth any name particular belong
Unto the lodging where I first did sorrow?
Warwick—'Tis called Jerusalem, my noble lord.
King Henry—Laud be to God! Even there my life must end.
It hath been prophesied to me many years
I should not die but in Jerusalem:
Which vainly I supposed the Holy Land:—
But, bear me to that chamber! There I'll lie!
In that Jerusalem shall Harry die.

The other event which has made this chamber famous is the Westminster Confession of Faith. The body which framed this noble confession held its sittings in this chamber. This confession, the greatest, as it is the latest, of the Protestant symbols, was the product of a five and a half years session. As soon as the Long Parliament assembled in 1640, it set itself to consider the question of a reformation of religion. On the 23d of November, 1641, it passed this resolution: "In order the better to effect the reformation of the church, there should be a general synod of grave, pious, learned and judicious divines, who should consider all things necessary for the peace and good government of the church." Out of this proposal sprang the Westminster Assembly. It was to consist of one hundred and twenty-one clergymen, assisted by ten lords and twenty commoners. The bishops, however, did not attend, being prevented by the order of the King forbidding them. They were mainly Presbyterians, though some of the most distinguished lights were Independents, or Congregationalists. They began their sittings in the autumn of 1643, and closed February 22, 1649. The result of their labors was accepted by Parliament, though now acknowledged only by the Presbyterian and Congregational churches.

The gas wells of East Liverpool, Ohio., furnish a continual supply of light and heat to the town, and as the gas costs nothing, the street lamps are never extinguished. It is used almost exclusively for fuel, being conducted into the stoves and grates by pipes. For twenty years this has been going on, and there are no indications that the supply of gas is giving out.

MONEY—FARMS—ABSTRACTS.

If you want to hire money at very low rates.

If you have money to loan.

If you want to buy a farm or a home.

If you want to sell your real estate.

If you want a deed or mortgage correctly made.

If you want a complete abstract of title. Call on A. L. Bliss.

Among other Farms for sale I have one of 160 acres and one of 80 acres in Palmyra both being well tiled and fenced, and first class in every respect, with four market towns within easy driving distance, in good neighborhood. Also 125 acre farm 1½ miles west of river road from Deerfield. Also 160 acre farm and 90 acre farm, and 20 acre farm in Riga, any of which are decided bargains, and good reasons given for naming low prices.

Every purchaser of Lands should insist on being furnished an abstract of title, for our experience of more than 20 years shows that not more than one title in ten is perfect of record, and every week purchases agreed upon are abandoned owing to imperfections of title. I have a good carriage or farm horse, 1300 lbs. in weight for sale at a bargain.

A few thousand dollars now on hand to loan at six per cent, and on long time if desired.

Nickel Mining in Norway.

The production of nickel has become an industry of considerable importance of late years. The first mine was opened in 1846 by an English company in the valley of the Espedal, in the mountain district of Sondre-Gubdrandsdal, but this was closed in 1857 in consequence of the difficulty of approach and the absence of communications. Subsequently to this, mines were opened at Ringerike and Bramble, near Skien, and from 1861-5 there were eleven nickel mines worked, averaging 3,450 tons per annum. In the latter year the production rose to 5,200 tons from fourteen mines, and it gradually increased until 1875, when it attained its maximum at 34,550 tons. The greater part of this yield is exported in the shape of ore, Norway being the principal source of the nickel supply, and furnishing quite one-third of the yield of the world. A part of the ore is smelted near the mines, averaging between 1871-5, a yearly make of 110,500 kilogrammes.

TO THE AFFLICTED.

Since the introduction of Kellogg's Columbian Oil it has made more permanent cures and given better satisfaction on Kidney complaints and Rheumatism than any known remedy. Its continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it known as a safe and reliable agent to employ against all aches and pains, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders. It acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering and often saving life. The protection it affords by its timely use on Rheumatism, kidney affection, and all aches and pains, wounds, cramping pains, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, coughs, colds, catarrh, and disorders among children, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. It is absolutely certain in its remedial effects and will always cure when cures are possible. Call at C. A. Wright & Co's. and get a memorandum book giving more full details of the curative properties of this wonderful medicine.

Big Words.—Was there ever such an era for big words as this? Petticoat went out when crinoline walked in. Elastics have driven garters from sight and memory. No man rides on horseback now; he takes equestrian exercise. We have no city papers; they are metropolitan journals. Metropolitan journalists write about epistaxis; they mean bleeding at the nose. Women are no longer married; they enter into connubial bliss by being led to the hymeneal alter. Nobody sells tooth powder or hair wash: it is dentifrice, sozodont and capillary decoction. Every writer in this age of sham metaphysics uses glibly the words phlebotomy, diagnosis, etc. These Titanic highfalutans must run their course, and then we shall again come down to that pure well of English undefiled that every lover of those sturdy little Saxon words delights to drink from.

Greatest Remedy Known.

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumptive is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity.—Thousands of once hopeless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this Discovery to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggists, M. Wright & Son, and get a trial bottle free of cost which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar size bottle will do. For sale by M. Wright & Son, Tecumseh.

Our Verbs.

An educational journal thus describes the trouble a Frenchman had with the verb "break:"

"I begin to understand your language better," said my French friend, Mr. Dubois, to me; "but your verbs trouble me still; you mix them up so with prepositions."

"I am sorry you find them so troublesome," was all I could say.

"I saw your friend, Mrs. Murkeson, just now," he continued. She says she intends to break down housekeeping; am I right there?"

"Break up housekeeping, she must have said."

Oh, yes, I remember; break up housekeeping."

"Why does she do that?" I asked.

"Because her health is so broken into."

"Broken down, you should say."

"Broken down? oh, yes. And, indeed, since the smallpox has broken up in our city"—

"Broken out!"

"She thinks she will leave it for a few weeks."

"Will she leave her house alone?"

"No, she is afraid it will be broken—broken—how do I say that?"

"Broken into."

"Certainly, it is what I mean to say."

"Is her son to be married soon?"

"No, that engagement is broken—broken—"

"Broken off."

"Yes, broken off."

"Ah, I had not heard that."

"She is very sorry about it. Her son only broke the news down to her last week. Am I right? I am anxious to speak English well."

"He merely broke the news. No preposition this time."

"It is hard to understand. That young man, her son, is a fine fellow; a breaker I think."

"A broker, and a very fine fellow. Good day."

So much for the verb "to break"

How to Get Rich.

Inherited Tendency to Disease.

This article is based on a valuable paper from Scribner's Monthly, by Dr. J. R. Black.

Seventy thousand persons die annually in America from consumption, and in most cases the disease is an inheritance.

Inherited disease shows itself mostly in diseases of the heart and lungs, then rheumatism, cancer, neuralgia, &c.

Of our immense population of 50,000,000, probably one-half inherit some constitutional defect. As a consequence we are degenerating as a people, and the birth and death rate of New England is less than any European country, excepting France. The mortality from consumption in the Northern and Eastern States reaches nearly 25 per cent. The question is how to reduce this fearful waste.

Able physicians have extripated tubercular consumption from their families and descendents. Of all outward requirements to health, and in consumptive habits especially, pure air stands pre-eminent.

Inwardly, the prime necessity is pure blood; and it is just here that medicine is valuable. There is curious unanimity in all schools, and in all ages, in the use of sulphur. A preparation with the effect of sulphur without its objections was long sought for, and Arthur's Elixir of Sulphur is nearest perfection yet found, and its effect on diseased lungs and mucous membrane is marvellous. Now, in view of this tendency to inherit more especially lung diseases, we believe thorough attention to pure air, good food, and proper use of Arthur's Elixir of Sulphur would reduce one-half these hereditary tendencies and consumption.

Wintering Bees.

Notwithstanding so much has been learned of these interesting insects within a few years past, the many failures and severe losses that occur every winter admonish us that there are many things that are not known. Sometimes the honey-season is such that they do not lay up the necessary stores. At others the winters are so long and severe that the vitality of the bees is exhausted. Some winters destroy the swarms in the sudden changes from cold to warm weather, or from a time that precipitates moisture on the combs to one of intense cold. Two important things in wintering bees are dryness and ventilation. These must be secured as certainly as they must have food. With these three essentials provided for, the unfavorable incidents to which they are liable may be overcome. With an even temperature, not far removed from the freezing point, in a dry and dark cellar, with the necessary food, bees should winter safely. Few bees will be reared late in the fall unless good pasture affords them plenty of honey for the fall. The bee's life is of short duration, the older ones dying off during the winter, the colony will come out weak in the spring, a light harvest often leaving them sadly deficient in necessary food for the colony. Unless fed from combs filled with honey or sugar syrup, the bees must starve. A colony will need from twenty to thirty pounds of food for a winter. The earlier in the season these essentials are attended to the better.

The market is full of preparations for the hair, some of them good, and many of them good for nothing. R.P. Hall & Co., of Nashua, N. H., manufacture and sell an article of real merit, which has been advertised in the Express for the past year, and we have taken no little pains to inquire how it has been liked by the public. One of our druggists informs us that he has sold more than double the amount of Renewer than of all other hair preparations combined, and when a person once uses it, he will use no other; that it is not only bought by the young people as a dressing, but by older persons for removing dandruff, preserving and increasing the growth of the hair and restoring its natural color. Another druggist says that he sells three or four times as much of Hall's, as of all others.—Hampshire Express, Amherst, Mass.

HIS FIRST BOOTS.—He was not more than seven years old and quite small for his age. We saw him yesterday while the snow was falling quietly from the sky; he was happy as a king, for he was enjoying a pleasure entirely new and which never again in his life will be repeated. His name might be Johnny or Tommy, or Billy, but whatever it was it is quite certain that no amount of expostulation from a stranger could have deterred him from making a careful selection of the muddiest places in the street through which to wade. It was the boy's first pair of boots and to his young imagination boots were made for rainy days and mud. As we turned a corner we saw him going slash—slash—slash in a sinuous course along the mucky highway, and we envied him his happiness.

ARTHUR'S ELIXIR OF SULPHUR

A NEW MEDICINE FOR THE POSITIVE CURE OF CHRONIC THROAT & LUNG DISEASES AND CATARRH

PILES! PILES!! PILES!!!

A Sure Cure Found at Last. No One Need Suffer.

A sure cure for the Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams an Indian remedy, called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 and 30 years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, Instruments, and Electuaries do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, particularly at night after getting warm in bed, acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for Piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment: "I have used scores of pile cures, but none of them gave me pleasure to say that I have at last found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment."

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The Vigor cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The Vigor is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

BAPTIST CONFERENCE.

The Baptist Association of Lenawee County Meet in Three Days' Session. Proceedings.

The first session was held on Tuesday morning, C. E. Conley presiding. A very interesting sermon, filled with good thoughts, was read by J. S. Holmes, of Adrian.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—J. S. Holmes, Adrian.
Clerk—B. F. Bailey, Rollin.
Treasurer—G. B. Bennett, Adrian.

In the afternoon letters from the thirteen churches composing the association, except Flat Rock, which did not have any report to make, were read. Most of the letters were filled with good words of cheer, and showed that the churches were prospering.—But poor Dundee had materially declined; they seemed to struggle against fate. Three times they have endeavored to have their minister ordained and so many times have they failed. The association thought the best way to remedy the Dundee and Flat Rock difficulties was to appoint a committee to investigate and advise the parishes.

The following is as correct a list of the delegates as it was possible to obtain:

TECUMSEH—C. E. Conley, J. Margeson, J. Clough, I. S. Hamilton, S. A. Clauharty, A. P. Coddington, O. B. Finch, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. North, Mrs. Burtch, Mrs. Brewer, Mrs. Baker.

1ST ROME—Rev. M. E. Hayne, Geo. Every and wife, P. M. Bates and wife.

ADRIAN—Frank Palmer and wife, Jas. Cook and wife, H. M. Cole and wife, W. S. Wilcox.

MORENCI—A. Maynard, William Blaine, R. Hobb.

DUNDEE—E. L. Graves, S. M. McBride and wife, E. Dumbrey and wife, Mrs. Wheeler.

FAIRFIELD—D. Quick, C. Quick, Miss Lucy Quick, C. W. Dunn, Miss L. Tunnison, Mrs. A. S. Crane, Miss Dora Bennett, Brother Bennett and wife, Zach Cook.

ROLLIN—Geo. Hodges and wife, W. Rice and wife, W. P. Rowley and sister, M. A. Rowley.

MEDINA—I. E. Phelps, J. R. Dodge, C. Morse, Mrs. Reed Foster.

MONROE—Brothers Ogden, Hawkins, Smith.

HUDSON—Wm. C. Taylor, B. L. Shear, H. Force, S. Eddy.

CLAYTON—A. L. Van Auken, F. H. Kingsley, Miss Lizzie Kingsley.

2ND ROME—E. Barber and wife J. K. Wheeler, Geo. Bascome, Mrs. Bonney, Mrs. Wheeler.

The chair appointed the following committees:

On Place and Preacher—Conley, Ogden, Palmer, Graves, Bonney.

On Obituaries—Hamilton, Quick, Phelps.

Auditing—S. A. Clauharty, E. Barber, S. Cole.

On Nomination of Officers for State S. School Work—Horton, North, McBride.

Mr. Boyden, agent for Kalamazoo College, used the latter part of the afternoon in an address to the audience upon the merits of the college.

The session then closed for supper.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

The day was rainy and at the opening of the session the church was not very well filled. Nevertheless everybody seemed to be teeming with gladness by reason of the rain and an interesting and instructive session was held.

The exercises were opened by singing, in which the preponderate heavy basso profundo brothers participated much to the demoralization of harmony and time. But by the time the second piece was sung a number of sopranos had assembled and relieved the Brothers from their humiliation.

The report of State Missions was called up. The report set forth the good that the society was promoting, and laid particular stress upon the dilatory manner in which parishes responded to the call of the State society for funds to carry on this work.—This year the Lenawee association was assessed about $365, about twenty-three cents per head, and as yet only one church of the thirteen had responded. This exemplary church was in Medina, and had sent her allotment of $5.

Mr. Beals, agent for the State Missionary Society, had come to the conference solely for the purpose of giving the society a poke in the ribs for being so slow in their contribution, and in consequence [illegible] which followed the reading of the report were energetic and [illegible] was somewhat discouraged because the remittances from all parts of the State were far behind the apportionments. His remarks wakened up the association to a realization of the state of affairs and the State Mission will probably receive some money forthwith from this section.

He introduced to the conference Rev. T. S. Parmelee, who is the pastor of a flock of twenty-six in Petoskey. They have no meeting house and he had come here to try to raise funds to build a chapel. They wanted to raise $1,000 and thought that $100 could be raised here. The appeals of Mr. Beals for the money were of the proper calibre, and in a short time the $100 was pledged by different members of the association.

Mr. Conley followed in some well chosen remarks that reprimanded the association for compelling Mr. Beals to spend the time in coming here to collect money which he should have consumed in spreading the gospel truths among the settlers in the Northern part of the State.

The subject of Foreign Missions was then called up. But on account of some misunderstanding Mr. Maynard, chairman of the committee had not made out a report. He was given time and the rest of the session was spent in remarks upon the subject by different ones present.

Rev. Jas. Cooper, D. D., Dist. Sec'y of American Home Mission Society, took the floor and consumed part of the time in an exceedingly interesting address. He mourned the dearth of young men who were willing to sacrifice themselves for the sake of carrying on the missionary work in foreign lands. Out of the 2,000,000 Baptists of to-day in this country, it was difficult to obtain a single person to go among the heathen and labor for christianity. His address was filled with magnetism and would hold an audience for any length of time.

The audience then indulged in a good sing. After which Dr. Cressy, of Detroit, the representative of the Publication Society and Sunday School work. He was followed by Mr. Payne of Clinton. Both gentlemen were ardent supporters of the Foreign Mission work, and said some good things in its favor.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

In the afternoon the audience was quite large, and after a prayer by Brother Maynard the conference entered into the spirit of the work and had an interesting session.

The reports of the special committees was the first in order. Mr. Maynard, chairman of the committee appointed to confer with the Dundee delegates, reported the result of the consultation. They recommended that the request of Dundee be granted, the council to be called on Friday, June 10. After remarks by different ones it seemed best to put the motion in two parts, first as to the ordination, second as to the time. An irrepressible delegate from Dundee created a little commotion upon the subject, but finally it was unanimously decided to ordain Brother Graves, but at the same time it was unanimously lost to convene a council for ordination on June 10th. At length the first Tuesday of July next was decided upon as the date. After Dundee was disposed of, the Flat Rock difficulty came up. The investigating committee upon the subject found that the church financially unembarrassed, was closed, the members thinking that the expense of sustaining a minister was too great for them. The committee recommended that a delegation consisting of Brothers Quick, Holmes, Ogden, McBride, Phelps, Cole and Palmer visit Flat Rock and try to revive the church. By motion, C. E. Conley was added to the committee as he had had experience in the revivification of indisposed church societies. The topic of Sunday School work was then taken up and the report of C. E. Conley, chairman of the committee, was read.

He recommended, 1st, that the Associate Superintendent visit each parish once a year.

2d, that the pastor should not hold the office.

3d, that expenses should be defrayed by the association.

Dr. Cressy of Detroit followed in some very encouraging remarks, saying that the state work was in prosperous condition. He stated the board was exerting themselves to obtain a state Sunday school missionary. Mr. Wilcox endorsed the recommendations of Mr. Conley. After which the irrepressible delegate from Dundee was again sat down on for attempting to air himself.

Mr. Quick, who is an unusually hearty supporter of Baptist principles took the floor and also endorsed the recommendation that a layman be appointed to the office of Associational Superintendent of the Sunday school, and was anxious that the churches should use the publications of the Baptist Publication Society. The moderator appointed the following officers for the ensuing year:

Associational Sup't, C. Quick; Executive Board, C. E. Conley, J. S. Holmes.

On motion of Mr. Wilcox it was decided to employ a person to perform the duties of the Associational Superintendent of Sunday schools. This seemed like an unnecessary action, as the conference had just appointed Mr. Quick as superintendent, but Mr. Quick may have the honor that is associated with the office and some other person can do the work. The session then closed it business and upon the arrival of the Sunday school children several addresses were made to them.

THURSDAY MORNING.

The last day of the session did not lack in interest. Brother Todd, the oldest member of the Adrian church, lead the session in prayer.

The report of the committee on resolutions was called and Brother Ogden presented six resolutions.

1st. Endorsing the work of the different American Baptist Societies and State Mission.

2nd. Requesting that the association render all assistance possible to Kalamazoo college.

3rd. The Michigan Christian Herald was complimented.

4th. The temperance work was recognized as an important part of church work.

5th. The cause of the Sunday School should be advanced, and all error in literature and teachers should be avoided.

6th. The revision of the New Testament was specially rejoiced in because of the increased reading of the scripture that it occasioned.

During the time that the resolutions were being adopted the conference put on the air of a most exacting legislative body, and in consequence there were times when it would have taken a Solon to tell what was being done, but the chairman, Mr. Holmes, maintained his dignity very gracefully.

The committee on obituaries was then asked for their report. But as there seemed to be no committee, Mr. Quick, together with others, had prepared a partial report. But it seemed at first that the conference were not to hear the tributes to their deceased members on account of the extreme modesty, as he termed it, of Quick.—He held the obituaries but nothing but the coaxing and teasing of a motion, suggested by himself, to allow Mr. Quick to read the obituaries could break the clasp of the most unpretending modesty that held his lips.

The obituaries of Brothers D. H. Whitmore, D. C. Maybee and L. W. Rogers were read.

The list of deceased members not being complete, Messrs. Bennett and Holmes were appointed as a committee to complete it for publication.

The moderator appointed E. Maynard, C. Quick, L. G. North and Miss Dora Bennett as the committee of arrangements for the ensuing year.

The committee on enrollment reported 63 delegates present and 9 visiting brothers. Mr. Coddington then offered one of the most sensible and practical motions of the conference to the effect that each church be allowed five delegates to the conference, and one for every fifty over one hundred members. This fixed a definite number of delegates where as it is any church can appoint its whole congregation if it chooses, as delegates, thus placing the control of the convention in the hands of the largest churches. In a well sounding speech, the modest Mr. Quick objected, but no sooner had Mr. Quick taken his seat before the irrepressible element of the Dundee parish shot up, and quickly with a vigorous gesture he exploded the full force of his lungs. The church rung with resonant tones, the moderator grasped his chair and shut his eyes through fear of utter annihilation. It was manifest that he was offering an apostrophe to constitutional liberty and the American eagle.

After this rupture the proceedings receded to the quiet tenor of their ways, and resulted in the tabling of Mr. Coddington's resolution. The Auditing committee reported the vouchers of the treasurer correct. The clerk was ordered to attend to publication of the minutes. The moderator appointed also C. E. Conley, G. D. Bennett, C. Quick as a committee to look after the printing. The conference then adjourned. The session had been an interesting one throughout and productive of much good to the participants.

The evening sessions were well attended and so they deserved. The first evening the subject of Home Missions was discussed. The second evening an address was made by Mr. Cooper, D. D., upon Home Missions; other addresses were then made.

The following are a number of visitors not delegates: Mrs. Marsh, Toledo; Mrs. Clark, Jackson; Rev. J. S. Boyden, financial secretary Kalamazoo College; Rev. H. C. Beals, general missionary; Rev. J. E. Bitting, Birmingham; Rev. F. S. Lyon, Napoleon, Ohio; Rev. J. L. Payne, Clinton; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Windle, Brooklyn; Messrs. Myers and Wheeler, Berrien Springs.

Tecumseh, at any time, would be glad to entertain the delegates to another such conference.

Throat affections and bronchial diseases are relieved immediately by the use of Downs' Elixir.

It strengthens the Stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

ITS NAME IS ITS BEST DESCRIPTION as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced:

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the Surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons, and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 12 ounces, or 40 to 50 doses. Sold by dealers in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you, as it will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

TIMOTHY MILLS, who works the Bramble farm this year, brought into our office this morning, stalks of corn measuring over two and one-half feet in length, raised in his garden.

Clinton News: Owing to poor health, the editor of the News has concluded to rest and recuperate during the hot months of this summer, and on Saturday of last week sold the News to Mr. C. F. Field, of Manchester, who will occupy the editorial tripod and assume full control after July 16th.

Adrian Record: The thanks of the Scientific society were last night tendered to Henry L. Jones, of Tecumseh, for some very interesting remains taken from an Indian mound near that place. They consist of two Indian skulls, a large number of smaller bones, and the handle of a stone knife curiously engraved. They were placed in the cabinet of the society.

YESTERDAY afternoon the marriage ceremony of Mr. Delos Whitenack and Myra Graves was performed at the bride's home in Adrian. On the evening train the couple came to Tecumseh where they will reside. Now it is fully explained why Delos was furnishing a house on Chicago street. We extend to them our hearty congratulations and wishes that they may enjoy a long and happy life.

LAST Tuesday morning Met Conklin brought down from his farm a half bushel of hailstones that he gathered up before starting, from his porch.—The hail fell during the storm on Monday and was so heavy that it withstood decomposition during the night. In a hollow east of his house the hail was over a foot deep, and between the house and barn over his ankles. One piece of wheat on his farm was entirely ruined.

Adrian Press: Sted. Westerman and Miss Luella Munn were married quietly and privately some weeks ago and it was not until this week that the romantic secret crept out. Neither had anything to be ashamed of in their choice, and the only reason we can conceive for their secrecy, lies in the fact that it was the first time they were ever married. As they grow older, marriage won't be so much of a novelty.

Adrian Times: The tranquility with which Adrian corn juice will impart to some men, was shown the other day near the depot. A fellow who had filled up to the third guage wandered to the railway wood-shed, and spreading himself out with one of the rails for a pillow, soon successfully wooed the god of sleep. The snoozer was observed by the engineer of an incoming freight, who checked the train none too soon to avert a fatality. The pilot poked the sleeper in the cheek just hard enough to break the skin and draw blood.

THE Legislature will practically adjourn on the 8th of June, the time between that and the 11th, the day of the formal adjournment, being principally devoted to the use of the Governor in signing such bills as meet his approval.

REV. R. S. PARDINGTON is occupying his spare hours in a critical examination of the revised New Testament and on Sabbath evening, June 19th, will deliver a lecture on "The Great Event of the Nineteenth Century—the Revised New Testament," in the M. E. church.

THE regular annual meeting of the Michigan Southern Association of Universalists will be held at the Universalist church in Tecumseh next week Wednesday and Thursday, June 8th and 9th. The sessions will begin Wednesday forenoon and close Thursday evening. Delegates will be present from the several churches in southern Michigan and an interesting meeting is anticipated.

THERE is quite a general complaint among farmers that corn planted from last year's seed has failed to come up, and several fields that we know of have been replanted with seed grown in '79. The farmers attribute the failure to the extreme dampness of last fall, and freezing up before thoroughly dried out, which destroyed the germ. The corn looks nice and bright, but will not germinate.

The habit which some young men acquire of standing around church doors and staring rudely into the faces of ladies as they enter, has called forth the following from one of our exchanges: "Wanted, one hundred and twenty-five young men of all shapes and sizes, from the tall graceful dandy with hair enough on his upper lip to stuff a barber's cushion, down to a little upstart. The object is to form a gaping corps to be in attendance at church doors on Sabbath before the commencement of divine service, to stare at the ladies as they enter, and make gentlemanly remarks on their person and dress. All who wish to enlist in the above corps will please appear in the various church doors next Sabbath morning and evening, when they will be duly inspected, and their names, personal appearance and quantity of brains registered in a book kept for that purpose. To prevent a general rush it will be well to state that none will be enlisted who possess intellectual capacities above that of a well-trained monkey."

REV. G. H. FIELD, of Methodist church of Ridgeway, will preach in the M. E. church of this village on Sabbath eve. June 5th, in exchange with the Pastor, R. S. Pardington, who will deliver a temperance lecture at Ridgeway at the same hour in the M. E. church.

Adrian Times: Invitations, in English and German are out, from Mr. & Mrs. C. F. Smith, for the union of their daughter Emma with Mr. Chriss. Weisinger. The interesting event is to occur on the evening of June 7. Both young people are well known and highly esteemed here. The groom is one of our prominent and promising young business men, and the young couple will have the hearty good wishes of all who know them.

THE twenty-second annual session of the Michigan State Sunday School association will be held at the Plymouth church in Adrian, beginning Tuesday, 7:30 P. M., June 7, and continuing until Thursday the 9th. This convention is undenominational in its character and is composed of delegates from all Sunday Schools. A general and cordial invitation is extended to all.

R. S. PARDINGTON,
Chairman of Ex. Com.

Tecumseh, May 31, 1881.

E. R. HASCALL and a Mr. Leland who is visiting him, last Sunday afternoon took a walk up to the cemetery and back. It was extremely warm and Mr. Leland, upon their return to the hotel, drank two glasses of ice water to appease his thirst. They then went to Mr. Hascall's room, and in a few moments Mr. Leland was taken with cramps, and all the afternoon a physician was in almost constant attendance to the sufferer. It was not till in the evening that Mr. Leland was freed from his pains caused by drinking the cold water when his body was overheated.

THE Lenawee County Pioneer Society held its annual meeting in Adrian on Saturday last. The following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, F. A. Dewey; Secretary, S. C. Stacy; Treasurer, F. R. Stebbins; Executive Com., G. H. Kedzie, J. L. Remington, G. W. Moore, Alonzo Smith, G. D. Bascom. G. W. Moore made some remarks on the early settlement of Medina, and was requested to prepare a paper on the same subject. President Dewey read the names of one hundred persons who have died in the county since the last annual meeting; also memorial papers on the deceased members, Perley Bills and Gen. Brown.

MR. WILL GRAVES who will be remembered by many of Tecumseh's citizens as an active young man during his residence in Tecumseh a number of years ago, recently met with a sad and painful accident at his Nebraska home. He was in the employ of the U. P. R. R. Co., and while stepping from the train was thrown upon the track in such a position that the train passed over him, crushing both legs so that amputation was necessary. It is now feared that the first operation was not adequate, both limbs being amputated about three inches below the knees, and that a second operation will have to be made. Will is the youngest brother of Chas. Graves, of Franklin.

A Valuable Book.

Mrs. R. F. Tarrant, of Detroit, will be in Tecumseh next week in the interest of the home of the friendless of that city. She is selling the Detroit Home Messenger recipe book, which contains 1,000 plain, practical receipts, all tested. The book is neatly and substantially bound and is sold at the low price of $1; and that dollar is devoted to paying the debt of the home of the friendless. Here is an opportunity for our ladies to secure a good thing for themselves and assist a worthy object, at the same time. Mrs. Tarrant is not a book agent, in the ordinary acceptation of the term, but an agent of the benevolent institution named. She is a lady of culture and refinement, and has the best of references, so that the people need not fear being imposed upon. Mrs. Tarrant sold between 100 and 200 of these books in Adrian, and she will doubtless dispose of a large number of them in Tecumseh also.

The Popular Science Monthly

For June, 1881. The racy series of articles on physical education, by Dr. Oswald, are continued in "The Popular Science Monthly." This writer opens the June number by a very lively and instructive discussion on the subject of "Clothing." In some respects his views may be thought extreme, but they will rouse attention to many bad habits, the evil effects of which are disguised by familiarity. There is a striking article by the versatile Sir John Lubbock, banker, statesman, archæologist, and naturalist, on the subject of "Fruits and Seeds." It is an ideal "popular science paper," full of interesting, novel and instructive facts clearly explained and profusely illustrated, and many other interesting articles. Published by D. Appleton & Co., 50 cents per number, $5 per year.

DECORATION DAY.

There is no holiday in the American calendar which appeals to higher and nobler sentiments, and which is more worthy of universal observance than Decoration Day, and as the years pass by it is becoming more generally observed throughout the country.—Tecumseh has been noted for the elaborate manner in which her citizens have celebrated this day in years agone, but for the past two years we have witnessed no universal celebration. The proper organization to take the initiative in this matter seems to be the military company; when they inaugurate the movement the rest of the community never fail to follow.—In the absence of any formal and public celebration, a few of the old soldiers got together on Monday afternoon at H. W. Stevens' and providing themselves with a stand of colors and a supply of flowers they proceeded to the cemetery, passed among the graves of our fallen heroes and covered them over with flowers. The clouds had just dispersed after a refreshing shower, scarcely a breath of air stirred the trees; nature seemed to sympathize with the old comrades, who devoted a few spare hours to respect the memory of our soldier dead. We have witnessed some imposing celebrations of the day in Tecumseh, but never did our heart-strings throb more sympathetically with the occasion, never did we realize more fully what a grand, noble, hallowed day this anniversary should become. Let us begin in season next year and have a celebration worthy of the name.

Blissfield Advance: Mrs. Christ. Rhinemiller of Riga, died suddenly of heart disease Sunday afternoon while getting the family dinner. She had sat down on a basket filled with corn in the corner of the room, and was engaged in peeling potatoes. When found she lay with her head in the corner, lifeless. Mr. Rhinemiller was attending the church in the village, and did not know of the sad affair until he himself discovered her in the above position, dead. Deceased was only 38 years of age, and leaves a family of seven children, a majority of whom are yet quite small. The funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon, by the Rev. Wm. Kroencke, and was one of the largest attended in the history of the village. Mrs. Rhinemiller was a lady universally respected among her friends and acquaintances, and her loss is mourned with deep sorrow. Much sympathy is expressed for the bereaved husband and motherless children.

Morenci Observer: Sheriff Lewis, of Oakland county, came to this village last Wednesday evening to still further investigate the Homer Andrews case, and went over the next morning to the Savage farm, and to the spot where Andrews positively asserted that the Johns' booty could be found; but the hunt was unavailing as was anticipated. The sheriff says that in addition to his other attainments, Andrews is an adept at lying rarely equalled, and so quarrelsome in his ways and deportment, that he has to be kept in confinement in his cell.—Chester Savage, who is now in jail at Pontiac, is reported as being in good order and trying to accept a proposition of Mr. Johns and the prosecuting attorney, to the effect that if he will refund the $115 which he received from Andrews and pay the costs of prosecution, amounting in all to $165, the case will be proceeded no farther and he will be allowed to come home.

DIED.

HERRING—In Grass Lake, Mich., May 27th, 1881, David Herring aged 65 years, 6 months.

David Herring was born in England, Jan. 17th, 1816, and came to America in 1854, bringing with him a wife and three children, locating in Tecumseh and remaining here for 11 years, when he removed to a small farm in the township of Franklin living there 11 years. Finally moving to Grass Lake where he peacefully passed his last days. He leaves a wife and 5 children to mourn his loss. He had many friends and acquaintances in Tecumseh who will mourn his loss, and can say, one more good man has gone to his final resting place.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

Is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca; with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independent, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped; Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.

At ENGLEWOOD, with the L.S. & M.S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.

At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.

At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.

At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.

At OMAHA, with B. & Mo. R. R. R. (in Neb.)

At COLUMBUS JUNCTION, with B. C. R. & N. R. R.

At OTTUMWA, with Central Iowa R. R.; W., St. L. & Pac., and C., B. and Q. R. Rds.

At KEOKUK, with Tol., Peo. & War.; Wab., St. Louis & Pac., and St. L., Keo. & N. W. R. Rds.

At CAMERON, with H. St. J. R. R.

At ATCHISON, with Atch., Topeka & Santa Fe, Atch. & Neb., and Cen. Br. U. P. R. Rds.

At LEAVENWORTH, with Union Pac. and Kan. Cent. R. Rds.

At KANSAS CITY, with all lines for the West and Southwest.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run through to PEORIA, DES MOINES, COUNCIL BLUFFS, KANSAS CITY, ATCHISON, and LEAVENWORTH.

Tickets via this Line, known as the "Great Rock Island Route," are sold by all Ticket Agents in the United States and Canada.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Ludington is afflicted with diphtheria.

The funeral of John W. Van Cleve occurred at Ypsilanti last week.

Committees are canvassing Ypsilanti for a grand 4th of July blow-out.

Wedding in high life at Kalamazoo. Latham Hall to Miss Fanny Abbott.

Judge Taft, of Pontiac, is soon to remove to Denver, Col., which will be his future home.

Edward Fraser had an arm crushed at A. H. Gerrish's camp, near Evart, and was taken to Saginaw for treatment.

Galesburg mourns the sudden death of Miss Kate Cummings, a young lady of rare literary and musical attainments.

H. W. Chester, of Port Huron, cashier of the Chicago & Grand Trunk, has accepted a position on the Chicago & Western Indiana road.

T. N. Rice, of Ypsilanti, for ten years with the Detroit, Hillsdale & Southern road, has secured a position on the Butler road.

Bernard Sage, father-in-law of G. W. Cady, of Ypsilanti, dropped dead Tuesday evening from heart disease. He was about 72 years old.

Mrs. Dyer, of Alpena, who attempted to take her life by shooting, on Monday, died of her wounds. She was temporarily insane.

St. Joseph parish, Dexter, has presented its pastor, Rev. Father Slattery, with $800, with a request that he use it in making a tour through Europe.

Destructive forest fires are raging north of Farwell and in Roscommon county. Bryce's lumber camps were burned, with a loss of about $5,000.

The Lapeer council refuses to buy Walker & Varnum's dam and abate it as a nuisance, and the residents continue to shake along its banks as usual.

Hiram Watkins, of Lapeer, has presented the episcopal society in that city with a site for a church; and a cobble-stone house of worship will be erected.

About 100 entries have been made for the June meeting of the East Saginaw driving park association, and every class in the four days' program is filled.

Forest fires are raging north and west of Evart, and many roads are blocked with fallen trees. Unless rain comes soon great damage will be done as everything is dry as tinder.

Michigan collectors of customs have received a gentle reminder from Washington to see that the law is enforced relative to the display of lights on rafts, etc.

The Ionia Standard says 20 or 30 eels have been caught in Long Lake, in the township of Orleans, one of them three feet long. That's a good eel of a fish story.

Just now there is a great demand for long lumber cars on all Michigan railroads. The lumber is largely shipped east. There is also a heavy local demand for it.

Mrs. Flagstead, the woman who created a sensation at Whitehall a few weeks ago by throwing vitrol into the face of Miss Drake, has been pronounced insane and will be sent to Kalamazoo.

Geo. P. Thompson, of Port Huron, for four years assistant to General Manager Peck, of the Chicago & Grand Trunk railroad, is about to retire from railroading and go into the lumber business.

About 3 o'clock Thursday morning burglars entered the meat market of Burick & Moore at East Saginaw and took the safe out in the back yard and blew it open. All they got for their trouble was $13.50.

The rebuilding of Richardson's dam at Alpena, on which the prosperity of the city so largely depends, is attended with unexpected difficulties. The other day about 60 feet more of the sandy bank was washed out.

That part of the three organized towns, Long Rapids, Montgomery, and Wilson which is to be set off from Alpena county into the new county of Montmorency, had an assessed valuation last year of $1,003,525 on which the total tax levied was $34,301.

Mendon Globe: A new bug has made its appearance in this section. It comes in myriads and settling on a small oak will in a single night strip it of every leaf and then take its departure; perhaps not to be seen in the neighborhood again.

Kalamazoo Telegraph: The number of mortgages which have been satisfied and released in this county, this season, thus far, has been altogether unprecedented, and many a farmer is lifting his property high and dry above debt.

Bad Axe Tribune: Yesterday morning, as a young child of G. O. Terwilliger was sitting upon the floor, the cat of the house seized it by the leg, and then jumped upon its head, biting and scratching it severely. L. C. Truax with a club and S. Irwin with a rifle came to the timely rescue of the child. The cat is still at large.

Several localities in the state report extraordinary clouds of musquitoes this spring, while other localities report a freedom from those pests never before known. The latter phenomenon is very singular in some places where there was much surface water in April.

All the wholesale liquor dealers and brewers in Detroit have signed a petition to Gov. Jerome, asking him to appoint on the Michigan commission on the traffic in alcoholic drinks three persons who are connected with the liquor trade, so that its proceedings may not be one-sided and partisan.

The Kalamazoo people have only subscribed $7,970 of the $10,000 bonus necessary to secure for them the building of an opera house. To raise the balance they are now trying to sell at $5 each tickets for the first entertainment to be given after the house is built.

A few days since an engineer on the Toledo & Ann Arbor railroad saved the life of a little child on the track, by climbing out on the cow-catcher and seizing him. It was a narrow escape, and made the hair stand straight on the heads of those who witnessed it.

A Battle Creek man caught a turtle in the Kalamazoo river Sunday, which had cut upon its shell "E. W. 1860." a man in East Windsor, Conn., cut these letters and figures on the back of a turtle in 1860, the day he enlisted, and he wants to know if this turtle has a kink in his tail. If it has, that settles it.

Under the new school law, which will take effect July 1st, no one will be a qualified voter at the school meeting unless he or she has some immediate interest in the school, either by being a tax-payer in the district or by being the parent or legal guardian of one or more children included in the school census of the district.

The coal miners are out again from all the mines, and we understand they will not allow any one to go in, at the wages they demand to supply the local trade. They also refuse to let men go in to get the sulphur which is necessary for the use of the chemical works, and thus still another important branch of our manufacturing interests must be suspended.—Jackson Citizen.

A committee of Jacksonians are inboring with the state board of control for the appropriation made by act of the legislature for the drainage of swamp land in the northern part of Jackson county. They want four or five miles of open ditches dug, some of them 10 feet deep and 30 feet wide and if that is done they say they will reclaim about 20,000 acres of marsh land and greatly improve the healthfulness of the locality.

The Newaygo Tribune relates how a justice of the peace at Woodville was telling a certain deputy sheriff the other day of having committed persons to jail from his court, when the deputy, having recently only moved into the backwoods, and supposing the justice to be an ignorant mossback disputed the power of the justice to commit persons to jail. The dispute waxed hot, and the learned deputy, failing to maintain the argument by words, resorted to blows, when to his utter surprise, he found himself rolling about on the floor, the justice on top, asking him if he would behave himself if allowed to rise. He finally weakened and was released with the solemn warning "not to fool with the court."

Over 40 veterans turned out to the Loomis battery reunion at Coldwater. Hon. H. C. Lewis, who was made an honorary member of the battery, tendered them the use of his residence, grounds and art gallery, and the poem by Lieut. Streeter, of Chicago, and the oration by Lieut. Chandler, of Coldwater, were delivered there. The history of the battery by H. Clay Hartwell, of Flint, which was begun last year, was satisfactorily completed. The following were elected officers for the next year: James T. Beadle, Detroit, president; Geo. Jack, Detroit, vice-president; H. C. Hartwell, Flint, historian; J. W. Streeter, Chicago, orator. Secretary Hartwell exhibited a life-size India-ink portrait of Col. Loomis at the Southern Michigan hotel, where the veterans held their banquet.

Preparations are about completed and programs are being distributed for the state band tournament to begin at Lansing, Wednesday morning, June 8, and continue till Thursday evening. As already announced the tournament is under the direction of Wm. M. Dresskell with Capt. A. Cottrell chief marshall and Capt. D. H. McComas military commander. After playing the national airs in concert on Washington avenue Wednesday morning, the bands escorted by the military and knights templar bands, will proceed to the fair grounds where an address of welcome will be made by Mayor Robson. The solo cornet and baritone contests, for which liberal prizes are offered, will take place at the opera house Thursday evening. Among the soloists entered for the contest are Louis F. Boos and P. J. Lassey, both ex-champions, and [illegible] years, and Miss Barrett of Jackson.

500,000 POUNDS OF WOOL WANTED.

Farmers, Look to Your Interest and Read the Following.

As the season for shearing draws near, it is perfectly natural for both producer and dealer to ask in regard to prospective price of wool for the coming clip. While the future is always a problem of unknown quantities there are certain causes which produce similar results, and in the wool trade it has always been the case that a short supply has caused large importations and thus an over, instead of an under supply—a depressed, instead of an active market. The present state of the eastern market shows plainly the effect of such operations, and at the present time the question is not the one of four months ago: where shall we get wool to supply the demand until the new clip can be made available? but where can we find buyers for the large stock of wool now on hand, and which is to be augmented by the new clip of domestic, which will be without doubt the largest ever known in this country? One thing is certain, that up to this time prices have not been made low enough to induce manufacturers to take hold, nearly all claiming that they have sufficient wool on hand to keep them running for some time to come. There is no article purchased in this country that requires so much discretion in handling as wool. Not so much on account of the different grades as in view of the condition when brought to market. When it is considered that some fleeces will scour of clean wool at least seventy per cent., while others will not go over thirty per cent. it tells the whole story as the clean wool is what is wanted.

Therefore I say to you, farmers and wool growers, wash your sheep clean, and bring your wool to market in a clean, white, healthy condition. Wash your tags clean and keep them separate in a bale like fleece wool. Do not put your unwashed tags inside your fleece and then demand for such fleece full price of light, good conditioned wool. This is just as unfair as it would be for your grocer to put sand in sugar, or worthless trash in his tea or coffee, and then insist on full price. The question is asked by many: what is going to be the price of wool this season? While it may yet be early to name prices such as may be safe, or will not in the competition between buyers be over bid, I will say that I have no hope of anything like the prices anticipated a few months ago. The main facts taken into account however, I will venture to say that price will range from 28 to 30 cts., and A No. 1 Delaine, 32 cts. I will here say to the wool growers of Southern Michigan, I am prepared to buy from one hundred thousand to two hundred thousand pounds of clean, washed wool, at the highest market price, whether the above figures may be correct or not. I shall follow the market, but I want clean, washed wool, free from dirty tags and locks. Those having this class of wool to sell will do well to confer with me early in the season. I am,

Very Respectfully Yours,
H. W. STEVENS,
Tecumseh, Lenawee Co. Michigan.

The American Revised New Testament.

The Literary Revolution is prompt with its edition of the Revised Testament. The British monopolists "unchained" their edition on the morning of May 20th, and at 8:30 P. M., the same day, the American edition was set in type and of the various editions of the entire Testament and the Gospels published separately as many as 30,000 copies a day will be manufactured till the demand is met. The prices for the very handsome editions in type nearly double the size of the British edition, are as follows: The New Testament complete for 10 cents. The New Gospels complete for 7 cents. The Gospels separately each for 2 cts. And in various forms and styles, up to full Turkey Morocco, gilt edges, for the new and old versions on pages being for $1.50. The edition is for sale by the leading booksellers of the United States, or they will be sent by mail on receipt of price. Liberal terms are allowed to clubs. Address, American Book Exchange, 764 Broadway, New York.

ESTATE OF JAY J. LOWE.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee—ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office in the city of Adrian, on Saturday, the 28th day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Jay J. Lowe, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition duly verified of Florence S. Lowe, widow of said deceased, praying that administration of said estate may be granted to Coonrod L. Lowe, or to some other suitable person.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 27th day of June next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. (A True Copy.)

AROUND THE COUNTY.

CLINTON.

J. S. Kies has built a very neat, tasty fence, part wood and part wire, in front of his lot on Chicago street and painters are at work now painting the house, outside and in, and getting it ready for occupancy by Prof. C. F. Fields about the tenth of July. He then assumes management and control of the Clinton News.

David Jones, Esq., of Tecumseh, paid our place a visit Monday. He is one of the few men we meet whom we always hope and wish to meet again, and who takes a lively interest in all that's going on, and always has a good cheerful word to say to every one.

The "Silvers House" was strained last night to its utmost tension to accommodate its patrons. Every bed in the house was engaged long before the night train came in, and the result was, after a number had arrived then some had to double up, and the proprietor, with other male help, were compelled to make bunks on the floor. The hotel business is better here under the present regime than it has been at any time during the past twelve years. If not crushed out by ignorance and vindictiveness from outsiders, it will prove a permanent benefit to the town.

Items are scarce this week.

Sylvanus Howell, whose house was destroyed by fire last winter, has a new dwelling in a forward state of completion.

Miss Emma Davis, and her sister, Mrs. L. H. Davis, intend to start for Massachusetts on Monday next.

Geo. Allen's new house will soon be completed.

A very fine soaking rain made all hearts glad Tuesday. Seeds are coming up that have been a month germinating being prevented by the drouth.

By the dismissal of the highest department of our school, by the trustees, that class all graduated Monday morning. A few young men with strong proclivities toward rowdyism and insubordination caused all the trouble.

Your correspondent last week was misinformed with regard to Mr. Pugh. He said "Frank Pugh, a German laborer." His name is not Frank and there is no German blood in his veins. His name is Henry P. Pugh, and he was raised in Oneida, Co. N. Y., and started business here as a market gardener, with some five acres of land within the corporation.

Last week Augusta Bruce afforded her many friends a rare treat. She took the pains to collect in her studio all her paintings and drawings that had not found their way out of the village, and then she invited friends to visit her, Friday and Saturday, and see what she had to show them. A great many availed themselves of the invitation, and they must certainly have felt that it was well worth their while to do so.

RAISIN.

On Friday, June 3, the people of the Raisin Presbyterian church received the sad intelligence that their former and much loved pastor, Rev. L. B. Pert, was dead. The news, so unexpected cast a gloom over the entire community, and in many an eye glistened the tear of affection, and sad were the greetings of those in whose hearts are cherished fond memories of the one who had gone.

On the Sabbath following the reception of the news of Mr. Pert's death the Raisin church was draped in mourning, and a picture of him hung in the pulpit surrounded by an evergreen wreath.

The present pastor of the church, Rev. T. Dwight Hunt, made some remarks very appropriate to the occasion, and also in accord with the feelings of the church and society.

After services the following resolutions were adopted by the church and congregation:

WHEREAS, having just learned of the death of the Rev. L. B. Pert, our much respected and beloved pastor of former years, and while we mourn his loss to the church, the world and humanity, we desire to leave on record a tribute to his memory, and an expression of our regard and esteem for him as a minister, a man and a friend.

Resolved, That during the four years of his ministry with us, his labors in our church and society were crowned with unusual and almost unprecedented success, both temporarily and spiritually.

Resolved, That although he has been absent from us several years, he is still loved by the young, esteemed by the old, and honored by all; and we have not forgotten him but cherish in our hearts the memory of him as an instructor in spiritual things, a kind sympathizer and advisor in times of trouble and affliction, and a genial companion in our homes and social gatherings.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved wife in her deep affliction, and will ever remember how, we were strengthened in our mutual work by her encouraging words, efficient help and wise counsels.

Resolved, That we recognize the hand of the Master in his removal from this world to a fairer clime, and we express our hopes for the future in the lines

"Oh, how sweet it will be in that beautiful land.
So free from all sorrow and pain,
With songs on our lips and with harps in our hands,
To meet one another again."

BROOKLYN.

Decoration day was half obscured by dust. There was little orating, no singing, and good music by the band. All was orderly, and wreaths were once more left to fade above marble memories.

Only a sprinkle of rain heralded next days shower, and knowing that contentment produces sound sleep, some one improved the opportunity to examine cellar windows and door fastenings, which hints insecurity.

"From Shore to Shore" was tableaued the other day by a little daughter of Mr. T. Alderdice, who lives near Dewey's lake. While playing in a boat it drifted beyond reach and the wind sent it swiftly across to the opposite bank. Her father met her there and furnished a return ticket, but has not cured her of fright, which resulted in fever.

The farmers have long murmured no wheat, and longed to see corn growing, but since rain fell there is a visible improvement in their fields and disposition.

PEARLIE.

ADRIAN COLLEGE.

North Hall, the building destroyed by fire, is being rapidly rebuilt. The roof is all on, the flooring is mostly down, and much of the lathing has been done. Several improvements have been made in the plan of the Hall. There will be no rooms for students on the first floor—it being occupied by the Normal Hall, Library and Reading Rooms, Gentlemen's Reception Room, President's Room, Mathematical Room and Bath Room. The second and third floors will be tastily fitted up as study and sleeping rooms for the gentlemen.

The building is to be heated by steam, and altogether we think we shall have a very comfortable and pleasant place. The year just closing has been quite an eventful one in the history of the College, but the indications are now that everything will work out for the best. The advancement in the regular college work has been good, and we are now ready to hail commencement week with clear consciences. That week promises to be a very happy one. The following are the exercises to take place then:

Sunday night, June 19th, the Baccalaureate sermon will be preached.—A lawn festival will be given by the Star, Lambda Phi and Theological Societies Monday night; the Theological Association will celebrate its anniversary Tuesday afternoon; Tuesday night the Stars and Lambda Phis will engage in their annual contest, (two prizes, one of $25 and the other of $15, will be awarded at this contest); Class-day exercises will be held Wednesday afternoon; Wednesday night Rev. A. L. Reynolds is to deliver the annual address before the Alumni Association; Thursday will be occupied by the graduating exercises, and a lecture by Rev. Will R Cowl; then at night we will all listen to an excellent concert given under the management of the College quartette. Everything will be free except the concert. All who come will receive a hearty welcome, and are insured a pleasant time. We hope to see many from the neighboring towns and country.

STUDENT.

Hudson Gazette: When the corporation paved Lane street from Main street to the railroad, the railroad company promised to pave from Lane street to their freight house. They are engaged in making this improvement, the work of excavating being now carried on by a strong force of men and teams. The pavement will be thirty feet wide and will extend the whole length of the railroad ground, or from Lane street to the west line of the railroad premises.—The material for the job comes by rail—the stone from Osseo, we learn.

HORSE thieves have kept the officers on a hunt for sometime.

THE PIONEER DEAD.

At the recent meeting of the Lenawee County Pioneer Society, the President, F. A. Dewey submitted the following list of the names of those pioneers who died during the past year:

A record of the names of pioneers which we have been able to learn who have left us, to be here no more, since the annual meeting, May 11, 1880. The past cold winter has caused the vital spark of life to leave many historic, and valuable pioneers.

The angel of death which will come to all, has called away an unusually large number of our much respected and worthy pioneers of Lenawee Co., during the past year. The record we do not claim to be perfect, for some may have passed the portals of the tomb whose residence and name is not reported on the roll of our departed friends. We do not wish to omit a single name of the early historians of Lenawee county. It is the desire to have the name, age and residence, of every pioneer, the state, county and town from which they came, also the number of years resided in this state, which will be recorded in the third volume of Michigan state pioneer collections to be printed at Lansing, and ready for sale in January next.

Our list embraces but 3 names between the age of 40 and 50; 3 between the age of 50 and 60; 13 between 60 and 70; 36 between 70 and 80; 24 between 80 and 90; and 7 between 90 and 100.

Adrian Press: Sunday morning, a freight train, of sixteen cars passed over the Lake Shore road, loaded with tanks of young oysters. The juvenile bivalves which were from the size of the little finger nail to that of a quarter of dollar, were destined for San Francisco where they will be planted by a gentleman interested in the oyster trade. The tanks were filled with sea water.

Hudson Gazette: It has been understood for a long time that the well at the depot which supplies the great tank possessed mineral properties helpful in their nature in certain diseases and ailments. But not until recently have the curative virtues of its water been so well tested. There have been several marked cases of relief and permanent benefit to those who have used the water as a drink or for bathing purposes. Rheumatism and diseases of the kidneys yield readily to its healing influence, and we could give the most reliable references, did the limits of the present mention of this important discovery permit. An analysis shows the water to be about the same as that of the famous wells at Eaton Rapids. Now if capital and enterprise will take hold of the matter there is a double fortune in this well—fortune to the sick, and wealth to the town and to whoever shall develop this beneficent gift of nature. The water can be brought to the Comstock House, where there is room for the erection of fine bath rooms; and there is no reason why Hudson may not become the resort of thousands in search of health and recreation. Think of it, citizens, and act, and act at once.

Adrian Times: Mrs. J. H. Noe, of Hudson, was in town yesterday as the guest of Mrs. G. D. Russell. In the latter part of the afternoon the ladies came down town. Upon their return it was found that a valuable cloak belonging to Mrs. Noe had disappeared. Investigation showed that the parlor windows had been left open, and through these the thief is supposed to have entered. As yet no certain person has been suspected of the crime. Nothing in the house was touched but the cloak, which was worth $40 or $50.

Deerfield Record: J. P. Bateman's span of horses became frightened last Saturday near the Lake shore railroad where he had left them for a few minutes, and ran away down that street to the river bridge, where the wagon was left in a demoralized condition, and turning up River street ran as far as Cary where they were stopped. Besides the damage to the wagon, one of the horses received a bad cut on one of its hind legs by the whiffletrees striking against it.

CLINTON has always had trouble with its jewellers. This time L. B. Chubbuck has skipped to a more congenial clime.

The Jews and Palestine.

The American Israelite, of Cincinnati says the popular story that the Jews are engaged in purchasing Palestine, is not true. The Jews themselves never heard of it. Nothing has been published in a Jewish journal warranting the story. The Israelite says, "it is not very likely that one would purchase all the Druises Arabs, Beduoins, thieves and robbers of Palestine on a speculation."

The Jewish millionaires of Europe, the Israelite says, "occasionally spend a few thousand dollars in charity or in religious institutions, which is well reported in the newspapers."

"All the manifold millionaires of Europe do not spend a million of dollars per annum on charity. You may count every penny they spend in Jewish affairs, it will never amount to that. All the Jewish scholastic institutions in the world, from the Hebrew Union college of Cincinnati, or the Buda-Pesth Rabbinical seminary, up to the oldest institution of that description, none has a legacy from the very rich to show.

"And suppose Palestine is purchased—who is to go there? The American Jews are Americans—the English Jews Englishmen, the French Jews Frenchmen; who are to give up their country to go to Palestine?"

The Israelite continues: "Has the Jew Isaac Moses less of a country than the gentile John Peter? Does France belong more to Pierre than to Moise? What a horrible piece of nonsense! Are the Catholics or the Methodists less scattered than the Jews? Is any race in the world in possession of any country? Now, we say the methodists have no king and no country. They are scattered all over this continent, England, and a large portion of the Eastern continent. They will surely purchase Utah and Wyoming and move there! The ancient Romans, Greeks, Teutons, Goths and Celts, poor men! have no king and no country; they are all mixed up among other people, and now want to go back to their old countries in Scandinavia or Tartary, or northern India.

"You take away the Jews from Russia, Hungary, Austria, Germany, or even Roumania—the Jews, with their capital, enterprise, skill and industry, and those countries are the next day as ruined as Spain was in the year 1492, when no physician could be found for the sick, no mechanics and no trade for the healthy fanatics.

"But will not the religious belief do it? And it is well known that the religious belief works miracles. Do you believe in the Bible, and does not that book predict the return of the Jews to Palestine? As regards miracles, of course, we have nothing to say, except that in our humble opinion, from and after the year 1879, no miracles will be wrought. Sober people expect none, and the Jew is a sober man. Whatever the belief of the Jews may be in regard to Palestine and the Messiah, it will hardly have more influence on them practically than the second advent belief has on Christians.

"You remove, to-day, the Jews out of Christendom, and in a few years the whole concern is bankrupt with one-sided bigotry or atheism. The Jew is the pike in the fish pond to chase the fat carps, or else they would rot in their fat. Oh, no, the Jew must not go back to Palestine, or else the narrow prejudices of races, creeds and country limits would in a few years be as intolerable as they were centuries ago.

"Among all the wild-goose speculations of Bohemians, we think that of purchasing Palestine is one of the most ludicrous carricatures. One pont is always forgotten, viz.: After Mecca, Jerusalem is the most holy city of the Islam. As little as the Mohammedans will give up Mecca they will give up Jerusalem, and the Islam has more than one hundred millions of believers. The sultan might as well be charged with the intention of selling Mecca with the prophet's grave as he would Jerusalem with the Mosque of Omer, or the pope would sell the cathedral of Rome."

Benefit of Luncheon.

A large list might be made out of eminent men who have died from not eating luncheon. Pitt ruined himself by long fasts, while immersed in affairs and oblivious of all else, and to come nearer home, it was in the same manner that President Orton, of the Western Union, did himself incalculable harm. If the machine is not kept well oiled it will invariably run down. When we see men long past middle life able to cope with those in their prime, we may rest assured that they have not been negligent of their physical needs. Pitt died at 47, Byron, who played tricks with his health at 36. Palmerston who began official life nearly as young as Pitt, but played a noble knife and fork, died in harness at 80, and rode twenty miles the year of his death. And as for Bismarck.s appetite, his biographer has given us ample information as to its marvellous excellence and the extraordinary care which, in peace or war, the prince takes to cater for it. No luncheons are omitted there. Nature is sternly revengeful, and those who will not take the trouble to please her may rest assured that they will always have to pay the penalty. That this fact should not, even in the nineteenth century, have been thoroughly realized by man is a strong proof of his being still impregnated with that foolishness which Solomon so constantly harps upon and bewails.

The Gambler and the Preacher.

A preecher wich had been a sicked gamler fore he was a preecher, see seen a feller wich was a gambler too, and he sed, the preecher did: He jest play cards with the pore misable sinner, and win ol his munny, and wen he is busted may be he will listen to the divine trooth and be saved." So they played and the preecher he winned ol the fellers munny every cent, and then he sed: "Now see how wicked you have ben for to loos yure munny, and for yure whife and babys huven't got no bred to eat." And the gambler he sed: "That's so," and he bust out acryin. Then the preecher he sed: "Pore sinner, if yu prommice me unto yure oner to not play cards agin Ile give it ol back, cos Ime a preecher." So the gamler he was astonish, and he sed: "I never see sech a good man. I prommice, yes indeed, and heven bless you!" and he busted out cryin agin, the gamler did. Then the preecher he give him ol his munny back, and the feller put it back in his pocket, and wiped his eyes, and blod his nose gratefle, and then he shot a while and pretty sune he coffed, and he said to the preecher: I feel mity mean takin back this hundred dollars from a man wich has rescewed me from card playin; tel you what I'll do; you put up a other hundred agin it and we I toss up for the pile heds or tails, best two out of thre."

Emma Abbott's Necklace.

A necklace has recently come into Miss Abbott's possession. It once belonged to a noble French family, the eldest son of which was forced to flee the country on account of his debts of honor. America was, of course, the happy land chosen by the festive Frenchman to abide in until his trespasses were forgiven or forgotten. So, one fine day, he landed in New York with his "hostage to fortune," in the shape of a wife and two small children; but, in spite of the hostages, fortune refused to smile upon his ventures in speculation, and his first slip on the ladder of life seemed to make the descent so easy that he never paused until the owner of a bank he had broken forcibly persuaded him to do so by running a knife in his side.

The widow gave a sigh of mingled relief and sorrow, assumed modest mourning, and prepared to return to her native land. Nobody hindered her; but on counting the little money left, she found it not near enough to pay for the passage. From time to time during her husband's career every article of luxury and value had been parted with to purchase the necessaries of life. Only one remained, and that she could hardly think of as possible to sell—a diamond necklace, an old heirloom in her husband's family—one that his mother and her mother before her had clasped round their white necks on their wedding day—and she, too, had worn it when fresh from her convent life, dressed in her bridal robes. Henry de Marchand had clasped it about her throat and saluted her playfully as Madame. But at that time no wires stretched across the broad Atlantic. Messages of love and enmity, death and disaster, came slowly over the water instead of flashing along the wires; so the widow, feeling that she could not wait to send an appeal for help and receive a response, sallied out to get what she could for the necklace. Store after store was visited, and after being regarded with suspicion, and offered a mere pittance for the ornament, she was about to return home, when the thought struck her that perhaps she might get some one in Tiffany's to look at it. She bravely retraced her steps, entered the store, and, opening the well-worn case, commenced once more her story, but this time in the hearing of a superbly-dressed woman, who advanced as the widow was about to display the necklace and asked to see it.

The diamonds were fine, well cut, and the setting good, the shopman said, after a careful examination. Without another word the lady invited the owner of the necklace to drive to her husband's office, and the upshot of it all was that a wealthy banker, with love in his heart and money in his pocket, paid the anxious widow $25,000 for the glittering ornament. That necklace has nestled in soft laces and shone on black velvet as many a ball since then; but one fine day fortune took it into her head that she was growing too idle, gave her fateful wheel a turn, and behold the owner of the necklace as poor as the sister woman from whom she had once bought it. And so it came to pass that Mr. Wetherell, out of the depth of his affection and purse, bought and presented to his bright, particular prima donna the diamond necklace.

The ornament is composed of three hundred and fifty-seven diamonds, made first into plain chain set in square blocks of gold. Through the center of this runs a large coil of the precious stones, supplemented by other coils diminishing in size, and from their lower edge falls a shower of pendants, long and swinging giving, when on, the effect of a rope of fire around the throat, radiating in every direction. This is worn with a heavy diamond cross, in which the gems are of unusual size.

A Queer Duel.

A veteran correspondent thus shows that the bravest are cowards in the dark:

It was at a dinner party, composed of some of the survivors of Waterloo, a few of their young relatives and the scion of an ex-king, on a visit from his home in America, and to whom our friend owed his introduction to the circle. Some question arose about bravery, when the young members of the company were electrified to hear the venerable and heroic Excelmans gravely and seriously declare that "men were all cowards in the dark."

The general smiled at the expressions of dissent, remarked that it was very like youth, and proceeded to tell the following anecdote in support of his strange declaration:

"There was a young hot-head in the emperor's service, who, burning for action, and his duties for the time affording no opportunity, at last resolved to fight a duel, and accordingly, choosing to construe some remark of an old and superior officer into an insult, challenged him. The old soldier, waiving all considerations of rank, agreed to meet the young man, but on the following unusual terms: The time should be night, the place a room, in opposite corners of which they were to stand; the seconds, having placed their men, were to withdraw outside of the room, taking the candles with them; the word should be given from without, when he who had the first fire should discharge his weapon, and the second, bearing the lights, should immediately rush in.

These strange conditions were accepted, the time arrived and the seconds placed the parties as agreed upon, withdrawing immediately, and leaving the men in the dark. The word given, the fire was heard; the door was reopened and there stood the older of the two upright in the corner, his adversary's ball having entered the wall so close to his head that escape seemed little less than miraculous. It was now the old soldier's turn to fire. They were again left in the dark, the word was again given from the outside, and instantaneously with the discharge the seconds rushed in and found the challenger prostrate upon the floor, not having yet recovered himself from his trick to avoid the ball, which, on examination, it was found must have killed him. The young man was covered with confusion, and the seconds were overwhelming with the expressions of their scorn, when the veteran stopped them;

"Not so fast, my young friends, said he; you will grow wiser. Where do you suppose I was at the first fire? On my hands and knees in the corner; but, ma foi! I was up quicker than he! Par dieu, messieurs, we are all cowards in the dark!"

It was afterwards whispered to our friend that the story was an actual fact, and that the elder of the parties was no other than the brave Excelmans himself.

When men speak ill of thee, live so as nobody will believe them.

How Not to take Cold.

Dr. Beverly Robinson thus discourses on the subject of "Colds and their Consequences."

If you start to walk home from a down-town office, he said, and carry your coat on your arm because the walking makes you feel warm, you are liable to take cold. Therefore don't do it. If you should take the same walk after eating a hearty dinner your full stomach would be a protection to you, but even then my advice would be, don't take the risk. A person properly clothed may walk in a strong wind for a long time without taking cold, but if he sits in a room where there is a slight draft he may take a severe cold in a very few minutes. Therefore don't sit in a room where there is a draft. Unless you are affected by peculiar nervous conditions you should take a cold sponge bath in the morning and not wash yourself in warm water. Plunge baths in cold water are not recommended, neither is it necessary to apply the sponge bath all over the body. Occasional Turkish baths are good, but those who have not taken them should be advised by a physician before trying them. Warm mufflers worn about the neck do not protect you against taking cold but on the contrary render you extremely liable to take cold as soon as you take them off. They make the throat tender. Ladies ought to wear warmer flannel underclothing than they now do if one may judge from the articles one sees hanging in the show-windows of the shops. People take cold from inhaling cold air through their mouth oftener perhaps, than by any other way. Ladies dress themselves up in heavy furs, go riding in their carriages and when they get home wonder where they got that cold. It was by inhaling in the cold open air and thus chilling the mucous membranes of the throat. The best protection under such circumstances was to keep the mouth shut. If people must keep their mouths open in a chilly atmosphere, they ought to wear a filter. Above all be careful of your feet in cold, damp weather. Have thick soles on your shoes, and if caught out in a rain which lasts so long as to wet through your shoes despite the thick soles, put on dry stockings as soon as you get home. But in cold, wet, slushy weather, don't be caught out without overshoes. Rubbers are unhealthy, unless care is taken to remove them as soon as you get under shelter. They arrest all evaporation through the pores of the leather. Cork soles are a good invention. When you go into the house or your office after being out in the cold, don't go at once and stick yourself by the register, but take off your coat, walk up and down the room a little, and get warm gradually. Warming yourself up over a register just before going out in the cold is one of the worst things you can do. Never take a hot toddy to warm yourself up unless you are at home and don't expect to go out of the house again till the following morning. In short, make some use of your common sense, and thus emulate the lower animals.

Expensive Greatness.

"I cannot save any of my salary," said Senator Lamar to your correspondent. "It is impossible. I never paid a cent beyond livery hire and a few little kindred items of election expenses in my life, and I have been in politics a long time. I could save a thousand dollars a year if I would do certain things, but I do not think my conscience would be satisfied if I did. For instance, I pay about $300 a year for newspapers. I like to read them. I have passes over railroads. I could travel all over the United States free. But I pay my fare. It costs me $57 apiece for fare for my family every time I come and go between here and home. I have telegraph passes. I never use them. I do not think it would be right. I can send anything I please over the express lines, yet I pay my express bills. I spend my salary and never have any money. Some senators use these privileges of deadheadism, and they say it is right. I think otherwise. But there is one thing I think should be done, and I shall propose it as soon as I get a chance. Every senator should have a private secretary. He has more correspondence, committee work, etc., than he can do. And each senator should be allowed a private secretary. The senator gets $5,000 a year, and cannot support his family in keeping with his position and employ a private secretary on that sum." The conscience of this senator should be embalmed. If you saw a carload of dead-heads and the street-cars when congress adjourns, you would be disgusted. They haul out cards and give their name each time to save five cents. I paid my fare one day, and the conductor told me it was the only fare he got, though the car was crowded and I was standing on the rear platform. The car was full of congressmen. This incident is a fact that people should know.

Cause and Cure for Snoring.

A writer in the Scientific Monthly tells how the habit of snoring is acquired and, better—how it may be cured.

And, first, the cause: The air reaches the lungs through two channels, the nose and the mouth. The two currents meet in the throat below the soft of the palate, the end of which hangs loose and swings backward and forward, producing the snoring. If the air reaches the lungs, as it should through the nose, no noise will be made. If it reaches the same through the mouth, the palate will make more noise, since it is not the natural channel, but when it rushes through both these channels, then it is that the sound sleeper banishes rest from the pillows of his companions by his hideous noise. The remedy for snoring is to keep the mouth closed; and for this purpose Dr. Wyeth, the writer of the article referred to, has invented an article so cheap that any one can make it, and no snorer should be without it. It consists of a single cap, fitting the head snugly, and a piece of soft material fitting the chin. These are connected by elastic webbing, which is connected with the head-cap near the ears. This contrivance prevents the chin from dropping down, and thereby renders snoring impossible. The great trouble will be to get people to adopt this invention, since the most upright and honest of men and women will rarely, if ever, confess that they snore, and will be very indignant if accused of it. As a further inducement to the introduction of this contrivance of Dr. Wyeth, it may be added that breathing through the mouth is very detrimental to the health, and that many diseases of the throat and lungs are contracted or aggravated thereby.

A holy life has its voice. It speaks when the tongue is silent, and is either a constant attraction or a continual reproof.

MONEY—FARMS—ABSTRACTS.

If you want to hire money at very low rate.

If you have money to loan.

If you want to buy a farm or a home.

If you want to sell your real estate.

If you want a deed or mortgage correctly made.

If you want a complete abstract of title. Call on A. L. Bliss.

Among other Farms for sale I have one of 160 acres and one of 80 acres in Palmyra, both being well tiled and fenced and first class in every respect, with four market towns within easy driving distance, in good neighborhood. Also 125 acre farm 1½ miles west of river road from Deerfield. Also 160 acre farm and 90 acre farm, and 20 acre farm in Riga, any of which are decided bargains, and good reasons given for naming low prices.

Every purchaser of Lands should insist on being furnished an abstract of title, for our experience of more than 20 years shows that not more than one title in ten is perfect of record, and every week purchases agreed upon are abandoned owing to imperfections of title. I have a good carriage or farm horse, 1300 lbs. in weight for sale at a bargain.

A few thousand dollars now on hand to loan at six per cent, and on long time if desired.

—A physician makes the following suggestion to those liable to consumption: A particular kind of exercise is to be recommended for those whose chests are narrow, whose shoulders stoop, and who have a hereditary pre-disposition to consumption. If it is systematically practiced along with other means of health, it is a safeguard against the invasion of this disease. It is voluntary inspiration. Nothing is more simple. Stand erect, throw the shoulders back and the hands behind; then inhale pure air to the full capacity of the lungs, and retain it a few seconds by an increased effort; then it may be slowly exhaled. After one or two natural inspirations, let the act be repeated, and so on for ten or fifteen minutes, twice daily. Not only is this simple procedure a safeguard against consumption, but, in the opinion of some learned physicians, it can even cure it when it has already commenced.

TO THE AFFLICTED.

Since the introduction of Kellogg's Columbian Oil it has made more permanent cures and given better satisfaction on Kidney complaints and Rheumatism than any known remedy. Its continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it known as a safe and reliable agent to employ against all aches and pains, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders. It acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering and often saving life. The protection it affords by its timely use on Rheumatism, kidney affection, and all aches and pains, wounds, cramping pains, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, coughs, colds, catarrh, and disorders among children, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. It is absolutely certain in its remedial effects and will always cure when cures are possible. Call at C. A. Wright & Co's. and get a memorandum book giving more full details of the curative properties of this wonderful medicine.

Why Glass is Broken by Hot Water.

No person could be so foolish as to hazard the breaking of a glass by pouring hot water upon it, if he understood the simple means of accounting for the breakage. If hot water is poured into a glass with a round bottom, the expansion produced by the heat of the water will cause the bottom of the glass to enlarge, while the sides, which are not heated, retain their former dimensions, and, consequently, if the heat be sufficiently intense, the bottom will be forced from the sides, and a crack or flaw will surround that part of the glass by which the sides are united to the bottom. If, however, the glass be previously wetted with a little warm water, so that the whole is gradually heated and thereby expanded, boiling water can then be poured in without damage. If a silver spoon is placed in a goblet of glass jar, boiling water can then be poured in without danger, unless the article has been taken from a frosty closet, and is very cold.

Greatest Remedy Known.

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumptive is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity.—Thousands of once hopeless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this Discovery to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggists, M. Wright & Son, and get a trial bottle free of cost which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar size bottle will do. For sale by M. Wright & Son, Tecumseh.

Little Robbie went to a show for the first time in his life. When he came home his mother asked him what he had seen. "An elephant, mamma, that gobbled hay with his front tail."

Household Hints.

Soft Soap.—Three quarters of a pound of washing soda and a pound of brown soap cut into small pieces; put them in a large stone jar on the back of the range, when the range is not very hot, and pour over it a pailful of cold water; stir it once in a while, and after some hours, when thoroughly dissolved, put it away to cool. It forms a sort of jolly, and is excellent to remove grease on floors or shelves.

Lead Pipe.—Clean lead pipes leading from wash-bowls by pouring down them a strong solution of potash dissolved in hot water. Don't get the mixture on the hands or clothing. It destroys all animal matter, hair, etc., and saves employing a plumber.

A lady writes: "To wash quilts, comfortables, ticklings, sackings, etc., soak in pure cold water twenty-four hours or more, then rub through warm water with a little soap and rinse well." It is worth trying.

A thick flour bag, that will hold twenty-five pounds of flour, is excellent to put hams away for the summer. Wrap the hams first in brown paper, several thicknesses; tie the bag tightly and hang up. No flies will disturb the hams.

Black Walnut Polish.—A quarter of a pint of raw linseed oil, one tablespoonful of muriatic acid, and a little vinegar.

To lessen friction for Furniture.—Black lead is excellent to lessen friction between two pieces of work. The sides and rests of desks or bureau drawers may be made to move easily by spreading common stove-blacking evenly with a cloth or the finger over their surfaces. Time and patience may thus be saved.

To Keep Beef-Steaks.—Have the steaks cut about the usual thickness. Mix together some salt, sugar and some finely-powdered saltpetre. In an earthen jar lay a steak, and sprinkle it with the mixture; put on another, and sprinkle the same as before, and over all turn over a plate with a heavy weight on it. This will form a brine of its own, and the meat will keep sweet in this way a long time. You can take it out to broil in the usual way. This is a very good receipt for people who live away from cities. Do not let it freeze.

Stained Brass.—Whiting wet with aqua ammonia will cleanse brass from stains, and is excellent for polishing faucets and door-knobs of brass or silver.

Frozen Apples.—We have found, says an exchange, that the only way in which we can use frozen apples is to place them while frozen in a covered dish with a little sugar and water, and cook slowly until thoroughly done. We used one barrel full in this way one winter, and did not get sick of them.

Our Lunarian Neighbors.

A great change is taking place in our views in regard to the moon, and it may be that we are on the eve of discoveries which will make this century an epoch in astronomical history. Some American observers saw not long since a crater on the lunar surface in active operation under conditions as reliable as human vision at such a distance can be expected to reach. A French astronomer has made observations on a grander scale, and confidently asserts that the moon is inhabited! M. Camille Flammarion, the present originator of this long-cherished idea, is a scientist of honor and renown, well known for his reputation as an observer and enthusiastic writer. He has written several articles to prove his position, and has determined to devote his life to this branch of astronomical research. No instruments on the globe are powerful enough to afford a glimpse of our lunarian neighbors. M. Flammarion is not in the least discouraged at this apparently insuperable obstacle in the way of a solution of his problem. He is going to have one made that will exhibit the men in the moon to terrestrial eyes, without a possibility of mistake. He is urgently soliciting contributions to a fund for an immense refracting telescope, whose estimated cost is a million francs, or two hundred thousand dollars. This instrument, the astronomer believes, will be effectual in revealing the inhabitants in the moon really existing, according to his sanguine faith. Some of the largest refractors in the world, if used when the air is pure, bear a power of three thousand on the moon, that is, the moon appears as if it were at a distance of eighty miles instead of two hundred and forty thousand. It can thus be seen that an immensely increased power would be required to detect small objects on the surface.

We trust M. Flammarion will be successful in collecting funds for a monster telescope, and that he will pick up crowds of lunarians through its far-seeing eye, before the vision of the present generation becomes too dim to behold the long-wished for sight.

Hercules' Achievements.

Historians tell us that the real labors of the powerful Hercules were clearing the countries of robbers and superbounding wild beasts. His twelve fabulous labors were the following:

1. He strangled the Nemean lion.
2. He destroyed the hundred-headed Lernean Hydra. While engaged in this task, his heel was bitten by a crab sent for the purpose by spiteful Juno. The crab got crushed to death for its temerity.
3. He caught Diana's favorite golden horned stag.
4. He caught and carried to the terrified King Eurystneus the Erymanthian boar.
5. He cleansed the Augean stables by flooding them with the neighboring rivers.
6. With the help of the goddess Athene, or Minerva, he shot the brazen winged and beaked Stymphalian birds, which had not hesitated to carry off even human prey.
7. He captured the Cretan bull, afterwards killed by his admirer Theseus.
8. He led captive to Eurystheus the horrible horses of King Diomedes.
9. He killed the beautiful Hippolyta, queen of the Amazons, and carried away her girdle.
10. He drove off the cattle of the three-bodied giant, Geryon.
11. By the help of Atlas, he obtained some of the golden apples of the garden of the Hesperides.
12. He seized and dragged up to earth the dog Cerberus, the formidable three-headed gurdian of the infernal regions. These are his "twelve labors," but he performed many others equally great before he fell a sacrifice to Dejanira's unfortunate mistake concerning his clean shirt.

Faults are pliable in infancy; changeable in childhood; more resolute in youth; firmly rooted in manhood, and inflexible in old age.

The Cross.

I stood one day at Niagara Falls, says Talmage, and I saw what you may have seen there, six rainbows bending over that tremendous plunge. I never saw anything like it before or since. Six beautiful rainbows arching that great cataract! And so over the rapids and angry precipices of sin, where so many have been dashed down, God's beautiful admonitions hover, a warning, arching each peril—six of them—fifty of them—a thousand of them! Beware! Beware! Beware! This afternoon, young men, while you have time to reflect upon these things, and before the duties of the office and store and the shop come upon you again, look over this whole subject, and after the day has passed, and you hear in the nightfall the voices and footsteps of the city dying from your ear, and it gets so silent that you can hear distinctly your watch under your pillow going "tick, tick!" then open your eyes and look out upon the darkness and see two pillars of light, one horizontal, the other perpendicular, but changing their direction until they come together, and your enraptured vision beholds it—the cross.

THE SYMPTOMS

Liver Complaint are a bitter or a bad taste in the mouth, Pain in the Back, sides or Joints, often mistaken for Rheumatism, Sour Stomach, Loss of Appetite, Bowels alternately costive and lax, headache, Loss of memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done, Debility, Low Spirits, a thick yellow appearance of the skin and Eyes, a dry cough often mistaken for Consumption.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few, but the Liver, the central organ in the body, is generally the seat of disease, and if not regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and death will ensue.

AS AN UNFAILING SPECIFIC

OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

PILES! PILES!! PILES!!!

A Sure Cure Found at Last. No One Need Suffer.

A sure cure for the Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams (an Indian remedy), called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 and 30 years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, Instruments, and Electuaries do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching (particularly at night after getting warm in bed), acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for Piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment: "I have used scores of pile cures, but it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment."

Ague Cure

Is a purely vegetable bitter and powerful tonic, and is warranted a speedy and certain cure for Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Intermittent or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, and all malarial disorders. In miasmatic districts, the rapid pulse, coated tongue, thirst, lassitude, loss of appetite, pain in the back and loins, and coldness of the spine and extremities, are only premonitions of severer symptoms, which terminate in the ague paroxysm, succeeded by high fever and profuse perspiration.

It is a startling fact, that quinine, arsenic and other poisonous minerals, form the basis of most of the "Fever and Ague Preparations," "Specifics," "Syrups," and "Tonics," in the market. The preparations made from these mineral poisons, although they are palatable, and may break the chill, do not cure, but leave the malarial and their own drug poison in the system, producing quinism, dizziness, ringing in the ears, headache, vertigo, and other disorders more formidable than the disease they were intended to cure. AYER'S AGUE CURE thoroughly eradicates these noxious poisons from the system, and always cures the severest cases. It contains no quinine, mineral, or any thing that could injure the most delicate patient; and its crowning excellence, above its certainty to cure, is that it leaves the system as free from disease as before the attack.

For Liver Complaints, AYER'S AGUE CURE, by direct action on the liver and biliary apparatus, drives out the poisons which produce these complaints, and stimulates the system to a vigorous, healthy condition.

We warrant it when taken according to directions.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

THE STAR MAIL SERVICE.

The net annual savings in the cost of star-route and steamboat service effected by reductions and discontinuances during May is $44,543; aggregate saving in March, April, and May, $745,968.

RESERVED FROM ENTRY.

The commissioner of the general land office has decided not to permit entry of so much of the mineral claim as lies within the limits of the Sutro tunnel grant west of the Comstock lode.

CAPITAL NOTES.

The treasury investigating committee is making progress, but the members are very reticent as to the result of their labors. There are any number of speculations as to the result and the impression is general that several important changes in the high offices of the department will be made.

WOODFORD'S SERVICES DESIRED.

Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, United States District Attorney for New York, is here on invitation of Postmaster General James to consult with Attorney General MacVeagh as to the best defense to be made in the seventy odd suits recently brought against postmasters by the Yale Lock Company, of Bridgeport, Conn., for alleged infringement of their patent lock boxes. These suits involve large sums of money.

THE JEANNETTE SEARCH STEAMER.

Dispatches to the Navy Department state that the Jeannette search vessel, Rogers, was commissioned on May 30. Her engine works satisfactorily, and work is complete in all her departments. She is ready for sea, and will sail as soon as stores from the East arrive.

THE STAR-ROUTE PROSECUTOR.

Col. Cook, the newly appointed officer for the prosecution of the Star Route cases, took the oath of office, and will at once prepare the cases for presentation to the grand jury of the Criminal Court, but it is not probable that this will be done before September next.

THOMPSON'S ACCOUNTS.

The report recently telegraphed with reference to John G. Thompson's accounts grew out of an item published that an officer of the house had used money of members. The item referred not to Thompson, but to another official, and had no foundation as to the sergeant-at-arms.

EXTENSION OF BONDS.

The comptroller of the currency reports that of four hundred and sixty-seven banks which held $44,685,850 of 6 per cent. bonds all have been extended at 3½ per cent. with the exception of two banks, holding $395,500. One thousand three hundred and forty-eight banks held $169,403,950 of 5 per cent., all of which, it is estimated, have made application for extension, with the exception of banks holding from three to five millions.

FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS IN THE "STAR-ROUTE" FRAUDS.

Gen. MacVeagh has been vigorous and untiring in hunting down the star-route ring, and he has more evidence than the public is aware of. He has searched all the records of the departments connected with the star-route contracts, and confidential special agents have been sent secretly to gather testimony on the line of expedited routes. Nothing has been left undone that would unearth evidence of fraud. At first the star-route ring talked boldly, under the supposition that so long as no member turned State's evidence they were safe. Boasts were made here in Washington that the investigation would fail. It is different now. Men who shared in the ring are anxious and uneasy, and it is predicted that some of them will leave the country. Atty. Gen. McVeagh and Postmaster General James are determined to prosecute the ring, and they have evidence enough to procure indictments against numerous parties. The postmaster general has copies of Dorsey's correspondence with his agents who procured petitions for star routes, and some original letters and documents throwing light on the methods employed in Arkansas and the southwest have been obtained. Depositions of some persons who helped prepare the way for expedited routes have been procured also. The Evening Star gives a list of men who will be presented to the grand jury for indictment. Among the list is S. B. Elkins, formerly delegate in the house of representatives from Mexico, and son-in-law of a United States senator. Elkins was intimate with Dorsey when the latter was in the senate a year or two ago, and gave out that he had made a fortune in mining speculations, and he established himself in good style in New York. He was a partner of R. C. Kerns, of St. Louis, in star-route contracts. Elkins, by his influence here, got star contracts and had them expedited, while Kerns looked after operating the lines. Ex-Congressman McKibbon is another man mentioned for indictment; also J. B. Price, of Missouri. Ex-Auditor McGrew and his late deputy, Lilley, will also be presented to the grand jury. McGrew claims that his duty as assistant auditor was only to carry out the instructions of Second Assistant Postmaster General Brady, and that, therefore, he cannot be held responsible for any wrong; but the sixth auditor is invested with unusual discretionary powers to be used for the protection of the government; but that he did not protect the government is shown by the favors granted to star-route contractors in releases from fines and forfeitures properly imposed upon them, and which ought to have been collected. Ex-Assistant Postmaster General Brady is also on the list announced to be prosecuted, as is ex-Senator Dorsey, and French, Brady's chief clerk. R. C. McCormick is also mentioned as one of those who may be prosecuted. The trials, when they commence, will necessitate the summoning of a very large number of witnesses from distant points, especially from the west and southwest.

Colonel Waring's second paper on "The Sanitary Condition of New York," will appear in the June number of Scribner. It is said that the author goes into every detail of the subject and grapples fearlessly with the most difficult parts of the problem. His recommendations, if carried out in their integrity, would he believes, constitute "a complete remedy for all the remediable sanitary evils of the city of New York, so far as they relate to its soil, its streets, its houses, or its water-supply. They involve nothing that is impracticable, of improbable value, of uncertain effect, or of undue cost."

There is going to be a loud protest in Canada when the latest piece of Gould's work comes to be known. Messrs. Abbot and Allan, of the Montreal Telegraph company, have quietly arranged with the Western Union for the practical amalgamation of the Montreal and Dominion companies, to be leased forever to a new organization under certain guarantees. The object of the scheme is the evasion of the act of Parliament forbidding the consolidation of the existing companies.

The wild stampede from Germany is clearly shown by the arrivals at Castle Garden. The main reason for the exodus is military service and fears of another war. High taxation and starving wages are among the causes. The present political and social condition of Berlin is considered very discouraging, as artisans are famishing and the Israelites are acquiring a monopoly of the retail trade. The sheriff's sales in Bavaria have begun to attract legislative attention.

The public has just been permitted to know that Low Dog, the Sioux chieftain, killed a mail carrier near Tongue river, last summer, and robbed his body and the mail-pouch. The chief subsequently confessed his crime, and then joined Sitting Bull on British soil. In April he surrendered to the military at Fort Buford, when the civil authorities made a proposition to punish him for his crime; but so strong were the protests of the army officers that the result would be the continued hostility of Sitting Bull that Low Dog has since been allowed to consume government rations in peace.

Marot, 814 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, for a sample copy.

WHEN the excellence of Rice as a diet is fully understood its use will be more frequent and of daily occurrence in every household. At this season of the year especially, it may properly be classed as superior to any of the cereals which are in such general use for the morning and midday meals. No other food is so easy of digestion, and at its present cost it is cheaper than potatoes, oat-meal or grain grits of any kind.

Adrian Press: On Sunday, Charley Chapman and Maggie Coleman went riding. Chapman was alleged to have been boozy. At any rate a runaway was the result of the ride. The twain were plumped overboard and somewhat bruised. The buggy was butchered. Constable Buchner attempted to arrest Chapman at his house when the whole family showed fight, and the arrest was "off" for the day. The next day being a holiday, the matter went over till Tuesday.

As John Orr opened up Wright's drug store last Tuesday morning a sad predicament met his view. In a room over the store there is a large tank for receiving the water from the roof. During the recent heavy rains the tank became full and Monday night the exhaust pipe was not large enough to carry off the excess. As a consequence the room was covered in the morning with two inches of water. The water dropped through the ceiling and deluged the store below, doing damage to the amount of $100.

Recent political events give especial timeliness to the consideration of the growth of the machine, and the most effective way to "smash" it. It is announced that the July number of Scribner will contain the first of a series of important papers entitled "The People's Problem," discussing the subject in a new and vigorous way. The writer, Mr. Albert Stickney, is a well-known lawyer of New York City, and though his remedies may be found radical, they have the advantage of being those of one who has given thorough study to the subject in its historical and moral aspects.

A FEW Sundays ago Mr. A. J. Palmer was driving by the residence of Mr. A. P. Coddington, when Mr. C.'s dog and Mr. Palmer's dog began to form an acquaintance. They ran ahead of the buggy in playful glee for a short distance. Then Mr. Coddington's dog started back to return home. When near the buggy of Mr. Palmer, he claims, that the dog frightened the horse and in consequence the buggy was upset and considerable damage done. Mr. Palmer, a few days later, went to Mr. Coddington and told him that it would cost about $25 to repair the buggy, and for $30 he would let the matter drop. Mr. Coddington did not fall in with the proposition and Mr. Palmer then brought action for damages against Mr. Coddington.—The suit took place last Tuesday but the jury disagreed, and as yet the matter is unsettled.

LAST Tuesday morning, although the weather was not favorable, the marriage ceremony of Mr. George Barber, of Toledo, and Miss Lilla Bardwell, of this place, was performed. The services were at the home of the bride at half past seven in the morning. The ceremony was witnessed but by a few relatives and near friends. The couple left on the morning train for Toledo, carrying the best wishes of many. The Toledo Bee, of June 6, says: "Not entirely by surprise will the many friends of George E. Barber be taken by reading the announcement that he will to-morrow be joined in wedlock to Miss Lillie J. Bardwell, one of the belles of Tecumseh, Mich. Mr. Barber left yesterday for the home of the bride, and after the ceremony the happy couple will make a southern trip, returning to Toledo in about a week. Mr. and Mrs. Barber will board with an aunt, Mrs. Shoemaker, at 61 Bush street.—Every one wishes the genial George the most bountiful prosperity.

The spike that nailed the last lie is on exhibition at either the Adrian Times or Record office as the following articles clipped from the Monday edition of the two papers will indicate:

At the point where the two ironing gangs met the party stopped and withdrew the last spike driven by the young ladies of Canandaigua, which was brought home as a souvenir, by Ald. Gardner, and can now be seen at the Times office.—Times.

The last spike driven in the Butler road has been "pulled" as a relic, and can be seen at the Record office for a few days.—Record.

The gentlemen are about fifty years ahead of the times. It is all well enough to sell watch charms made from the trees under which the Savior sat on Mount Olive, and to exhibit a cane made from a piece of the wreck of the Constitution, because a long lapse of time has thrown an impenetrable veil of mystery over the two objects. But when this modern idea of miraculous procreation attains that degree that only two days is necessary to produce two last spikes from the real one then it is time to put on the brakes.

WASHINGTON IRVING.

Celebration of His Birth Day Anniversary in the Tecumseh Schools.

It has been the custom in our schools under Prof. E. B. Fairfield's administration to commemorate the anniversaries of the birthdays of the great authors of our country, which custom has been of great advantage to the pupils, as in writing essays and studying up quotations and exercises for the occasion, they get a more vivid and better idea of the author than in any other way.

Last Friday P. M. was celebrated the anniversary of the birthday of Washington Irving, and the exercises were very interesting and instructive. It would be impossible for us to give a report of all that was going on in the entire departments, so we simply give the program of the grammar department and a brief report of the exercises in the high school.

The exercises opened with a quartette "Leaf by Leaf, the Roses Fall," rendered by Misses Doty and Wood and Messrs Hendershot and Bramble, which was followed by a brief sketch of the life of Washington Irving, by William Allen. He showed Irving's fondness for travels and new scenes and adventures, giving a brief description of his early troubles and closed with an eulogy on his works and writings.

Miss Cora Jones gave a select reading from Bracebridge Hall, and Miss Maggie Smith rendered a selection of prose, entitled, "The Cathedral." Miss May DeWolf gave a recitation, "Bryant's opinions of Washington Irving," after which short quotations and anecdotes from, and about Irving, were given by a portion of the school. Misses Hause, James, DeWolf and Satterthwaite sang a quartette entitled, "Far Away." Harry Dunn contributed an essay, "Sunnyside." The first part of which was a very nice description of Irving's "Eden" home, "Sunnyside," but the young man's admiration for Irving ran away with his text and he finished with a glowing criticism on Irving and his writings. Frank Hall declamed about John Bull and did it well.

Miss Metta Adams read an essay, "A Romance of Rip Van Winkle," and she gave a very nice description of Rip and his sleep of twenty years. Her language was good, without the "flowery" quality which is so peculiar to young essayists, the paper showed hard work and a good plain understanding of the subject on which she was writing and could only reflect credit upon the young lady's ability for this class of work. Miss Dora Keyser recited "Irving's Advice to a Friend" very nicely.

Then another section of quotations and anecdotes.

Mrs. C. H. McConnell conducted a chorus by the school. Elmer Hendershot furnished a review of the life of Columbus, giving in detail a great share of his troubles with the Spanish government. This essay was carefully written and gave credit to the writer's understanding of History. Miss Hayden contributed a selection from Irving, in form of a select reading, which was followed by a selection of scraps and criticisms, concerning the life and writings of Irving by Herbert McNair, and the selections were well arranged and diligently sought after, such exercises as this one will give a student more of an idea of an author than three months study from text books.

Miss Dolie Wilson gave a recitation on the "Disastrous Effects of Intemperance," and then we listened to one more section of quotations and anecdotes. Next following a vocal quartette was the essay by Miss Ella Church, "Legend of Sleepy Hollow," and it was a sketch of the work of Irving, relating to "Sleepy Hollow," and closed with a description of the old story about Ichabod Crane and the evening party; the essay was well written, and gave to others as well as the writer a clear and concise understanding of the story. The next was an essay by Clement Bramble, subject: Irving as a writer, and was merely a review of the quotations of Scott and others. The exercises closed with music by the school.

All in all the anniversary was a very pleasant affair, and certainly very instructive to the participants, and listeners. The only criticism that we could offer would be that the essayists would do well perhaps, to confine themselves a little more closely to the particular subject which was allotted them, and that the teachers cast a little more watchful eye as to the length and rendering of the readings.

After the exercises in the high school, we went below to the grammar department and noted some very nice specimens of handiwork executed upon the blackboards which reflected great credit to the pupils in this grade, among which was a very nice pencil drawing of Irving, by Miss Bessie Church; Irving's name in large English text by Bertie Waring, in crayon; old Spanish ship, in crayon, by Miss Florence Raymond; Geoffrey Crane, in crayon, by Mable Hayden; Ichabod Crane going to the evening party, in crayon, by Miss Fanny Prichard, and in other places on the black board could be seen quotations from Irving, written very nicely, and showed much better drill in this particular branch than could be seen in the high school. Exercises of a similar character were held in the branch schools.

Following is the program as used in the grammar department:

Song: Little Pilgrims, page 33, Biography of Washington Irving, Bessie Church
Some Characteristics of Irving, Carrie Powers

ODDFELLOWSHIP.

Anything that awakens a fellow-feeling among men, and brings them into closer sympathy, is doing a good service to humanity. It is sometimes objected that fraternities and the different secret societies have a tendency to make men exclusive and clanish; that while they bring the men who belong to them into closer sympathy, they do it at the expense of their broader sympathies, which they owe to mankind in general. This however, is a mistake. There is nothing in the principles of actual working of many of these organizations, to call in the sympathies of their members from the outside world. They do not teach their members to love others less, but their brethren more. There is something commendable in the way Odd Fellows look after the comfort of their brethren. There is something very commendable, and worthy the respect of everybody, in the way they look after their sick, at least in the way the members of the order do it in this place. We have an instance of the good they do in this way, in the care of Dr. Newcomb during his sickness. All through his sickness they had two of their members at his bedside, day and night. It was a great relief to the family, as well as a great comfort, to have this constant help and kindness. Those who are so loud in condemning this fraternity, have a little idea of the good it is constantly doing.—Blissfield Advance.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

Is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca; with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independent, Eldon, Ottumiwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.

At ENGLEWOOD, with the L. S. & M. S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.

At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.

At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.

At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.

We have considerable enquiries in reference to the gold discoveries in this county. Gold has been known here for many years, but whether in paying quantities remains yet to be proved. We were this week shown a very fine specimen, carrying free gold said to have been obtained from a vein near Agogebic lake. If it was, they have struck it rich, if there is any more of the same kind.—Ontonagon Miner.

Kent county farmers are biting at a harmless looking hook, baited with an agency for "the wagon tongue supporting company of Detroit." The farmer agrees—in writing of course—to take and sell 24 of the supporters on shares, and when they arrive he finds he has signed a contract for the whole lot at $5 apiece, but if he isn't to saucy about it, the dealer lets him off for an even $100. The face of the farmer as he calmly contemplates his pile of 24 wagon tongue supporters, for which he has just paid $100, is said to be an admirable study for an artist.

How to Get Rich.

The great secret of obtaining riches, is first to practice economy, and as good old "Deacon Snyder," says, "It used to worry the life out of me to pay enormous doctor's bills, but now I have "struck it rich." Health and happiness reign supreme in our little household, and all simply because we use no other medicine but Electric Bitters and only costs fifty cents a bottle. Sold by C. A. THE NEW YORK SENATORSHIP.

CONKLING'S INTENTIONS.

The Albany Express says: "Senator Conkling merely asks republican members of the legislature to meet in the caucus and determine for themselves the attitude the republican party will bear toward him." It also says: "Those misunderstand the situation and misinterpret the issues who think Senators Conkling and Platt have any reason to be disappointed with the result of their observations in this city last week. The senators found that two-thirds of the republican members of the legislature prefer that the state should be represented by them in the senate of the United States. Of this immense majority they found that a number regretted their resignations, while not denouncing them for the course they have pursued, because of the embarrassments at home. The fact that this preference exists will explain the strenuous opposition to the holding of a caucus by the administration and its thick-and-thin supporters. By precipitating a caucus they hope to avail themselves of the fears of the members who are worked up by the threats of the men who bolted in 1872, and who sign papers now as they did then for the purpose of frightening the timid. The issues are also falsely stated, in order to foster prejudice."

A BIT OF HISTORY.

There is an interesting piece of history in relation to the contest between Conkling and the administration, which should be made known. On the day following that on which the president sent Robertson's name to the senate it was known beyond doubt that Conkling and other representatives of New York were greatly disturbed. On that day two members of the cabinet called upon the president and suggested that a conference should be held between the president on one hand and the vice president and the two New York senators on the other. The president accepted suggestions and set apart that evening for the interview. The two members of the cabinet made arrangements, as they thought, with the vice president and the two senators for a conference, and it was understood it should take place at 7:30, at the white house. Afterwards Conkling demanded and refused to go, although his companions were willing to attend. On this account the interview did not take place. The president waited an hour and a half for the expected visitors. It is known that, had the conference been held, an attempt would have been made to readjust the whole matter satisfactorily to all persons concerned.

THE BALLOTING ON TUESDAY.

In the assembly, Mr. Draper offered a resolution that at 12 o'clock the house proceed to name two candidates for vacancies in the United States senate, the first-named senator to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Roscoe Conkling. In case no one is named by a majority, the fact to be entered on the journal, and the house to proceed in like manner to name the candidate to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Thos. C. Platt. The resolution was adopted.

At 12 o'clock the speaker announced that under the order of the house, it would now proceed to vote for a United States Senator in place of Roscoe Conkling, resigned. Each member, as his name was called, named his candidate. The vote stood as follows: Conkling, 25; Jacobs, 47; Wheeler, 15; Crowley, 5; Dorman, 6; Wadsworth, 2; Rogers, 8; Miller, 1; Evarts, 3; Efick, 1; Folger 2; White, 2; Chapman, 1; Tremaine, 2; Pagton, 1; Ward, 1; Pomeroy, 1; Dutcher, 1; Alvord, 2.

No candidate received a majority, and the house then proceeded to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Platt. The vote stood as follows:

Depew, 15; Kernan, 43; Platt, 21; Folger, 6; Lapham, 6; Cornell, 12; Crowley, 3; Evarts, 5; Wait, 2; Miller, 1; Frances, 1; Pomeroy, 1; Wadsworth, 2; Tremaine, 2; Rogers, 1; Choate, 1.

The chair announced that the house having failed to give a majority for either candidate, that fact will be entered upon the journal of the house, and legislative business be proceeded with.

IN THE SENATE.

When the hour of noon arrived, the senate proceeded to vote for a United States Senator in place of Thomas C. Platt, resigned. The vote stood as follows: Thomas C. Platt, 8; Chauncey M. Depew, 1; Francis Kernan, 7; Warner Miller, 2; Sherman S. Rogers, 1; Elbridge Lapham, 2; Joseph H. Choate, 1; Judge Noah Davis, 2; William A. Wheeler, 1; George H. Sharpe, 4.

The senate then voted for a successor to fill the short term in place of Roscoe Conkling. The vote stood as follows: Roscoe Conkling, 9; Sherman S. Rogers, 5; John C. Jacobs, 6; Geo. R. Bradley, 1; Charles J. Folger, 2; Gov. Cornell, 2; William A. Wheeler, 1; Theodore M. Pomeroy, 2.

No one receiving a majority, the senate adjourned.

WEDNESDAY'S BALLOTING.

The senate and the assembly met in joint convention at noon to ballot for the United States Senators. The first vote in joint convention was as follows:

Conkling, 35; Wheeler, 22; Rogers, 15; Fenton, 3; Pomeroy, 2; Efick, 1; Wadsworth, 1; Jacobs, democrat, 32; Cornell, 11; Crowley, 3; White, 2; Bradley, 1; Folger, 2. Balance scattering.

To fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Platt, the ballot resulted as follows:

Platt, 29; Depew, 25; Kernan, 33; Folger, 4; Cornell, 12; Davis, 2; Lapham, 3; Miller, 8; Crowley, 4; Evarts, 3; Dutcher, 2; Morton, 1; Wadsworth, 2; Tremaine, 1; Ward, 1; Rogers, 1. No choice in either case.

THURSDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Two ballots were taken in joint assembly. The situation was not materially changed since Tuesday, Conkling losing one vote—Assemblyman Cowles who voted for him heretofore, switching off. An attempt was made to adjourn sine die on Saturday, but was lost 29 to 63, only democrats voting yea. A concurrent resolution to take a recess from Friday till Tuesday was adopted—yeas 61, nays 56.

FRIDAY'S BALLOTING.

On Friday only one ballot was taken which showed no change in the vote. The proposition to adjourn over until Tuesday was antagonized by the adoption of a resolution to adjourn for one day only.

The agent of the National Associated Press has interviewed leading stalwarts, who gave the following as the opinions of Conkling, Arthur and Sharpe, as expressed by them in a letter from New York, received Sunday. Voting will be resumed Monday with about as thin an attendance as on Saturday—in fact, a vote will be taken only in order that the law, requiring a convention of both Houses and a vote daily shall be complied with. Every one, even if the legislature were to remain in session for months, will be a mere matter of form. There will be no election by this Legislature. The votes to be taken consisted of 5 Stalwarts, 4 Administration, and Jacobs, Democrat, 76, or 81 votes for himself.

This makes a grand total of 38 with Democrats and Stalwarts absent through sickness. It requires only twenty-six to prevent the election from ever taking place, and the stalwarts have more than double that number, while the administrationist have nearly the same surplus. Does anyone believe the asserted fact the stalwarts will ever allow the vote of Conkling to be reduced to a figure below twenty-seven?

"And I may also ask," he added, does anyone believe that the administrationists will allow their forces to go below the same number? I repeat it, this voting is a mere matter of form. There is to be no election. Both sections of the Republican party are determined upon this, and the Democratic members are powerless in the matter. They have only 54 votes, and it takes 81 to elect. They cannot get one Republican vote for their candidate, nor will they give one of their votes for either of the Republican candidates. I say there will be no election. Why should there be? Why should not Conkling and Platt be forced to go back to their seats? They have tendered their resignations, it is true, but their resignations have not been accepted, and cannot be accepted until their successors have been elected. If the Legislature fails to elect successors, it will be equivalent to refusing to accept their resignations, and they will be required to resume their places in the United States senate. No one doubts the power of the Legislature to adjourn sine die while this vote is going on. The vote is to be taken in joint convention of both Houses, and the vote is to be repeated daily during the session of the Legislature. The law does not require the Legislature to continue its session one day for the purpose of going into this joint convention, but it does require that, being in session, it shall vote daily. Hence, after voting day after day until it is shown that the effort to elect is fruitless, the Legislature not only can, but it is its duty, to adjourn sine die.

WILL NOT ACCEPT THE RESIGNATIONS.

"It being thus shown that the majority will not elect successors to the resigning Senators, it says, virtually, that it will not accept their resignations, and as honorable, patriotic citizens they will return to their places, and their resignations will be withdrawn. This," continued the gentleman, "will be the result of the matter."

In answer to the inquiry as to whether Conkling and Platt understood the matter in that way, he said,

"They so understand it most clearly. They tendered their resignations expecting, of course, that the Legislature would pass upon the question of whether they should be accepted or not. The only way to accept their resignations is by voting for successors to those resigning Senators, because candidates for reelection in order to give the Legislature, or rather, a majority of the Legislature, an opportunity to say whether they should return or not, and what is the result? They find that a majority will not elect successors to them, and they are thus forced to resume their places. This they will do next December, and New York will be represented again by Conkling and Platt. Hence, those who have taken such a deep interest in voting, and noted with so much anxiety and excitement the changes from Tremaine to Henry Ward Beecher, and from Henry Ward Beecher to Ramsey, and from Ramsey back again to Tremaine or some one of other like candidates, may as well possess their souls with patience and let the events go on. In the end, though, the verdict of Conkling and Platt may be that the sealed verdict, if proven, they will be back in their seats against all the same."

Lorillard's Iroquois, an American horse, won the English Derby, bringing nearly $2,000,000 to the pockets of his owner. Archer, the jockey, states that he could easily have won by three lengths. The crowd was immense, among the spectators being the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Princess Louise, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, and the Duke of Cambridge. Iroquois was bred by A. Welch, of Chestnut Hill, Pa. He will now be a prime favorite for the Ascot and Goodwood cups, as he is the first horse from this side of the Atlantic who ever won even a place in the greatest of English races.

The sultan wants to know whether the bey of Tunis considers himself "a vassal or a peer." It is announced that the bey will be required to define his position—a proceeding which might entail serious embarrassments. If the bey declares himself a vassal of the Mohammedan pope, the French will be inclined to depose him and put the administration of the country into hands friendly to themselves. On the other hand, if the bey renounces his allegiance the sultan will issue a decree deposing him. The immediate execution of the order will not be practicable, of course, while the French sustain the bey, but the repudiation of the latter by the commander of the faithful would undoubtedly tend to spread rebellious feelings among the Tunisians, encourage revolutionary resistance to the government, and greatly increase the uncertainties, hazards, and inconveniences of a position which is already attended by too many of these incidents for the ruler's comfort. The most probable effect of the sultan's intervention will be to afford a pretext for enlarging the scope to which the control of France in the affairs of Tunis is at present limited, and hasten the time for the addition of that dominion to the recognized possessions of the French in Africa.

ESTATE OF LUCAS GRAMER.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss

At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian on Saturday, the 4th day of June, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Lucas Gramer, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Frederick Centner, alleging among other things that he is guardian of Joseph Gramer, Anna Gramer and Lizzie Gramer, minor heirs-at-law of said deceased, and that administration on said estate was granted to James A Stacy, who has since departed this life, leaving estate unadministered, and praying that administration of the estate of said deceased not already administered may be granted to Consider A. Stacy, or some other suitable person.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the 11th day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. (A True Copy.)

NORMAN GEDDES, Judge of Probate.

AROUND THE COUNTY.

BROOKLYN.

Two eclipses have occured here, and both have been genuine freaks of nature. The first was a total befogging of our legal luminaries, who waltzed through their Peribelion tactics behind the apron of dignity. The show was caused by three whoops, making holes in the dark, one week ago Saturday night. Our young lawyer proposed to return them to their owners, and pocket the reward, but they did not care to redeem such property, and he being imbued with an honest desire to give every one their due made the funny mistake of arresting the father of one of the whoopers, in order to compel identification of the family squeal. The latter not being labeled, and the govenor at home and asleep at the time it was launched, of course he could not say for certain, so a veil of awkwardness obscured all concerned. The village fathers emerged from shadow by convening and solemnly resolving that they do not believe in monopoly, and that the Marshall must be to blame for running after strange noises over in Lenawee. The squawks are still at large and the disciple of Blackstone is waiting for his appointment of delegate to the next Sabbath school convention.

The moons eclipse was conducted more quietly and I watched the sky traveler with all needful curiosity. Those who failed to see the great night shadow, missed more than they dream of. The upper world seemed to creep out from under a wave of desolation and at one time I was afraid it would bar out to-morrow.

PEARLIE.

SPRINGVILLE.

There is but little news to report from this point.

Our farmers have taken out a link and shortened up their faces after the rains of the past week, and well they may for all nature has made a rapid stride in the beauty and appearance of all things on the face of mother earth.

For the past week our Sunday school scholars have been anticipating Children's Sunday and on Saturday a goodly number met at the church and decorated the same in beautiful style with evergreens, flowers, and cages of singing birds, and Sunday afternoon we all met there and had a good time. The attendance was large and each one done honor to his part. Had a few remarks which were very applicable by J. B. Stephenson, the Superintendent. It was closed by some good remarks by our worthy pastor, Rev. E. Peirce.

At the close it was rumored that the ordinance of baptism was to be conferred on a number of candidates at Sand Lake, but there being no public notice given out it seemed as tho' they were either bashful or ashamed of receiving the same in public.

Your correspondent after enquiring of some of those interested, without getting any positive information, took horse and carriage and went for Sand Lake, bound to stay till the moon arose and if the thing took place to be on hand. On arrival found a goodly number in the same situation, that of doubt. But soon our pastor came in sight then all were satisfied to hold the fort; some of the party tarried but about six o'clock commenced the solemn ordinance. Five were immersed and five by pouring; cannot see what benefit there was of being so secret about the matter, but as it was there was about 100 or more witnesses present. It was conducted by our pastor in a very solemn and impressive manner.

J. A. Moore and family of Auburn, N. Y. have been the guests of Wm. Queal, Esq., and T. H. Mosher.

D. Carpenter and wife, of Hudson, have been the guests of J. Vaughan, the past week.

Our master mechanic, J. A. Smith, has commenced the erection of a farm residence for E. Hubbard, and according to plan will be beautiful outside and convenient within.

We had a fine shower last night and all nature is rejoicing, and the farmers have smiles on their faces.

Our band make their appearance on Saturday evenings and amuse us with good music.

ROME.

We are pleased to note a new sidewalk in front of Dr. Ross' residence. One can now go to the the store without much danger of broken bones.

The funeral of Mr. Jerrels, one of the oldest settlers, took place on the 8th inst, at the residence.

We notice quite a number going to the lakes—Round and Devils—on pleasure and fishing excursion, and can say that the landings are in good shape this spring.

Mr. Allen is building a fine hotel on the beach of Devils Lake. The building is to be three stories, not including the basement, with an observatory. It will not be completed before the last of this, or the first of next month. It will be a nice place for persons to sojourn even if they be on the sick list, as it will be quiet, having no dancing hall or the like connected with the building.

Mr. Jack Elmer and wife, and Lyman Baker and family of Ingham co., are visiting friends here.

We are now getting a bountiful supply of rain, and none too soon too save crops.

Our town is once more ornamented with show bills, this time those of VanAmburg's.

CLINTON.

Mrs. L. H. Davis and her sister, Miss Emma Davis, started Monday morning for a visit to their former home in Mass.

James Benham Sr., died on the 8th, of dropsy, aged 74.

Will Richmond had a slight mishap with his horse and buggy. The horse started on a run just as he was turning him around, the result was, the buggy overturned, the thills broke, the dash, and one bow of the top out of the rig.

Peter Jacobs, at the raising of a large barn Monday, was seriously injured by a stick of timber falling on him. His shoulder blade was injured, two ribs fractured, his hip badly bruised, and one ankle severely hurt.

Charles E. Freese died very suddenly Sunday evening between 11 and 12 o'clock. His physician, Dr. A. W. Alvord, says it was paralysis of the heart. His death fell like a thunderbolt from a cloudless sky, upon the community. He had been unwell for a few days, but in the early evening talked of going down to the store Monday morning. His wife discovered something wrong in his breathing, rallied the neighbors, Mrs. Frank Thompson, who had not retired was the only person that reached the house before death occured. The funeral, Tuesday was very largely attended, all places of business were closed, which is a rare occurrence in Clinton. The widow whose married life has been so brief, has the sympathy of the entire community.

RIDGEWAY.

Cass. Miller, of Howell spent last Sunday at his old home in Macon.

Mr. H. C. Wilson, who has been teaching in Iowa the past year, is at home.

Miss Campbell, of Flint, is visiting Mr. & Mrs. P. W. Cadmus.

Samuel Fletcher will move the old Christian Church to this village and turn it into a residence.

Lewis Priest has been ill for some time and his shop is closed in consequence.

A young son of Chas. Kniffin fell out of an apple tree and severely sprained an arm.

Mrs. C. L. Lowe has probably the finest collection of rare house plants to be found in this vicinity.

Is it not about time to think of an ice cream social?

Mike Underwood had a valuable horse damaged by coming in contact with the barbed wire fence along the D. & B.

Quite a number of our villagers attended the S. S. Institute at Dundee this week.

The M. E. Church was beautifully decorated last Sunday, it being "Childrens' Day." A sermon to the children in the morning, and in the evening, the S. S. participating in the services.

The late rains are helping the wheat considerable, but come too late to do what might have been done earlier in the season.

The friends of Dr. and Mrs. Loree to the number of about 60 made them a call on the evening of the 6th. The affair was a surprise to the Doctor and his new wife. The evening passed off very pleasantly. Strawberries, music.

Adrian Times: Justice O. Lamb and T. J. Barrow were examined for admission to the bar, by a committee consisting of W. A. Underwood, Seth Bean and C. R. Miller. The committee report a very fair examination, and will recommend their admission when court convenes on the 21st.

THE prospects are that the State troops will attend the celebration at Yorktown. The State has appropriated sufficient funds.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

MONDAY, June 13.—The session was convened for the equalization of assessment rolls. After two ballots, J. H. Warren was elected chairman by the following vote: W. B. Hill, 12; J. H. Warren, 14. On motion, Sups. Cogswell, Dewey and Harkness were appointed as a committee to draft the resolutions in respect to the late Sup. Newcomb, of Blissfield.

Adjourned to Tuesday morning.

TUESDAY, June 14.—The chairman appointed the following committees:

Ways and Means—Knapp, Dewey, Bradner.

Judiciary—Cogswell, Colegrove, Dewey.

Equalization—Bradish, Bixby, Pratt, Shepherd, Lowe, Love, Cogswell.

Claims and Accounts—Swaney, Wagener, Hill, James.

County Poor and Insane Accounts—Pratt, Knapp, Holdridge.

Sheriff's Accounts—Hill, Colegrove, Parsons.

Treasurer's Account—Harkness, Baker, Luke.

Public Buildings—Shepherd, Manning, Howell.

Apportionment and Assessment Rolls—Bixby, James, Manning, Holdridge, Love, Harkness, Wilson.

County Drains—Dreher, Lowe, Luke.

Printing—Bradner, Howell, Burger.

The clerk reported that $342 had been paid into the county treasurer for entrance fees, fines and costs, from January 1st to June 10, 1881.

The assessment roll of Sup. Newcomb being left unsigned, the proper manner of proceedure in the case was referred to the judiciary committee.

Adjourned to Wednesday morning.

The cause of science has received an important addition in the elegant Observatory which Mr. H. H. Warner, proprietor of the valuable Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, has erected at Rochester.

Clinton News: On Saturday last Mr. Irvin Chase tendered his resignation to the School Board as Principal of the Clinton Public Schools, which was accepted. This is the third principal who has undertaken to conduct the Clinton Schools during the past year and failed. Where does the blame belong? Of course if the large boys and girls had behaved themselves as gentlemen and ladies there would have been no trouble, but who is not aware that almost the first thing a big boy or girl does, on entering the school room with a new teacher, is to form a private estimate of the teacher's controlling ability. On this decision a great deal depends, but if underestimated, the teacher may in time entirely overcome the first prejudice against him. It seems that none of the three teachers employed here were underestimated, as the sequel shows. But, to reach the prime cause of all this trouble, we must lay at least a share of the blame on the shoulders of the School Board. When balloting for a principal for the year, a number of excellent men, tried and not found wanting as teachers or disciplinarians were applicants. Others who came recommended but without known ability, were ready to accept the position for less pay. Penny wise and pound foolish, the Board hired one of the latter, and repeated the mistake twice afterwards, in hiring successors to each resigning principal, and now the village is entirely without a high school, and the class of five who should have graduated this year are deprived of that privilege. We believe that it is the sentiment of every tax payer in the district that if we pay taxes for a school, let us have a good one. Fifty or a hundred dollars more paid out to a man who will conduct a good school is much better for all concerned than to have several hundred dollars worse than thrown away under the pretense of saving tax payers a few cents each. The days of such old fogyism are long since past, and the intelligent and progressive people of to-day demand good schools or none at all. This is a plain statement of facts as they are, and the future prosperity of our schools demands that a capable person be engaged for the coming year, even at a considerable advance in salary if needs be.

Hudson Gazette: No manufacturing in Hudson, did you say? We read it another way from our office window, as load after load of farm bells from the Bean manufacturing Company, tubs from the Hudson Wooden-Ware Manufacturing Company, hubs, spokes and felloes from Whitney & Co's factory, and wheelbarrows from Eaton Bros., pass on their way to the railroad. Wheelbarrows! Yes. You tho't the wheelbarrow works were going to Adrian, didn't you? Oh, no! A miniature concern of the kind is going down there for loose capital to experiment on, but the Hudson wheelbarrow works are pushing right ahead here, doing a fine business and making a good article. The Eaton Bros. employ some fifty men—the moving concern some seven or eight. Not more than three or four of these, if so many, will go to Adrian with Mr. Rose.

Hudson Post: Henry Stafford had a very narrow escape from a serious accident Monday evening in Whitney & Co.'s saw mill. He had taken the sawyer's place at the lever for a few minutes, and was engaged in sawing a large ash log, when the cast iron ratchet which held the lever broke, letting him fall back with fearful force against two logs that were on the way behind him, hurting his back pretty bad. If he had struck his neck on either of the logs instead of his head, he would have probably broken it, and his escape from being hurt more than he was, was indeed a lucky one for him.

Deerfield Record: Two former residents of this township, were drowned by the accident which befell the steamer Victoria, on the Thames river near London, Canada, a few days since. The persons, Bennie and Mattie Allcock, the latter married, with her husband, were on the steamer, and all lost their lives. They leave a number of relatives in this township, who regret their sad fate.

Hudson Post: Delos Gates, of Woodstock, has a small flock of sheep, only seventeen in number, but what they lack in numbers is made up in quality and quantity. The seventeen sheared 220½ pounds of merchantable wool. A yearling ewe lamb sheared 19¾ pounds and a buck yearling sheared 25¼ lbs.—These sheep run out all winter, having no shelter.

DARKNESS AND DAYLIGHT.

This wonderful earth goes round and round,
Turning over and over again,
And the winters go and the summers come
With their harvests of fruit and grain.
For the glorious sun is shining for all,
O'er the boundless realms of space.
Though into each life some storms must fall
And winter creep on apace.
To some appears the light of dawn,
To others the setting of sun;
Some have finished the voyage of life,
Which others have just begun.

Over the hill-tops in the East
The golden sunbeams play;
To those who belong to the upper crust
Of old mother earth, it is day:
But to the antipodes 'neath our feet,
In China or in Japan,
While we enjoy the light of day,
Their night has just begun.
Yet well we know the earth goes round,
Turning over and over again;
When theirs is the day and ours the night
And we need never complain.

Ah! would it were so in affairs of life,
In this turbulent changing world,
As amid its care and toil and strife,
Our wheel of fortune is whirled.
Some fortunate winners draw a prize,
And others only a blank:
Some their lucky stars may praise,
While others themselves may thank.
A pauper stands at a rich man's hall,
Begging for alms to-day;
To-morrow the rich man may be poor,
As riches with him fly away.

Wealth and fame are bubbles that burst—
As the world goes round and round
Truth and honor have nothing to fear
For they ever are uppermost found.
Like the glorious sun forever fixed,
They shed a brilliant light;
It is only man who changes so,
Turning day into gloomy night.
To-morrow a beggar may be a lord
In all that pertains to earth,
If he strives to keep on the topmost rung
In regard to honor and worth.

No matter how dark the hour of night
The morning is sure to come;
As the sturdy old earth goes round and round
One side is toward the sun.
What matters, then, if it's night just now?
We await the morning dawn;
Then never complain, keep pushing ahead
For the earth is rolling on.
Then keep your eye kindled on the stars,
When the darkest night appears;
And watch for the rosing sun of light,
As it shines through the endless years.

ELSIE.

Certainly there is no teacher like experience, though the lessons that she teaches us are often bitter ones.

"You will never learn caution my boy, till you do yourself or some one else a mischief," Mr. Foster had said to his son. Norman, a hundred times.

Norman was always doing some wild and reckless thing—climbing some of the highest trees in the garden, at the risk of breaking his neck; wading in the river beyond his depth, riding barebacked on his father's horse; playing with the fierce old watch-dog that snarled and showed his teeth at every one who tried to caress him.

Norman had no brothers, but he had a little sister named Elsie, three years younger than himself, of whom he was very fond. There was nothing that he liked better than to have Elsie, as he called it, "all to himself," and though he was so wild and willful when alone or with other boys, yet it was pretty to see how gentle and kind he could be when Elsie was his playmate, and how he could give up his own wishes to do the things she asked him, and never speak a rough or impatient word to her.

"Norman is always good when he is with Elsie," his mother often used gladly to say; and she only spoke the truth; and yet it was Elsie whom Norman hurt on that sad day of which I am going to tell you, when in his bold play he did a thing that he never afterward forgot, or forgave himself for as long as he lived.

The two children had been sitting one morning with their mother in the dining-room, talking, and looking at picture-books very happily, till, after a good while had passed, one of the servants came to the door, and told her mistress that somebody wanted her.

"Then I must send you up stairs, my little Elsie," Mrs. Foster said.

But at that moment Norman exclaimed, "Oh no, let us stop here. I'll take care of Elsie."

And he had taken good care of Elsie so often that his mother almost at once replied, "Very well. Amuse her, and be kind to her, and I dare say I shall be back very soon." And rising up, she went away without the least anxiety, and left the two children alone.

They were nearly always happy when they were together, and so they began to play, and for a little while everything went perfectly well.

They played at being horses at first, and Norman let Elsie whip him to her heart's content; then they played at being bears, and that game went quite harmoniously, too; and then Norman said he would be a soldier, and as Elsie was always very much delighted when Norman made himself a soldier, she sat on the floor and laughed and clapped her hands with pleasure, as he marched up and down the room, with the poker held like a gun against his shoulder.

"Only it doesn't make a good gun; it's not long enough; I'll get father's real gun," he said, presently. "I know where it is. Just you stay here a minute till I fetch it."

And he ran out of the room, and returned almost immediately with a long revolver, which he trailed after him on the floor.

"Oh, Norman, it will shoot me!" cried Elsie, rather terrified at the sight.

But Norman explained to her, with such an appearance of knowing all about what he was saying, that guns never went off by themselves, and that, indeed, it needed very strong hands to make them go off at all, that Elsie, who always believed whatever Norman told her, and, besides, was not naturally a timid child, soon forgot her fear, and laughed and clapped her hands louder than ever as he began to strut up and down the room again, leveling his revolver and pretending to fire at one enemy after another.

"Shoot! Bang!" cried Norman at the top of his voice. "Shoot! Bang! There's another down. Now I'm coming to you. Shoot!"

But there his voice all at once ceased, for as he shouted that last word, pointing the muzzle of his gun at Elsie, suddenly a terrible explosion shook the room, and, as the shock threw him to with the red blood that oozed out on the carpet already beginning to stain her pretty golden hair, little Elsie lay.

In a moment he was on his feet again, with his face as white as death. Of course, he knew quite well what he had done.

"Elsie!" he tried to gasp; but there came no answer. Huddled together on the floor, in a little heap, quite still, and the floor, such a cry of pain and terror rang in his ears as he never before had heard, and as he never afterwards forgot.

There was no need for Norman to go for help, for everybody had heard the report of the gun, and in a few seconds the whole household had rushed into the room, and then there was a great hubbub of voices, and cries, and lamentations, but the only words that Norman heard was the piteous, "My child, my child!" that broke in a wild shriek from his mother's lips.

Was Elsie dead?

They lifted her up softly from the floor. The blue eyes were shut, and the little face was white except for the stains of blood upon it, but Norman heard her give one moan, and that sound of pain was the first thing that seemed to bring his own life back to him.

He had never uttered a word as they came hurrying into the room. Some of the servants began to question him; one took him by the arm and shook him roughly; but he neither moved nor answered.

He only stood by his mother's side (his mother, who in her anguish never spoke to him,) clinging to her gown, and grasping it tight in both his hands.

"Oh, I wish I was dead! I wonder if I shall be able to die!"

The poor young heart in its misery was passionately crying to itself.

It was almost half an hour before a doctor could be got, and when he came they carried Elsie out of Norman's sight.

An hour later, the little blue-eyed, yellow-haired child lay quiet on her bed, asleep, with her mother's hand in hers.

And her mother, sitting at the bedside, was looking at her with a look as if her heart would break. "Oh, my Elsie, whose little feet will never make music on the floor again," she was murmuring over her through her bitter tears.

For Elsie was not dead, and did not die—but she was lamed for life. The shot had gone into her right leg a little below the thigh, shattering it to pieces, and the surgeon had had to cut it off.

"It might have killed her; let us think how much more unhappy we might have been," Mr. Foster said, as he held his wife in his arms, and tried to comfort her. "If she lives, we can bear all the rest. Thank God! Thank God!"

The father and mother were alone together in Elsie's room; they had neither of them yet spoken to or even seen Norman.

"Where is he?" Mr. Foster asked, after a long while, and the poor mother almost shuddered as she answered:

"I don't know! I know nothing about him," she hurriedly said.

"Can you tell me where Norman is?" he went out presently, and asked one of the servants.

"I think he is in the garden, sir," the woman answered; and then Mr. Foster went into the garden and called him. He knew that it was his duty to see the lad and talk to him. "Norman," he called loudly, but it was only after he had repeated his name twice that the unhappy boy came.

He came, not daring to look into his father's face, and the father in silence put his hand upon his shoulder, and led him back into the house.

He took him into his study and closed the door. "I must punish him, but how can I punish him?" he was thinking to himself. "I must speak to him, but what can I say?" It seemed so useless, almost like mockery, to use words of ordinary rebuke to him—to treat him as if the feeling towards him in his heart was one of common anger.

For a few moments he stood silent, with his hand still on Norman's shoulder; then he tried to begin to speak, but a knot came into his throat, and the words would not come. There only came instead of them the sound of a great rising sob.

The boy looked suddenly up in a great terror and anguish; he had never in his life before seen his father weep.

He looked up almost wildly into the white and quivering face, his own all quivering too; and then something all at once swept away from each of them all anger and fear, and in their common anguish they clasped each other in their arms, and on his father's breast the lad wept his heart away.

We learn by experience indeed; but how much the happiest are they who gather wisdom without her sharp and bitter teaching!

From the day on which he shot his little sister, Norman Foster was never an entirely light-hearted boy again. How could he be wholly happy any more when his reckless play had taken the light and gladness out of that other little joyous life?

The look of Elsie's shrunken face in her little bed seemed half to break his heart when he saw it first, the sight of the two little crutches she was to use,—well, that took them all down, I think. All of them, at least, except Elsie herself.

She looked at them with big, round eyes, and laughed, and said it would be so funny to walk about on those two sticks. "You walk with them now, Norman, and let me see," she called, eagerly, from her bed, where she was propped up with pillows. But Norman did not do what she asked him. He could not, but ran out of the room with a great sob.

She had become, even by that time, the dearest thing in all the world to him, and she remained dearer to him than all other people as long as he continued to live. This great sweetness and blessing came out of the injury that he had done her, that, to make up to her for what he had robbed her of, he gave her the devotion of his whole life.

He had been rough and willful and reckless until now, but the thing that he had done to her changed him, through the suffering and remorse it brought with it, into another creature. He became a perfect knight to this fragile little sister—patient and gentle, wise and tender.

She never grew very strong; the shock she had borne had been too great for her even to rally wholly from it, and in her weakness he used to care for her and wait upon her with a love that never tired.

He had almost taken her life away, and so he gave his own life up to her, and they grew to love each other with a love that was passionate in its greatness.

When many years had passed, and they were left alone, they neither of them married, but lived together till they grew almost old. She was a little delicate thing, and he was tall and strong. He used, even when she was quite a woman, to carry her about in his arms.

They came to have the same thoughts about most things. They were very happy, though he perhaps was a little graver than other people. But she was as bright always as a bird.

"What have I to be sad about?" she sometimes said to him. "I might have had all kinds of trouble if I had been like other women; but now I have none. You never let me bear anything; you never let me want for anything; I have only to live and enjoy and be content."

And so she did live—all her innocent quiet life—hardly ever seeming to miss the things that she had lost, like a caged bird that does not know the world, and has no longing to spread its wings.

"She was the center of all the world to me," Norman Foster said once when death came at last and parted them,—for it was she who went first. "She was everything to me—mother and sister and wife and friend in one."

He was not thinking of the bitterness that had mingled with his love for her once when he spoke so; he had ceased perhaps then to dwell on the harm he had once done her, and had come only to remember that they had walked all through their lives together, like children, hand in hand.

Diphtheria.

AN IOWA PHYSICIAN'S MODE OF TREATMENT.

Dr. W. A. Scott, of Sandyville, sends the following communication to the Chicago Inter-Ocean:

"I have noticed in the newspapers the terrible ravages of that fearful disease, diphtheria, and, knowing that death by this disease would be an unusual occurrence if proper treatment was used, I send you mine, which I have used for about fifteen years, and through several terrible epidemics, with invariable success, if the directions were followed and the remedy used in any reasonable stage of the disease.

The disease is very dangerous because of its want of pain, or symptoms, to show its terrible character, and the whole system is frequently under its poisonous influence before the danger is suspected. This need not be when the disease is prevailing, for if there is any complaint of the throat it should be carefully examined, and the trouble can be easily detected by the whitish-looking patches of mucus adhering to the tonsils, or organs at the top of the throat. The disease is undoubtedly local at the start, and I treat it as such. It is always contagious, and, I think, infectious also, so one should use great care to keep separate, and cleanse thoroughly before use by others, everything which is used by the sick, and the room should be well ventilated and the temperature kept comfortable—not too hot.

Dissolve twenty grains of pure permanganate of potassa in one ounce of water, and apply it to the afflicted parts with a swab, gently but thoroughly, every three hours until better; then not so often. After the patient gets better, weaken the solution by adding an equal quantity of water. This solution does not give any pain, nor is there any danger in its use, but it has a nasty taste which is its only objection.

Apply the following liniment to the throat outside, three to four times a day: Sweet oil, aqua ammonia, spirits of turpentine, of each half an ounce; mix together.

Keep a cotton cloth, not woolen, around the throat till well. The above is all I use in simple cases, and all that is needed.

If there is much fever, I mix five drops of liquid extract of aconite root with four ounces of water, and give to a small child one-fourth of a teaspoonful; a child 5 to 10 years, half a teaspoonful; 10 to 15 years a teaspoonful; over that age two teaspoonfuls. Give every one or two hours, as may seem needed to cool the fever.

If there is blood poisoning, which may be known by the bad-smelling breath and quick beating of the heart, give: Rx. chloroform, one fluid drachm; comp. spts. lav., one drachm; alcohol, one ounce; mix. Five to twenty drops, according to age, mixed in cold water, every hour to two hours, as may seem necessary. This will quickly quiet the heart's tumultuous action, and aid it to throw off the poison. Do not give harsh physics. If needed, give castor oil or purgative magnesia. Keep the patient from exposure to chilly air or cold baths. This treatment, which I have published in several medical journals, will rob this disease of its terrors, and save from the grave many a loved one.

"Gath" on Beecher.

Looking at him as an intellectual study, it occurred to me that it was a triumph of the art of extemporaneous speaking. I was told in the church that when he first came among them he was less easy and prompt in the selection of fit words to convey his meaning. Had he at that period commenced to write sermons and become the slave of manuscript, he could never have brought to perfection that sympathetic, conversational power he employs to explain and illustrate, not only Scripture, but matters of feeling and daily experience. Beecher's gentle sensibilities, study of nature, adaptability for friendship, love, and the delicate side of life gave him originally the seat of power. Having a great deal of work to do, he adopted the plan at the outset of preaching from his mind instead of from the page. His studies, therefore, consist in drawing a plan of his sermon and thinking out the figure which will fill it up. As a reader of the daily news, he hardly has an equal among clergymen, and there is more of the suggestive and human in the newspaper than in Shakspeare or Bacon. No man can be a first class, popular preacher unless there is something of the politician at his heart. No great act of the church or its ecclesiastics but has in some way been connected with politics and national action. All cardinals are forgotten but the political cardinals, like Woolsey, Cromwell, Richelieu. Even the theologians take human effect by political performances, as in the case of Calvin, Luther, Mohammed, Confucius and Father Matthew. The minister who does not read the papers is not fit for duty where the multitude by daily friction is in no mood to hear cold disquisitions on stupid old patriarchs and prophets.

Astonishing the World.

For a perfect renovation of exhausted and enfeebled constitutions, female weakness and decline, nothing so surely and speedily produces a permanent cure as does Electric Bitters. Their wonderful cures are astonishing the world. For Kidney or Urinary complaints they are a perfect specific. Do not give up in despair, for Electric Bitters will positively cure, and that where everything else fails. Sold by C. A. Wright & Co., at 50 cents a bottle.

MONEY—FARMS—ABSTRACTS.

If you want to hire money at very low rates.

If you have money to loan.

If you want to buy a farm or a home.

If you want to sell your real estate.

If you want a deed or mortgage correctly made.

If you want a complete abstract of title. Call on A. L. Bliss.

Among other Farms for sale I have one of 160 acres and one of 80 acres in Palmyra both being well tiled and fenced, and first class in every respect, with four market towns within easy driving distance, in good neighborhood. Also 125 acre farm 1½ miles west of river road from Deerfield. Also 160 acre farm and 90 acre farm, and 20 acre farm in Riga, any of which are decided bargains, and good reasons given for naming low prices.

Every purchaser of Lands should insist on being furnished an abstract of title, for our experience of more than 20 years shows that not more than one title in ten is perfect of record, and every week purchases agreed upon are abandoned owing to imperfections of title. I have a good carriage or farm horse, 1300 lbs. in weight for sale at a bargain.

A few thousand dollars now on hand to loan at six per cent. and on long time if desired.

HEALTH OF HORSES.—The health and comfort of horses have of late years been greatly improved by the better construction of stables. They are made more roomy and lofty, and provided with means of thorough ventilation. In many new stables lofts are done away with, or the floor of the lofts is kept well above the horses' heads, and ample shafts are introduced to convey away the foul air. By perforated bricks and gratings under the mangers and elsewhere round the walls, and also by windows and ventilators, abundance of pure air is secured for the horses; while being introduced in moderate amount and from various directions, it comes in without draught. Too much draught is almost an unknown stable luxury. To secure a constant supply of pure air horses require more cubic space than they generally enjoy. Even when animals are stabled only at night, a minimum 1,200 cubic feet should be allowed. In England the newer cavalry barracks give a minimum of 1,509 feet, with a ground area of fully ninety square feet per horse, and the best hunting and carriage horses have more room.

TO THE AFFLICTED.

Since the introduction of Kellogg's Columbian Oil it has made more permanent cures and given better satisfaction on Kidney complaints and Rheumatism than any known remedy. Its continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it known as a safe and reliable agent to employ against all aches and pains, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders. It acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering and often saving life. The protection it affords by its timely use on Rheumatism, kidney affection, and all aches and pains, wounds, cramping pains, cholera morbus, diarrhea, coughs, colds, catarrh, and disorders among children, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. It is absolutely certain in its remedial effects and will always cure when cures are possible. Call at C. A. Wright & Co's. and get a memorandum book giving more full details of the curative properties of this wonderful medicine.

AN ICEBERG.—Drop a piece of ice into a tumbler of water. It floats, but almost the whole of it is below the surface. A small fraction of the mass is out. As the gravity of ice is to water, so is the part above the surface to the part below. It makes no difference how large or how small the lump. It may be as big as a mountain, or as small as an apple, nine times as much of its weight will be under water as above. If then the huge mass stands like the Pyramid of Cheops out of the sea, it reaches nearly nine times as far below. Such was the immense cathedral-like, turreted, towering, stupendous pile as we gave it a wide margin, and passed it, glowing and brilliant in the clear, cold morning sun. With the knowledge of its proportions and the necessary fate of a ship that should run upon it, we looked with awe, while its beauty was fascinating. There was "a weight of glory" in it.

Greatest Remedy Known.

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumptive is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity.—Thousands of once hopeless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this Discovery to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggists, M. Wright & Son, and get a trial bottle free of cost which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar size bottle will do. For sale by M. Wright & Son, Tecumseh.

—If you have pimples, boils, salt rheum, rough skin, &c., take "Lindsey's Blood Searcher." Sold by all druggists.

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a Common Eruption to the Worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the Stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

ITS NAME IS ITS BEST DESCRIPTION as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the Surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.
It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.
It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.
It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons, and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 12 ounces, or 40 to 50 doses. Sold by dealers in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you, as it will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

A man and his wife can never agree upon what constitutes a tidy-looking room; a woman will grow irritable when she finds half a dozen cigar stumps sticking to the scorched mantel-piece, and he can't be expected to keep calm when he finds a bunch of long "combings" in his shaving mug.

An old Scotch lady was told that her minister used notes, but would not believe it. Said one, "Gang into the gallery and see." She did so and saw the written sermon. After the luckless preacher had concluded his reading on the last page, he said, "But I will not enlarge." Moral And Religious.

Education should bring to light the idea of the individual.

We can do more good by being good than in any other way.

Keep clear of a man who does not value his own character.

Think wrongly, if you please—but in all cases think of yourself.

In the interchange of thought use no coin but gold and silver.

A reflected, thinking, inquiring life is really the most exalted existence.

It will be everything to us in the life to come that we had a good character in this life.

Let amusement fill up the chinks of your existence, but not the greatest space thereof.

If you would render your children helpless, never compel or permit them to help themselves.

Every man has a place in this world. The reason why so many fail is that they are out of their places.

The young man playing base ball needs religion quite as much as the young man sick with the consumption.

The forgiveness of enemies solely because it is heaping coals of fire upon their heads is a vice, not a virtue.

If religion could be made a part of life, people could enjoy any proper amusements and be made better by them.

There are some good things in every man. The trouble with too many men is they are deformed in character.

We have weak points both by birth and education, and it may be questioned which of the two give us most trouble.

When once infidelity can persuade men that they shall die like beasts, they will soon be brought to live like beasts.

Modesty in your furniture, equiphage and words will show that your mind is well regulated and your heart free from passion.

If the emblem of mourning is to be placed on any door bell, it ought to be on that one rung by an intemperate or dishonest father.

The least degree of ambiguity which leaves the mind in suspense as to the meaning, ought to be avoided with the greatest care.

If men will hold fast to these truths—man a sinner and Christ a Saivor—they will come to other truths that belong with these.

Have the courage to be ignorant of a great number of things in order to avoid the calamity of being ignorant of everything.

Money and time are the heaviest burdens of life, and the unhappiest of all mortals are those who have more of either than they know how to use.

Don't think there is something radically wrong about the world because it don't run according to your notion. There are thousands who think the same.

Great Britain has two thousand yachts, with a tonnage of 92,000 tons, whose st was at least $18,400,000, and assuming a fourth of them to be commissioned during the summer months, the sum expended on their maintenance would be, at a rough estimate, nearly $3,750,000. The money spent on yacht building and repairs is $750,000, and five thousand men are employed. In fact, the nobility seem to make no account of the money which they spend in this way.

DR. A. FRASK'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

ALL SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant, with INFLAMMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

PILES! PILES!! PILES!!!

A Sure Cure Found at Last. No One Need Suffer.

A sure cure for the Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams (an Indian remedy), called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 and 30 years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, Instruments, and Electuaries do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching (particularly at night after getting warm in bed), acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for Piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment: "I have used scores of pile cures, but it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment."

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

THE NEW YORK SENATORSHIP.

TUESDAY, June 7.—The anticipated break to Depew began to-day, ten Miller men going over in a body, this being the only change of any moment. The Conkling vote stood solid and there are, so far, no indications of a break in the deadlock. Depew's vote reached 42, and his friends confidently assert his vote will run up to fifty or fifty-nine on Wednesday. Conkling has returned to Albany from New York, and his friends assert he has come to stay.

Two of the proposed rules moved by Senator Woodin—one providing that the convention shall meet every day, except Sunday, at noon, and the other that adjournments shall be from day to day, or over Sunday, were adopted. The third rule, which proposed to require a two-thirds vote for the repeal of the others, or for an adjournment longer than one day, was laid on the table. So that the business and sessions of the joint convention remain substantially under control of the majority.

WEDNESDAY, June 8.—In the assembly a concurrent resolution that the legislature adjourn sine die on the 16th inst. was laid over under the rule. The joint convention assembled at noon, Lieut. Gov. Hoskins in the chair for the first time since the meeting of the convention. The convention proceeded to vote to fill the vacancy in the United States senate, caused by the resignation of Conkling.

The 8th ballot for senator was then taken and the result showed that the number of absentees had been reduced to five, three of whom were democrats. Conkling received 34 votes in the ballot for his vacant seat, and there was no attempt at a concentration of his opponents, the highest vote for any republican being Wheeler's 21, followed by Cornell's 19, Rogers' 15, and half a dozen smaller lots. On the ballot for Platt's vacancy the administration men apparently gathered themselves for a special effort, and they succeeded in counting up 51 for Depew, that number being nine more than the votes given for the same candidate on Tuesday. The gain was not large enough to offer much promise of success, for it left him still 27 votes short of the number necessary to elect, with 155 members present.

When the name of C. H. Russell was called, he said: "On each ballot I have thus far voted for the return of the late distinguished senators. They were my choice, and my judgment at that time led me to give them my support. Without desiring to make any distinction between these two gentlemen, I regard Conkling as the ideal senator. I have, however, just returned from my constituents, and am convinced by such evidence as should satisfy any fair-minded person that nine-tenths of the republicans there are opposed to the return of the late senators. I have a duty to perform to the republicans who sent me here, and that is, to give voice to their sentiments, and I therefore vote for Cornell."

ALBANY, June 9.—There was an attempt at bribery yesterday in the legislature. Mr. Bradley rose to a question of privilege and declared that he had received $2,000 "to pay him if he would vote for Chauncey M. Depew." He added that he had delivered the money to the speaker, and was confirmed in the assertion by the speaker. A committee of investigation was promptly named.

Mr. Depew received 53 votes, a gain of two since yesterday.

The investigation committee promptly began its labors last night, and listened to Bradley's testimony, who swore that the money had been paid by Senator Sessions, one of the half-breed leaders. The witness detailed the circumstances of two interviews with Sessions, and the circumstances under which the cash was delivered, with great particularity. Mr. Sessions followed with a statement in which almost every point in Bradley's evidence was admitted and repeated, except the pecuniary transaction. He admitted urging Bradley to vote for Depew, but denied in the most positive manner that any suggestion, even of money, was made.

ALBANY, June 10.—The joint Convention of the two houses of the legislature voted twice for successor to ex-United States Senator Conkling and Platt to-day. In both ballots the vote for Conkling's successor showed no notable change. Two of the stalwarts were absent, and one returned to Conkling, so that his score stood 33 instead of 34. Wheeler and Lapham stock went up on the second ballot, and Cornell dropped from 15 to 11. The chief interest centered about Depew. His friends had been working desperately to keep him on his feet and to show to the people that they had confidence in him, in spite of the damaging charge that had been made against Senator Sessions. They have two strings to their conspiracy bow. One is that Depew is the victim of a Conkling conspiracy, and the other that he is the victim of a conspiracy among imprudent adherents to elect him by mistaken means. The latter theory is only advanced "on the dead quiet." They not only kept the votes already scored, but got two recruits on the first ballot and another on the second, though, as one of their followers left the house in the interim, the total is the same—viz., 54.

There were eleven absentees when this vote was taken, two of whom were straight stalwarts and three straight Depew men. If the members had all been there, Depew's vote would have been 57. This is believed to be the extreme limit of Depew's strength, and that after the bribery expose no possible power can elect him now. His friends may stick to him to show their fidelity, the same as the stalwarts stick to Conkling. He may be entirely innocent of bribery, but the stain clings to his Mibby, and that will be fatal to his chances. The stalwarts say they have yet other torpedoes to explode before the inquiry ceases, but the administration men bravely assert that they will yet prove corruption among the Conkling men. Gen. Spinola arose to a question of privilege in the house to-day, and moved that the comptroller be directed to apply the $2,000 bribery money to the support of impecunious members while they are kept in Albany in a state of involuntary servitude. The chairman ruled him out of order, and Spinola offered a mock apology.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 12.—There are many who believe the present week will mark the election of Rogers and Depew, or, if not, final adjournment will perhaps be effected. While all Republicans assert they are prepared and determined to remain until December, yet the most casual observer can note the growing belief that the issue had better be left with the people for final settlement. Already the public press have commenced advising an adjournment, and marked papers of such advice are received daily and freely distributed. There is no excitement at the hotels to-day.

During the past week an evening paper published the fact that a number of bills of large denomination had been drawn from one of the city banks. It was also said, with equal truth, that State Treasurer Wendell was an officer of the bank, and John F. Smith a member of the Board of Directors. Investigation reveals the fact that the money was drawn by a broker of the city for the use of a party engaged in mercantile pursuits. This fact will settle any wrong inference which might be drawn from the article in question.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

An English corporation has made an offer to the government of Nova Scotia for the entire railway system of the province, which can be taken on certain terms fixed in the charters of the respective roads. The provincial legislature will soon be called together to consider the scheme.

George Babcock, one of the leading business men of Pueblo, Col., took a back to ride around the city, and attempted to kill himself with a revolver. He is well known throughout the west, having been superintendent for Wells & Fargo twenty years ago.

Billy the Kid, the rising young bandit of New Mexico, has added three more graves on his way to Mexican soil. Patrick Garrett, the sheriff of Lincoln county, has been on the trail of this fiend since April 27, but has failed to come up with him.

The state department at Washington is distributing a pamphlet on hog products, the facts having been obtained through official sources. It is stated that in Chicago a large trade is done in Limerick bacon and hams, which are sold in the English and Irish markets at almost double the price asked for honestly-branded American cuts.

A whirlwind in Deadwood Gulch killed one lady, and severely injured three other persons. Four houses were destroyed, and trees and telegraph poles torn down. Hailstones fell for two hours, one measuring twenty-two inches in circumference.

A solitary robber stopped a stage near San Antonia, Tex., in which were four passengers, and forced one of them to bring the mail-pouch near him, cut it open and pour out the contents. Two of the passengers had cocked revolvers in their hands and on the person of one was secreted $17,000, which fact was not ascertained by the robber.

A handsome young lady registered at Niagara Falls as Mrs. Brown, of New York, and soon afterwards made an attempt to leap from the railing at Luna island, but was caught by two Boston gentlemen. It was learned that she came from the Ursuline convent at Morrisania, N. Y., and she stated that she had had trouble with her husband, and wanted to die.

A prize-fight for $100 a side took place on Saturday at Clinton, Pa., between Dan Mullroy and Mike McLaughlin. Both men fought desperately for seven rounds, when the referee gave McLaughlin the fight on account of a foul. Both men were novices in the ring. A train-load of people witnessed two rounds from their seats in the cars.

Andrew D. Robeson, a nephew of the ex-secretary of the navy, was killed at Hunnewell, Kan., by a stroke of lightning. His clothing was stripped from his body, his watch-chain melted, and his horse killed at his side. A man named Elenfelat was struck lifeless while standing under a tree near Fort Atkinson, Wis., and Miss Hutchinson and Miss Cox were similarly dispatched in Hamilton, Tex.

At the close of a circus performance at Chesaning, Mich., the young people organized a bowery dance. A party of twenty of the showmen, armed with clubs, made an unprovoked attack on the citizens, in which the village president was knocked down, a special policeman clubbed to death, the head of another man pounded to a jelly, and still another received a pistol ball in the face. Fifteen others were bruised. Five of the desperadoes were arrested.

The state department at Washington publishes a mass of information from diplomatic representatives on the pork trade in Europe. Minister Kasson insists that until official action is taken at home in regard to the cause and effect of hog cholera, or trichinæ, we are in some degree responsible for the alarm existing abroad. Minister Noyes expresses the belief that not 1 per cent. of American pork is affected. Minister Lowell reports that Mr. Mundella will not permit unnecessary restrictions in England.

George Gorham, a lawyer in Buffalo, kept $100,000 worth of bonds in the Erie County Savings Bank vaults. One day he called, clipped off some coupons, and left the bonds on the cashier's desk, whence they were stolen. A Baltimore lawyer named Whyte, agent for the thief, coolly offers to return the "swag" for a bonus of $50,000.

The loss by the disastrous conflagration at Quebec Thursday night, is estimated at $2,000,000. Nearly seven hundred buildings were burned, and fifteen hundred persons were rendered homeless. Three bodies have been taken from the ruins, and a lady and two children are still missing. A relief movement has been inaugurated, toward which the governor general gave $500, and the archbishop of Quebec $1,000. The legislature has voted $10,000. Stores and dwellings were ransacked for liquor, burning shingles flew with the breeze and lighted new fires, and there were whirlwinds in which men were lifted off their feet.

The Ohio republican convention renominated Charles Foster for governor, and selected R. G. Richards, of Jefferson county, for lieutenant governor, and Nicholas Longworth, of Cincinnati, for supreme judge. The platform gives a hearty indorsement to President Garfield. John Sherman reviewed the history of the republican party. Richards is of Welsh descent, about 40 years of age, and a resident of Steubenville. Educated as a lawyer, he has served in both houses of the legislature, presiding over the senate for one term with great success.

At the parade of the Army of the Potomac, at Hartford, Generals Burnside, Wright, Franklin, and Devens marched in the ranks. An oration was delivered at the opera-house by Daniel Dougherty, and brief speeches were made by a number of famous leaders. General Devens was elected president, and Detroit was selected as the place of meeting next year. At the banquet General Sherman pronounced the army the skirmish line along the frontier of civilization. He also denounced as false the statements of Jeff Davis as to the burning of Columbia. Robert T. Lincoln was given three cheers on the conclusion of his address.

Foxhall, an American horse owned by James R. Keene, won the grand prize in the Paris races on Sunday, and the American colony in that city is wild with joy over the victory. The attendance was nearly three hundred thousand. The affair has created intense excitement in the sporting circles of London, where it helps to lessen their mortification over the achievement of Iroquois. It seems that Archer rode Tristan, who came in second, while Fordham was the successful jockey. Among those who witnessed the sport were President Grevy, ex-Queen Isabella, Rochefort and Marshal MacMahon. The prize is 1,000,000 francs, one-half of which is given by the municipality of Paris, and the other half by five railway companies. Foxhall was foaled on the Alexander farm, in Kentucky, and purchased and sent abroad by Mr. Keene last year.

THE NORTHWESTERN MUTUAL LIFE OF MILWAUKEE.

Its Wonderful Record—What the East Thinks of it.

The conviction is rapidly forcing itself on the country that the west has become remarkable as the home of great financial institutions.

The editorial mind has been led into this train of thought, by the annual report of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, which lies before us as we write. It is no new thing for the writer of this article, who has long been a policy holder in the company, to call attention to its merits; but there are some points in the present report that are so striking as to deserve special comment.

The east has older and larger companies, but the young giant of the west has been making wonderful strides during the last decade, and we are not sure but the time has arrived when, in the essential points of security and cheapness of insurance, it is destined permanently to lead its older competitors of the east.

Taking from the last Massachusetts insurance reports the figures of the ten largest companies, it is undeniable that the Northwestern shows: first, the largest ratio of assets to liabilities, and sustains its claim to safest insurance; second, the largest reduction of cost of insurance by dividends to policy holders. Such being the case, it is worth while to enquire for the underlaying causes.

In the first place, it goes without saying that such results could only be attained by the highest ability in the management of the Company. This is shown by the fact that, owing to the small proportion of death losses—a direct result of care in the selection of risks—and the careful and advantageous investment of funds, the Company has, for seven consecutive years, actually received sufficient interest on its investments to pay all its death losses and expenses of management. This result is unparalleled in the history of insurance.

A further wonderful fact is that the total payments to policy holders since the organization of the Company in 1858—for losses, dividends, endowments and lapsed and surrendered policies, together with the funds now held for the protection of policy holders, are greater by nearly six millions of dollars than all that has been paid in by them; showing that the investment of funds has been so advantageous as not only to pay all expenses from interest receipts, but to add about six millions to the funds for the benefit of policy holders from this source alone. It is hardly possible to bestow higher praise than simply to mention these eloquent figures.

It only remains to be added that the people show their appreciation of this Company by insuring in it. The new business of 1880 exceeded that of 1879 by more than a million of dollars; while 1881, so far shows a much larger proportionate gain than 1880. As for the Central New York general agency, its increase is more than 300 per cent.

And when it is remembered that this company is and always has been purely mutual; one of the few (only two in New York and four in other states) which never had any stock or stockholders, and in which consequently, the policy holders are the Company, owning and running it themselves, and getting all the benefits of its excellent management; when this is remembered, we say, the reason is clearly apparent why the people seek insurance in The Northwestern.—Watertown Daily Times, April 8th, 1881. Wm. DeMott is the agent of this company at Tecumseh.

Hudson Post: Harry, the youngest son of Henry Johnson, met with quite a severe mishap Saturday. He was sawing a piece of board, being barefoot, when the saw slipped, and striking his foot, it cut one of the arteries. It was some time before his mother succeeded in stopping the flow of blood, and it will yet be a long time before it will get entirely well.

Adrian Press: A singular and serious accident befell Mr. George Bradley, of Mich. avenue, last Friday. Mr. Bradley, who is a carpenter, was at work in the shop of Beck & Vogt, and and mounting a saw horse to reach for something, fell backward. In his fall the fleshy part of his arm near the elbow struck the long pointed spout of an oil can, which was driven nearly through the arm. Mr. Bradley will be disabled for some time.

Hudson Gazette: VanAmburgh's Great Show will be here in a few days, but we trust no Hudson "aleck" will do like the Lacey boys, of Madison, Wis., who went to a menagrie, and became filled with the idea of starting a beast show of their own, using such material as was within reach. They painted stripes on a white pony for a zebra, sheared the hind half of a big Newfoundland dog for a lion, cut off the fore legs of a calf for a Kangaroo, and were about to make a tailless cat by chopping when their father discovered them.

In New Jersey it is against the law to fish on Sunday.

FUNERAL OF DR. NEWCOMB.

The saddest day Blissfield has seen in years, was Saturday last, when the mournful rites of the living to the dead were observed over the remains of our friend and brother, the late Dr. R.B.C. Newcomb, at the Presbyterian Church, at 10 A. M. Many persons called at the house during the hours that intervened, to console and weep with the stricken family, and look upon the face of the deceased for the last time. At the ringing of the bell, the places of business were closed, some of them being draped, and one and all wended their way to the church. Long before the procession arrived there, it was filled to overflowing, many being compelled to remain outside. Among the large assembly were many persons who had come from Lansing, Hudson, Toledo, Detroit, Tecumseh, Clinton, Adrian and other places. The floral offerings were very beautiful. Depending from the pulpit was a large pillow of white carnations, with the letter "N" interwoven with geranium leaves. On the right and left were large vases of flowers, while ivy leaves were festooned upon the wall, and hot-house plants that were rare and lovely tastefully arranged around the altar. Resting upon the casket was a star of carnations with the letter "N" beautifully interwoven, a wreath of white flowers, and a handsome Maltese cross.—Blissfield Advance.

CHILDRENS' Day passed off very pleasantly at the M. E. church last Sabbath. A large audience of parents and children attended the evening service, which consisted of short addresses, interspersed with songs of praise. Such days are memorable in a church experience.

Hudson Post: Quite a number of young men are in the habit of going through the emigrant trains that go through this place. Considering the number of small-pox cases that have been found amongst emigrants, this is a very dangerous practice, and all who have been doing so should stop it.

A COPY of the last catalogue of the Michigan Military Academy is on our table. The success of this institution has been very marked since its inception, and it is destined to take a high rank among the colleges of the State. There are now one hundred and ten students upon the roll of membership.

ONE of the masons at work on the Mill's block told the contractor, Mr. A. Detroyer, that he wanted to go home to Detroit to see his family and would return the next day, and furthermore that he would like five dollars in advance of his wages. Mr. Detroyer's generosity proved too much for him and he advanced the fellow five dollars, who quickly accepted and went to the bosom of his family from whence he has failed to return as yet.

THE M. E. society are thinking of purchasing a double bank pipe organ.

THE picket fence that encloses Merritt & Stretch's lumber yard is quite ornamental.

THE telephone between Heck Bros.' office and mill did not work so they took it down.

I. P. KEYSER brought into the HERALD office this morning one of oddest specimens of a hen's egg that we have ever seen. It is a soft shell egg with an appendage irregular in form and about 3 inches long.

THE Baptist young people will give a Strawberry and Ice Cream festival next Tuesday evening. It being the first strawberry festival of the season and occuring on the capacious lawn of Mrs. Dr. Fisher, a good time may be expected. All are cordially invited to be present.

ANDREW COVELL left at the HERALD office the form of a Dakota note that his brother sent him from Scotland Dakota. Among many of the obligations of the signer is one which sanctions the levying upon his last suit of clothes and food for the family for payment. Another one in case the note is not paid at maturity binds the signer to diet on corn bread and sorghum molasses until the demands of the note are satisfied.

ON account of the recent heavy rains the wool market has just fairly opened. The combined receipts of the three firms buying wool here this season, Messrs. Anthony & Hanford, Slayton & Son, and H. W. Stevens, had up to yesterday morning not reached much over 10,000 pounds.—The prices range from 25 to 33 cents. All these firms, however, have contracted for the wool of a great many farmers in the vicinity.

THE eclipse of the moon, produced by the earth passing between it and the sun, took place last Saturday night as advertised. The first appearance of the shadow was about 11:30.—The sky was somewhat obscured by clouds and it was not until they had passed over about 12 o'clock that a person could distinguish much. At 12:35 the eclipse was total. It was nearly 3 o'clock when the shadow passed entirely from the moon.

MESSRS WOODWARD & DAIGNEAN have placed on exhibition at the post office some very beautiful Cameo Oil Paintings which no one should fail to examine. These gentleman are teaching this beautiful art, and doing work to order. They guarantee that anyone can learn as the process is simple. As they will be here but a short time, those desiring to learn should call as early as possible at their rooms at Mrs. Catlin's on Chicago St.

N. M. SUTTON has been fitting up and rebuilding his homestead residence on the farm this spring, and as a proper finishing touch he has put in a full gas outfit. The work was done by the Combination Gas Co. of Detroit, the same firm that put in the gas works at the Opera House. Last Friday evening they were tested, and the Sutton mansion enjoyed an illumination. They work splendidly. Mr. Sutton now has the advantages of a city residence in his lighting arrangements and at the same time enjoys a quiet country life on the farm.

MR. WHEELER, a commercial traveller, drove to Clinton from Tecumseh last week Wednesday to visit his customers in that place. When he asked them if they wanted any goods they told him they would not buy anything of a man who did not patronize their hotel. Mr. Wheeler told the gentlemen that he paid his own travelling expenses and patronized whom he pleased, turned around and came back to Tecumseh. The Clinton hotel is a first-class one and will draw patronage by its own merits.

DR. S. CATLIN has lately received a large lot of Microscopic objects. The number includes Diatones, recent and fossil; Foraminifera and Polycestina. These are specimens from nearly all the waters of the globe collected by the Challenger expedition and are beautiful as well as interesting. There are also many physiological and educational, so called, preparations. An evening spent in studying these objects is exceedingly profitable and pleasant. Dr. House, who is continually adding to his collections of scientific works and objects as aids in his profession, took a number of dozen of these specimens.

THE annual lawn social which was held last Friday afternoon at Row Vescelius' residence in Milan was well attended. It is estimated that there were at least one thousand people present. Croquet, glass ball shooting, and base ball playing, took up the time in the afternoon, and a bowery dance constituted the evening's program. Refreshments were served during the afternoon and evening until the crowd was all fed. The receipts of the society amounted to $106, while the pea-nut and lemonade stand netted $62.30. Net gain for the society $98,00. Which will pay a full quarter,s installment on the pastor's salary. The success of these annual lawn socials show that the Moreville church is in a flourishing condition.

THE produce business of Tecumseh is enormous. The two egg buyers, Messrs. F. Bumann and T. A. Aiken, are taking in about 20,000 dozen of eggs per week. Their wagons are to be seen skirmishing all around the surrounding country.

CHILDREN'S Sunday will be observed next Sabbath at the Universalist church. An appropriate service will be held in the morning, after which the Sunday School will proceed in a body to the cemetery and decorate the graves of the deceased members of the school. In the evening a concert will be held. The church will be trimmed as usual on this occasion.

COMMENCEMENT.

Next week is commencement week of the Tecumseh Public Schools. The graduating class consists of Hettie L. McClue, Estella Miller, Martin W. Wilson. The class is small in numbers but its superiority in other respects compensates for this.

The exercises will be held at the Opera House on next Thursday evening, June 23rd.

Chancellor E. B. Fairfield, of the Nebraska State University will deliver an address before the graduating class immediately following the regular graduating exercises. Chancellor Fairfield is one of the finest speakers in the Northwest, and his Tecumseh audiences have always been delighted to hear him.

The next evening, Friday, the Alumni will hold their reunion at Merchants' Hall. The exercises will consist of

The Coming Man—Miss Manie Monaghan.
The Ladies—Wm. DeMott.
The Family Man—S. C. Stacy.

MICHIGAN SOUTHERN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSALISTS

Held in Tecumseh last week Wednesday and Thursday, June 8 and 9. The chairman of the association, Hon. Benj. North, of Somerset, being absent, the meeting was called by the clerk, Rev. W. L. Gibbs, of Marshall. During the first day the attendance was light owing to the heavy rains; however, a conference meeting was held after which Rev. W. L. Gibbs, of Marshall furnished a fine serman. Subject: "Go higher in Religion." In the evening Rev. N. A. Saxton preached a sermon. Subject: "The Discovered Christ."

The second day's services were opened in the morning with a praise meeting conducted by Father R. Wooden, of Rome. Rev. N. A. Saxton of Manchester opened with prayer after which remarks were made by Rev. Gibbs, Mrs. Morgan, of Manchester, Capt. Davis, of Clinton, Rev. H. Shepard, Mrs. W. A. Wood, of Tecumseh, and Rev. Saxton, of Manchester. A business meeting was then called, and after the reading of the minutes of the last meeting of the association by the clerk, a committee on nomination and adjournment was appointed, and reported the following nominations for the ensuing year:

Moderator, Rev. H. Shepard, of Tecumseh; Clerk, Rev. W. L. Gibbs, of Marshall; Delegate to State Convention, Rev. N. A. Saxton, of Manchester; to preach the Occasional Sermon, Rev. S. Crane, of Hillsdale. The next meeting was appointed at Manchester. The report was accepted and adopted and business meeting adjourned till 1:30 P. M. o'clock.

The association then listened to a sermon by Rev. W. L. Gibbs, of Marshall.

Afternoon session: The association was called to order by the chairman, who said that the adjourned business meeting of the forenoon was in order. The subject of Missionery work at home was called up and Father Wooden presented a resolution, and made remarks upon the same. Remarks were made on the resolution by Rev. W. L. Gibbs, of Marshall, Rev. N. A. Saxton of Manchester, Capt. Davis, Rev. A. M. Soule, of Farmington, Rev. H. Shepard, of Tecumseh, after which the motion was carried, and Rev. N. A. Saxton, of Manchester was appointed to take charge of the work. Business meeting adjourned to listen to a sermon by Rev. N. A. Saxton of Manchester, subject: "The Fisherman's Net." After the sermon it was decided not to continue the services that evening, and the final business of the association was attended to, and adjourned to meet at Manchester next year. Delegates were present from Liberty, Farmington, Manchester, Moreville, Wolf Creek, Hillsdale, and Marshall.

A scientific club is on foot; there is a good number of charter members who are working it up.

THE rain last Sunday night was of short duration but as terrific as it was short. Thunder and lightning were also in a sportive mood. The old locust tree at the depot, which had withstood so many streaks of lightning, caught it again that night. Its bark was somewhat rent but the old trunk still holds up its defiant head.

THE twenty-first annual session of the State Sunday School Association was held in Plymouth church at Adrian last week. The weather being favorable for the crops yet was unfavorable for the delegates. Rev. M. Ford, of Bay City, was elected President, and Rev. A. H. Gillett, Secretary. The next annual meeting in June 1882, will be held in Tecumseh.

LAST evening Co. C held an election to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of 2nd Lieut. S. A. James, and Orderly Sergeant T. D. McKinney. An informal ballot for 2d Lieut. resulted as follows: F. B. Wood, 2; T. D. McKinney, 2; John Thurlby, 13. Whereupon Thurlby was declared unanimously elected. On motion S. A. James was unanimously elected Orderly Sergeant by acclamation. The company appointed a committee of three to see how many would attend the celebration and if they will pledge themselves to go, the company will attend.

IT was kept a profound secret this time until the very afternoon of the wedding. We refer to the nuptials of our young attorney, Wm. R. Wooden and Miss Minnie Hopkins, daughter of C. H. Hopkins. The ceremony was performed last Thursday evening at the residence of the bride's father, in the presence of a few family relatives, and the couple left for Saginaw on the night train. Yesterday evening a reception was given at J. W. Wooden's, the father of the groom, and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed by those present. Dame Gossip was terribly shocked at finding that the parties had stolen a march on her, but she consoles herself with the reflection that it was a very sensible match. The good wishes of their friends will accompany them. May their life's pathway be strewn with flowers and blessed with health, wealth and prosperity.

Adrian Record: While in the act of handling an adz in the work of framing, on the new residence of Mr. F. J. Hough, S. C. Falkenburg, the well known builder, met with an extremely painful accident. The adz in its downward blow missing the timber, struck Mr. Falkenburg in the calf of the left leg, cutting a deep and long gash. He was conveyed to his home, and Dr. Allen summoned, who dressed his wound, which is one that will probably confine Mr. F. to his house for some time. As good luck would have it, the sufferer was recently insured in the Travelers' Accident Co., of Hartford, and will receive a weekly indemnity of $15.

In the educational column of an exchange we find the question: "How can I educate my son?" We are not much on answering questions, but we will try this one. Your example will educate him; your conversation with friends; the business he sees you contract; the likings and dislikings he hears you express—these will educate him. The society you live in will educate him; your domestic circle will educate him; above all, your rank, your situation in life, your home, your table will educate him. It is not in your power to withdraw from him the continual influence of these things, except you were to withdraw yourself from them also. Education goes on at every instant of time: you can neither stop it nor turn its course. What these have a tendency to make your child, that he will be."—Hillsboro Journal.

Mr. S. D. Gaylord says he believes he has the simplest, cheapest, and most efficient churn made. Any good carpenter can make one, and there is no patent on it. Just this—an oblong box of the size suited to the size of your dairy, made of white wood, a hole 8x10 inches cut in the top, and fitted with a tight cover, and a hole to draw off buttermilk in the bottom. This box is suspended from the ceiling by rings. The rods should be long enough to give a good swing, as that is the motion used to separate the butter. It can be swung by hand, or have it by a sheep power connected by levers to the churn. This gives the oscillating motion so desirable in churning, with much less loss of power from friction of machinery. The principle is governed by no patent that I know of.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca, with branches from Burrall Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independence, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua, Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon, and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only, the another great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.

At ENGLEWOOD, with the L.S. & M.S., and P. Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.

At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.

Grounds will be broken on the Ontonagon & Brule River railroad soon, at or near Ontonagon. A force of men and teams with the necessary tools and appliances for road building are now on the way to the scene of action, and the iron for the first section has been bought. The watchword is "Business."

Ontonagan Miner: The day is coming, and is not far distant, when 160 acres of good tillable land in almost any part of Michigan will be worth a small fortune. Young man, come to the north woods, select a good piece of land, improve it, and have something to help you when old age has rendered you unfit to fight the battle of life.

Chippewa News: The shooting and first thought murder of William Smithers, at St. Ignace, was accidental.—A man named Miller was shooting back of the mill and a bullet from his rifle killed the man. Miller on hearing the result of his carelessness fit for the Sault, but was captured by the Sheriff.

Representative Giles M. Wing, of Manistee, has been awarded the contract for furnishing the stone required in the government improvements at Frankfort, Manistee, Ludington, Pentwater and White Lake. The stone comes from Washington Island, Lake Michigan and Mud Bay. The contract amounts to $23,000.

A man named Lee, confined in the Chippewa County Jail, has, with a small screw-driver, cut his way thro' the jail floor, which is made of foot square timber, and was working at the jail foundation when he was discovered by the jailor. He had been engaged two months in the work which he thought would lead him to liberty.

North Branch Gazette: On the line of the narrow guage railroad between Marlette and Mayville all is activity now. Squads of men along the route, in different places, are preparing the road-bed for the advent of the little "iron horse" that is expected to wake the echoes in the neighborhood of Clifford soon after, if not before the 4th of July.

Muskegon News: Two hundred million feet of logs are in Muskegon River between Big Rapids and the booms here, and 350,000,000 feet in the main river and tributaries above Big Rapids. The booming company is negotiating for the use of electric lights for night work at the booms. The company has rafted and delivered about 600,000 logs this season.

At the W. C. T. U. convention at East Saginaw, it was decided to maintain the headquarters at Lansing the coming year, and Mrs. V. C. Allen, of Lansing, was directed to procure a room for that purpose. Reports were presented from each congressional district, showing the local unions thoroughly organized in each. Woman's suffrage shared the attention of the convention along with temperance.

The following persons have been chosen trustees of Hillsdale college for the next four years: Rev. Geo. R. Holt, Jackson; Hon. J. G. Patterson, Marshall; Rev. M. P. Stockwell, Dover; W. Mauck, Hillsdale; Rev. J. S. Hart, Racine, Wis.; Nicholas Vineyard, Hillsdale, and Rev. C. N. Waldron, Hillsdale. Elvin G. Reynolds was chosen auditor of the board. There are 35 trustees, seven of whom are chosen annually.

Mrs. Sarah A. Skiff, of Metamora, Lapeer county, died very suddenly a few minutes after being married to James H. Drake, of Rochester, last week, and the body was taken to Oxford the next day. Friends of the woman, suspecting foul play, had the remains held for a post mortem examination. Meanwhile Drake, the husband, and Fred Skiff, an alleged former husband of the deceased were arrested to await the result of the inquest.

Allegan Journal: In 1817 Monroe county was organized by proclamation of Gov. Cass, and the territory now embraced in Allegan was a portion of it. In 1822 Lenawee was detached from Monroe and Allegan became a portion of that county. In 1829 Kalamazoo county was detached from Lenawee and Allegan county made a part thereof, till 1835, when Allegan county was organized by the legislature.—The county of Allegan was laid out in 1831. Mr. Samuel A. Bently, a venerable Allegan pioneer, was born in the present county of Monroe when Allegan was a part of it, 64 years ago, and is therefore the oldest native born Alleganian we have.

Texts for Sermons or Essays.

When you hear a young man say that "the world owes him a living," you can make up your mind that he owes the world's people enough to balance the debt.

The Bible does not say much about how the men named in its record died, nor what disease caused their death; but it has a good deal to say of the way they lived.

Wisdom by impulse is to be trusted by those only who have habitually used their reason to the full extent of its powers in forming the heart and cultivating the judgment.

A man who has little or nothing to do with other men on terms of open and free equality needs the native sense of five to behave himself only with a fair average of propriety.

Never chide your husband before company, nor prattle abroad of affairs at home. What passes between two people is much easier made up before than after it has taken air.

Beware of drunkeness. It impairs the understanding, wastes the estate, banishes the reputation, consumes the body, and renders a man of the brightest parts the common jest of an insignificant clown.

Some people are very glad to have you pray with them after the doctor has looked seriously at them, but with returning health they smile at their own fears and your expressed desire for them to lead a better life.

If we live rightly here we shall pass into the other world to live happily there.—Hence we need not mourn the absence of friends who have gone, any more than we should mourn the absence of friends who have gone to another country and are enjoying life there.

There are a great many people who would like to be relieved of drudgery. Coleridge's words, or better, the gospel words, would point out the way. The upward path is one of perpetual victory. There is an indirect way of getting the things of this world, and that is by way of the kingdom.

Mothers, Wives, Daughters, Sons, Fathers, Ministers, Teachers, Business Men, Farmers, Mechanics, ALL should be warned against using and introducing into their HOMES Nostrums and Alcoholic Remedies. Have to such prejudice against, or fear of "Warner's Safe Tonic Bitters." They are what they are claimed to be—harmless as milk, and contain only medicinal virtues. Extract of choice vegetables only. They do not belong to that class known as "Cure-Alls," but only profess to reach cases where the disease originates in debilitated frames and impure blood. A perfect Spring and Summer Medicine.

A Thorough Blood Purifier. A Tonic Appetizer. Pleasant to the taste, invigorating to the body. The most eminent physicians recommend them for their Curative Properties. Once used, always preferred.

A GREAT REVELATION.

Some Valuable Thoughts Concerning Human Happiness, and Timely Suggestions about Securing it.

Synopsis of a Lecture Delivered by Dr. Chas. Craig before the Metropolitan Financial Association.

The free and independent thought of this age accepts statements only where they are proven to be truth, while the developement of mental power seems equally great in every other department of life. The valuable inventions of the day are counted by thousands. The increase of scientific study is universal. The spirit of inquiry in all fields is so marked as to cause comment on every side, while people seem investigating and advancing in every direction which can help them morally, mentally or physically. This is specially true of the human body and everything which concerns it, and the truth which the people have found even in the last fifty years, are simply marvelous. How really ignorant some cultured and supposeably scientific people were only a few years ago, as compared with the present day, may be better understood from a few illustrative facts. A prominent writer prepared an elaborate essay to prove that steamships could never cross the Atlantic, and his pamphlet was just issued in time to be carried by the first steamer that went to England. People once believed the heart was the seat of life and health. It is now known that this organ is only a pump, simply keeping in motion what other and more important organs of the body have created and transformed. It was once supposed that if a person felt a pain in the back, the liver was deranged; if a pain came in the lower chest the lungs were affected and consumption was near; it is now known that a pain in the back indicates diseased kidneys, while troubles in the lower chest arise from a disordered liver and not imperfect lungs. A severe pain in the head was once thought to come from some partial derangement of the brain; it is now known that troubles in other parts of the body and away from the head, cause headaches and that removing the cause can the pain be cured. It is a matter of private history that Gen. Washington was bled to death. His last illness was slight and caused principally by weariness. A physician was called who "bled him copiously." Strange to say, the patient became no better. Another doctor was called, who again took away a large amount of the vital fluid. Thus in succession four physicians drew away the life of a great man who was intended by nature for an old age, and who prematurely died—murdered by malpractice—bled to death. That was the age of medical bleeding.

And here pardon me for relating a little personal experience. In the year 1870 I found myself losing both in strength and health. I could assign no cause for the decline, but it continued, until finally I called to my aid two prominent physicians. After treating me for some time they declared I was suffering from Bright's disease of the kidneys, and that they could do nothing more for me. At this time I was so weak I could not raise my head from the pillow and I fainted repeatedly. My heart beat so rapidly it was with difficulty I could sleep. My lungs were also badly involved; I could retain nothing upon my stomach, while the most intense pains in my back and bowels caused me to long for death as a relief. It was at this critical juncture that a physical longing which I felt (and which I most firmly believe was an inspiration) caused me to send for the leaves of a plant I had once known in medical practice. After great difficulty I at last secured them and began their use in the form of tea. I noticed a lessening in the pain at once. I began to mend rapidly; in five weeks I was able to be about, and in two months I became perfectly well and have so continued to this day. It was only natural that such a result should have caused me to investigate most thoroughly. I carefully examined books in medicine never before explored. I sought the cause of physical order and disorder, happiness and pain, and I found the kidneys and liver to be the governors, whose motions regulate the entire system.

Having found this great truth, I saw clearly the cause of my recovery. The simple vegetable leaf I had used was food and restorer to my well-nigh exhausted kidneys and liver. It had come to them when their life was nearly gone, and by its simple, yet powerful influence had purified, strengthened and restored them and saved me from death. Realizing the great benefit which a knowledge of this truth would give to the world I began in a modest way, to treat those afflicted and in every case I found the same happy results which I had experienced. Not only this but many, who were not conscious of any physical trouble, but who, at my suggestion began the use of the remedy which had saved my life, found their health steadily improving and their strength continually increasing. So universal, where used, was this true, that I determined the entire world should share in its results, and therefore placed the formula for it preparation in the hands of Mr. H. H. Warner, of Rochester, N. Y., a gentleman whom I had cured of a severe kidney disease, and who, by reason of his personal worth, high standing and liberality in endowing the Astronomical Observatory and other public enterprises, has become known and popular to the entire country. This gentleman at once began the manufacture of the remedy on a most extensive scale, and to-day, Warner's Safe Kidney and LiverCure, the pure remedy that saved my life, is known and used in all parts of the continent.

I am aware a prejudice exists toward proprietary medicines, and that such prejudice is too often well founded, but the value of a pure remedy is no less because it is a proprietory medicine. A justifiable prejudice exists toward quack doctors, but is it right that this prejudice should extend towards all the doctors who are earnestly and intelligently trying to do their duty? Such a theory would be childish.

Adopted and orders directed to be drawn for the several claims.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

The street commissioner presented his report in writing, dated from April 20, 1881 to June 4, 1881, during which time, there was performed on the streets of the village of hand work, 51 days; and of team work, 3½ days.

The report was received and filed.

NEW BUSINESS.

Bills presented and referred to Committee on Finance:

Merritt & Stretch, Lumber	$106 60
E. B. Wood, services as village attorney and abstract of title	37 00
C. Stacy, printing	11 10
P. B. Swick, hose straps	1 75
B. F. Anderson, services as marshall	14 99

On motion the committee on streets were instructed to ascertain and report at the next meeting of Council, why the sidewalk ordered to be constructed on the west side of Van Buren street between Chicago and Logan street, has not been so constructed.

On motion the same committee was instructed to enter into negotiations for the purchase of a gravel bank. It is deemed desirable that such gravel bank be situate west of the center of the village.

On motion Sec. 2 of Chap. 5, of the By-Laws and ordinances of the village was amended so as to read as follows:

SEC. 2. Be it ordained by the common council of the village of Tecumseh, A capitation or poll-tax shall be assessed each year against all the male inhabitants of said village of Tecumseh of the age of twenty-one years, and not exceeding the age of fifty years (and not otherwise exempt by law,) in days work of eight hours actual labor, to be worked out under the direction of the street commissioner, upon the streets and bridges, of said village, which may be computed at the rate of one dollar per day.

On motion the committee on Public Grounds and Buildings, were directed to secure a suitable pound for the use of the village the present season.

On motion the several members of Council and the officers of the corporation were instructed not to lend any tools belonging to the corporation.

On motion an appropriation of $20 was made as retainer fee in the suit authorized to be commenced by the Council at a session thereof held April 25, 1881.

The levying and extending of the taxes heretofore ordered having been completed, it was, on motion,

Resolved, That the street commissioner be allowed until October 1st to complete the work upon the streets for the current year, and that the Marshall be allowed until November 1st, 1881, to complete the collection of taxes for the current year.

Thereupon, the Marshall's warrant for the collection of taxes was executed.

Council then adjourned.

"THE CYCLOPEDIA WAR."

The Cyclopedia War and the Literary Revolution are working wonderful and happy results for the readers of books, and searchers after knowledge. The great "Library of Universal Knowledge," is announced to be completed, ready for delivery to purchasers, the early part of July. It is probably the largest and most important literary work this country and the century has seen. It is based upon Chambers' Encyclopedia, the last London edition of which is reprinted entire as a portion of its contents, a large corps of American editors and writers adding thereto, a vast amount of information upon about 15,000 subjects in every department of human knowledge. Chambers' Encyclopedia, whose distinguished merit is universally known is the laborious product of the ripest British and European scholarship, but being a work of foreign production, it has been naturally deficient in its adaptation to the wants of American readers. In this new form it is most thoroughly Americanized, and becomes at once the largest, and most complete encyclopedia in the field, at a mere fraction of the cost of any similar works which have preceeded it, containing about 10 per cent. more matter than Appleton's Encyclopedia, at less than one-fifth its cost, and 20 per cent. more than Johnson's Cyclopedia at a little more than one-fourth its cost.

The superlative value and importance of this great Encyclopedia, however, lies especially in the fact that it is brought within the reach of everyone who aspires after knowledge and culture. It is really a library of universal knowledge. It brings a liberal education easily within the reach of every plow-boy. Every farmer and every mechanic owes it to himself and to his children that such a cyclopedia shall henceforward form a part of the outfit of his home. To the intelligent man in every walk of life a Cyclopedia is indispensible. It is issued in various styles, in 15 large beautiful octavo volumes, varying in price from $15 for the edition in cloth, to $25 for the edition in full library sheep binding. Liberal discounts even from these extraordinary prices are allowed to clubs, and the publishers, besides, propose during the next two months to distribute $10,000 cash in special rewards to persons who forward clubs of five, ten, or more subscribers. The American Book Exchange, 761 Broadway, N. Y., are the publishers, who will send sample pages and full particulars free on request. Orders for this work will be received at the HERALD Office.

ESTATE OF JOHN L. TALLMAN.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss

At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, on Monday the 13th day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

Present Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of John L. Tallman, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, of Jacob DeWitt Tallman, executor of the last will and testament of said deceased, alleging among other things that he has paid the debts and funeral expenses of said deceased, the expenses of administration of said estate thus far incurred, and that he is ready to file his first account in this court as such executor, and praying that said account may be allowed and for an assignment and distribution of the residue of said estate, among the persons entitled thereto, according to the provisions of said will.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 11th day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee for three successive weeks, previous to said day of hearing. AROUND THE COUNTY.

BROOKLYN.

Brooklyn politicians have found a remedy for resignations, which will be forwarded to Conkling and Platt, as soon as they are safe on the other side of the last ditch. Providence having offered special inducements to emigrate to one of our anti-monopolists, and a strong weakness of the boot straps, caused another to shirk from the arduous duties which fall to the share of guardians of the public welfare, it became necessary to upholster two vacant chairs. No doubt, our loss was their gain, but the Demise Eva is marked with an unprecedented increase of moral sentiment, where we did not expect to find it, and the sceptical are forced to believe that truth crushed to earth will rise again, if the tackle of ambition is linked to upbraiding conscience, and the conditions for pulling are favorable. I don't know whether grief caused apathy or not, but no bell rung for caucus. Unless the right cause should become the lost cause, a distinguished saloon bondsman nominated himself a temperance candidate, and run a one horse shay to and from the jail for the convenience of voters. I have long been convinced that fate is averse to my undoing past mistakes, and I just feel awful when my good intentions get all tangled up among harsh notes and prejudice. But if all my aspirations to remodel other folks' clay ovens, rust for lack of opportunity to display patterns, it will be worse. When those votes were counted, that other ticket was found to be 0,00017 ahead, consequently my friend of the Enterprise will endeavor to regulate the council pulse; Hoag accompanies him as undertaker. The election has ruled out new version, worry, and lectures, turning my anxiety concerning a spiritual destiny much unfixed, into thoughts of improving the earthly condition of those disagreeable ladies who aspire to the ballot. At the next meeting of the Gossiper's club I shall present a petition to have the moral of the mournful story of that man who went to market printed across the center of our mirrors. I believe a daily preparatory course of study of that tragic mishap would enable a very plain faced woman to drop a ticket in a box.

PEARLIE.

RIDGEWAY.

H. C. Wilson is at home.

J. R. Miller and wife are spending vacation here.

Miss Nellie Clark closes a very successful term of school to-morrow.

Irv. and Weddie, sons of R.T. Bush, of Brooklyn, N. Y., arrived Wednesday and will spend the summer with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Hall.

Edgar Pilbeam has a 9¼ pound son, four days old.

Some of our neighbors are eating new potatoes every day.

As usual, Dundee and Blissfield take the heft of the wool clip from this section.

An ice cream and strawberry social is talked of for Friday evening, July 1st, at the M. E. church.

The ladies' foreign missionary society met at the residence of Joshua Waring last Wednesday afternoon and was well attended.

A young child of Geo. W. Auten was severely poisoned a day or two ago by a dose of morphia administered by mistake.

Mrs. Wm. H. Osborn who has been ill in Detroit for several weeks is reported on the gain and expects to be able to come home soon.

The pump man who lost that rope ladder near Ridgeway the first of the week can get it by calling at the store of Geo. W. Clark & Son, in the village.

ADDISON.

Fair weather and fair crops, or foul weather and no crops at all this season.

Concerns spiritual, social and secular remain much the same here as in past time.

Numerous Addisonians took in the Van Amburgh sights at Hudson last Friday.

A Woodstock wool grower is reported to have clipped 227 lbs. of wool this year from but 17 common bred sheep. If any of the would-be leading sheep breeders of the county can produce a better yield than this let him "rise" and report.

Something stronger than cider was circulated at the west corners Sunday afternoon. Numerous non-temperate episodes were among the effects. The beverage was imported from a neighboring town however.

Mr. E. S. Lapham has closed his entire business here with the intention of following the road. Hatfield & Lane, of Wheatland, will continue the business in the same line and place. Success to the new firm.

A fine addition to the already commodious stock barn of the Hathaway place is now building. The structure is now over 100 feet long and 40 feet wide.

The Band of Hope society held an out door entertainment in the spacious yard of J. B. Osborn Friday afternoon, with the intention of serving ice cream to the evening guests, but failed to do so, as some unhopeful young biped of a scape-goat monopolized it in bulk. When the village stock of young ten cent coxcombs shall be disposed of, respectable citizens can enjoy a social hour without suffering such petty grievances.

CLINTON.

Meeting of the Red Ribbon Club Monday evening.

Fourteen young ladies went to the lakes last Saturday. None of the male persuasion were there.

G. W. Lewis received 25,000 pounds of wool on Saturday of last week. A pretty good showing for one day.

Our street commissioner is doing considerable work graveling the streets; hauling the material 1½ miles, retards the progress somewhat.

Wednesday evening there was an Ice Cream social in the basement of the M. E. church. A good time was enjoyed by all.

Tuesday evening there was held an Episcopalian festival, on the lawn of E. R. Smith. Strawberries and Ice Cream in profusion, and the crowd were happy.

It's not the voice of the turtle, but the sound of the mower that is now heard in the land. The late rains helped the hay crop, somewhat, but still it is generally light. Late meadows will be more benefited by the rains we have had lately.

Last Sabbath was children's day at the Congregational church. There were flowers, birds and children, and the birds did their full share of the vocal exercises.

The July number of the North American Review bears the usual characteristics of timeliness. Carl Schurz leads off with a suggestive paper on "Present Aspects of the Indian Problem," in which he discusses the Indian obstacle in the way of the country's developement, the harmonizing of the habits, occupations and interests of the red men, the necessity of educating their youth, the making of the men themselves small land proprietors, and the offering of inducements to them to sell for a fair compensation the lands they do not cultivate. Next a caustic writer gives the view of "A Yankee Farmer" on "The Religious Conflicts of the Age," to the discomfiture of the modern Agnostic, Moralist and evolutionist. Another trenchant article is "The Power of Public Plunder," by James Parton, which appeals to the sons of our men of character and wealth, on patriotic grounds, to enter into politics, and become the safeguards of their country against rings and bosses. Mr. Henry George dwells on "The Common Sense of Taxation." "The Cost of Cruelty" is presented by Mr. Henry Bergh, and "A Study of Tennyson" comes from the pen of Mr. Richard Henry Stoddard.

Adrian Times; When Ald. Clark took the chair last evening in the city council, Ald. Stearns asked how he was to be addressed, whether as Mr. president, your excellency, or your honor. The chairman said he should not be particular as to how he was addressed, but on the first manifestation of disrespect for the chair, he should knock the offending member down. The session proved a very orderly one and the alderman's ability as a presiding officer should be borne in mind by the next democratic city convention, when it is casting around for a candidate for mayor.

Mr. L. V. Streeter, of Worth street, N. Y., states that he had had no less than five se[illegible] hemorrhages when he commenced [illegible]king Arthur's Elixir of Sulphur. He has used about six bottles and has gained seventeen pounds, and has not had a single hemorrhage since he began using Elixir. Sold by C. A. Wright & Co.

"The Doctors said I would never leave my bed. That was three months ago, and now I weigh 190 pounds. I cannot write half of what I want to say, but Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure did it all."

Jackson Patriot: A local sensation was produced recently in Napoleon by a young lady marrying a young man while engaged to another, from whom it is reported she borrowed $30 to buy her wedding outfit, and from whom she accepted an engagement ring. Both were her lovers, and after advising with her friends, she took the man she loved the best. The rejected lover got back his ring and money and says the result suits him.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

WEDNESDAY, June 15.—On motion the drain committee were instructed to ascertain the amount of outstanding indebtedness on drain accounts.

Sups. Wagener, Knapp and Shepherd were appointed a committee to revise the fee bill for services as officers.

After allowing a number of claims the board adjourned.

THURSDAY, June 16.—The judiciary committee reported that the stock of Wm. Clarkson, of Tecumseh, is taxable in the township where the same is pastured.

After transacting some unimportant business the board adjourned.

FRIDAY, June 17.—Claim of county surveyor Blair, amount $16, for rent of office; of Charles Humphrey, amount $3.30, for stationery for county surveyor; of W. H. Fellette and Levi Acker, amount $2, for assisting an officer, were reported without recommendations, and claimants were allowed to withdraw the same.

The committee to settle with the sheriff reported his accounts correct, and the following amounts were allowed:

Jail account	$399 48
Personal account	299 05
Total	$689 53

The committee on county buildings was instructed to build a privy on the county office lot suitable for ladies.

At the afternoon session the drain committee reported, recommending that the drain commissioner publish notices in the newspapers that parties holding drain orders, issued prior to 1880, present the same before the first of next August for payment.

On motion the drain commissioner was granted use of the court room to hold meetings of township drain commissioners, with a view that the county drain commissioners might work in harmony.

At the evening session the committee to revise the fee bill for officers' services, reported that a revision would be inadvisable at present, and the matter was laid on the table.

The matter of telephonic connection between the county building, court house and jail, was referred to committee on ways and means.

SATURDAY, June 18.—The ways and means committee reported in favor of postponing the matter of telephonic connection, to the October session.

Report adopted.

The committee on public buildings was instructed to insure the county buildings.

The report of the committee on equalization was adopted, subject to revision at the October session.

Sup. C. H. Dewey was chosen to represent the county at the meeting of the state board of equalization.

Adjourned sine die.

A PRINTER'S DREAM.

A printer sat in his office chair; his boots were patched and his coat threadbare; while his face looked weary and worn with care. While sadly thinking of business and debt, old Morpheus slowly round him crept, and before he knew it he soundly slept, and, sleeping, he dreamed that he was dead; from trouble and toil his spirit had fled, and that not even a cow-bell tolled for the peaceful rest of his cow-hide sole. As he wandered among the shades and smoke and scorch of lower Hades, he shortly observed an iron door that creakingly swung on hinges ajar, but crossed by a red-hot bar, and Satan himself stood peeping out and watching for travelers thereabout, and thus to the printer spoke, and with growling voice the echoes woke: Come in, my dear, it shall cost you nothing, and never fear; this is the place where I cook the ones that never pay their subscription sums, for though in life they may escape, they will find when dead, it is too late; I will show you the place where I melt them thin with red-hot chains and scraps of tin, and also where I comb their heads with broken glass and melted lead; and if of refreshments they only think, there's boiling water for them to drink; there's the red-hot grind-stone to grind down his nose, and red-hot rings to wear on his toes; and if they mention they don't like fire, I'll sew up their mouths with red-hot wire; and then, dear sir, you should see them squirm while I roll them over and cook to a turn." At these last words the printer awoke, and thought it all a practical joke; but still at times, so real did it seem, that he cannot believe it was all a dream; and often he thinks, with a chuckle and grin, of the fate of those who save their tin—and never pay the printer.

Adrian Record: The potato bug must hide his diminished head before the approach of the Crioceris Asparagi a new enemy, of the gardener and the human race in general. This is his "swell" name. When he is at home in his shirt sleeves he allows folks to call him asparagus beetle. He is warranted to withstand the ravages of heat and cold, frost and snow, and attend to business with unfailing regularity, and on easy terms to large and small purchasers. He comes dressed black, red and yellow, like a foreign prince or a circus clown, and fattens on Paris Green and "pizen" of all kinds.

THE DONATION PARTY.

They carried the pie to the parson's house
And scattered the floor with crumbs,
And marked the leaves of the choicest books
With the prints of their greasy thumbs.

They piled his dishes high and thick
With a lot of unhealty cake,
While they gobbled the buttered toast and rolls
Which the parson's wife did make.

They hung around the Cyclo's classic neck
The apple parings for sport,
And every one laughed when a clumsy lout
Spilt tea on the piano-forte.

Next day the parson went down on his knees
With his wife—but not to pray;
Oh, no, 'twas to scrape the grease and dirt
From the carpet and stairs away.

Proof Reading.

There are few of those not practically engaged in printing who comprehend the enormous difficulties in the way of producing a single page typographically correct. Leaving out of consideration the variations from rules of capitalization and punctuation, to which there are as many exceptions as there are to any of the so-called "rules" of English orthography, the labor of weeding out literal errors is one which takes the patience and assiduity of the reader to the utmost. Errors which may strike the casual reader as so plain and easily discernable as to raise a conclusive presumption of carelessness, may have passed half a dozen careful readings unnoticed.

Many suppose that these errors might have been avoided, in the first instance, by due care on the part of the printer. This to a certain extent is true, but not to the extent supposed. It might be proper to charge him with all these errors if he had nothing else to consider in performing his work but correct composition. But there is a certain demand made upon him for quantity as well as quality. In order to render his labor remunerative, it is necessary that he should set during the working hours a sufficient amount to entitle him to a living compensation, according to the standard by which the reading public are willing to pay. This he cannot do if he devotes his entire time to accuracy.

When even a careless reader, who is sufficiently well informed to enable him to detect errors, devotes an hour to the conning of a single page, with a mind fresh and unclouded by other cares, he may discover errors which the proof-reader has overlooked. But the professional reader brings to the daily discharge of his exacting duties a constitution similar to that of those engaged in other vocations. He, like every one else, is subject to the ills that unfit him for close application and careful discrimination. The most competent have days when their minds are distracted by anxieties that draw their attention from the work in hand, which they necessarily perform in a perfunctory manner. The very continuity of this peculiar labor by which their faculties become habituated, and their eyes expert to detect errors, has the effect, by the intellectual drudgery, to blunt their interest and tire their minds. So that the verdict should often be, instead of careless proof-readers, overworked proof-readers.

There is probably not a periodical publication in this, or any other country, which is entirely free from errors. To illustrate the difficulty, the following example is offered:

The superintendent of one of our leading railroads employed an expert to prepare a table of rates for freight between the different stations on a single line of road running through one state. Bent upon having this absolutely correct, he had it examined and re-examined until no error could be discovered. The calculations were all simple. After the table was prepared in manuscript, it was printed and then submitted to expert proof-readers. All the operations were gone over and proved. The cost of preparing this table was $10,000. When it was completed and pronounced perfect by several readers, it was subjected to the test of a calculating machine which could not err, and in less than half an hour an error was detected. Two or three hours' work with the machine discovered upwards of thirty mistakes in calculation, either of which was clearly apparent to any one acquainted with the simple rules of arithmetic, the moment his attention was directed to the single calculation, unbiased by any preconceived notions of its correctness or incorrectness.

This merely goes to prove the fallibility of the mental mechanism to which we are compelled to submit all printed matter for final judgment upon its accuracy. When some one can invent a proof-reading machine we may arrive at absolute perfection, but not till then. The most that can be hoped for with the means at hand is approximate accuracy.—Hackstaff's Monthly.

Determination.

A very interesting account is given of his own sensations by a man who was bitten by a cat that died of hydrophobia. He was determined not to yield to fear, and for three months his health was as good as usual. At the end of that time, however, he felt one morning a severe pain in his arm, accompanied by extreme thirst. He called for water, but "at the instant," he says, "that I was about to raise the tumbler to my lips, a strong spasm shot across my throat; immediately the terrible conviction came to my mind that I was about to fall a victim to hydrophobia, the consequence of the bite that I had received from the cat. The agony of mind I endured for one hour is indescribable; the contemplation of such a horrible death—death from hydrophobia—was almost insupportable; the torments of hell itself could not have surpassed what I suffered. The pain, which had commenced in my hand, passed up to the elbow, and from thence to the shoulder, threatening to extend. I felt all human aid was useless, and believed that I must die. But I determined, if possible, to conquer the disease. Accordingly, feeling that physical as well as mental exertion was necessary, I took my gun, shouldered it, and went out for the purpose of shooting, my arm aching the while intolerably. I met with no sport, but I walked the whole afternoon, exerting at every step I went a strong mental effort against the disease. When I returned to the house I was decidedly better; I was able to eat some dinner, and drank water as usual. The next morning the aching pain had gone down to my wrist, and the third day left me altogether. I mentioned the circumstance to Dr. Kinglake, and he said he certainly considered that I had had an attack of hydrophobia, which would possibly have proved fatal had I not struggled so resolutely against it."

Mulching Fruit and Other Trees.

Mulching is an auxiliary in the hands of an intelligent and experienced fruit-grower by which he is enabled to protect the roots of his fruit and other trees and shrubs against heat and cold, drought and sudden changes of the weather; also to check an early flow of sap in the spring, and thus save the fruit buds from late frost. To use mulching to an advantage requires careful thought and good judgment. Some object must be in view, and work must be done on philosophical principles. There are times during the growing season in which the ground becomes dry and hot. A little of the right kind of mulching at such times, and spread on the ground over the roots of the trees and wet once or twice a week, will not only be the means of saving the trees, but keep them in a good, healthy, growing condition. Great care should be taken not to leach the ground about the roots by constantly dashing on water. Thousand of promising trees are killed annually by so doing, especially these that have recently been transplanted. In all cases mulch first, and then wet the mulching. Let the ground absorb moisture from the mulching. In regard to mulching fruit and other trees and shrubs for winter protection, it depends altogether upon what condition the ground is in late in the fall. If it is dry, the mulch should be applied and kept wet until the ground becomes properly saturated with moisture. Fruit trees should mulched late in the winter or early in the spring when the ground is well frozen about the roots, and kept in that condition till freezing is over in the spring. Probably more trees are killed or injured at that season of the year than any other. A few warm days early in the spring, if trees are not mulched, will excite their roots to action, and then a sudden change of the weather and a hard freeze is almost sure to rupture the roots and the bark of the trees near the surface of the ground. Grape roots and the roots of rose bushes should be managed the same as the roots of fruit trees. The vines and rose bushes should be taken down late in the fall, trimmed, and covered with nothing but moist earth. If properly done at the right time there can be no question but what they will come out perfect in the spring.—Farmers' Union.

Take Off the Check-Rein.

When the check-rein is drawn, so as to derange the natural incline of the head it causes a stiffness of the neck and pressure of the cervical and dorsal vertebræ, changes the natural position of the windpipe, and inteferes with free respiration. The neck being raised curves the vertebræ of the back, making it hollow, which has a tendency to draw the hind legs forward under the body, or to thrust the body backward upon them. This deprives him of the power of extending himself. Because, by changing the natural carriage of the horse, you cause a greater demand upon his strength for the resistance against natural motion and the action will be dwelling and slow. The shoulders being inclined out of position throws the support of the front legs, cramps the withers, which divides the free movement of each leg, and impairs the freedom and suppleness of his front action; for, as the front legs are kept stiff so is the spring diminished which is the essence of free action, and in proportion as the weight on the front legs is interfered with by over extension in the front, so does over contraction of the suspensory and ligaments, the flexor muscles and back tendons take place. This is the prolific cause of the knuckling over the pasterns and springing of the knees. Besides, as undue bearing is being brought on the lumbar vertebræ serious strain is produced on the loins and rear parts, and a disordered state of these members is the consequence. Hence come lumbago, vertigo, spinal meningitis, and other diseases of the spine, to say nothing of the heels, navicular-joint disease and leg disorders. Moreover, the head being drawn up in a constrained position not only the neck is stiffened, but the muscles of the eyes likewise retract, alter the focus of the sight, strain the optic nerve, and, as it were, force the eyes from their sockets, and sometimes so distort them as to prevent the closing of the lids. In this manner the poor creature is sometimes left for hours exposed to the dazzling rays of the hot sun, the least consequence of which must be inflammation of the cornea and the lens itself. Do we wonder then at the number of weak-eyed, moon eyed and blind horses? Only reflect, good Christians, for one moment what an instrument of torture we have invented and what a sin we daily commit by this heart-rending punishment of our most submissive, faithful and noble servant.

Watch the Reading for Children.

Parents should give their children the advantages of a good healthy library, and furnish them with papers that respect the morals. Select the matter for your children. Take time, since the whole future of your son or daughter may lie directly in the literature which you place before them. The writer knows of cases that came under his own observation which resulted in great harm, and all the result of reading filth. You are interested in the future of your child; take care of the reading matter. There is nothing more injurious to the development of the mind and the formation of character in young people than for them to form the habit of reading corrupt literature. It is in such books that the false side of life is given to the young, and they will get the idea that life is not the great, earnest battle which each must fight for himself. It is from what we read that we derive many of our thoughts and ideas, which influence many of our deeds and actions in after life. If our reading is pure, the thoughts obtained will likewise be pure; but if it is degrading in its nature, it will pull us down to a level with itself.

THE ORIGIN OF SPEECH.—The theory that primitive man first attempted speech by imitating natural sounds, or the cries of animals, has been adopted by M. Cainfoud, a Frenchman, who contends that the recollections and repetitions of those sounds caused man to give to certain natural phenomena, and animals, and other objects, their present names. His researches into the French language have brought to his notice numerous examples that confirm him in his belief, and he thinks it desirable that the Geographical Society of Paris should instruct its travelers to obtain from individuals belonging to the different peoples and tribes what corroborative proof of this theory may be furnished by words and sounds in the various languages and dialects, in that the whole vocal knowledge thus gathered may prove a great aid to the discovery of the origin of language.

St. Elmo's Fire.

St. Elmo's Fire is the name given by mariners to a weird glow and lightning-like flame sometimes seen hovering round the spars and rigging of ships at sea. It is in reality a species of lightning, in the form of a silent discharge of electricity from the loftiest points of the ship into the atmosphere; and it is produced by a mass of electric cloud or air over the ship inducing a charge of opposite electricity on the sea underneath, and drawing it off by the masts of the vessel, which in this case act as lightning rods. A splendid instance of the same phenomenon was lately witnessed in the Jura at St. Cergues, where a whole forest of pine trees was seen to be aglow with light like a phosphorescent sea in the tropics. A thunder storm was raging at the time, and at every flash of lightning the illumination suddenly disappeared, but soon shone forth again, until the next flash came. Before the appearance of this St. Elmo's Fire, heavy rain had fallen and soaked the forest so as to render it conductive of electricity, and the thunder-cloud overhead, heavily charged with electricity, had induced an opposite charge on the ground below, which discharged itself into the air by the pointed boughs and needles of the pine trees.

That Boy.

His mother's old and respected uncle from the country had been visiting the family for a few days. He was very fond of reading, and one day he fell asleep in his chair, which leaned back against the wall. Very peaceful and innocent the old gentleman looked as he slept, his face ceiling-ward, as if he had dropped off while looking at the fly-specks on the wall. The mother of the boy was looking over some beans, as they were going to have some of those elegant berries for dinner. "Ma, is uncle asleep now?" "Yes, dear, and you must be quiet, so's not to wake him up." "Is he sound asleep, ma?" "Yes, yes; do hush!" "If he should fall down off his chair, would it hurt him?" "Why, of course, child. What a question!" Then the little imp took a bean and shied it at his mother's uncle. It struck him plump on the end of the nose. While he was waking up—and it didn't take long—the assassin slid out the back door. The pained and wronged look on the good man's face, as he silently resumed his reading without saying a word, convinced the sheller of beans that her uncle will go down to the grave to sleep with his fathers, irreconcilably firm in the belief that she threw the bean at him. —Elmira Advertiser.

Poultry Lice.

Not only the health and productiveness of hens is frequently injured by the prevalence of lice, but many times they are positively killed by these parasites. This is an important question with all farmers who keep hens. Old chicken houses are the worst harbors for them, and they should be frequently and thoroughly renovated, or new ones built some distance from the old ones. The houses should be whitewashed with strong lime, inside and roosts. Take out all old nests and any refuse lumber, where the lice can hide, and when new quarters are furnished, or old ones removed, the fowls must all be doped with sulphur and lard under the wings. There are two kinds of lice which prey upon hens, the common hen louse and the small spider louse. The latter are the hardest to get clear of. They hide during the day in cracks, crevices, and under trash, and come forth to prey upon the fowls at night. There is an insect powder sold, but we have very little faith in any patent nostrum. Apply the old-fashioned sulphur and lard liberally.

Armed Forces of Europe.

In Germany, Austria, France, Russia and Italy, every male adult capable of bearing arms is liable to military service. In Germany the liability extends over twenty-five years, from 17 to 42, and includes three years' active service in the standing army, four years in the first reserve, five years in the second reserve, and thirteen years in the third reserve. In France and Russia the liability extends over twenty years, in Italy over nineteen, and in Austria over twelve years. Russia exacts six years' active service from her recruits, Italy eight years and Austria three. The following is a statement of the standing armies of the several countries at the close of 1879—exclusive of the last classes of reserve:

Germany—Peace footing, 420,000 men; war footing, 1,300,000 men.

France—Peace footing, 502,000 men; war footing, 1,300,000 men.

Russia—Peace footing, 502,000 men; war footing, 2,190,000 men.

Italy—Peace footing, 189,000 men; war footing, 335,000 men.

Austria—Peace footing, 267,000 men; war footing, 771,000.

Love at first sight rarely happens so opportunely as in a San Francisco romance. A lovely young woman in St. Louis having the misfortune to lose her husband, to whom she was tenderly attached, took her child and went back to her old home in California. She was received very coldly by her step-father, and after vainly struggling to get employment, was finally turned into the street by her mother. For a moment she was completely overcome, but remembering an acquaintance on Bush street, to whom she had been introduced, she sought the hospitable home of one of the kindest of women. As with tottering limbs she was going up the steps, her strength failed, and with a cry of despair she fell to the bottom, with her child closely clasped to her bosom. The mother and child were immediately taken into the house and restored to consciousness. Among the friends of the family who happened to be present was a gentleman, who was impressed with the beauty of the widow and the account which she gave of her sufferings. His sensitive heart was touched, and before the evening closed he laid his hand and fortune at her feet. It was Saturday night. They waited until Monday, and then were married.

It is especially encouraging to one who can command but few external advantages to reflect that he is by no means dependent upon them for his success in life. It is true that the best results may be expected where a strong self-energy comes under instruction and wise guidance; but while the latter alone can do nothing, the former alone can do much. Besides, it is never quite alone. Capacity and industry always find appreciation and help, and are apt to make themselves all the more useful for their scarcity. All young persons especially can be, and should be resolved to be, self-made.

MONEY—FARMS—ABSTRACTS.

If you want to hire money at very low rates.

If you have money to loan.

If you want to buy a farm or a home.

If you want to sell your real estate.

If you want a deed or mortgage correctly made.

If you want a complete abstract of title. Call on A. L. Bliss.

Among other Farms for sale I have one of 190 acres and one of 80 acres in Palmyra both being well tiled and fenced, and first class in every respect, with four market towns within easy driving distance, in good neighborhood. Also 125 acre farm 1½ miles west of river road from Deerfield. Also 160 acre farm and 90 acre farm, and 20 acre farm in Riga, any of which are decided bargains, and good reasons given for naming low prices.

Every purchaser of Lands should insist on being furnished an abstract of title, for our experience of more than 20 years shows that not more than one title in ten is perfect of record, and every week purchases agreed upon are abandoned owing to imperfections of title. I have a good carriage or farm horse, 1300 lbs. in weight for sale at a bargain.

A few thousand dollars now on hand to loan at six per cent, and on long time if desired.

A. L. BLISS,
Examiner of Titles, Loan and Land Agent, Adrian Mich.

In one of our sleeping-cars in America there was an old bachelor who was annoyed by the continued crying of a child and the ineffectual attemps of the father to quiet it. Pulling aside the curtain and putting out his head, he said: "Where is the mother of that child? Why doesn't she stop that nuisance?" The father said, very quietly: "The mother is in the baggage-car in her coffin; I am travelling home with the baby. This is the second night I have been with the child, and the little creature is wearying for its mother. I am sorry if its plantive cries disturb anyone in this car." "Wait a minute," said the old bachelor. The old man got up and dressed himself and compelled the father to lie down and sleep, while he took the babe himself. The old bachelor stilling the cry of that babe all night was a hero. And the man who, for the sake of others gives up a lawful gratification in his own house or in the social, is as great a hero as though he stood upon the battlefield.

TO THE AFFLICTED.

Since the introduction of Kellogg's Columbian Oil it has made more permanent cures and given better satisfaction on Kidney complaints and Rheumatism than any known remedy. Its continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it known as a safe and reliable agent to employ against all aches and pains, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders. It acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering and often saving life. The protection it affords by its timely use on Rheumatism, kidney affection, and all aches and pains, wounds, cramping pains, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, coughs, colds, catarrh, and disorders among children, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. It is absolutely certain in its remedial effects and will always cure when cures are possible. Call at C. A. Wright & Co's. and get a memorandum book giving more full details of the curative properties of this wonderful medicine.

Facts About the Bible.

A prisoner condemned to solitary confinement obtained a copy of the Bible, and, by three years, careful study, obtained the following facts:

The Bible contains 3,586,489 letters, 773,692 words, 31,171 verces, 1,189 chapters, and 66 books. The word and occurs 46,277 times. The word Lord occurs 1,855 times. The word Reverend occurs but once, which is in the 9th verse of the 111th Psalm. The middle verse is the 8th verse of the 118th Psalm. The 21st verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra contains all the letters in the alphabet except the letter J. The finest chapter to read is the 26th chapter of the Acts of the Apostles. The 19th chapter of II. Kings and the 37th chapter of Isaiah are alike. The longest verse is the 9th verse of the 8th chapter of Esther. The shortest verse is the 35th verse of the 11th chapter of St. John. The 8th, 25th, 21st verses of the 107th Psalm are alike. Each verse of the 136th Psalm end alike. There are no words or names of more than six syllables.

Greatest Remedy Known.

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumptive is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity.—Thousands of once hopeless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this Discovery to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggists, M. Wright & Son, and get a trial bottle free of cost which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar size bottle will do. For sale by M. Wright & Son, Tecumseh.

—If you have pimples, boils, salt rheum, rough skin, &c., take "Lindsey's Blood Searcher." Sold by all druggists.

KING OF THE BLOOD.

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a Common Eruption to the Worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the Stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

ITS NAME IS ITS BEST DESCRIPTION as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the Surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons, and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 12 ounces, or 40 to 50 doses. Sold by dealers in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you, as it will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

Cigars.

To the world in general a cigar is a tightly rolled packet having brittle fragments of dried leaves within, and a smooth silky leaf for its outer wrapper. When it is burnt, and the pleasantly flavored smoke is inhaled, the habitual smoker claims for it a soothing luxury that quiets the irritable nervous organism, relieves weariness and entices repose. Science scouting so superficial a description, examines first the smoke, second the leaf, third the ash. In the smoke is discovered water in a vaporous state, soot (free carbon) carbonic acid, and carbonic oxide, and a vaporous substance condensable into oily nicotine. These are the general divisions, which chemists have still further split up and in so doing have found acetic, formic, pyroleric, valeric, and propionic acids, prussic acid, creosote, and carbolic acid, ammonia, sulphurited hydrogen, pyridine, verileine picoline, lutidine, collidine, parvoline, corodine, and rubidene. These last are a series of oily bases belonging to the homologs of aniline, first discovered in coal tar.

Applying chemical tests to the leaves, other chemists have found nicotia, tobacco, camphor, or nicotianine (about which not much is known,) a bitter extractive matter, gum chlorophyl, malate of lime, sundry albuminoids, malic acid, woody fibre, and various salts. The feathery white ash, which in its cohesion and whiteness is indicative of the good cigar, yields potash, soda, magnesia, lime, phosphoric acid, silica, and chlorine. The ingredients extractable from a poor and cheap cigar would be fearful and wonderful to contemplate. Here is a list from a parliamentary report on adulteration in tobacco: Sugar, lime, alum, flour or meal, rhubarb leaves, saltpetre, Fuller's earth, starch, malt commings, chromate of lead, peat moss, molasses, burdock leaves, common salt, endive leaves, lampblack, gum, red dye, a black dye composed of vegetable red and licorice, scraps of newspaper, cinnamon stick, cabbage leaves, and straw brown paper.—London Caterer.

Ashes for Fruit Trees.

When apple or pear trees become diseased from being planted in unfavorable or ill-prepared soil, or from lack of food, they are very apt to be attacked by insects, which, if in a healthy condition would probably be unknown. Certain washes, such as lye (a solution of potash) have been applied with success in destroying these insects and restoring the tree to health. But for our own practice we have for the last two years applied a much simpler remedy with more success, as it causes the old dead bark, the chosen hiding place of the insects, to cleave off, leaving in its place a smooth, healthy surface. This is simply, after a rain and while the bark is yet wet, to throw on dry wood ashes until the power of retention is full. If rain soon follows, the strength of the ashes is carried into every cranny of the old bark, and the effect is working cleanliness on the tree. If there is no rain, the ashes will remain and be working their good effects and be ready for action when the rain comes. The operation of sowing on the ashes is easily and quickly performed; so if the tree is in a bad condition it is easily repeated until the insects are all destroyed, and a new, healthy bark covers the tree. Insects' eggs will never hatch under the influence of ashes. Two objects are gained by this operation; the ashes or lye furnishes food for the trees as well as destroys its enemies, and imparts cleanliness to the tree.—Germantown Telegraph.

The Two-Headed Eagle.

The origin of the device of the eagle on national and Royal banners may be traced to very early times. It was the ensign of the ancient Kings of Persia and Babylon. The Romans adopted various other figures on their camp standards; but Marius (B. C. 102) made the eagle alone the ensign of the legions and confined the other figures to the cohorts. After the division, the Emperors of the Western Roman Empire used a black eagle; those of the East a golden one. The sign of the eagle is in allusion to the Emperors of the East. Since the time of the Romans, almost every state that has assumed the designation of Empire has taken the eagle for its ensign; Austria, Russia, Prussia, Poland, and France, all took the eagle. The two-headed eagle signifies a double empire. The Emperers of Austria, who claimed to be considered the successors of the Cæsars of Rome, used the double-headed eagle, which is the eagle of the Eastern Emperors, and that of the Western, typifying the "Holy Roman Empire," of which the original Emperors of Germany (now merged in the House of Austria) considered themselves as the representatives. Charlemagne was the first to use it, for, when he became master of the whole of the German Empire, he added the second head to the eagle (A. D. 802.) The United States adopted the eagle both as a symbol of Empire and as a native to the country.

Grape Vinegar and Cider Vinegar.

Vinegar from grapes may be made as follows: The wine is stirred into a large tun which contains lees, and when thoroughly mixed is squeezed by pressure through cloth sacks into an iron-bound vat, whence, after standing some hours, it is drawn off into casks for fermenting.

These casks have only a small opening at the top, and are kept at a temperature of 77 to 86 degrees Fahrenheit. After fourteen or fifteen days, the vinegar, now formed, is drawn off (cautiously, so as not to disturb the sediment) into barrels which contain birchwood chips. This clarifies it, and after standing a few days it may be syphoned off into the casks in which it is to remain. The residue, containing "mother," is employed to ferment all the subsequent liquor by simply pouring the latter into the cask that was used previously. To make vinegar from cider, the following recipe is recommended: Place in the cider-barrel a small piece of bread soaked in vinegar, or else a piece of sour dough. Add about a pint of vinegar, and set the barrel in a warm place (75 to 85 degrees Fahrenheit.) Malt will produce the same effect as the dough, and so will yeast and lean meat. The vinegar will clarify itself by settling, and on being drawn off from the top by means of a syphon, a clear liquid is obtained. A good table vinegar may be obtained by dissolving three pounds of white sugar in a gallon of water and fermenting with yeast.

The Feminine Mouth.

A person who has made the feminine mouth the subject of much study volunteers his conclusions to males with sweethearts. They are as follows: If her mouth is very small there is not much mind, but overmuch shallow sentiment. If she possesses a very large mouth she will possess a good brain, but the trouble is in kissing it. Large mouths put a man to an artistic test; he will be driven to his wits' end whether to begin at one corner and conclude on the other, or to make a heroic dash at the middle and endeavor to reach both corners. But if you are a kissing artist it can be covered nicely enough. If your sweetheart has a coarsely-formed mouth she will be sensual and full of strong, coarse points of character, and will raise a row in the family. If she has a delicately-formed mouth, with rounded lips and of a velvety color, she will have much sensibility and perfection of character, but not astonish by her brilliancy of conception or execution. It is a good mouth, because it is kissable and submissive. Shun blue-lipped or thin-lipped women; they will bore you to death with literature or woman's rights, theorise while you want your dinner, or spoil your temper with their red-hot, scolding tongues.

Envied Beauty.

What is more handsome than a nice bright, clear complexion, showing the beauties of perfect health? All can enjoy these advantages by using Electric Bitters. Impure blood, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Urinary Organs are speedily cured. For nervousness and attendant ailments, they are a never failing remedy, and positively cure where all others fail. Try the Electric Bitters and be convinced of their wonderful merits. For sale by C. A. Wright & Co. at fifty cents a bottle.

SLEEP.—Sleep will do much to cure irritability of temper, peevishness, and uneasiness. It will build up and make strong a weary body. It will do much to cure dyspepsia, particularly that kind known as nervous dyspepsia. It will relieve the langour and prostration felt by consumptives. It will cure hypochondria. It will cure the headache. It will cure neuralgia. It will cure a broken spirit. It will cure sorrow. Indeed, we might make a long list of nervous maladies that sleep will cure.

DR. A. FRASER'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

ALL SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it cures readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

PILES! PILES!! PILES!!!

A Sure Cure Found at Last. No One Need Suffer.

A sure cure for the Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams (an Indian remedy), called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 and 30 years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, Instruments, and Electuaries do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching (particularly at night after getting warm in bed), acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for Piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment: "I have used scores of pile cures, but it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment."

SELECT LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS.

An advertiser who spends upwards of $5,000 a year, and who invested less than $350 of it in this List, writes: "Your Select Local List paid me better last year THAN ALL THE OTHER ADVERTISING I DID."

IT IS NOT A CO-OPERATIVE LIST.
IT IS NOT A CHEAP LIST.
IT IS AN HONEST LIST.

The catalogue states exactly what the papers are: When the name of a paper is printed in FULL FACE TYPE it is in every instance the BEST.—When printed in CAPITALS it is the ONLY paper in the place. The list gives the population of every town and the circulation of every paper.

The rates charged for advertising are barely one-fifth the publishers' schedule. The price for single States ranges from $2 to $80. The price for one inch one month in the entire list is $625. The regular rates of the papers for the same space and time are $2,980.14. The list includes 952 newspapers of which 187 are issued DAILY and 765 WEEKLY. They are located in 788 different cities and towns, of which 26 are State Capitals, 363 places of over 5,000 population, and 468 County Seats. For copy of List and other information, address GEO. P. MORE RAILROAD DEVELOPMENTS.

For the past few weeks there has been a delay in getting started with the Toledo & Milwaukee railroad and it has been somewhat discouraging to many. Matters however have been quietly brewing, and the combinations are now rapidly approaching completion, which will render our new railroad a certainty. The latest developments which have been made public are more particularly described in the following extract taken from Tuesday's Free Press:

Among the railroads in which Detroit is deeply interested is the Columbus and Toledo, extending as it does into the heart of the Ohio coal fields, and being one of the chief railroads furnishing this city with its coal supplies. An Associated Press dispatch from Columbus, published on Monday, gave notice of the sale of this road, the Columbus & Hocking Valley and the Ohio & West Virginia Railroads, and the news being totally unexpected was received by many with incredulity. Nothing definite could be learned in reference to the matter in this city, and a representative of The Free Press in Toledo, in compliance with instructions from this office, interviewed those persons in that city most likely to be well informed on the subject, with the following result:

FACTS FROM A TOLEDO STANDPOINT.

TOLEDO, June 20.—The purchase by a Cleveland syndicate of the Columbus & Toledo, Columbus & Hocking Valley and Ohio & West Virginia railroads is the all absorbing topic in business and railroad circles here, and while there are some who see in it an advantage for Toledo, the weight of opinion is adverse, and

MUCH INDIGNATION IS EXPRESSED

At what is denounced as a practical side-tracking of Toledo on the part of a system of roads which the city has made great sacrifices to foster, in the expectation of being the permanent terminus of a valuable trunk line to the richest coal fields in this state. If the opinion expressed by those who take this view of the case are correct then Detroit will reap the harvest which Toledo has planted and cultivated. The facts, in brief, are that for the purpose of obtaining cheap coal and making this the great shipping point for the products of the Hocking Valley, the Columbus & Toledo was built and extraordinary privileges were granted it. Not only did it receive a right of way into the city, but a splendid river front of about a mile, now valued at $1,500,000, was given to it, the wharves along the front being to-day the most valuable and best constructed in the city.

THE PURCHASING SYNDICATE

Care nothing for Toledo, but aim at as complete a monopoly in the coal business as the Standard Company has in the oil market, and part of their scheme, as freely acknowledged, is to push up into Michigan, and by building new lines and making favorable arrangements with others, now in existence, to give to this city only such a share of the business as the local market commands. It is possible that this is too dark a view of the situation, especially as J. B. Foley, General Agent of the Columbus & Toledo Railroad, says that the company will now be enabled to build additional wharves and increase all of their facilities here. The same gentleman, however, admits that a line to Detroit will now be built.

He says that the Michigan extension has hitherto been impracticable on account of a lack of available capital, the stockholders in the roads being a class of persons who needed a return from their investments, and could not afford to have the earnings go into the construction of new roads; but that now there would be an abundance of capital for every purpose required, and that the system would be developed into a grand trunk line. From Pomeroy and Gallipolis the Ohio & West Virginia will be extended down the Kanawha sixty miles to South Charleston, to connect with the Chesapeake & Ohio to Richmond, Va., while at the same time the Columbus & Toledo will be extended to Detroit, probably by an independent track, there to connect with the system of roads centering at that point.

If this is correct (and Mr. Foley is in a position to know,) then Detroit will be in reality one of the main termini, and the residents of the city who express their dissatisfaction have good grounds for their opinion.

THE MICHIGAN CONNECTIONS

by means of a line through Marshall, which have already been announced as in contemplation, will now surely be built, and the southeastern extension, giving a through line to Richmond, will open an immense field for the lumber and other products of the state now without adequate means of outlet. On the whole, it looks at present as if Detroit had, without any exertion on her part, come into possession of a veritable bonanza.

THE Michigan University Book is now completed and ready for delivery. Single copies can be obtained of T. R. Chase, Detroit, for $1.75 and $2.25, according to binding.

ADRIAN COLLEGE.

There were no services at the Baptist, M. E., or Presbyterian churches Sunday night, the pastors and congregations having been invited to listen to the Baccalaureate sermon, preached by Rev. M. B. Taylor at Plymouth M. P. church. Every available seat and all the standing room was filled at an early hour. The sermon and indeed the whole service will long be remembered as one full of valuable instruction for all, and it was in such a form as to be intensely interesting.

The annual contest between the Star and Lambda Phi Societies was held in the college chapel last night, before a large audience. The program was as follows: Oration, John Milton and Puritanism, by O. L. Palmer; essay, the True Aim of Study, by Ella C. Wilson; oration, Shylock and Daniel Deronda, by W. A. Robinson; essay, One hour Forget the Glory, and Recall the Debt, by Rose V. Oms; oration, The Heel of Achilles, by W. M. Wickoff; oration, Custom and Extremists, by W. H. Howard. Good music was interpersed at regular intervals. The judges for the occasion were Prof. W. J. Cocker, Rev. J. S. Holmes and Capt. J. H. Fee. Rev. Mr. Holmes in a very neat speech announced that the Judges had decided the contest in essay writing in favor of Ella C. Wilson, of New Brighton, Pa., and the contest in oratory in favor of W. A. Robinson, of Sharpsburg, Pa. Prof. Lowry made the speech on presenting the prizes. The essayist received Hawthorn's complete works and the poetical works of Alice and Phebe Cary. C. A. Wright & Co.	$ 9 70
Toledo Oil Co., 4 bbls. Oil	18 58

The Finance Committee immediately reported in favor of allowing the bill of Toledo Oil Co., adding the same to their former report.

Adopted and orders directed to be drawn for the several amounts.

The street committee with Mr. Heesen added thereto were instructed to ascertain the most feasible method and probable expense of establishing and maintaining permanent watering places on the principle roads leading into the village.

It appearing that there was a leakage in some of the hydrants, the street commissioner was instructed to ascertain the cause and make necessary repairs.

S. W. Anderson made application for the privilege of erecting telephone poles between his residence and the store of W. & S. W. Anderson.

On motion the privilege asked for was granted with the limitation that such poles shall not exceed six in number and be placed under the direction of the Street Committee.

Council then adjourned.

P. S. MCKINNON, Recorder.

Dundee Reporter: Rollo McBride had a very narrow escape one day last week at Scofield. He is the telegraph operator there and while in the office during a thunder storm a current of electricity followed the wires into the office, knocking him senseless. When he became conscious he found the office was full of smoke and flames, which he soon extinguished and found the extent of damages. It was found that the wires connecting the battery, and also the ground wire entirely melted, sparks from which had burnt numerous holes in his clothes. He connected the line with a piece of wire, and walked to Maybee, four miles, to telegraph to headquarters to have the damage repaired.

THE question of the distribution of the east bound business of the Wabash road has been settled by an agreement giving one-half to the Canada Southern and one-half to the Great Western.

ESTATE OF EVELINA M. DOTY.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss

At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, on Friday the 17th day of June in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Evelina M. Doty deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Mary Booher, praying that administration on the estate of said deceased may be granted to Thos. H. Mosher or some other suitable person.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 18th day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. (A True Copy.)

DIFFERENT persons are afflicted in different ways even by the same disease. Now our friend, the Tecumseh correspondent of the Adrian Record, as most of our people know, has quite lately got married and in some respects it has taken quite a strange effect on him. Married life seems to be so dear and novel to him that he seems not only to be filled with love and joy himself, so that it is hard for him to restrain his feelings, but his noble and generous heart throbs to make all his fellow young men and companions enjoy the same pleasure that he is now so earnestly enjoying. We would kindly thank our friend for his thoughtfulness and generosity towards us, and all that we have to hope is that when orange buds shall fall in our pathway, our honeymoon shall be as full of joy and happiness as the one so eagerly grasped by our worthy Record man from Tecumseh.

VOCAL CONCERT.

The citizens of Tecumseh and vicinity will be pleased to learn that Mrs. Florence Rice Knox has been prevailed upon to give a vocal concert in our Opera House one week from to-night, June 30th. A large proportion of the readers of the HERALD were permitted to listen years ago to the then celebrated Rice Family Concerts. Mrs. Knox since then, as is well known, has developed under the instructions of the best musical teachers on the continent into one of the most celebrated contraltos of the day, and her fame is heralded wherever her name is known. A person has only to listen once to the exceedingly sweet and interesting soprano voice of Mrs. Cook to make them anxiously look forward to the time when they may be stirred again with its beautiful harmony.

Miss Addie Barrett, of Jackson, is the coming star among the young lady cornetists of the day.

Prof. M. B. Rice, a member of the celebrated Rice family, is well known, as well as Prof. Pease, of the State Normal School. With such a combination of vocal and instrumental talent, the concert at the Opera House next Thursday evening, June 30, cannot fail of being one of the most interesting to lovers of music ever listened to in this village.

Admission to the floor, 50 cents; Gallery, 35c. Reserved seats, 50 cents, which can be secured at Thos. Adamson's.

MRS. DOOLITTLE, nee Eva Marshall, of Detroit, is visiting friends in Tecumseh.

MAJOR ROBBINS, of Adrian, has left his home for his new field of labor at Ottawa, Ont.

THE business men of Adrian have taken steps to organize a Board of Trade Association.

MRS. HATTIE BURTON JOHNSTON, of Clinton, is the guest of Mrs. G. W. Griffith this week.

DAVENPORT will have a bowery dance at the Lake Ridge Hotel on the afternoon of the 4th.

MR. FRANK MCGILLIS, of Monroeville, Ohio, was the guest of A. P. Coddington last week.

MISS DENA HEESEN will entertain the members of the classes of '79, '80 and '81 Saturday evening.

WM. A. PARSONS, of New Haven, Conn., is making his accustomed summer's visit in Tecumseh.

W. F. POCKLINGTON brought us a peck of fine new potatoes yesterday. They are the first of the season.

TOM ADAMSON and S. W. Anderson are connecting their stores and residences with a telephone wire. They use the American telephone.

MANCHESTER will celebrate, Petersburg will celebrate, Jonesville will celebrate. Adrian has been talking it up, but no definite action has been taken.

ON Saturday, July 2d, the proprietors of "Chaff" will issue a midsummer number of that paper, containing a full page picture of the Detroit Base Ball club.

The commencement exercises of the Raisin Valley Seminary will take place to-morrow, beginning at ten o'clock A. M. A class of eight will graduate.

M. J. MARTIN brought us last week a basket of very fine Sharpless strawberries. He will have plants of this variety for sale when the planting season arrives.

THE High School Commencement exercises will be held this evening at the Opera House. The Alumni Reunion will take place to-morrow evening at Merchants' Hall.

Adrian Record: The old Leroy bridge, three miles east of the city, is declared to be in an absolutely unsafe condition. This bridge has been often complained of before, and is a disgrace to the county.

MISS E. MAY MERRITT, granddaughter of Mr. T. T. Romeyn, and formerly of this place, has accepted a position in the Hampton, Normal and Agricultural Institute, Hampton, Va., and entered upon her duties.

THE Detroit Post and Tribune have recently placed a new Scott Webb Printing & Folding Machine in their office. It is the finest printing press yet set up in Michigan, being of a similar character to those in the Free Press and Evening News offices.

A DEERFIELD man has a hen with four well-developed first-class legs, each duly equipped with toes and claws; and a Palmyra man has a pig with two pair of ears, one pair of which flop down, while the other two stick up as straight as those of a rabbit.

PROF. J. R. MILLER, Superintendent of the Constantine schools, and Prof. Eugene Wilson, Superintendent of the schools at Osceola, Iowa, are at home again. Their schools closed last week and they propose to be present at our Alumni Reunion to-morrow evening.

CHANCELLOR E. B. FAIRFIELD, of the Nebraska State University arrived in Tecumseh Tuesday evening. He is stopping with his son, Supt. E. B. Fairfield. The Chancellor deliveres the commencement address at the Opera House this evening. Subject: Work and Wages.

THE Adrian Press and the Hudson Gazette are having a set-to on the subject of newspaper credits. Possess thy soul in patience, Bro. Schermerhorn. It is not strange that the Adrian papers should be over sensitive on the credit question, for they never steal anything themselves, you know.

A SERMON on the Sanctified use of Money will be delivered at the M. E. church on Sabbath evening next.

Adrian Record, June 22: While in the act of coupling two cars of the ballasting train, at the Butler depot last evening, at about 7 o'clock, Mr. Fred. Lutz, had the index finger of his right hand badly crushed between the head of the coupling pins and what is known as the "plow rib."

PERSONS desiring to take in the Evening News excursion to the White Mountains and the sea are hereby informed that the railroad men have decided to waive the provision requiring photographs of ticket holders to be attached to the tickets extending the time for which originally sold.

SOME young boys of the village persist in jumping on the railroad trains while in motion. This is not only in violation of the railroad regulations, but also of the village ordinance. Those who engage in this practice are liable to be arrested and fined, and if they continue it, they will certainly be made an example of.

ACCORDING to the Adrian Times and Record, via. their Tecumseh correspondents, in less than three months it will be impossible to find a single young man or lady in Tecumseh. We are glad to see our friends doing well, but to a man in our situation this state of affairs tends to give to the cast of our eyes a little tinge of blue.

LAST Saturday Mr. E. A. Presley late of Peter Henderson's floral gardens, N. Y. city, brought for our inspection a handsome piece of floral work executed by him for Mrs. Spaulding. The design was good and the work A 1. We understand that Mrs. S. has engaged the services of this gentleman and intends making large additions to her green house.

C. H. ADAM will give a grand Independence Ball at the Sand Lake Hotel on Monday evening, July 4th. This popular resort has been put in thorough order this spring, a fine lot of new boats have been procured, and the proprietor is prepared to accomodate boating and pic-nic parties better than ever before. Look out for a grand time on the 4th of July.

A national service will be held on Sabbath eve., July 3d, at the M. E. church. A sermon appropriate to the occasion will be delivered. The church will be decorated with the national colors and other emblems. An invitation has been extended by the pastor to Co. C., M. S. T., to be in attendance. They have accepted the invitation and will attend in full uniform.

THE young people of the Baptist society held a lawn festival at Mrs. Dr. Fisher's residence last Tuesday evening as announced, and although the weather was a "trifle" cold for ice cream a fair crowd assembled and stuck to it with overcoats and shawls. Financially it was a success, and had it been a warm evening the affair would have been a grand success.—The lawn was arranged in splendid shape, well lighted and decorated.

Adrian Times: It is likely when the Wabash road absorbs the Detroit, Butler & St. Louis line, and gets it into thorough working order, there will be some changes of the depot buildings. The passenger depot will probably be moved further south, so that the extra stop for the crossing of the Lake Shore by south-western trains, will be obviated. It is also likely that the freight depot will be established nearer the line, so that a side track will run at the back of it.

LAST Saturday was a big day in Tecumseh for wool, and at one time twenty-six teams could be seen on "Wall" street anxiously awaiting their turn to be unloaded. A good many large clips were sold and among the largest ranked one sold by W. B. Keyser of this township. He sold 214 fleeces, gross weight 1470 lbs., and the clip netted up in dollars $512.05. We attempted to find "Wes" before he got started for home, but it was no use; he must have slipped out the back way.

THE greatest egg story we have heard yet is told on our good natured and worthy egg man, Frank Buman. Last week one of the boys drove in one night with an unusual large supply of eggs; the next morning as our friend Buman was looking around the store he heard a slight noise and upon inspection found to his great surprise that a fine young cochin chicken had hatched out during the night and was chirping around as bright as could be waiting for some one to feed it.

A SPECIAL State commissioner of immigration has been appointed by the governor under a new law; and his province will be to legitimately induce to settle within our State's borders a share of the thousand who are now coming to this country. Michigan's actual attractions have been too little known heretofore, and hosts of foreigners have passed its doors to less desirable but better-advertised States. In its northern portion, hundreds of good acres await the settlement of thrifty agriculturalists.

THE FARMERS' CLUB.

Tuesday, June 17th, the Farmers' Social Club held a special meeting at Sand Lake. The object of this meeting was not to discuss the relative merits of strawberry plants or the different varieties of wheat, but to sample the different kinds of bread, cake and pies of the ladies' cooking, to eat strawberries and to have a day of rollicking fun.

The crowd began to arrive by nine o'clock, when we were met by the new proprietor of Pentecost's landing, whom we found to be a genial, accommodating gentleman. The teams were soon unhitched, the people unloaded, and the grove presented a very animated scene. The swings and hammocks were set in motion, the boats loosed from their moorings, and every one set about his or her way of filling the hours with pleasure.

The matrons began to look up the accommodations for getting dinner, which they found sufficient, as Mr. Putnam has built a kitchen and furnished it with stove and tea kettles.—In good season the stores of provisions were unpacked, and it was found that every one expected to be "awful" hungry. It seemed as though there could not be a rooster, hen or chicken left in the neighborhood, but that they had all been fitted for this special occasion.

It was decided to have two meals and divide the provisions accordingly. Soon such a hurrying, for counting noses, it was found the tables would have to be set for eighty-five to accommodate the members and invited guests. Mrs. I. H. Schreder was appointed to make the coffee, while the other ladies prepared the table. In good time the dinner was ready and the people called in from the lake or wherever they were scattered. Soon all were working with a will. The coffee was pronounced excellent and the dinner all that could be desired.—After dinner everything that could be improvised into a bathing suit was pressed into service, and soon the water was alive with merry bathers; young men and maidens, boys and girls, even little three year-olds, and last but not least hard-working farmers and staid matrons.

The afternoon passed too quickly and the call to supper was made. The tables spread as bountifully as at dinner, and in addition luscious strawberries and cream, with abundance of ice cold lemonade. The strawberries were furnished by Mrs. E. Russell, Mr. A. Armstrong, and Mrs. F. Horton. After supper the crowd soon dispersed, all declaring they had had a pleasant day and that the object of the meeting had been attained.

There will be a special meeting of the Club the second Friday in August, at R. B. Gillespie's to discuss the best varieties of wheat for seed, and the best time to sow. The discussion to be opened by John Fisher.

Class Reunion.

The '76 class supper and reunion was held at the residence of C.S. Fitzsimmons last evening. All the members were present with the exception of Arthur W. Burnett, of Mt. Morris college, whose school duties are not yet through for the summer. The program was opened with a solo by Mrs. W. B. Mumford; next the class history by Manie M. Monaghan, which was followed by the prophecy written by C. S. Fitzsimmons. After remarks, and the reading of the regrets of A. W. Burnett, the class was invited to the pleasant dining room by Mrs. Fitzsimmons, whose excellent taste displayed itself in the arrangement of the table. A large center piece of flowers surmounted by a floral horse shoe and with the figures, '76 and '81 worked in the base, added much to the effect, and was prepared especially for the occasion at the green house of Mrs. Spaulding. After the supper and toasts, the company adjourned to the parlor to sing the class song, and arrange for a meeting one year from this time, after which the company adjourned having passed a thoroughly pleasant evening.

The Wool Market.

Wool has been coming in lively during the past week. The three firms here buying wool have taken in up to this morning 95,000 lbs. of wool divided thus: Hanford & Anthony, 57,000 lbs; Slayton & Son, 23,000; H. W. Stevens, 15,000. The average price paid has been 35 cents, although a few choice clips have sold as high as 38 cents. A large amount of wool already contracted is yet to be delivered.

Adrian Times: Thursday, during a shower, Mrs. L. Ayers, of Fairfield, went to the barn to open the doors to give shelter to a lady who was passing. Being in a hurry, she neglected to fasten one of the doors, when the wind, which was blowing very briskly at the time, caught and drove it shut with great violence, breaking Mrs. Ayers' arm near the wrist. She suffered great pain until the next morning, when the arm was set by Dr. Laverty. At present she is much easier.

The Lansing Republican epitomizes the new police bill so stringent in some of its features, it will probably not be generally regarded or enforced. It makes the proof of selling liquor to minors sufficient evidence of evil intent. It prohibits the playing of all games in saloons or any adjoining rooms. It forbids the sale of liquor in theatres, concert halls, variety shows, or other places of amusement, or in any rooms opening into these. It shortens the time for closing at night one hour, (from 10 to 9,) and defines more clearly what "closing" means, and does away with the necessity, when the 9 o'clock rule is violated, of proving that any liquor was sold.—While it follows the old law in compelling a person found intoxicated to testify, it relieves it of a possible unconstitutionality of waiving the penalty against such person for the act of which he testifies. It increases the penalty in the liquor bond, strengthens its provisions, and avoids the bond in cases of conviction. It also limits the place of business for liquor selling under one bond. It provides for the visitation of saloons by officers, says that security for costs shall not be required from complainants, and in an action on bond it awards costs to the plaintiff, irrespective of the amount recovered. It strengthens the law with regard to druggists by adding additional restrictions and increasing the penalty for a violation.

Jackson Patriot: Three tramps recently appeared at Cambridge, Lenawee county, near the Jackson county line, and represented that they had been sent there to locate shanties for laborers who were to be put to work at once on the projected Toledo & Milwaukee railroad. The unsophisticated denizens of the hamlet were overjoyed at the news, and extended every attention to the visitors. They not only pointed out the best sites for shanties but took the scamps to their houses, regaled them with sumptuous fare, and when they declared they must go further along the line on the same errand, a team was provided and they were transported a dozen miles or more free of expense. Finally the driver began to suspect by their winks, nudges and grins that all was not right, and he told them plainly he believed they were imposters. They then asked to be set down amid jocose banterings and jolly allusions to Cambridge, and when he drove wrathily away they nearly split their sides with laughter at the success of their ruse to secure gratuitous lunches and transportation.

Monroe Democrat: A cunning boy who hangs around the depot, tied a hornet's nest to a dog's tail expecting to see a foot race for the amusement of himself and the passengers who were waiting for the train. After dragging the thing around awhile the hornets began to come out and light on the dog. The ungrateful whelp crowded in between the boy's legs and would not go anywhere else. The boy was almost paralyzed with mortification at the failure of his little amusement scheme. But when the hornets began to get in their work there was a change in the program, and the boy started the foot race. A boy cannot run very fast with a big yellow dog between his legs, and the burst of speed was not as fast as was hoped for, but the hornets did all they could to help the boy along.

Adrian Times: A farmer, living on the Tecumseh side of the town line between Tecumseh and Macon, kept some stock in his barn, on the opposite side of the road. The question was brought up Tuesday, in the morning session of the board, as to whether the supervisor of Macon or the supervisor of Tecumseh should take the assessment of the stock. The question was referred to the proper committee, and upon their report, it was decided that the supervisor of Macon should do the work.

CHILDRENS' Sunday at the Universalist church passed off very pleasantly last Sabbath. The church was tastily trimmed, one beautiful floral piece being furnished by Mrs. Spaulding. The morning services were impressive, and the evening concert was listened to by a crowded house.

WE are glad to learn that Tecumseh will have a chance to listen to a good entertainment once more. Mrs. Knox at the opera house next Thursday evening.

DIED.

FULLER.—In Franklin, June 16th, 1881, of consumption, Mrs. Mary F. Fuller, aged 33 years.

A beloved wife and mother has passed to a higher life. Another bright link in friendship's chain is missing, and Oh, the loneliness in the home from which she has gone.—Mother, sisters and brother were waiting for her "over there," but the little clinging arms and quivering lips she left behind seemed holding her to earth. For years she had been a great sufferer; patient, uncomplaining through all, supported by the promises to those who trust Him. Pure thoughts and unselfish deeds are stepping stones to a beautiful life beyond, and she was one whose life was rounded out with a record of sympathy and loving kindness for each and all. Ever green will be her memory in the hearts of her friends, but to the aged parent, whose props have been summoned "one by one," and to the devoted husband and relatives, who could only look upon the white brow and clasp pale hands meekly, there is a feeling of bereavement known only to those who have themselves laid dear faces away.

Domestic Economy.

"My dear fellow," said Lavender, "it's all very nice to talk about economizing and keeping a rigid account of expenses and all that sort of thing, but I've tried it. Two weeks ago I stopped on my way home on Sunday night, and I bought just the gayest little Russia leather cream-laid paper account book you ever saw, and a silver pencil to match it. I said to my wife after supper, 'My dear, it seems to me it costs us a lot of money to live.'

She sighed and said, 'I know it does, Lavvy, but I'm sure I cant help it. I'm just as economical as I can be. I don't spend half as much money for candy as you do for cigars.

I never take any notice of personalities, so I sailed right ahead. 'I believe, my dear, that if we were to keep a strict account of everything we spent we could tell just where to cut down. I've brought you a little account book, and every Monday morning I'll give you some money and you can set it down on one side and then on the other side everything you spend, and then on Saturday night we can go over it and see just where the money goes and how we can boil things down a little.'

Well, sir! she was just delighted—thought it was a first rate plan, and the pocket account book was lovely—regular David Copperfield and Dora business. Well, sir, the next Saturday night we got through supper and she got out that account book as prompt as possible and handed it over for inspection. On one side was 'Received from Lavvy, $50.' That's all right! Then I looked on the other page, and what do you think was there? 'Spent it all.' Then I laughed, and of course she cried, and we gave up the account book racket on the spot by mutual consent. Yes, sir, I've been there, and I know what domestic economy means, I tell you. Let's have Lave a cigar."

Immigration.

The Missouri Immigrant, St. Louis, contains the following wholesome advice:

"Talk up your country; speak a good word about your neighbors and your neighborhood—not only when you are abroad, but when you are at home. Don't go around looking as if every man was your natural enemy, and you were hopelessly tied up in a community with which you have no common interests. Don't run down the country and berate your fellow citizens to every stranger you meet, but brag them up. Tell strangers you have a fine country. Don't deceive them by telling exaggerated stories or untruths; but don't take a delight in making prominent every little mismanagement of public affairs and every little circumstance of your country's history that was not just according to your ideas. Tell the strange visitor that your people are good and hospitable, and prove it by introducing him among your friends. Let every man speak well of his neighborhood and his country, and try and induce strangers to settle there. Where a stranger locates near you, make him think well of you and your neighbors. If there is a bargain in a piece of vacant land or a farm near you, help to get that bargain disposed of. When it is in stronger hands, and out of the market, it will stiffen prices on all the lands surrounding it. Get all your farms into the hands of men out of debt and able to hold them, and you will see a boom in the real estate market; but as long as there is a farm for sale under the pressure of debts, the prices of other land will be influenced thereby. A vacant store in a row of business houses injures the rental of all the others; a demand for one more store than can be had has the contrary effect. Prices of land are affected in the same way."

Rothschild's Maxims.

According to George Francis Train, Baron Rothschild had the following maxims framed on his bank walls:

Attend carefully to details of your business.
Be prompt in all things.
Consider well, then decide positively.
Dare to do right. Fear to do wrong.
Endure trials patiently.
Fight life's battle bravely, manfully.
Go not in the society of the vicious.
Hold integrity sacred.
Injure not another's reputation or business.
Join hands only with the virtuous.
Keep your mind from evil thoughts.
Lie not for any consideration.
Make few acquaintances.
Never try to appear what you are not.
Observe good manners.
Pay you debts promptly.
Question not the veracity of a friend.
Respect the counsel of your parents.
Sacrifice money rather than principle.
Touch not, taste not, handle not intoxicating drinks.
Use your leisure time for improvement.
Venture not upon the threshold of wrong.
Watch carefully over your passions.
Extend to every one a kindly salutation.
Yield not to discouragement.
Zealously labor for the right.
A success is certain.

Nothing Like Success.

"There is nothing," said little Mr. Barkingdale, who was jumping at the top hook in the hat rack with his new silk hat—"there is nothing"—he panted, with another desperate jump, "succeeds"—and up he went again—"like"—and he made a jump that a kangaroo would have envied—"like"—he shouted, as he slapped his hat fairly over the hook, hung on to the brim just a second too long, tore it clear off, pulled the hook through the side of his hat, and then, as the whole hat-rack came over on top of him, and he thrust his hat through the mirror, in the middle of it, he roared in desperate and legitimate conclusion—"success." And all the rest of the guests seemed to think that was, too, for the enthusiasm was tremendous.

The notion that character is spontaneous is held by most people in the early part of their lives, and is wrong. When they discover this, nine-tenths change to the other extreme. That is wrong, too. Hosts of young men think that their character will form of itself, and that they will necessarily become better as they grow older. Hosts of old men believe that their character is fixed, and that it is impossible for them to become better. Such beliefs are foolish. People are also wrong in thinking that they can put off their bad traits and put on good traits. The old failures cannot thus be transformed, but out of the old habits new ones can be formed.

The Family Library.

Make a family library. The home ought no more to be without a library than without a dining-room and kitchen. If you have but one room, and it is lighted by the great wood fire in the flaming fireplace, as Abraham Lincoln's was, do as Abraham Lincoln did—pick out one corner of your fireplace for a library, and use it. Every man ought to provide for the brain as well as for the stomach.

This does not require capital; there are now cheap editions of the best books; it only requires time and forecast. We write in a private library, and a fairly good one for working purposes, of three thousand odd volumes; we began it twenty years ago, on a salary of $1,000 a year, with five books—a commentary in four volumes and a dictionary. The best libraries are not made, they grow.

In forming a library, if your means are small do not buy what you can beg or borrow. Depend, as did Joseph Cook, as many of the greatest authors have done, on public libraries—the District Library, the Lyceum, the Book Club, the Circulating Library—or on more fortunate friends. Buy only what you cannot borrow.

At first only buy books that you want immediately to read. Don't be deluded into buying books because they are classics, or cheap, or that you may get rid of an agent. One book read is worth a dozen books looked at. No book is possessed till it is read.

Reference books constitute an exception, and an important exception, to this rule. These are the foundations of a good library. The essential reference books are a good dictionary, atlas and encyclopedia. There is no best cyclopedia; your choice must depend upon your resources, pecuniary and mental. Any school atlas will do (and a second-hand one can be had for almost nothing).

In purchasing books, exercise a choice in editions. The lowest-priced books are not always the cheapest. Buy books of transient interest or minor importance—all novels, for example, and current books of travel—in cheap forms. The best novels can be had in prices ranging from ten to fifteen cents each; a binder, at a cost of a dollar, will enable you to bind together all of a size, and make a volume out of what otherwise would become, when read, only material for the waste-basket. On the other hand, histories, classics of all sorts, and generally all permanent books, should be bought in good bindings and good type. It takes well-seasoned lumber to make a good family library.

Musical Precocity.

Before he was eight years of age Mendelssohn excited the wonder of his teachers by the accuracy of his ear, the strength of his memory, and above all, by his incredible facility in playing music by sight. Meyerbeer at the tender age of six played at a concert, and three years later was one of the best pianists at Berlin; while the genius of Beethoven showed itself so early that his musical education was commenced by his father at the age of five. When two years younger than this, Sam Wesley, the musician, could play extempore music on the organ; and the distinguished German musical composer, Robert Schumann, also showed at a very early age a strong passion for music and remarkable talents both for playing and composing. Though he lost the use of his right hand at the very outset of his studies, he worked on with a giant's strength, struggling against all obstacles "with uncompromising devotion to what he conceived to be the highest interests of art." Something of the same early development of musicial abilities displayed itself in the case of Cipriani Potter, distinguished as a composer and pianist; and Henrietta Sontag, a famous singer of her time, trod the boards when a child, and was prima donna of the Berlin stage and the idol of the capital before she was eighteen. Madame Tietjens is also said to have given indications of promising musical talents from earliest infancy. Before she could speak she would hum the opening notes of Auber's opera, Fra Diavolo. When a toddling child she used to create great amusement by her efforts to sing and play, and was quite content to be allowed to wander among the instruments of a neighboring piano forte manufacturer's warehouse and make music after her own fashion—music which was recognized by one at least of those who heard it as more than the strumming of a child.

The Art of Talking.

If we notice closely we shall find that the people who are most popular in social life are those who understand not only how to talk themselves, but how to make others talk. This is a very valuable gift. To be able so to direct conversation as not to display your own knowledge, but to draw out the opinions and quicken the thoughts of those with whom you talk—this is an accomplishment indeed. It makes each a contributor to the enjoyment of all, and it leaves with each a pleasant sense of having said something which others were glad to hear. This is very different from the consciousness of having been bored or snubbed—or both, which lesser folks often carry away from the presence of a fluent and tyrannical talker. There is a good deal of this sort of conversational missionary work waiting to be done, and the time which we spend in chattering about the weather might be very profitably devoted to it. It should be borne in mind that there is scarcely any one of average intelligence who cannot, if he is drawn out, talk interestingly and instructively about at least one thing, the thing with which he is practically the most familiar, or which is connected with his regular labor. Is your companion on the car or on the street a machinist, a manufacturer, an artist, a builder—lead the conversation around to the one subject, if there are no others, in which he is sure to be interested. The result will be that you will please him, and will gain fresh knowledge, yourself. Whoever talks much thus with specialists upon their chosen department of labor or thought, will get together a fund of valuable information, not to be learned from the books.

A curious story comes from Dallas, W. Va. Jesse Huff, while out hunting, shot at a squirrel in a tree, but the squirrel remained stationary. He repeated the firing three times in succession, thinking that his gun had gone back on him until the last of the three shots fired, when to his surprise down tumbled four squirrels all joined together. After the three were shot they pulled the other one off, he not being able to hold them up. They were joined together by a narrow strip, so that one could not move without the others, and had been born that way and were full grown.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

Is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca, with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction, to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independent, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.

At ENGLEWOOD, with the L. S. & M. S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.

At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.

At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.

At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.

At ROCK ISLAND, with "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line," and Rock Island & Peo. Rds.

At DAVENPORT, with the Davenport Division C. M. & St. P. R. R.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

The Kalamazoo soldiers go to Grand Rapids July 4th.

The Lansing Knights Templar band cleared $1,799.16 by the recent band tournament.

A man named G. N. Rogers was killed at Harrison by falling from a trestle work at one of the mills.

This may be a bad wheat year, but there are lots of thrashers being sold in Michigan just the same.

Bad Owosso boys play ball on Sunday so loud as to disturb the good boys in the Sunday school half a mile away.

Mechanics of Battle Creek are banding together to boycott merchants who refuse to patronize home manufacturers.

Complaint is made that the saloonists of Lainsburg go where they please for bondsmen, or do as they choose about giving bonds at all.

There is a Texas man in jail at Hastings. He says he had rather be in jail in Michigan than a free man in Texas.

Kalamazoo Telegraph: A band of gypsies, fifty strong, beleaguer the shores of Gognac Lake, and subsist by foraging.

Charlotte Republican: There is one thing the farmers feel quite encouraged about, and that is the oat crop. It promises fine.

Paw Paw Free Press and Courier: Timothy grass and mammouth clover will be a good crop this season on account of the recent heavy rains.

A Standish speculator is in the frog business, and one day last week shipped 500 of them to Cincinnati, where frogs and lager are favorite food and drink.

Rev. Mr. Alton, of Berlin, Kent co. gave a tramp a dollar a few days ago, and the miserable cuss repaid him by stealing $149 more, making it an even $150.

The Isabella county editor who said that the hail fell two feet deep in that region last week wants to make oath that he never had a case of the jim-jams in his life.

Tuscola has a new brass band, which isn't a month old yet, and can already be heard three miles. The awful results of longer practice can only be imagined.

Elijah Gibbs, of near Caro, assisted by his hired man and a dog, killed 99 rats in a few hours last week. They would have called it an even 100, but didn't want to lie for just one rat.

Albert Corry, the youthful and pious fraud, heretofore polished off by the Lansing Republican has been arrested at Lansing on the charge of robbing St. Luke's church at Kalamazoo.

Lansing Journal: The late heavy rains have been very favorable for the wheat, and farmers are beginning to say that the crop will be much better than was expected a few weeks ago.

Under-Sheriff Vincent, of Big Rapids, has been paid $500 as a reward given by the insurance companies for the conviction of the men who fired the village of Morley about two years ago.

A Tecumseh firm of produce buyers purchases 20,000 dosen eggs per week. This is what makes the Lenawee Co. poultry marketed at Detroit bear such a look of being overworked.—Detroit Evening News.

During the storm of Thursday Mrs. Christopher Britton, of Barton township, Newaygo Co., was killed by a falling tree. She was milking a cow at the time and the cow was also killed.

The Detroit Post and Tribune tells of a boy who was drowned in 20 feet of water, that he was in the water one hour and twenty minutes, and that life was extinct when he was taken out. Strange!

The Grand Rapids Democrat says that the liabilities of H. S. Watrous, the lumberman of that city who made an assignment a few days ago, are from $25,000 to $30,000, with only $15,000 secured.

One of Robbins & Colvin's circus monkeys severely bit a little girl at Caro. No one could account for the conduct of the "amdosin little cuss," but it is thought he is bashful and that the girl stared at him.

Frank E. Yates, formerly of this state and at one time one of the best single scullers in America, is now living in Colorado. Frank has had domestic trouble, and has got, away from it as far as possible.

Cigarmaking is Coldwater's chief industry, and there is a little unpleasantness cropping out between the cigarmakers and their employers. The union men want the inside work of the factories run according to union rules.

At Lowell a few days ago two ladies were airing themselves upon a balcony in the rear of a store in that village when the platform gave way and precipitated both into the river 20 feet below. One lady got out herself, the other stuck head downward in the mud and wildly waved her feet in the air as signals for help—and the help came in time to save her.

About the meanest thing heard of in this state of late has been done at Bridgeport, where some malicious scamp started a story that a minister of that place had stolen a watch and chain at East Saginaw—a bit of pure cussedness.

Midland Republican: S. Tucker, of Geneva, says he has a piece of wheat on land that was part pine, and that it is the best wheat he has seen anywhere this spring, also that the grass on that kind of land is looking better than elsewhere.

A large number of witnesses have been examined at Battle Creek in the investigation into the mental condition of Judge Crofoot, of Pontiac, and thus far it seems to be clearly shown that the judge is sane as anybody, and a deal sharper than most men.

Prof. H. B. Roney, a well known musician of East Saginaw, and more widely known as the secretary of the state sportsman's society for some years past, has started for a tour of Europe. Shooting and banging a piano has made him prosperous, and he yearns for travel.

Vassar Pioneer: While digging a vault in the rear of the Central House Monday, a vein of mineral paint was discovered, which is pronounced by painters to be equal to any imported from Ohio. Whether the bed of mineral covers an area of any extent is not yet ascertained.

Friday afternoon at Ann Arbor two small negro girls were struck by the Grand Rapids express, and one of them was instantly killed. The other was taken to the university hospital, where it was found that her injuries necessitated the amputation of one arm, and that one of her thighs was broken.

Grass Lake News: Many orchards capable of bearing 500 barrels will not yield 20 barrels this year, and many have scarcely an apple on the trees. Pears not one-fourth of a crop. Peaches, none. Other small fruits one-half of a crop will be a liberal prophecy. In some places the grasshoppers are very plenty.

Tuscola County Pioneer: Never was there such a demand for houses as there is in Vassar at the present time. Every dwelling in town is full and twenty additional houses could be rented in less one weeks time. Several parties have been obliged to move away for want of a house in which to live. Somebody must certainly build some more houses.

The Michigan senate did not know what to do about the restoration of capital punishment until they had sent for the black Sybil, Sojourner Truth, and consulted her. She told them to vote the bill down, and they did it.—Ypsilanti Sentinel. All of which would be very funny were it not for the fact that the senate killed the bill several days before Sojourner reached Lansing.

There is an old lady wandering about this country looking for a place where she can lie down and die. Her children in New Jersey shipped her to her children in Jackson, Mich., and they shipped her back. She travels on passes and county poorhouse tickets, and if her children can keep her going long enough, she may accomodate them by dying off, and thus getting out of their way.

A Calhoun county man named Scanlan sued a widow named Mrs. Chapin for work done on her farm. The parties came into court, settled the suit and were married off hand by the justice. Then the lady handed him a roll of bills containing $100 with the remark, "There is $100; you need not work any more now, and I guess you won't have to sue me for your pay." If this is not true the man in the Battle Creek Moon office is a fabricator.

Tuscola County Pioneer: Thirty-five sheep, belonging to Charles Hall, of Fairgrove, running at large in the highway, were stolen by John Campbell on Friday and driven to his home in Guilford, where he told his parents and neighbors he had bought the flock for $70. The sheep were sheared on Saturday, and the wool prepared to be taken to market on Monday morning. Mr. Hall, learning of the whereabouts, armed Constable McCreary with a warrant, who on Monday morning recovered the sheep and the wool. Young Campbell however, was not to be found having left for parts unknown.

Niles Republican: That troublesome pest of the farmer, the grasshopper, is doing some ugly work in this vicinity. Three miles northwest of the city, on the west side of the river, they put in an appearance and in one night stripped a ten acre clover field of every leaf. This was on the farm of Wm. Phile. On the east side of the river, on the old Ford farm, they stripped three acres of oats for Mr. Pinnell. Burton Jarvis examined some of the hoppers on this side of the river and found them to be in color, strongly inclined to be red, and that they are small and have very small wings.

Present Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of John L. Tallman, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, of Jacob DeWitt Tallman, executor of the last will and testament of said deceased, alleging among other things that he has paid the debts and funeral expenses of said deceased, the expenses of administration of said estate thus far incurred, and that he is ready to file his first account in this court as such executor and praying that said account may be allowed and for an assignment and distribution of the residue of said estate, among the persons entitled thereto, according to the provisions of said will.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 11th day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of said Petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. WASHINGTON NOTES.

DECLINED.

Gen. Jeremiah Rusk has formally declined the mission to Paraguay and Uruguay. He is a candidate for the position of auditor of railroad accounts, but Secretary Kirkwood is at present opposed to any change.

THEY ACCEPT.

Judge McFarland telegraphs from Topeka his acceptance of the commissionership of the general land office, and Col. Dudley, of Indiana, accepts the office of commissioner of pensions. Until Col. Dudley arrives, the chief clerk will be acting commissioner.

FREEDMEN'S BANK AFFAIRS.

Comptroller Knox, who has charge of the winding-up of the affairs of the Freedmen's bank, says that congress placed the matter in his charge last February, that he has sold real estate belonging to the bank to the amount of $40,778, while the total receipts are $59,684. If congress buys the present bank building, as it is likely to do, at the valuation of $250,000, Mr. Knox thinks that the depositors will be paid in all about 80 per cent.

ARMY CLERKS.

The secretary of war has ordered that the whole number of enlisted men of all grades and descriptions allowed for clerical duty in the army shall be 13 sergeants, 21 corporals, 397 privates, and 16 topographical assistants. The general of the army will determine their distribution. In addition the commanding generals of military divisions and departments, the commanding officer of the district of New Mexico, and superintendents of recruiting service may, if necessary, detail enlisted men from troops under their command as messengers, not to exceed five for each division, department, and district named, and one to each superintendent.

PITNEY'S PLACE ABOLISHED.

Secretary Windom to-day issued an order abolishing the office of custodian of the treasury, held the past five years by O. L. Pitney. After full consideration of the law bearing upon the subject, the secretary doubted the existence of sufficient authority for further continuance of the office. Pitney's services cease from this date. The duties of the office will hereafter be performed under the immediate direction of the chief clerk of the treasury, as provided by the Revised Statutes. Detailed regulations for the future management of the business are now being prepared.

POSTAL BUSINESS.

The estimated revenues of the postal service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1880, are $38,578,787, and the total amount appropriated by congress for expenditure by the department is $40,955,432, showing that the amount necessary to be saved in order to bring the expenditures within receipts and place the department on a "business basis" is $1,376,645. The reductions in "expedited star-service contracts," etc., effected from the 4th of last March to the present amount almost exactly to $1,000,000 per annum. This total includes about $300,000 cut off the past week, more than half of which reduction was effected on southwestern routes.

ECONOMIC MEASURES.

Postmaster General James has cut off $300,000 of useless star routes this month, and it is estimated that he will save at least $1,500,000 during the first fiscal year of his administration by abolishing unnecessary star routes and cutting down others. He has saved over $300,000 as compared with last year's expenditure in contracts made for next year, for envelopes, postal cards, etc. Published statements of Mr. James' savings and of his mode of conducting the department on strictly business principles lead to expressions of fear from some quarters that he may seek to economise too far. It can be stated that there is no danger whatever of this. Postmaster General James fully appreciates the growing needs of this country in the way of mail facilities. It is his purpose to increase and enlarge facilities for distribution of mails in all sections of the country. Star routes receive as close and careful attention from him as the largest cities, and all branches of the service will be improved.

A LADY NOTARY.

Miss M. M. Gillett has the honor of being the first woman appointed notary public by the president. She is a native of Wisconsin; was educated at Lake Erie Female seminary, Painesville, O., and at present is a resident of Washington and a student of law; in person tall, slender, good-looking, and of lady-like appearance. Mr. Riddle made the application for the appointment, accompanied by full references to all the acts of congress and all the late District legislation bearing on the question, showing that women are eligible, which he requested might be referred to the attorney general. That officer concurred, and the president ordered the appointment to be made.

THE CONTINGENT FUND IRREGULARITIES.

The report of the investigation committee in regard to disbursement of the contingent funds is in the hands of Secretary Windom. He has not read the report. He asked for it for his private information, and should not make it public except so far as necessary to explain any public action that might be demanded. This far no removals were contemplated as the outgrowth of the investigation, simply because he had not read the report. It was understood, however, that the report substantiates the published discoveries, and that a number of removals are sure to be made, some of them when least expected.

THE APPROPRIATION EXHAUSTED.

Gen. Raum announces to collectors of internal revenue that there is no provision for the payment of the salaries of storekeepers and gaugers beyond June 30th. Amounts advanced for the payment of such salaries will be considered on that basis. Vouchers will be received up to that date with a separate account and unreceipted for the balance of the month. The Congressional appropriation for this purpose was much less than the estimate, and the expense is compulsory. Congress will be asked to make a special appropriation to meet this emergency.

THE CUSTODIAN RING.

The treasury investigating committee has submitted a preliminary report to Secretary Windom of the evidence found against the custodian's department. The committee report that they found a regularly organized ring, which had been in existence for several years and has been misappropriating money and defrauding the government. Officials and employes who were connected with the ring will be dismissed at once, and a more complete and thorough investigation will be ordered. All facts heretofore reported in the Western Associated Press dispatches relating to the selling of carpets and other frauds of the ring are reported by the committee.

DISCHARGE OF SENATE EMPLOYES.

Sergeant-at-Arms Bright, of the Senate, has discharged several employes, and it is reported that he intends to make more discharges at the end of this month. This course evidently gives great dissatisfaction to democratic senators. One democratic senator, now here, says that just before the senate adjourned some intended removal was mentioned, and the democratic senators gave Bright plainly to understand that no removals should be made during the recess, as the democratic senators resisted the change of the senate officers on the ground that it would be unjust to turn out men who had worked all through the session just as the recess was coming on. The understanding was that no change should be made before next winter. The indications are that when congress meets again, the democrats will make a rigid inquiry about these dismissals. Nothing can be done until then, however, as when the senate is not in session, the sergeant-at-arms has complete power. One man discharged by Bright has been in the employ of the senate over twenty years, having been originally appointed by the democratic sergeant-at-arms before the rebellion.

THE GREENBACKERS.

The secretary of the national greenback committee says that the greenback members of the next congress will stand wholly together on all questions. He says nine members of the next house are pledged to meet in greenback caucus and determine upon and carry out greenback politics. These nine members counted upon are Ladd and Murch, of Maine; Rainin and Musgrove, of Pennsylvania; Rife, Mazzuchin, Burroughs, and Fort, of Missouri, and Jones of Texas. The intention is to get these members in caucus, with a view of consolidating their votes. Of the republicans it is believed that two members from Virginia will vote with the republicans. The greenbackers are sending documents to Maine to the effort to carry Frye's district, but it can be set down as conclusive that the republicans will organize the next house.

AREA AND PRODUCT OF CEREALS.

The census office has issued the report of J. R. Dodge, special agent for the collection of statistics of agriculture, giving the result of the first count of the area and product of cereals of the several states and territories. Mr. Dodge says: It is a census taken in 1880 of the crops of 1879, and the acreage in which they were grown. It is given in comparison with the production of 1878 reported in the census of 1879. Supplementary and correct returns may slightly change those aggregates in the final publication. The most striking suggestion of these figures is the unprecedented advance in the production during the last decade, amounting to nearly 100 per cent for all kinds taken together, while the increase of the ten years preceding was but 12 per cent. This wide difference is largely real from obvious causes, though in part only apparent by reason of the partial failure of the corn crop of 1869, and the heavy yield of 1879. The great increase between 1859 and 1869, a period of great agricultural growth, was 15 per cent, as reported by the census. The acreage of crops now for the first time given by the census will in future prevent the misleading effect of a very low and of an excessive product in a census year.

EXPORTS.

The detailed statement of the exports of breadstuffs for May has just been completed. It shows a decrease in the total value of the exports as compared with May of last year of $500,000, which is an improvement of the comparative statement for April, when there was a reduction of $2,279,000 as compared with the exports for April, 1880. The total value of the exports for May, 1881, was $19,894,555, as against $20,652,441 for May, 1880. In the five months which ended May 31, 1881, there was a loss of nearly $43,000,000 in the value of the exports, the amount during that period being $91,375,196, as against $94,300,895 in the corresponding five months of 1880. The decrease in breadstuff exports for the eleven months which ended May 31, 1881, as compared with the corresponding period of 1880, shows a falling off of nearly $9,000,000 in the present year, the total value of the exports for the eleven months ended May 31, 1881, being $244,955,370, as compared with $255,876,828 in 1880. Wheat and Indian corn, as usual, constitute the greater part of this movement. There was an increase in the exportations of wheat in May 1881, over May, 1880, of more than 1,000,000 bushels, a difference in value in favor of 1881 of $352,000. The exports of Indian corn, on the contrary, have fallen off more than 2,000,000 bushels as compared with May of last year.

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT.

The commission appointed to investigate the organization of the Postoffice Department has nearly completed its labors, and a voluminous report will be made by Colonel Parker, Chief of the Special Agents. The commission has not been looking into the affairs of the department simply to see what advantageous changes can be made, but the investigation also has reference to the resolution passed by the Senate last session, calling upon the department for a list of the employes, the State from whence they come, etc. Most of the bureaus in the Postoffice Department were called into existence in a haphazard sort of way. Clerks aspiring to promotion secured a provision for the contemplated office in the statutes of Congress. The commision has learned that there is a duplication of work in some of the divisions of the Postoffice Department. In other divisions the force is inadequate to a proper performance of the work. The commission has also tested the capabilities of the different clerks, and where useless or dishonest ones are found they will be removed. Those deserving promotion will be advanced. There will not be any reduction in the working force of the department as a whole, although quite a number of removals will be made. Twenty new clerks will be appointed at the beginning of the fiscal year. It is evident that with the constantly increasing number of new positions established that the department is inadequate in quantity. Postmaster General James feels disposed to treat his subordinates with the greatest liberality. He recognizes the fact that as a general rule these clerks are expert in the character of work they do, and feel disposed to sympathize with them.

THE WISCONSIN CHIPPEWAS.

Three Chippewa Indians from Bad River reservation in Wisconsin, accompanied by an interpreter, all in paint and feathers, visited the Indian commissioner Price on Wednesday, [illegible] and spoke unceremoniously for a long[illegible]. The four arrived on Tuesday and went to the Tremont house, announcing that they had come to see the great father. They registered as Ben New Mexico, Interpreter Charles Coutee, Mack Cwan, and Scar Bare Wrist. Commissioner Price was astonished when they appeared before him. The interpreter stated that they represented one hundred and seventy-five families, who had sent them to Washington in hopes of securing a new reservation. As this particular tribe is especially well provided for, and have more land in their present reservation than they have actually use for, the commissioner thus addressed his visitors: "You can get no lands here, and I think you had better go back and work your corn and potatoes. There is more for the Indians to do besides hunting and fishing. They should raise products from the soil and learn to work, as I have done many times, with their hands and arms, and become respectable citizens. Buffalo are all gone, and your own sense should teach you it is time to throw off those feathers and rings and devote your time to earning a living in another way. This running over the country won't do. You are well provided for and can gain nothing by coming to Washington, and you must go back and so inform your people."

Ben New Mexico enlightened his companions as to the reception accorded and the emphatic language of the commissioner. The only response was an occasional "Ugh!" and a dissatisfied shake of the head. They were then sent back to their hotel, with the repeated admonition to return home at once.

In regard to the Michigan camp meeting to be held at Lansing, the Sentinel of that place says: "The camp-meeting in this city June 28th to July 4th is assuming huge proportions, and preparations should be made to accommodate at least 50,000 people who will be in this city during the week. The Grand Trunk railroad brings the Chicago excursionists at half fare, and editors free. The excursions from Memphis, Vicksburg, and St. Louis will come via. Chicago. The Detroit, Lansing & Northern railroad carry for one and one-third fare the 28th, 29th and 30th of June, and one fare for the 2d, 3d and 4th of July, tickets good for return on the 5th. The other roads will no doubt be equally as liberal, although they have not been heard from as yet. The north, south, east and west, will be represented during the week. The gathering will be the largest ever held in this country, and will be the best advertisement for Michigan and this city that has ever been given, and we trust that our citizens, without regard to party, will appreciate the efforts of the Sentinel in getting up this enterprise."

AROUND THE COUNTY.

BROOKLYN.

Runaways have been frequent of late, and though of various kinds the run-away love affair is not among them. The nearest symptoms occurred in Cambridge a week ago, when a noted farmer with his wife, daughter and son-in-law took impromptu flight. Both gentlemen are men of truth and by combining their statements we are able to subtract this. The father-in-law fainted as soon as he could throw down the lines, and the son-in-law jumped out of the carriage and climbed a tree. The ladies hurried along with the excited horses and tumbled out as gracefully as circumstances permitted more scared than hurt.

The sudden flitting of a train thro' the village gave us palpitation of the heart, because a lady and baby were concerned. On account of the little one George Kieber interfered and regulated their speed. By the way a couple of anti-monopolists gave chase one could not help thinking they were interested in the result.

Ella and Aggie Jones followed the example of their elders as far as getting spilled out.

Yesterday lightning gave them another scare and played High-spy in the house of Mr. Reynolds, transferring the whole family into a group of statuary for a few minutes.

Then the hotel received a boxed-ear on the chimney, scattering brick, shingles, &c., thence tearing through to the lowest basement floor. I don't know how many or who got scared down there.

Notwithstanding the comet and these calamities, a very nice graduating class have rewarded the labor of Professor Pierce. The youngest graduate was Joanna Grady, aged fourteen, and equalled the occasion. The essays were brief and well read. Cora Tolan recited hers and is said to own the finest voice among them. John Owens has often been left in charge of Prof. Pierce's department during the past year, and did not disappoint the expectations of his friends at the last. The week previous to closing was devoted to exercises in elocution. In this branch Nettie Camburn, of Franklin, is said to excel, and in other studies does credit to the town she calls home.

Mrs. Powell has the boss cat for certain results. We opine she can beat any feline west of the great lakes.—Some two years since she brought forth a litter of four kittens, all of which were united by the legs. Since that time two more litters of seven each have been produced, all of each production were fastened together in a manner similar to the first four, and only one of each seven was living.—Come on with your cats.

Mr. Crowel Eddy handed me a paper containing the marriage of his son in Iowa. It contained more than I would like to copy, and probably more than you would have space to publish. The entire article occupied 42 lines. I think in the following all that is essential is comprised:

From the Vinton (Iowa) Eagle, of June 1st.—Married on Wednesday, of last week, by the Rev. Mr. Phelps, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Keogle, Mr. Horace G. Eddy and Miss Virginia Withrow. The presents were numerous, appropriate and costly. This is the fourth of the Eddy brothers that has married in Vinton, and all are the sons of Crowel Eddy who resides west of Clinton.

This is getting to be quite a town for lawsuits. Several having been held here within the last month, all of which were before Justice Teachout. In fact he is about the only Justice we have at present, the others failing to act for some cause or other.

School will commence on Monday next, after a two weeks vacation which the scholars were not slow in taking advantage of and no doubt some were benefitted by the same. The chief cause for this vacation was measles and pertussis (whooping cough), there being several cases of the former. School out to begin with a new impetus now.

Henry Baughman, while berrying, Monday hitched his team to a tree in the woods, south of James Haight's. When he returned he found them piled up in the road, the buggy badly smashed up. The horses were both securely tied when he left them, and when found neither tie strap was broken. How did they get loose?

A paper balloon of considerable size was found by David Harrison on his premises on the morning of the 29th. The same was observed the previous evening by Jacob Barrett and others while looking at the comet. At first Jake supposed that the editorial staff had started for the comet, but a careful examination of the found balloon failed to disclose either cigar stubs, lead pencils or other evidence that such a theory was correct.

FRANKLIN.

The people of "Little England," connected with the M. E. church and congregation of Franklin, manifested their appreciation of their pastor and family by coming en-masse on Thursday afternoon, June 23, to the parsonage, bringing with them a bountiful repast which they spread on the tables of the dining room; after partaking of which Aunt Fanny stood up and in a neat little speech, referring to the three years of acquaintance and work together as pastor and people, now soon to close, brought forward as a token of their appreciation and love a beautiful silver butter dish for Mrs. Peirce, and silver cup for the pastor, which she begged them to receive. It is needless to say the surprise was complete. The recipients responded as best they could under the circumstances. The whole affair was cheering, enjoyable and happy.

SPRINGVILLE.

The Glorious Fourth to be Celebrated in Fine Style.

The town of Cambridge will indulge in a Fourth of July blow-out of her own. The exercises will be held in T. H. Mosher's grove, commencing at one o'clock, P. M. A picnic dinner will be held in the grove, and the music will be furnished by the Springville Cornet Band. The following program will be observed:

Music by the band.
Reading the Declaration.
Prayer.
Music by the band.
Oration by W. R. Wooden, of Tecumseh.
Music by the band.
Picnic dinner.

A general invitation is extended to all, and those who attend are requested to assist in supplying the dinner table. The celebration will be appropriately closed with a brilliant display of fire works in the evening.

RAISIN.

Among the many pleasant occasions of the summer was the picnic at Mr. Benj. Kelley's grove last Friday. A fine program consisting of recitations, music, etc., was furnished by the scholars of Dist. No. 2, under the direction of Miss May Henderson, teacher. After short speeches by Revs. Conley and Hunt, and a flirtation by two very young members of the audience an excellent supper was served. Miss Henderson closes the school year with the approval of all.

NOTARIES PUBLIC.

The county clerk has received commissions for the following named persons to act as notaries public. The commissions are dated June 8, and were granted in the last hours of the session of the legislature: Francis Stanton, George Ayers, Hiram D. Condict, George E. Miller, James W. Helme, jr., F. George Hawley, Frederick T. Clark, Ralph J. Jewell, Frank P. Dodge, William F. Cornell, Joseph H. Blaine, Burton Kent, Elbridge H. Hyde, Robert S. Moreland, Charles H. C. Rynd, John F. Waring, Walter S. Gardner, Louis A. C. Wagener, Clinton D. Hardy, Melville G. Wood, Edward Thayer Cook, Adrian city; Jerome Davis, Morenci; Orson Green, Raisin; Thomas McComb, Ogden; Loss Parsons; Woodstock; William W. Brewster, Hudson; J. Marshall Judson, Dover; Riley Nash, Fairfield; Josephus M. Robertson, Blissfield; John M. Burke, Morenci; Henry H. Ferguson, Fairfield; John E. McCollum, Clinton; Rollin Robinson, Palmyra; Chester J. Randall, Blissfield; Gideon D. Perry, Tecumseh; Lewis C. Knight, Riga; Reander P. Darling, William Jackson, George M. Lewis, residence not known.

A PLEASANT surprise greeted Rev. J. H. and Mrs. M. M. Kershow, upon their return to their dwelling on the afternoon of the 15th, inst. A company of friends and neighbors had assembled, in their absence, entered the dwelling, and was busily engaged setting tables in the grove fronting the house, upon which presently appeared an abundance of strawberries and other good things to tempt the appetite. After enjoying these, with many pleasant expressions of good will and neighborly greeting, the company dispersed, when thanks had been returned, followed by some remarks and prayer from Rev. J. A. De Spelder.—The whole constituted a most enjoyable occasion and was what its projectors designed no doubt it should be a perfect surprise to the gratified inmates of the dwelling.

From reliable statistics we learn that twenty per cent. of the deaths in this state are caused by Consumption and Lung Diseases. We are sure this terrible mortality could be reduced if every family would use Arthur's Elixir of Sulphur in all such troubles. Sold by C. A. Wright.

Adrian Times: An investigation is being held before Judge Geddes, as commissioner appointed by the governor, to take deposition of Benjamin Turner relative to certain alleged frauds perpetrated at San Carlos Indian agency at the time Mr. Turner was clerk of the agency. Wm. A. Underwood is employed by the government, and Seth Bean in behalf of the contractor, Walz, to conduct the investigation. J. H. Riley, from Los Cruces, New Mexico, is in attendance as an interested party. The investigation commenced yesterday, and will be concluded to-day. The am'nt involved is some $12,000 to $14,000.—The frauds alleged grew out of a contract for furnishing beeves to the government.

This idea of the Ovid Union man is about the correct thing: "We wish our churches were filled to overflowing every Sunday, by just that class who feel that their clothes are not good enough to attend in. The Bible teaches that religion which will enable one to attend church in the garments that he will the theatre, circus or political mass meeting."

RAISIN VALLEY SEMINARY.

Annual Commencement Exercises, held June 24th, 1881.

The annual commencement exercises of the Raisin Valley Seminary were held at the Seminary last Friday, June 24th, at 10 o'clock A. M., and were very good. The school room was tastefully decorated with evergreens, and over the platform appeared the motto of the class of '81, "As the sowing so the reaping."

Dr. E. Test opened the exercises with a brief reading of the scripture, which was followed with prayer by Richard Harkness. The Glee Club, Messrs. Spencer, Allen and Cole and Mrs. Mumford, of Adrian, sang a fine opening chorus, after which we listened to an essay by William L. Stewart, of Ridgeway, subject "Waste," of which we give a short synopsis:

"The vast space which separates our great civilized country from barbarism is waste of waters, and it is by this illustration that we are able to see the great waste between different persons and minds among us."

The young man handled the subject very nicely, and gave many good illustrations of how many things which people used to think were good only for "waste" we now use in the most important branches of science and industry, and how if it was not for waste of power, cities, hundreds of miles away could be lighted and supplied with motive power by electricity. "God has given us means for our daily bread so ample and complete and we are able to get it so easily that many things are wasted by us that we could as well keep for the good of ourselves and others, which are daily wasted and thrown away," and he quoted and guarded us about the old maxim, "Your strength shall be spent in vain or your lands shall not yield its increase."

The next essay was by Miss Debbie S. Harkness, of Adrian, and was about "Trifles." She showed in a very nice and sensible manner how our world is made up of trifles, and if they are not taken care of will sometime make great losses where least expected. "We, like the ancient people, are apt to overlook the trifles and look for larger objects. In the beginning everything is made up of trifles and when one little trifle gives out the whole machine may be stopped.—A watch may run without fault year after year and when finally one little jewel gets out of place, the whole workings will cease and refuse to tell the time until the trifle is again righted. A slight agency has sometimes the power to change great things. A pleasant smile and one kind word, trifles as they seem, sometimes have power to gain life-long friendship and many pleasant recollections; even a single tear has moved the strongest heart. A grave was made, and before the door was placed a huge barrier of stone, on which was placed the inscription, "Let no man remove this stone." But a tiny seed was blown that way, took root in the crevices of the barrier, and soon it was pushed away, just by a little seed taking root and throwing its branches out in a way not to be stopped even by a barrier of stone." The subject was well chosen and the text studiously adhered to throughout the essay.

Music by the Glee Club.

The next essay, subject "Old Probabilities," was read by Archer F. Maxwell, of Springville. This essay was a description of the U. S. Signal Service, how it was started, and a graphic description of its workings to-day.—"Until February, 1870, it was supposed by a majority of our people that storms and other peculiarities of the weather were merely works of chance, but since that time, when the U. S. Signal Service was started, their minds have changed, and now the weather can be counted upon with almost as much certainty as anything else." The essay showed, not only a good idea of the service in the descriptive, but was used as an illustration from which to show what could and has been done in the progress of civilization, and what still might be accomplished by close application to study and science.

"National Intercourse," by Levi Deline, of Clayton. His essay was an eulogy on the rise and fall of civilization and nations, and was perhaps the essay of the occasion. It contained good sound principles, genuine originality, and showed careful study based upon good natural ability. We give as much as possible in his own words:

"There have been times when civilization would seem to progress for a term of years, and then it would go back again even to a point seemingly further back than where it started, and this is due probably more to natural causes, and situation of, the nations than to anything else. People as a class cannot endure sameness, they must have a change, and when the time comes that this change does come naturally, it will come artificially and then with it vice and a tendency to go backward rather than forward.

This nation of ours, excluded from other nations by high mountains and other natural causes, was for many years not allowed to become civilized, nor did it make any progress until allowed to make intercourse with other countries. We find out that gunpowder was used and discovered in China long before it was in European countries, and yet, to-day China is said to be uncivilized in the extreme. This is because of its limited commerce and intercourse with other people, and their ways and ideas of doing business and living. The first nation to advance in civilization was Greece, and we can account for this because of her natural facilities for commerce, her inundated shores, numerous bays and island annexations, which made it impossible for her to keep from making her principal business commercial, and she in this way was brought to see the ways of different people and countries and also did with her own advanced condition help to civilize other people. Rome was next, and did more to civilize the barbarian by bringing those captured in war back to Rome, and as slaves, teaching them the ways of civilization. Civilization was also greatly advanced by the crusades bringing people together of all classes and nations, and later as we come down to the present time, and as far back as we can remember, we can see progress every day by our intercourse with other countries in the way of world's fairs, our ministers to other countries and our advanced system of railroads and telegraph, and it will still advance till war shall sound no more and all people be friends and neighbors.

Music by the Glee Club.

Essay, Chemistry of life by Miss L. Ortense Kerr of Eagle. She gave a very nice comparison of the study of chemistry and the study of life, combined with a criticism of the instability of charities, and showing how many charitable works have been done merely for selfish ends.

The next was an essay entitled Potency of Doubt.

"Looking down the road of life we always see the Doubters in advance. In a child's mind doubts are settled by a single answer, look, or thought, but as the child grows older there seem to be more and more of a mist before its eyes, everything seems to take a more uncertain aspect than at first. New and strange occurrences take place every day, and it is to this natural doubt that we owe all discoveries in civilization, science and Godliness. The Doubters are the salt of the earth."

Temperance song by the Glee Club.

"Only a Fungus," an essay by Fred B. Hathaway, of Addison. He compared the Fungus with itself and with the human system and life. The essay was carefully written and showed the young man's ability as to botany and history; in itself it was a fine production of work and study, but to an audience of a mixed order something a little less technical would have perhaps been a little more suitable.

The last essay "Two Methods," by Gertrude Alice Roath, of Adrian.—She showed the objects of living a good life and compared the good and wise method with the poor and unwise way. Her essay was very prettily written and was original all the way through.

Class Song, for '81, Glee Club, which was followed by the address to the class, by the principal, Dr. Test, which we give in full:

It has been said that after the death of Humboldt, the various diplomas which had been awarded him, and the certificates of membership by which many learned bodies had honored themselves in granting to him, were found stowed away in obscure corners, or in waste baskets, as matters of small moment. But any plant or flower or even mineral that illustrated some fact of nature was found carefully labelled and safely kept. The honors his learning brought him gave him little concern, the knowledge he had acquired, and the means of communicating it to others were of paramount importance.

But that which a Humboldt could afford to neglect, it might be a mark of wisdom in others to prize. He stood facile princeps among the learned men of his time, giving honor rather than receiving it. To the student, the parchment of the university, or of the scientific society would be a mark to show what had been attained, and an incentive to greater efforts. The certificates therefore which you have this day received should not go to waste baskets and dusty shelves, but should be kept as evidence of a certain amount of work creditably done, and as an assurance that you are thought capable of greater things in the future. And it is of that future on which you are entering that I would speak to-day. Not to add specially to the instructions of the years you have spent here, to lay before you some of the incentives which ought to induce you to continue your efforts for self-improvement, rather than to let them cease, and you yourselves fall into the common routine of life around you.

In early historic times, and doubtless before, physical prowess was the highest aim of manhood. To excel in muscular strength, in speed, in skill in handling weapons, in enduring hardships, in facing danger unflinchingly, these were traits that were supposed to indicate the noblest manhood, and fit their posesssor for high positions among his people. But in favored localities the human race soon began to outgrow these early notions, and he who could sing the praises of those who were victors in peaceful contest or deadly strife, was little less honored than he whose praises he sang.

The intellectual progress thus started was destined to have a longer career, and more important triumphs than any belonging to mere physical developments. The latter has limits which were reached long ago, the former must continue throughout time, with ever increasing importance. Not then as contestants in Olympic games, not as knights-errant seeking fame through wild adventure, nor even as daring explorers opening up new worlds to old nations will your career be found. Contestants indeed you will be, and not unlikely explorers, but your efforts will be mental, rather than muscular, and your discoveries bounded by natural law rather than by latitude and longitude. There is no danger that you will become young Alexanders, sighing for more worlds to conquer, for the realms of science and pure thought are practically boundless, and your conquests at best, can be but small. You are not to sit down and ask why the former days were better than these. Thousands of years ago a wise king told those about him that to ask this was not to inquire wisely. Though the triumphs of one age may not be repeated by the next, yet greater conquests are in its power, made possible by the victories of that past time. The most ambitious of you will not lack for a field in which to display all his talent and energy. Does any one of you long to match the engineering feats of the past 50 years? There is nothing to discourage but much to inspire your efforts. Do not fancy that Victoria bridge, and that across East River are always to mark the high tide of the builders power. To tunnel St. Gothard might have seemed visionary half a century ago, but to-day engineers are making estimates on a thoroughfare from England to France beneath the separating channel. The Red Sea and the Mediterranean have mingled their waters in a ship canal, but a mountainous isthmus still separates the Atlantic ocean from the Pacific.

Have the achievements in telegraphy led you to doubt future improvements? It is true that in Brooklyn invalids have reclined on couches at home and the telephone has faithfully reported the words of the minister and the music from the choir; but the statesmen of Europe have yet to sit in their council chamber and listen to the inaugurals of our presidents.

In chemistry and molecular physics it is the proximate, not the ultimate boundary which we have reached. In Biology the great names of the past and the present are not those of men who have left nothing for others to do, but are the names of pioneers who have discovered routes along which others may travel with pleasure and profit. Passing to Sociology, Political Economy and Ethics, we are scarcely able to state the simplest principles of the sciences, much less mark their limits and show their interdependence.

There is work enough to do and the inducements to do it are not lacking. The rewards that follow strong and earnest work were never greater than now. The spirit of the age accepts no finality outside of pure mathematics. The doubters, those pioneers of whom one of your number has spoken, are abroad in the land, refusing to accept the deductions of the past if they fail to stand the logic of to-day. The leaders of thought at the beginning of a generation are often far behind at its close. Eternal diligence and constant progress can only keep one from being left far in the rear of his own times.

Our own country offers inducement to an ambitious aspirant, superior to those offered by any other nation. Horace Mann used to say that in England there were but two ways to rise from the ranks, by means of immense wealth, or by gigantic talents, not talents which common men call gigantic, but such as giants call gigantic. But in the list of the nobility of America, few are they who have risen by these two means. The talents of a Lincoln or a Garfield were great, but they were not those of giants. The height of their achievements are within the reach of many equally poor and no more highly gifted. But he who would attain the levels occupied by the great of the past or of the present must use the means which placed them there. The ambitious young man must be familiar with the biographies of the good and the great. The lessons of their lives must be conned by him daily. Idleness must give place to unremitting industry, day dreaming to persistent thought, and a concentrated purpose replace wandering desires. There is no limit to the achievements of such a person but the extent of his mental grasp, and the general limitations of his Age, and these last he may often widen. The reward will be sure. Honor to whom honor, a competency if not wealth to him who has earned it, and the proud consciousness of having added something to the totality of human knowledge, will gladden life and diminish the reluctance with which it is often laid down.

I am not unaware that thus far I have spoken as if merely to the majority of the class—to the young men only. But let me not by my silence allow you to infer that minorities have no rights, and that to the young women of America there are no careers open to honor or even imperishable renown. I would be disloyal to at least six generations of ancestral Quaker-blood were I to entertain such a thought for a moment.

I assume with the early Quakers that when Paul set narrow limits to the field in which women could labor, he had no reference to our women folks.

Though the present century may close before the full privileges of citizenship are accorded to the women of our country, yet already many avenues are opened up to them to which they were once forbidden access. The right to preach the gospel is allowed to women by other societies than the Friends. Our law schools and medical colleges are open to them, as well as many of the great universities. In literature and in art the women of this century have taken high rank, and a future of promise in these fields is always before them.

Nor in science are any doors closed against woman. There is no reason why she should not win laurels in any department of science and give valuable additions to our present stock of knowledge. In the delicate manipulations of chemistry who will be more apt to succeed than one whose fingers have been skilled to delicate work in many womanly employments? Experimental Botany offers a delightful field to women who possess the leisure for its pursuit; and how well a woman can do such work has been shown by the admirable manner in which Mary Treat, of Vineland, N. J., supplemented the researches of Charles Darwin in carnivorous plants. But wider than any or all of these fields at which I have glanced in which noble and true women can labor with unfailing profit, is the field of social life.

We may have an ideal of a government founded, in theory, on justice and the brotherhood of man, but practically no laws can be enforced that lie above the plane of the social life of a nation. It is in this social realm that women can become almost autocratic. But to free others from slavery to habits which hold them below the level of their capacities she must first be free herself. Take out of the life of every woman who is an active part in the social circle around her the time yielded by her to the demands of fashion—the time she must spend in looking after the wardrobe, and trying to make it cost the most possible, not in money only, but in time, in comfort, in healthfulness, in convenience, for the work she has to do or might do, take out of her life the time devoted to this, and that which is left is quite too small a fraction of her waking hours.

For the desire to study and investigate nature she must dress more plainly. To improve her physical and mental powers she must dress more healthfully. But in every age, and for both sexes there are not lacking opportunities to do good and lasting work in private stations. What a potency there is in the life of every cultured Christian! Such a one gathers around him all that is best in his neighborhood, imparts to it some of his own strength, and sets at work ever widening agencies for good. Ignorance gives place to knowledge, refinement succeeds coarseness, enthusiasm replaces indifference, and kindly, sympathetic, feelings crowd out hatred and envy. What an incentive, what a help a thrifty, cultured farmer is to all his neighbors? How much every honest, educated, capable mechanic elevates his calling! Fear not that good work done in the lowest walk of life will fail of its just reward. Such work is in harmony with nature, with God, and both now and hereafter it will bring good returns.

Who, think you, on the 4th of last March was the happiest person in America? Was it not that aged woman whom a new y inaugurated President stopped to kiss before he would receive the congratulations of his distinguished friends? Was not that President thus honored by a great nation, her work? And who, in all that vast audience, could boast of having done a grander deed? Had not that boy for whom she had toiled in menial service, whom she had inspired with noble purposes and strong resolutions,—with a hatred of vice and a love for all that is pure and good—had he not become a guide for thousands, and the honored chief of a mighty nation? If happiness were the aim of life then had that noble mother her reward in overflowing abundance.

Let it be your purpose, my young friends, as you to-day go out from this place, to honor any and every station you may fill, be it in public or private life. The modesty of an Agassiz or a Faraday was not a sign of weakness. The lowly station of President Garfield's mother was not allowed to thwart her desires or mar her work.

Cherish kindly feelings for the institution that for years has striven to do its duty to you, and to-day dismisses you with honor. Love it, work for it, and let its good name be precious to you.

I have said that you must be familiar with the lives of the great and good, and hold them for examples.—But with one life pre-eminent above all others you need to be especially familiar. It is the life of one who was lowly—a mechanic—a carpenter's son—himself a toiler at his father's craft. He sought no honors; his age and nation gave him none; gave him rather ignominious death. Yet from out that life sprang that which is dearest to the hearts of men to-day. No other name stands so high—once none so low. To the prophet he was the "Man of sorrows"—to the enamored apostle "The Lord of Glory." Let this once humble, now exalted, Nazarene be your model in all things pertaining to conduct. Possess his spirit, for without it you are none of his; with it you can triumph over all things.

But I must not keep you longer.—Your friends are waiting to congratulate you. You are eager to receive their kindly words. The Great Pattern, to whom I have referred you, has told us that from within come those things which defile us. No better parting words, therefore, can I give to you than those given centuries ago to some Greeks by one who had taught them the way of life, and who himself kept it to the end: "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things."

All in all the Commencement was a good one, and the essays were all well written and well delivered. The school room was crowded and all seemed well pleased.

Envied Beauty.

What is more handsome than a nice bright, clear complexion, showing the beauties of perfect health? All can enjoy these advantages by using Electric Bitters. Impure blood, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Urinary Organs are speedily cured. A. Wright & Co. at fifty cents a bottle.

CHILDREN'S TEMPERS.—Children should be loved through their little tempers, through their occasional naughtiness, and through the days when they are not sweet, but trying and captious. The dearest children have such days. One is puzzled to know why Lulu, who went to bed a cherub, could be a little fury in the morning; why Harry, usually candid and open as the day, should be at times sullen and disagreeable. There are often physical reasons for these transformations. You have had sour bread. You have been letting pastry and cake enter too largely into your bill of fare. You have suffered the delicate child and the strong one to sleep together, or the fresh air has not vitalized the sleeping apartment sufficiently. Perhaps you are not confidential enough with your children, and do not make yourself acquainted as you ought with their companions. But whatever mistake you make, be sure you love them.

KING OF THE BLOOD.

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a Common Eruption to the Worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the Stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

ITS NAME IS ITS BEST DESCRIPTION as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the Surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons, and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 12 ounces, or 40 to 50 doses. Sold by dealers in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you, as it will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

It was a Chicago lady who went to see the "School for Scandal," and then said she never thought Phil Shefidan could have written anything as good as that.

Valuable testimonial: "Dear Sir—Two months ago my wife could hardly speak. She has taken two bottles of your 'Life Renewer,' and now can't speak at all. Please send me two more bottles."

When in full dress the Zulu wears a ring in the nose, and that's all.—Albany Argus. Isn't that enough to wear in the nose? Perhaps you want an African gentleman to carry around a whole jewelry store in his proboscis.

The story is told of an Iowa man that he has been married four times, and has all four of his mother-in-laws living with him in one house. Well, by George! we believe that story about Daniel, now.

Fifty dollars won't buy a very large diamond pin, but—who'll chip in for a testimonal?

A Boston paper says that "Joaquin Miller stalks round town accompanied by a couple of stalwart retainers." We take it for granted that the latter are for the purpose of holding the Bostonians while "Wauk" reads his poetry to them. They need to be stalwart.—San Francisco Post.

"Oh, pshaw!" exclaimed the gentleman who has just billed Burlington for a lecture on "The Frauds of the Bible," closing an animated theological discussion in a Main street bar-room. "Oh, pshaw; there ain't no sense talking that way about him. I'm willing to give Moody credit for all the good points he's got. He's an earnest enough man; believes what he says; honest enough in his opinions, I reckon; but dog-gon it the man's coarse; he ain't got no kulcher."

A stranger in Bodie one day last week, in eating a plate of hash at a restaurant, being very hungry, unguardedly neglected to chew it well, and swallowed a large coat button. They doctored him for the pneumonia three days before he was able to explain. Then, according to the Gold Hill News, they fed him a big button-hole tied to a string and fished it out in no time. He screens all his hash very carefully through a cane-bottomed chair now before he eats it.

"I say, Cap'n," cried a keen-eyed man, as he landed from a steamer at Natchez, "I say, Cap'n, these here arn't all. I have left somethin' on board, that's a fact."

"Them's all the plunder you brought on board, anyhow," answered the commanding officer.

"Wal, I see now; I grant it is all O. K. accordin' to the list; boxes, three chests, two band-boxes and portmanty; two hams, one part cut; three ropes of inyens and a tea-kettle. But see, Cap'n, I'm dubersome; I feel there's somethin' short tho' I've counted 'em nine times over, and never took my eyes off um while on the craft; there's somethin' not right, somehow."

"Wal, stranger, time's up; them's all I knows on; so jest fetch your wife and five children out of the cabin, 'cos I'm goin' to put off."

"Them's um! Darn it, them's um! I know'd I'd forgot somethin'!"

Choice Sayings.

Seneca, the preceptor of Nero, understood the difficulty of teaching the indifferent. He observed: "That can never be said too much which is never learned enough."

Folly soon wears out her shoes. She dances so fast we are all of us tired. Golden wires may annoy us as much as steel bars, if they keep us behind prison windows.

It is not worth while to think too much about being good. Doing the best we know, minute by minute, hour by hour, we insensibly grew to goodness as fruit grows to ripeness.

Knowledge cannot be acquired without pain and application. It is troublesome, and like deep digging for pure waters; but, when once you come to this spring, it rises up to meet you.

Genius without religion is only a lamp on the outer gate of a palace. It may serve to cast a gleam of light on those that are without, while the inhabitant sits in darkness.—[Hannah More.

When a man is so fugitive and unsettled that he will not stand to the verdict of his own faculties, one can no more fasten anything upon him than he can write in the water or tie knots of the wind.—[Henry Moore.

Must there always be hungry, shivering wretches who wander in the cold and darkness outside the house of happiness, snatching now and then only a hasty glimpse of the feasting and merry-making going on within?

We smile at the ignorance of the savage who cuts down the tree in order to reach the fruits; but the fact is that a blunder of this description is made by every person who is ever eager and impatient in the pursuit of pleasure.

If there be any difference in natural parts it should seem the advantage lies on the side of children born of wealthy parents, the same traditional sloth and luxury which render their body weak perhaps refining their spirits.—[Swift.

I would not like to think of Heaven as in any sense a finality. If, when old Bunyan's Christian went in at those golden gates, he gave up a great hope for a great possession—then, knowing what I do, and only what I do, I pity him.—[Robert Collyer.

What John Brown's Son Says of Him.

I never knew him to show any signs of fear of anything, save that he might do a dishonest act or wrong his fellow man. His rule of life was the golden rule: "Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them."

On the Sunday before his attack on Harper's Ferry, he said: "And now gentlemen, let me press this one thing on your minds; you shall all know how dear life is to you and how dear your lives are to your friends; and in remembering that, consider that the lives of others are as dear to them as yours are to you. Do not, therefore, take the life of any one if you can possibly avoid it, but if it is necessary to take life to save your own, then make sure work of it."

After the battle of Osawatomie, my father stood looking at the smoke of the burning buildings rolling up, as they were fired one after another by the Missourians. He said:

"God sees it! There will be no more real peace in this country until the slavery question is settled. I have no feelings of revenge toward the people of the South. I have but a little while to live, and but one death to die. I will die fighting slavery."

A Physician of Great Prominence

The Camel and the Miller.

Did you ever hear the fable of the camel and the miller? One night a miller was waked up by his camel trying to get his nose into the tent. "It's very cold out here," said the camel; "I only want to put my nose in." The miller made no objection. After a while the camel asked leave to have his neck in, then his fore feet; and so, little by little, it crowded in its whole body. This, as you may well think, was very disagreeable to the miller, and he bitterly complained to the forthputting beast. "If you don't like it, you may go," answered the camel. "As for me, I've got possession, and I shall stay. You can't get rid of me now." Do you know what the camel is like? Bad habits; little sins. Guard against the first approaches, the most plausible excuses, even THE NOSE of sin. If you do not, you are in danger. It will surely edge itself slowly in, and you are overpowered before you know it. Be on your guard. Watch.

"When I publicly testified that I had been cured of a terrible skin humor by the Cuticura Remedies, I did so that others might be cured, and do not regret the time given to answering inquiries."—Hon. Wm. Taylor, Boston.

What a Doctor Claims.

A Pennsylvania doctor claims to have discovered a certain and sure cure for consumption, in the form of crude petroleum, administered in small quantities. He claims that, out of twenty-five cases of well-marked tubercloses so treated, twenty are, to all means of diagnosis, cured; the rest have been materially benefited, and none have been under treatment more than four months. The nausea attending the use of ordinary crude petroleum led him to adopt the semi-solid oil that forms on the tubing of wells. This made into from three to five-grain pills, by incorporating an inert vegetable powder, was administered from three to five times a day in one-pill doses. The first effect, he says, is the disappearance of the cough; night-sweats are relieved, appetite improves, and weight is rapidly gained. These favorable symptoms continue until the patient is entirely recovered. If half the claims put forward by this disciple of Esculapius be well founded, he has indeed made a valuable scientific discovery.

The common fluency of speech in most women is owing to a scarcity of words; for whoever is a master of languages, and hath a mind full of ideas, will be apt in speaking to hesitate upon a choice of both; whereas common speakers have only one set of ideas, and one set of words to clothe them in, and these are always ready at the mouth; so people come faster out of a church when it is almost empty than when a crowd is at the door.

Never ask a dyspeptic person what he wants to eat, but let him take a few doses of Baxter's Mandrake Bitters and his appetite will be all right. Price 25 cts. per bottle.

Very few men acquire wealth in such a manner as to receive substantial pleasure from it. Just as long as there is the enthusiasm of the chase, they enjoy it, but when they begin to look around and think of settling down, they find that that part by which joy enters is dead within them.

Half the ills of human life proceed from a torpid and disordered liver.—Submit to them no longer while "Sellers' Liver Pills" will cure you quickly. Price 25c.

Country people are always good. The wife may sew tares, rip and darn in the house, while the husband goes down to the meadow and dams the brook.

THE SYMPTOMS

Liver Complaint are a bitter or a bad taste in the mouth; Pain in the Back, Sides or Joints, often mistaken for Rheumatism; Sour Stomach, Loss of Appetite, Bowels alternately costive and lax, Headache, Loss of memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done; Debility, Low Spirits, a thick yellow appearance of the Skin and Eyes, a dry Cough, often mistaken for Consumption.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few, but the LIVER, the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of disease, and if not Regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and death will ensue.

DR. A. TRASK'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

D. RANSOM SON & CO., Prop'rs, Buffalo, New York.

The damp weather and chilling winds of the approaching season subjects ALL to exposure, no matter how healthy, we are none the less susceptible to an attack of COUGHS, COLDS, BRONCHITIS, PLEURISY, SPITTING OF BLOOD, CATARRH of the head, which if not promptly attended to ends in CONSUMPTION.

TOWN'S BRONCHIAL SYRUP is a POSITIVE CURE. With but the nominal cost of 75 cents you procure this truly sovereign remedy.

BRONCHIAL SYRUP is guaranteed by all druggists and dealers in medicine to give ENTIRE SATISFACTION. Try it and be convinced of its REAL MERIT.

A NEW MEDICINE FOR THE POSITIVE CURE OF CHRONIC THROAT & LUNG DISEASES AND CATARRH

PILES! PILES!! PILES!!!

A Sure Cure Found at Last. No One Need Suffer.

A sure cure for the Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams (an Indian remedy), called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 and 30 years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, Instruments, and Electuaries do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching (particularly at night after getting warm in bed), acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for Piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment: "I have used scores of pile cures, but it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment."

SELECT LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS.

An advertiser who spends upwards of $3,000 a year, and who invested less than $350 of it in this List, writes: "Your Select Local List paid me better last year THAN ALL THE OTHER ADVERTISING I DID."

IT IS NOT A CO-OPERATIVE LIST.

IT IS NOT A CHEAP LIST.

IT IS AN HONEST LIST.

The catalogue states exactly what the papers are: When the name of a paper is printed in FULL FACE TYPE it is in every instance the BEST.—When printed in CAPITALS it is the ONLY paper in the place. The list gives the population of every town and the circulation of every paper.

The rates charged for advertising are barely one-fifth the publishers' schedule. The price for single States ranges from $2 to $80. The price for one inch one month in the entire list is $625. The regular rates of the papers for the same space and time are $2,980.14. The list includes 952 newspapers of which 187 are issued DAILY and 765 WEEKLY. They are located in 788 different cities and towns, of which 26 are State Capitals, 363 places of over 5,000 population, and 468 County Seats. For copy of List and other information, address GEO. P. THE BEST REMEDY

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S

CHERRY

PECTORAL.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

TECUMSEH, MICH., JUNE 30, 1881.

ADRIAN COLLEGE.

The lawn fete at the college Tuesday night was one of the most successfull social events that has happened in the city for some time. The people from the city and surrounding country were present in large numbers. The campus and buildings were beautifully illuminated by Chinese lanterns, the K.T. band discoursed sweet music, the committee on arrangements served an abundance of strawberries and ice cream, and everybody seemed to enjoy themselves to the greatest extent possible.

The class of '81, consisting of Minnie Kellogg, Abbie King, Ida J. McKeever, W. A Morris, W. A. Robinson, C. G. White, and Ada A. Wilson, gave their exercises Wednesday afternoon. This class is exceptionally small, but the quality of its performance preserved it from anything that may be said on that ground. The audience was very pleasantly and profitably entertained by them.

At Plymouth M. P. church Wednesday night, Rev. A. L. Reynolds delivered an excellent address before the Alumni Association on The Survival of the Fittest. May Elliott played an original Alumni gallop, and others aided in the musical part of the program.

The Opera House was well filled to witness the graduating exercises Thursday morning. Rev. W. R. Cowl, of Pittsburg, Pa., gave a long-to-be-remembered lecture. The members of the class of '81 received their diplomas, also J. B. Daniels, J. M. Doty, and A. Kirk, were given diplomas from the Normal Department. This department under the management of the well fitted Prof. E. G. Walker, is continually increasing in importance. Those who wish to prepare themselves for teaching would do well to examine the school here.

The College Quartette in connection with Mrs. Winship and the musical graduates of '81, gave a grand concert Thursday night, in the presence of a large enthusiastic audience. The Quartette was encored every time they sang, and were greeted with the loudest applause. Their singing at Hillsdale college was very highly complimented by the best music lovers. We are glad they will be here with us again next year, and that they will continue their singing.

A GOOD TESTIMONIAL.

We clip the following from a late number of the Army and Navy Journal, which will be of interest to the many friends of Capt. Henry Romeyn living about Tecumseh:

We are in receipt of the following very complimentary extract from the minutes of the annual meeting of the Trustees of the Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute, adopted May 18, 1881:

The committee to which was referred the report of Brevet Capt. Henry Romeyn, U. S. A., instructor in Tactics, report that they have examined the same with much interest and gratification. His connection with the institution has been of great value to it in various ways, and the committee are pleased to bear testimony to the earnest enthusiasm, good judgment, and unwavering faithfulness to the best interests of the negro and Indian races which he has steadily manifested. We consider his recommendations entitled to the most respectful attention of the faculty, as coming from an experienced and enlightened officer. In parting with Capt. Romeyn the committee suggest the adoption of the accompanying resolution.

(Signed) Lewis H. Steiner, Gilbert R. Monroe, Robert C. Ogden. A true copy. S. C. Armstrong, Secretary.

Resolved, That the trustees of the Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute tender their thanks to Brevet Captain H. Romeyn for the earnest devotion he has shown to the interests of the said institute during his connection therewith, and their best wishes for his welfare and success wherever duty may call him. The trustees also sent Capt. Romeyn a present of a check for five hundred dollars as a token of their appreciation and esteem.

Y., and is now living in the vicinity of San Diego, Cal.

The Evans Transportation company, of Dakota, which is under contract to supply the military outposts with subsistence stores, demanded military protection against intimidation by the striking bull-freighters. A quartermaster gave the malcontents some sound advice, which was received with contempt, whereupon two companies of troops were ordered to the scene.

In cases already settled, the federal government has received $96,000 from Chicago banks as back taxes, and nearly as large an amount is pending settlement. While the first discovery of these evasions was made at Chicago, there is little doubt that the search of the clearing-houses to be made this summer will reveal a like condition of things in all the chief cities.

The Canadian journals are indignant at the refusal of the governor general to allow their correspondents to go to the northwest with the vice-regal party, while three London papers have been especially invited to furnish representatives, whose expenses will be paid by the Dominion government.

A conflagration at Tombstone, Arizona, swept over a space of six blocks, destroying about one hundred and fifty buildings, and entailing a loss of nearly $250,000. A cigar-lighter ignited the fumes from a barrel of whisky which was being opened in a saloon. About eight hundred people are homeless.

Three lads at Alvinston Station, on the Canada Southern road, confess having stolen a number of railway tickets from a drawer fastened by a combination alarm lock. They learned how to open the drawer by letting a marble drop on the floor, stooping down as if to recover it, and watching the agent manipulate the springs. They stamped each of the tickets stolen.

The Missouri river improvement convention has made a demand for $5,000,000 from the public treasury, $400,000 of which it wants for use next year in extracting snags. Hon. John Hogan, of St. Louis, urged as the policy of the improvers that no vote be given by the western men in congress to a river and harbor bill which failed to contain the above appropriation.

The Bostonians owning the Santa Fe road have just organized at Tuscon, under the laws of Arizona, the New Mexico and Arizona road, 369 miles in length, to run from Deming to Tuscon, with a capital of $8,000,000. The track-layers on the Atlantic and Pacific road have reached the Little Colorado river, three hundred miles from Santa Fe.

The crossing of the Rio Grande by Lieut. Bullis, of the United States army, in pursuit of border marauders, evokes a strong protest from the Mexican press. The Patria, while confessing the inability of its government to prevent such invasions, asks the authorities at Washington to give the matter a calm consideration.

Homer Wellington, of Cambridge, Mass., having pleaded guilty to the charge of attempting to poison his wife on two occasions, has been sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary. His confession shows clearly enough that he was the murderer of his child. He was a member of an aristocratic family, was young, rich, and strong, and was led to the commission of these dreadful crimes by infatuation for a grass widow.

On a Hannibal and St. Joseph train, near Chillicothe, Mo., J. M. Kiser, a commercial traveler of Quincy, was fired upon three times by a stranger, who then pulled the bell-cord, stopped the train and leaped out. The first shot took effect in the shoulder and the second in the right arm, inflicting mortal wounds. The assassin left a valise which showed that he is Colonel Keith, of Columbus, O., who is known to be insane.

The slaughter of soldiers on the Morelos railway, in Mexico, on Friday evening, occurred near the village of Malpaso, on the river San Antonio. After the train had been plunged into the water by the destruction of the bridge, a consignment of soldiers in a freight-car took fire and exploded. No less than 15 officers and 100 privates were killed by the fall or burned alive, while 50 others sustained serious injuries. The engineer and fireman were scalded to death. The road is a narrow-gauge, was built by native engineers, and has been opened only a week.

Batavia, N. Y., has a sensation in the discovery of the remains of William Morgan, the man who was alleged to have followed Free Masonry and was supposed to have been drowned in order of the Masonic fraternity in the Niagara river fifty-five years ago. Thurlow Weed is the authority of the drowning story, and it would be very sad to find that he has for so many years been propagating a calumny against a very large body of the most respected citizens of the United States.

The Choctaws and Chickasaws have engaged in a cause in regard to white squatters in Indian Territory. United States cavalry have been ordered to cooperate with the Choctaw militia in expelling white men and their stock. Several extensive Texas cattle ranges have encroached upon the Chickasaw, paying for the privilege of grazing for three weeks more. Three hundred families of intruders have crossed the borders in the last ten days, leaving all their property behind. The Choctaw forces are encamped at Scullyville, three hundred strong. Some whites are bold enough to declare that they hold genuine permits and will not be expelled by force.

A Yankee woman recently married a Chinese laundryman, and in three days thereafter the unhappy Celestial appeared at a barber's shop and ordered his pigtail to be cut off, saying, in explanation: "Too much yank."

ESTATE OF STEPHEN V. MILLER.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee—ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office in the city of Adrian, on Tuesday, the 28th day of June, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Stephen V. Miller, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition duly verified of Lewis Cass Miller, a son of said deceased, praying for the probate of an instrument now on file in this court, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased, and that letters testamentary thereon be granted to the petitioner, the executor named in said will.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Friday, the 22d day of July next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. (A True Copy.)

NORMAN GEDDES, Judge of Probate.

A. H. SEARS, Probate Register. [2m6w]

COMMISSIONERS' NOTICE.

IN THE MATTER of the estate of James East, deceased.

CHARLES BURRIDGE.

LAVERN M. IDE and Harry Dunn, take in Chicago this week.

CHANCELLOR FAIRFIELD left Tecumseh last Friday morning for Oberlin, Ohio. He returns to Nebraska the last of July.

Hudson Post: Last Tuesday night, as Col. Rose and wife were walking from the night train to town, when near the lime house where the railroad company have the walk torn up for paving, it being dark and no danger signals up, they both fell and Mrs. Rose was quite badly injured, requiring the services of a doctor to sew up an ugly gash in the head. The Colonel was badly jarred, and is limping from the accident.

TECUMSEH will not be entirely destitute of doings on the coming Fourth. A subscription paper has been circulated to raise funds for fire works, and as a result Jehiel Davidson has sent for $150 worth, to be burned up next Monday evening. The list will consist of a large number of candles, rockets, &c., and also several choice pieces, such as Bengal Lights, Polka Battery, Diamond Star, Silver Glory, Can Balloons, Double Triangles, Chaplet of Roses, &c. The display will be a fine one.

Adrian Times: Superintendent Selden, of the telegraph department of the Wabash road, is pushing things after the Wabash fashion, in constructing the telegraph line between Detroit and Butler. He tarried here last night and says he has fifty-three men at work; that last night thirty-six miles of poles were up, and that Mr. Gould wants him to have the line done and two wires working between Detroit and Butler by the first of July.

Adrian Times: The Lenawee county jewelers' association will hold a meeting at the Lawrence house tonight, for the purpose of establishing a uniform list of prices throughout the county. To obtain a strict adherence to the list, it is proposed to place each jeweler under a bond of a hundred dollars. Two very satisfactory meetings have already been held, and it is expected that the present one is only to finish the work and conclude the contract.

Hudson Post: Last Saturday Mike Moriarty and Sam Ettinger sent up a toy baloon, with the request that whoever found it should let them know where and when it was picked up. Yesterday they received a letter with a piece of the baloon in it, from Eli Dawson, of Romney, Ont., stating that he had found it in that township, in Kent county, near Lake Erie. He said he found it Sunday morning, was glad to hear from them, and hoped they would write again.

Adrian Record: A. Norton, of Clayton, a boy between 10 and 11 years old has been convicted of burglarizing John C. Benedict's store. He made three raids, and Monday evening he was caught in the act by village Marshall Torbron who was in the store in waiting for him. About four weeks ago he made his first successful robbery when he secured about $8. Last week he acknowledged having entered the store again, but says he only got 20 cents. Monday evening he only secured 10 cents. We understand he has been sentenced to the Reform school.

The Wool Market.

Our wool buyers have taken in up to date the following amounts of wool: Hanford & Anthony, 66,000 pounds; Slayton & Son, 32,000 pounds; H. W. Stevens, 35,000 pounds. The figures paid during the past week have averaged 35 and 36 cents, but 38 cents has been paid in a few instances. The bulk of the wool in this vicinity is now marketed, but a few more clips will be delivered this week.

THIS Thursday evening, June 30th.

RATHER bad hay weather this week.

ALE. JAMES is home for a week's vacation.

JAMES MCCOWEN has gone to Chicago on the excursion.

A. W. SLAYTON is shipping 50,000 feet of lumber from Ohio to Illinois this week.

THE walls of A. W. Mills' new block are nearly up, and the workmen will soon be at work on the roof.

SPECIAL train leaves Adrian July 4, for Manchester, at 7:55 A. M.; returning leaves Manchester at 9:20 P.M.

SPRINGVILLE will celebrate the 4th in good style. The oration will be delivered by Wm. R. Wooden, of this village.

SIXTY-THREE people ate dinner with W. H. Sink last Tuesday and it wasn't much of a day for hungry people either.

DAVE MACHAM now sings "Don't you make a noise or else you'll wake the baby." It is a boy, and weighs 14 pounds. No wonder Dave is happy.

L. S. & M. S. Railway sell half fare tickets to all points on their road. Good going July 2d, 3d and 4th, and returning, good until July 5th, inclusive.

KINNICUTT & KEYSER have lately received an order for fifty sittings of Plymouth Rock eggs, from R. B. Mitchell, an extensive poultry dealer and breeder of Chicago.

THE annual floral concert will occur at the Baptist church next Sunday evening. Some very fine exercises are in the course of preparation. A general invitation is extended.

ADRIAN is organizing a citizens society. An initiation fee of $2 per member is charged, and they are already quarreling among themselves in regard to the disposition of this money.

SUPT. E. B. FAIRFIELD, JR., entertained the teachers of the Tecumseh schools, and the members of the graduating class, at his house last Saturday evening. The occasion seemed to be a very enjoyable one.

REMEMBER the "National Service" at the M. E. church, next Sabbath evening. Company "C" will attend in full uniform. The church will be appropriately decorated. Sermon by the pastor. Service to commence at 8 o'clock.

THE excursion train from Detroit over the Butler road for the benefit of the subscribers to the Butler bonus, will take place July 6th, next week Wednesday. Extensive arrangements are making in Adrian to give the excursionists a proper reception.

AMONG the heavy clips of wool sold in Tecumseh last week were two by M. Dewey and Jas. Logan, of Bridgewater, to H. W. Stevens. The clip of Mr. Dewey came to $918.60, and Logan's yielded $879.78. These are probably the two largest clips of wool that have been sold in this market.

NEXT Sunday, July 3rd, A. M., the pastor of the Universalist church, will by request, speak on the discoveries in Biblical science which compelled the New Revision. On July 10, one week from Sunday, he will speak on the changed texts and modified doctrines compelled by the same.

A STORY has been circulated through Ridgeway that a lady of that township has lately been in jail at Hillsdale. Well, she was in jail, the same as the sheriff himself. She was a witness in an important case and boarded in the sheriff's family while the suit was in progress. This is the foundation of the whole yarn.

LT. ALBERT S. CUMMINS, who has been stationed at Burlington, Vt., for the past two or three years, has been ordered to rejoin his battery at Alcatraz Island, San Francisco harbor, Cal., and so he again turns his course towards the setting sun. He sails from New York to day by the Pacific mail steamer Acapulco, via the Isthmus of Panama.

TECUMSEH still on the boom. Anderson's dry goods house branched out Monday morning last, with a cashier and two cash boys. This new feature will be a great accommodation to their customers as well as an advantage to the firm, for their trade is at times so large that it is almost impossible for their force of clerks to wait on the customers.

SUPT. FAIRFIELD has been appointed by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Varnum B. Cochran, to present an outline on the "Organization of District Schools," at the State Teachers' Institute next week, and to open the discussion on "Relation of Teacher and Parent." The institute will be held at Lansing, and is designed to prepare for the institute work of the ensuing year.

HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT.

Graduating Exercises of the Class of '81—Address by Chancellor Fairfield, of the Nebraska State University.

The commencement exercises of the graduating class of the High School were held at the Opera House on Thursday evening last. The graduating class was smaller than usual, only three in number, and so the program was filled with an address by Chancellor Fairfield of the Nebraska State University. The platform was neatly trimmed for the occasion, upon which were seated Prof. Fairfield, the participants in the program, and the members of the School Board. The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. Wm. Grandy.

Next followed an instrumental duet by Misses McConnell and Smith.

Then came the essays by the graduates. An Ideal, by Hettie L. McClue; Law and Order, by Martin L. Wilson; Hope, by Estella Miller. Miss Miller by reason of illness was unable to read her essay.

Then came a vocal solo by Mrs. Ada Mumford.

Here followed Chancellor Fairfield's address, entitled Work and Wages. It was a very fine production, and was listened to with closest attention throughout. We regret our unability to publish it.

At the close of the address, Miss Anna Brewer rendered a vocal solo in fine style.

The Diplomas were then conferred by the moderator of the School Board, E. B. Wood, Esq., in a few very appropriate remarks.

A vocal quartette was then given by Messrs Steinhoff and DePuy, Mrs. C. H. McConnell and Miss C. Stevens.

The exercises then closed with the benediction. We present below a pretty full abstract of the essays, which will show their character.

AN IDEAL.

HETTIE MCCLUE.

In erecting an edifice, the first thing to consider is the plan. Not a brick is laid, or a nail driven, or a stick hewn, until the architect has painted to the eyes of the builders a complete building. With this ideal before them they can accomplish the work given them to do. Every person is the architect of his own fortune, and hence every one should have an ideal by which to guide his action. Upon entering on any vocation, or studying for any profession, an ideal of excellence should be kept in view. This ever appears as a bright guiding star, whose luster illumines all the deep places in life's pathway. In the dark days of Egyptian antiquity each one's destiny was marked out at birth. Ideas of progress were crushed. In the present age, especially in America, every one can choose the place he wishes to occupy, and can make his own station in life, although in carving out our lives this ideal should ever be kept in mind, still it should not guide our steps in a path of selfishness. The little acts of kindness, the daily duties, trivial as they may appear, should revolve around our ideal, as the planets revolve around the sun. So in life each one should aim high, and then strive to attain his ideal.

LAW AND ORDER.

MARTIN W. WILSON.

All things are governed by certain laws. As a result of these laws, there is perfect order and harmoney; unity in diversity and diversity in unity. These two elements furnish the causes and exhibit the effects of nature's great works. Law is seen in both the material and spiritual worlds, in the mineral, vegetable and animal kingdoms. We behold the unity and harmony of purpose as the result of law and order, that governs the stars and planets in their courses. The sun, moon and earth work together in producing the seasons, days and years. Only from our knowledge of the certainty and uniformity of the working of nature's laws, can we plan the work of life with any hope of success. In developing the mind, improving the mental faculties, as memory, reason and judgement, there are various methods by which the mind is able to progress in knowledge, but these all work in accordance with law. The mind as well as the body is subject to law. Teachers should understand the laws of mental action, growth, and development as the physician knows the laws governing the physical body. Physical law is the mode in which the powers of nature act; social law is a rule of action; moral law, intended to govern both the act and the purpose is defined by Burke as "beneficence acting by rule."

HOPE.

ESTELLA MILLER.

One great poet has written of the "Pleasures of Memory," and another of the "Pleasures of Hope." The field of memory is a narrow strip behind us in the journey of life; that of hope stretches out broad and enlarging before us. Hope is necessary to success. It carried Columbus across the western waters, and sustained him on the unsounded sea. Hope sustained the hearts of the pilgrim fathers when they left their native land to find a free home on a new and rock-bound coast. Success is not attained by climbing a single hill and passing down on the other side. The road to it is like a path over a mountain range. As soon as one difficulty is overcome, another greater one appears, then another, and still others. Not until that is overcome can excelsior be written upon the banner of life. Hope is a prodigal young heir with experience as his banker, but his drafts are seldom honored, since there is usually a heavy balance against him. He draws largely on a small capital. Hope is necessary to our salvation. With no hope for heaven, heaven will certainly never be reached. All have some purpose in life. All build air castles, and hope some of them will be realized.

THE FOURTH AT MANCHESTER.

Independence Day will be celebrated at Manchester in good old fashioned style. The day will open with a salute of one hundred guns at sunrise. At 10 A. M. the procession will form at Exchange Place and march to the grove, where they will be entertained by an oration by Hon. Chauncey Joslin, vocal music by the Glee club and instrumental music by the several bands present, after which the procession will march back to the village, where ample provisions will be made to satisfy the desires of the inner man.

The afternoon will be devoted to the popular sports of the day and other exercises in the following order: Tub race, Hurdle race, Glass ball shoot, Target shooting by State troops, Base ball, Rope walking, and a grand Fantastic Street Parade, headed by the large and elegant locomotive Snorter, and composed of men of all nations and several birds and animals never before seen in this country.

At 6 o'clock, grand military parade and review. Bowery dancing, swings, and other amusements in order the entire day. To conclude with an elegant display of fire works in the evening.

Half fare on all railroads. Excursion trains will be run each way on both railroads after the fireworks are over.

SCHOOL EXAMINERS.

According to the provisions of the new school law, the township Superintendents will meet at the office of the county clerk on the first Tuesday of August to select three examiners for the county. We give below the names and post office address of the Superintendents:

GENERAL ORDERS NO. 3.

Headquarters Co. C, 1st Reg. M.S.T.
Tecumseh, June 30, 1881.

I. In obedience to paragraph 127 of the Rules and Regulations for the government of the State Troops, this company will parade in uniform under arms on July 4th, 1881.

II. The parade will take place at 6 o'clock, A. M., sharp. Every member of the company is required by the State Military Law to be present at such parade, and the commanding officer desires that the men will be promptly at the armory in order that the parade may take place without delay at the hour named.

R. B. HOUSE,
Capt. Commanding Company.

Special Orders No. 2.

Headquarters Co. C, 1st Regt. M. S. T.
Tecumseh, June 30th, 1881.

In accordance with an unanimous vote of the company on June 22d, the members of this company will report at their armory in uniform promptly at 7:30 P. M. Sunday, July 3, 1881, for the purpose of attending divine service at the M. E. church. This is in response to an invitation from the pastor of that church, Rev. R. S. Pardington, who will preach a sermon on that occasion upon our National Independence. Members may wear their fatigue caps.

R. B. HOUSE,
Capt. Commanding Company.

Knights of Honor.

At the regular meeting, June 24th, the following officers were elected to be installed Monday evening, July 11:

D.—E. Hause.
V. D.—P. B. Swick.
H. D.—M. E. Conklin.
Ge.—M. P. Brown.
C.—C. A. Slayton.
R.—D. T. Hall.
F. R.—L. G. North.
T.—D. McNair.
Gu.—B. B. Steinhoff.
S.—F. Chiveral.
Med. Ex.—S. Catlin.

At this meeting it was determined to change the evening of meeting to the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month.

A FULL report of the Alumni reunion will appear in next weeks' HERALD. The commencement exercises of the Tecumseh high school and Raisin Valley Seminary take all our available space this week.

State Teachers' Institute.

The State Teachers' Institute for the present year will be held at Lansing, July 5-8, 1881, under the direction of the Superintendent of Public Instruction. The primary object of this meeting is to prepare for the institute work of the ensuing year, by discussing the various methods of treating the different topics which should be presented at the county institutes. Incidentally it is hoped that every teacher in attendance will be greatly benefited by this opportunity to learn the views of others, as to the ends to be attained through the institutes, and the means by which these ends can be reached. The institute work has been ingrafted upon our school system, and every true teacher should be interested in seeing it prosecuted with energy and wisdom. Twenty of the most experienced and successful institute workers of the State have been engaged to present briefly the different topics that will be considered, and every member of the institute will have an opportunity to participate in subsequent discussions.

Blissfield Advance: As a rule farmers are generally honest, and they won't cheat or defraud any one if they think they will be caught at it. But sometimes they will get too reckless and get caught. This happened to a prominent farmer living near Ottawa Lake, last Saturday. He came into town with a load of wool and to the buyers represented it was all clean, straight, honest wool. It was purchased by Williams, Clement & White, and upon being unloaded it was discovered that some of the fleeces were unusually heavy. An examination was made, and lo! tags and dirt weighing a pound or more were found and in one fleece was stuffed nearly the whole of a two-weeks old lamb.—Being apparent that such proceeding was not unintentional, it was seriously contemplated not to pay the fellow a cent for the whole lot, but he pleaded so hard that 11 cents a pound was allowed him and which he gladly accepted. Ye farmer, take warning.

Adrian Times: Mr. Warren Gilbert is in receipt of a postal card, dated Iowa City, the 21st inst., announcing that on the 20th the court overruled the motion for a new trial of Asa A. Kennedy, also the motion for an arrest of judgment. On the date mentioned he was sentenced to the penitentiary for three years, the extent of the law, and to pay the costs of prosecution. The conviction was, we believe, for arson. Kennedy says he will appeal to the supreme court.—However that may be, the impression is very general in this county that Kennedy is a rascal, and a feeling of satisfaction will be experienced when he begins to get his deserts which he can hardly do outside of prison walls.

Detroit Record: Jesse Chamberlain indulged in a lively horse race while coming into town last Saturday evening, which resulted disastrously for his carriage although he beat his opponent. When turning the corner of School street, near the Lake Shore road, his buggy was overturned and himself and wife were dumped out promiscuously into the sand; the top of the carriage was torn off by striking against the railroad ties, and the horses getting away from Jesse, with the vehicle bottom side up, ran down School and River streets, being finally stopped near the corner of Cary. The damage consisted of a ruined top, seat and dashboard, and one wheel turned wrong side out.

IT is said that the coal operators in the east are arranging a nice little conspiracy to put the price of anthracite coal up in August. Their plan, as usual, is to ship so sparingly during the summer months that the supply shall never at any time be quite equal to the demand. In this way, and by restricting the production of coal at the mines, the public is year after year compelled to pay unjust and exorbitant prices, and immense fortunes are made by the conspirators.—Those eastern coal operations seem to need regulating.

Adrian Times: E. L. Clark's benefactions will keep his name in grateful remembrance of our citizens. This morning the remaining $5,000 of his subscription to the Butler road was paid by the executors of his estate, whose promptness is also commendable. Mr. Clark's magnificent donation exceeded that of any other man in Detroit or elsewhere, and will keep his memory green for all time. Messrs. Smith & Tobey report that subscribers are meeting their obligations promptly.

A FADED FRAGMENT.

A word unspoken, a hand unpressed,
A look unseen or a thought unguessed,
And some that are kindred may live apart
Never to meet or know the truth
Never to know how heart beat with heart
In the dim past days of a wasted youth

She shall not know how his pulses leapt,
When over his temples her tresses swept,
As she leaned to give him the jasmine wreath
She felt his breath, and her face flushed red,
With the passionate love that choked her breath,
And so dies her life now her youth is dead.

A faded woman who waits for death
And murmurs a name beneath her breath
A cynical man who sneers and jeers
At woman and love in the open day,
And at night time kisses, with bitter tears
A faded fragment of jasmine sprig.

A KANGAROO HUNT.

[illegible] THE KANGAROO [illegible] ISSUES.

The kangaroo, as is well known, is found only in Australia and Tasmania. Its means of locomotion and defense are so peculiar and its swiftness so great that the chase of it is attended with excitement and dangers wholly unique. Hunting the fox in England is overcome paratively smooth ground and moderate sized fences, with well trained horses, while the kangaroo has to be chased over new country, full of holes covered with wild grass, over ditches, fallen trees, amongst trees and their branches, on horses that have no superiors in the world in speed, and whose power is not lost in civilization. Then the dangers you are to encounter when you overtake the kangaroo, though not in reality extreme, are as great as those met in the fox-hunt as usually conducted, while in the latter you have not the excitement and danger of the chase.

The place where I write is about 200 miles from the ocean-shore, on the banks of a beautiful river, shaded with eucalyptus trees. These trees are the natural growth of the country, cover a large part of it, and are believed, both here and in Europe, to so destroy malaria as to be a sure guarantee against fevers of all kinds.

The couches are carefully examined before retiring at night to see if there are any snakes in them, but none are found. A native with two women are camped on the shore near by. Their camp is a half circle of piled-up logs, three feet high, while on the open side, [illegible] water, glares a brilliant fire, [illegible] them and the darkness with [illegible] fantastic savagedom. Those natives [illegible] the African more nearly [illegible] of the other four of the human [illegible] undoubtedly without doubt from [illegible] hair cannot be strictly [illegible] hair or wool, but most [illegible] the latter. They are [illegible] dark brown, well-made, [illegible] themselves with [illegible] One of their weapons of war is a boomerang, and it is a curious affair. It is made of very hard wood, three feet long, four inches wide, one inch thick at the center, and bends edgeways so as to make a third of a circle. With the hand they are said to throw this implement 150 yards, cutting off the head of an enemy, and having the weapon return to the feet of the sender. I have seen it thrown that distance and return to the person who threw it.

The full grown male kangaroo is called "boomer," and is about seven and a half feet long from his nose to the end of his tail—the tail being about three and a half feet of this, and one foot in diameter at its base. He lives on grass,—sometimes invading the fields of the farmers, and eating up all he has. He stands on his four legs when feeding, and at no other time. His tail is full of powerful sinews, but it is used only to assist in the equilibrium while sitting, standing on the toes and running. In a sitting posture he is about four feet and a half high; but when he stands on his toes to survey the country or an enemy, he is taller than a man. He has a soft gazelle-like expression; but the white teeth gleam between the open lips. His color is brown, tending in age towards red or gray, according to the species. They weigh (the male) from 150 to 170 pounds each. The meat tastes somewhat like venison, but is not very good, though the tail makes excellent soup.

The female is under six feet in length, and is different somewhat in appearance from the male. The young when born is only an inch long, and are first seen nursing the mother in the pouch in front, where she carries them. They remain in this pouch till they are eight months old and weigh about ten pounds, and long afterwards return to it on appearance of danger. When the mother is hard pressed by an enemy in a chase she throws the young one out of the pouch, who thereby makes its escape.

There are kangaroo-dogs, very swift and strong, especially adapted to hunting the kangaroo, but no experienced dog will tackle one of them without some body to back him. They jump about fifteen feet at a time usually, but sometimes twenty or more, and their swiftness is prodigious. Nothing can apparently overtake them in a fair race, and the usual way is to practically surround them. When hard pressed they place their back to a tree for the fight; or, in preference, they always strive for the water, if there is any near. They try to seize their enemy with the fore-paws, and then rip it from top to bottom with the middle claws of their hind feet, which are very sharp. If they are in the water they try to hold their enemy under it till he is drowned. They will always leave a dog to attack a party.

At 9 o'clock this morning, ten men including myself started on horseback, with four dogs, on a chase. All were experienced in the business except a young Englishman and myself. We took no firearms—a large stick being the only weapon to be used. We had no difficulty in finding the animals. It was disdained to avoid such fences as we found, and we jumped several of a height of four to five feet, always approaching them on a full run. We divided the party, half going to each side of a partly open plain. I soon saw a large kangaroo and two small ones coming towards our party. We waited until they were near enough to see us, when they made a right angle, and went off at an astonishing pace, in jumps of fifteen to twenty feet in length, going from eight to ten feet in the air at each jump. We "went for" the big one, but he quickly got beyond our sight, the three having already distanced the dogs. The kangaroo-dogs hunt by sight, like the greyhound. These three were all lost, we learned, as we met at the point agreed upon. We next surrounded another large tract of forest plain and meadow, this time dividing the dogs. In a few moments a hundred or more kangaroos came bounding toward the party with me. The dog with me started for them, and all the dogs and men were at once in pursuit. The kangaroos divided into several parties—each dog selecting one to follow, and each man following one of the dogs. My dog went for a boomer, and I also, in company with two others of the party. The boomer stood up, took a look at us, and then flew. We followed him amongst the trees and branches, jumping logs and debris of all kinds, and across plains at a fearful rate. The horses needed no urging; their blood was up now. The dog "laid to it," but made no sound. When he would get near the kangaroo, the animal would make a jump at right angles and change his course, whilst the dog would shoot on a distance before he could turn. After a run of this kind for some distance, the kangaroo started for a swamp. After reaching that, and going in a distance, he turned his face towards us, standing upon his hind paws to a height of seven feet and prepared for battle. The dog went for him, and the fight commenced. The dog succeeded in getting hold of his tail, and was carried in the air some distance by repeated jumps. The dog then lost his hold, and was seized and put under the water. Owing to my having the best horse, I was first to come to the dog's aid. I was warned by shouts not to approach the animal, but disregarded them, and showed myself a good kangaroo-hunter. The animal proved to be eight feet long. The rest of the party killed two smaller ones, and later in the day, at another chase another large one was killed. The females don't fight, but run so swiftly that they are rarely overtaken.—Australian correspondence of the Chicago Tribune.

A Very Quiet Game.

There are some folks who think it awful wicked for husband and wife to sit down together of an evening and play cards, while others can't see where the harm comes in.

"Why," said the Colonel a few days ago, when the subject of card-playing was under discussion, "does any one pretend to say that my wife and I can't play a few games of euchre without disputing and arguing and getting mad over it? Loafers can't, perhaps, but we could play for a thousand years and never have a word—yes we could."

The others shook their heads in a dubious way, and the nettled Colonel walked straight to a stationer's and bought the nicest pack he could find. That evening when his wife was ready to sit down to her fancy work, he produced the cards and said:

"May, I was told to-day that you and I couldn't play cards without disputing and getting into a row. Darling, drew up here."

"Dearest we will not have a word of dispute—not one," she replied as she put away her work.

The Colonel shuffled away and dealt and turned up a heart.

"I order it up," she observed, as she looked over her cards.

"I was going to take it up anyhow," growled the Colonel, as his chin fell, all his other cards being black.

"Play to that," she said, as she put down the joker.

"Whoever heard of anybody leading out trumps?" he exclaimed. "Why don't you lead out with an ace?"

"O, I can play this hand."

"You can, eh? Well, I'll make it the sickest play you ever saw! Ha! took all the tricks, eh? Well I thought I'd encourage you a little. Give me the cards—its my deal."

"You dealt before."

"No I didn't?"

"Why yes you did! We have only played one hand."

"Well go ahead and deal all the time if you want to! I'll make two on your deal anyhow. What's trump?"

She turned up a club. He only had the nine-spot, but he scratched his head, puckered his mouth and seemed to want to order it up. The bluff didn't work, she took it up and he led the ace of hearts.

"No hearts, eh!" as she trumped it. "Refusing suit is a regular loafer's trick I'll keep an eye on you. Yes, take it—and that—and that—and all of 'em? Its mighty queer where you got all those trumps. Stocked the cards on me, did you?"

"Now, dear, I played as fair as could be, and made two, and if I make one on your deal I'll skunk you."

"I'd see you make one on my deal!" he puffed. "I've fooled long enough to encourage you, but now I am going to beat you out of sight. Diamonds are trumps."

She passed, and he took it up on two small trumps. He took the first trick, she the next two, he the fourth, and when he put out his last trump she had the joker.

"Skunked! skunked!" she exclaimed, as she clapped her hands in glee.

"You didn't follow suit!"

"Oh yes, I did!"

"I know better, you refused spades!"

"But I haint any."

"You haint, eh? Why didn't you have any? I never saw a hand without at least one spade in it!"

"Why, husband I know how to play cards."

"And don't I? Wasn't I playing euchre when you was learning to walk! I say you stocked the cards on me!"

"No, I didn't! you are a poor player; you don't know how to lead?"

"I—I—why, maybe I am a fool, and maybe I don't know anything, and so you can play alone and have all the trumps every time!"

He pushed back, grabbed his paper, wheeled around to the gas, and it was nearly thirty-six hours before he smiled again. Nevertheless, one never has a dispute cards.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic and Avoca, with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independence, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through Cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.

At ENGLEWOOD, with the L. S. & M. S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.

At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.

Rest For the Weary.

What a strange thought! All this restless world is seeking rest. Those who drag their weary bodies home, night after night, and fall down upon restless beds, worried with the anxieties and cares of business, are yet seeking rest, rest. It is not found in poverty, perhaps it lurks under the rich man, all the while he lies groaning upon his couch or stands with wrinkled brow perplexed with care. Where is rest? What is rest? It is the divine principle of peace within that comes from God. As well seek roses upon the pallid cheek of death as rest out of God. The needle never rests till it turns to the pole. If a little child is frightened at play, he comes running into the house to mother. She takes him to her bosom, presses kisses upon his brow, and while she sings some lullaby of love, all fear fades from his face and he sleeps in peace. God wants to fill a mother's place for the whole world. If it be misfortune, or poverty, or gloomy foreboding that makes one unhappy, God can give him rest, and breath a lullaby of love above his tempest-tossed soul that will still its raging. Rest, peace, is a principle that lies within us and not without. Some, possessing it, have found a crowned head uneasy. O, that every anxious, longing heart would look away to Him who walks among the golden lamps of heaven! "Take my yoke upon you and ye shall find rest unto your souls."

MONEY—FARMS—ABSTRACTS.

If you want to hire money at very low rates.

If you have money to loan.

If you want to buy a farm or a home.

If you want to sell your real estate.

If you want a deed or mortgage correctly made.

If you want a complete abstract of title. Call on A. L. Bliss.

Among other Farms for sale I have one of 160 acres and one of 80 acres in Palmyra both being well tiled and fenced, and first class in every respect, with four market towns within easy driving distance, in good neighborhood. Also 125 acre farm 1½ miles west of river road from Deerfield. Also 160 acre farm and 90 acre farm, and 20 acre farm in Riga, any of which are decided bargains, and good reasons given for naming low prices.

Every purchaser of Lands should insist on being furnished an abstract of title, for our experience of more than 20 years shows that not more than one title in ten is perfect of record, and every week purchases agreed upon are abandoned owing to imperfections of title. I have a good carriage or farm horse, 1300 lbs. in weight for sale at a bargain.

A few thousand dollars now on hand to loan at six per cent, and on long time if desired.

Examiner of Titles, Loan and Land Agent, Adrian Mich.

TO THE AFFLICTED.

Since the introduction of Kellogg's Columbian Oil it has made more permanent cures and given better satisfaction on Kidney complaints and Rheumatism than any known remedy. Its continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it known as a safe and reliable agent to employ against all aches and pains, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders. It acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering and often saving life. The protection it affords by its timely use on Rheumatism, kidney affection, and all aches and pains, wounds, cramping pains, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, coughs, colds, catarrh, and disorders among children, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. It is absolutely certain in its remedial effects and will always cure when cures are possible. Call at C. A. Wright & Co's. and get a memorandum book giving more full details of the curative properties of this wonderful medicine.

"There is no greater every day virtue than cheerfulness. This quality in a man among men is like sunshine to the day, or gentle renewing moisture to parched herbs. The light of a cheerful face diffuses itself, and communicates the happy spirit that inspires it. The sourest temper must sweeten in the atmosphere of continuous good humor."

Greatest Remedy Known.

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumptive is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity.—Thousands of once hopeless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this Discovery to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggists, M. Wright & Son, and get a trial bottle free of cost which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar size bottle will do. For sale by M. Wright & Son, Tecumseh.

The evening session was devoted to working in the degree lodges, and instructing the officers of the grand lodge in their duties. The next session of the national grand lodge will be held at Pittsburd Pa., in June, 1882.

Keeping Children after School.

There is one common practice of the public schools which ought to be abolished at once and every where without question or parley. This is the practice of imprisoning children in the school-houses beyond the school hours. Pretty near every school-house in the land is thus turned into a penitentiary, in which children are immured every day, some of them for imperfect recitations, others for faults of deportment. The method of punishment might, if the teachers were all judicious, be resorted to occasionally with good effect; but teachers are not all judicious, and thousands of children are thus detained every day to whom the detention is a serious injury, and a grave injustice. For some trifling breach of order, like turning in the seat or dropping a pencil, for some small failure in a recitation, and often for no fault at all—whole classes being kept on account of the indolence of some of their members and the innocent thus suffering with the guilty—the children are shut up in the school-houses, sometimes during the intermissions, often after the close of school. Thousands of children in delicate health, to whom the regular school hours are too long, are permanently injured by this system of confinement. If only the stupid and the willful and those in sturdy health were thus punished there would be less reason of complaint; but any careful investigation will show that such discrimination is not generally made, and, from the nature of the system, cannot well be made; and that the injury to the health of pupils resulting from the practice more than outweighs any good that may result from it. The health of the pupil is a subject to which the average schoolteacher gives but little consideratton; any practice, therefore, which is liable to result in the impairment of the pupil's health ought to be forbidden by law.

This plea is based upon an observation of the working of this system in several towns and cities, and upon the concurrent testimony of medical men. In some places the rules of the governing boards forbid the imprisonment of children, but the rules are generally set at naught by teachers. They ought to be enforced. It must be that there are methods of discipline for school less injurious and more effectual than imprisonment.—Good Company.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

THE JULY INTEREST PAYMENTS.

About $30,000,000 will be paid out by the treasury on or before the 1st of July. It is thought quite probable that the redemption of 4 per cents outstanding may be anticipated a few days. It is not probable that the interest on the outstanding 4's will be anticipated.

RUMORED CHANGES.

A report is received here of important changes to be made in the head officials of the interior department on the 1st of July, and it is said Commissioner of Patents Marble will be made assistant secretary of the interior in place of Bell.

RETURNING TO DUTY.

President Garfield and Col. Rockwell are expected to arrive here at 12:35 p. m. to-morrow. Executive business has so accumulated during the President's absence that he will probably not return to Long Branch before next week.

MINDING HIS OWN BUSINESS.

Roscoe Conkling has been invisible all day. He may have come back to New York last night as suddenly as he came on. It is understood that private business brought him to Washington.

BRADY'S COUNSEL.

CHINESE MARINE CORPS.

The Chinese government having requested the services of an officer to organize for their navy a marine corps similar to our own, First Lieut. D. Pratt Manning, of the marine corps, has been selected and granted permission to enter under the service of the Chinese government for that purpose.

COUPON FIVES.

The amount of 5 per cent. coupon bonds received at the treasury department for continuance at 3½ per cent. to date aggregates $51,300,000. This is exclusive to the amount presented for continuance at the London agency, which latest advices received report to be about $14,000,000.

ANCHIST'S RECORD.

Charles A. Anchist, an Italian, who escaped from the custody of a deputy sheriff in New York while under the charge of embezzlement, and who, in the false guise of a secret service officer of the treasury department, swindled so many persons in St. Louis, New Orleans, Memphis, and other places, has been arrested in San Francisco. Chief Brooks, of the secret service division, says all who suffered by Anchist's acts should communicate the fact to Col. Henry Finlegass, San Francisco.

EXTENDED FIVES.

The register of the treasury has issued and mailed to holders of 5 per cents, extended at 3½ per cent. a total of $157,105,000. Of this sum $18,350,000 was extended in lieu of coupon bonds. There are now in the office of the register about $41,000,000, $5,000,000 of which are coupon, ready for issue. This can be completed at the present rate of issue in three days, part of the force working double hours to insure prompt deliveries.

A RAILROAD FOR THE INDIAN RESERVATION.

Assistant Attorney-General of the Interior Department McCammon leaves to-morrow for Fort Hall Indian Reservation. It appears the Union Pacific Railroad Company wants to construct a branch railroad through the reservation. Secretary Kirkwood has instructed McCammon to consult with the Indians and railroad officials with a view to recommending legislation to Congress which will accomplish the object sought.

THE STAR-ROUTE CASES.

So far as the courts are concerned the star-route cases will take a rest until next fall. The grand jury now in session has made such haste to get through its work that the star-route investigators have been forced to postpone the presentation of the cases, although several of them are ready. This postponement has given the star-route people considerable encouragement, for any gain in time they regard as to their advantage.

DEPOSITS FOR THE REDEMPTION FUND.

The secretary of the treasury has requested from the attorney general his construction of section 3 of the act of June 20, 1874, upon the point whether national banks can deposit in the redemption fund gold and silver coin, as well as legal tender notes, and whether the treasurer can redeem national bank notes in coin, the treasurer holding that legal tender notes only can be deposited by banks, and circulation of banks redeemed at the treasury only in such notes.

HAYES AND BLAINE.

A recent publication purported to give some disparaging and abusive remarks made by ex-President Hayes about Secretary Blaine. The secretary wrote a note to the ex-President enquiring about the authenticity of the report. Hayes replied at once, concluding in these words: "I have to state that the whole paragraph in which your name occurs is a fabrication, and that not one of the statements contained in it referring to you was either made or authorized by me." The ex-president had previously written President Garfield disclaiming and denying all reports that attributed to him any reflections or adverse comments on the policy or measures of the administration.

THE MINTS.

The director of the mint has requested First Auditor Reyfolds to accompany Capt. Gross, of the mint bureau, to New Orleans, for the purpose of assisting in the examination of the New Orleans mint, with a view to making the regular annual settlement.

The appointment of ex-Secretary of War Ramsey, in connection with the examination of the charges preferred against Superintendent Dodge, of the San Francisco mint, will be the only regular appointment made. Ramsey, however, will be empowered to associate with himself for the purpose of assisting in the work, such persons as may be deemed necessary.

A JUROR EXCUSED.

Schatter, the French painter, who was employed to do work in the post-office department under Brady's administration, and who was drawn on the grand jury before which the star-route cases are to be presented, was excused from service on the jury by the court, because his name was not correctly spelled in the jury list. There has been a great deal said about Schatter being on the jury because of his former relations with Brady, and the court apparently concluded it was better to excuse him.

MAIL SERVICE ABOLISHED.

An order has been issued by the postmaster general to abolish, on the 1st of July, all that portion of mail route 32,694 from Vinita, Indian Territory, to Las Vegas, New Mexico, B. W. Parker, contractor, which extends through the uninhabited region between Tulsa, in Indian Territory, and Mobeta, in northwestern Texas, a distance of 399 miles. Under the existing contract the government pays for mail service three times a week over the entire length of the route, 810 miles. Local semi-weekly service will be ordered from Vinita to Tulsa, and tri-weekly service retained from Mobeta to Las Vegas, 344 miles, connection being made at Mobeta with the eastern mail service via Camp Supply. The saving to the effect of by the reduction of this route is $52,000 per annum.

OWNERS OF THE BONDS.

The investigation being conducted by Special Agent R. P. Porter into the ownership of the United States bonds is completed so far as relates to the registered bonds, and the results will be soon issued in the shape of an extra bulletin. It will show that about $400,000,000 of the bonds held by private holders are owned by persons each having amounts exceeding $5,000, and will rather disabuse the minds of the people of that erroneous idea industriously promulgated by the great monopolists of a popular loan. The exact figures are not yet ascertained, but it is probable that not over 75,000 and certainly not over 100,000 persons own the entire debt of the country. Indeed, it is said that the census will show 1,000 persons and corporations own upward of $400,000,000 of the registered bonds, while 25,000 persons are the owners of the remaining $400,000,000.

THE CHRISTIANCY CASE.

The Christiancy divorce case was before the equity court Friday on the question of fixing the time for supplying the taking of testimony. The defense represented that the prosecution had nine months in which to take testimony, and the defense only two, and now the prosecution was trying to limit the time of defense. The court made an order allowing the defense six days and after that the prosecution to have ten days to wind up the case. Counsel for Christiancy's character, that they intended to show her innocence in his part in this complaint and to show that he put spies on Mrs. Christiancy's track; abused and maltreated her; also, that they will show that Mrs. Christiancy's letters to Grant were obtained by fraud.

THE CENTRAL PACIFIC CASE.

Auditor French was in New York, Wednesday and during the day had a conference with the United States district attorney with regard to the suit of the government against the Central Pacific road. French said the conference was merely a preliminary discussion of the matter, and it would be premature to say the suit would be discontinued. He declared his intention to visit New York on Saturday, when he should discuss the matter more fully with the district attorney. Later in the day French visited the Central Pacific office. Vice President Huntington said he has received no further information regarding the suit, to which, indeed, he had never paid much attention.

MOTION FOR INVESTIGATION.

In the Criminal Court, Ex-Second Assistant Postmaster General Brady made, through his counsel, application that the grand jury examine Star Route cases in which his name is connected at once. In notifying the Government's attorneys of this motion, Brady's counsel submitted a letter sent them by Gen. Brady, calling attention to the reported postponement until September of the prosecution of the alleged unlawful practices, which the papers of the country had charged him with committing during his recent official term as Second Assistant Postmaster General. Against such a postponement the writer strongly protested, desiring an opportunity for an immediate vindication, and declaring that the proposed procrastination was alike unjust to him and discreditable to the government, and concluding by declaring he is ready now or at any time" for trial.

THE INDIAN TERRITORY TROUBLES.

Trouble in Indian Territory arises mainly from different interpretations of treaty stipulations and of permit laws passed by the Choctaw and Chickasaw legislatures in 1876, requiring merchants, farmers, mechanics, laborers, etc., who are citizens of the United States to pay a small yearly tax for the privilege of plying their different vocations within the limits of these Indian countries. The secretary of the interior in 1877 decided these permit laws imposing taxes upon foreigners were without authority, so far as collection of taxes was concerned. Many white settlers and individual Choctaws and Chickasaws construed this decision to permit persons to enter the country without consent of the Indian authorities, and since then many whites, at the invitation of individual Choctaws, have established themselves in the Indian country, and ever since refused either to remove or pay the tax. The question of validity of these "permit" laws was submitted to congress and referred to the judiciary committee of the Senate in 1878, who reported that the laws are not invalid. Secretary Kirkwood is being pressed on one hand by the Indian authorities to aid in the expulsion of all intruders, and on the other hand by friends of white settlers to prevent expulsion, and in view of the uncertainty of the laws bearing on the matter decided to submit all the legal questions involved to the attorney general for his consideration, urging a speedy opinion from him. In the meantime Agent Tufts has been directed to request Gen. McCurtain to suspend action under the "permit" laws until further advised by the department.

THE PENSION BUREAU.

There is great excitement in the Pension Bureau over the discovery of an alleged plot to practically hoodwink the Secretary of the Interior. During the closing day of the last session of Congress a bill was passed increasing the clerks in the pension office, making 130 new clerkships and examiners, the salaries ranging from $2,000 to $1,200 a year. The Senators and members of Congress, with the Secretary of the Interior, insisted that these new appointments should be made from the different states and not be filled by promotion from the existing pension clerks. Commissioner Bentley combated against this, and insisted that he should appoint the clerks and that the higher positions should be filled by promotion, and that no new appointees should receive over $1,200 per year. Mr. Bentley was overruled, and the places were filled from lawyers of the different States. It has just leaked out that the old clerks formed a ring, or conspiracy, whereby the 1st of July they would oust the new examiners. In this way they were to be kept down in their records. The term record in this office means this: A clerk's capacity, judged from the number of cases and the briefs which he submits for admission or rejection, to which brief his name should be signed. The chiefs of the divisions instructed the new clerks to brief cases, but not to fill them up with their names as the examiner, and when these cases were so briefed they were to be passed over to an old clerk, who pretended to examine it, and, placing his name on the case as examiner, got the credit for it, and the new clerk got no credit for his work and has no memorandum or date whereby he could recall it. All he knew was that he had worked and got no credit. He supposed the Chief would give credit for the work. Upon the arrival of General Dudley, the scheme was divulged, and there is great commotion among the new examiners in consequence of this trickery, but it is certain not to injure them, but will doubtless result in the eviction of all the old clerks who can be proved to be in the conspiracy.

AROUND THE COUNTY.

BROOKLYN.

Brooklyn news is not as agreeable as I could wish, but if monotonous to readers, they are assured it is more than tiresome to us. It requires an ingenious pen to gloss unpleasantness, and the anti-monopolist party celebrate so often that we think to-day is yesterday returned. A couple of men produced an additional sensation by fortifying courage with ten cent lightning, and making a raid on Will Sharp, who has hitherto been more conspicuous for musical than pugilistic attainments.

Contrary to their expectation he neither ran away nor returned a kiss for an unexpected blow. The ludicrous part of the fray was acted by Saginaw's pet teacher, Miss Hattie Sharp, who being frightened half out of her senses caught one of the raiders and held him fast. The other thought the comet had fallen, but at last sorted himself out from among bushes and broken fences. The transposition of Sharps produced flats that retired with a headache apiece; but they sent a flag of truce early next morning. The respect entertained for their envoy told in their favor and the valiant two returned at eve and paid Will $50 for their brief amusement. No doubt they were glad that money could settle the bill.

Dissatisfaction exists among employees of the Detroit and Hillsdale railroad because of the little or no pay system adopted by Manager Smith.—Some of the men, after working three months without receiving any of their wages, stopped work, and were promptly told that unless they resumed they would be paid nothing.—The few who were sufficiently intimidated to begin again are still living on expectations and find their predicament embarrassing.

The credit of the Smith company is depreciated by such measures, and the men are unable to draw pay from that source or sell their account to others, and keep the 3th of July respectably. People who work on railroads seldom do so for fun. There is generally a family in the background that require support, and very few such men can skip two months wages without inconveniencing the lady of the house. Mr. Smith's fashion does not foster independence in the superlative degree. Besides when a man assumes the role of autocrat he ought to be certain he is possessed of enough common sense to wield the sceptre gracefully. If Smith & Co. cannot pay for the labor they have freely exacted they might say so civily, and not add insult to injurious results. But if they have not the usual amount of Smith brain, and mean to run the road as long as they can smouse the necessary assistance, then abandon their claim without a care for others except to retain the money they have earned, an investigation would not be out of order. Present symptoms indicate such a finale. I don't believe in strikes as a means of redress generally but how would the Smith's feel if one was sifted out of their numerous family?

ADDISON.

Fever and ague is quite common in these parts at present.

Wheat harvest will commence during the present week.

A somewhat extensive "hop" with the usual accompaniment enlivened the Exchange Hotel on the evening of the 4th.

Mr. J. S. Briggs, formerly with C. A. Smith of this place, is now engaged in business with Hetfield & Lane, Bowen's block. Mr. B.'s standing with the people will insure a materially increased trade for the firm.

The "greatest show on earth" (?) has been and gone, but some of the "silver heads" are destitute of spondulix, not to say spirits, by reason thereof. The appointment of a few guardians are now in order.

The fiendish attempt upon the life of President Garfield caused a feeling of mingled horror, suspense and indignation to pervade the entire community. Parties here are a unit in condemning the inhuman insult offered the loyal people of our common wealth. Addison would be a poor place for the would-be assassin to take refuge.

July 5th, 1881.

HON. JAS. G. BLAINE,

SIR:—At a meeting in this place on the occasion of the anniversary of our nation's birth the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That we extend to President and Mrs. Garfield the sympathy and love of our burdened hearts in this dark hour of theirs and the nation's sorrow.

Resolved, That while we sincerely hope, we fervently pray that the valuable life of our honored president may be spared and his health speedily recovered.

Resolved, That language does not express the abhorrent emotions of our hearts for the vile assassin.

R. T. BUSH,

The well-known family medicines of Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co. have been before the public forty years, and time strengthens the favorable impression with which they were at first received. We have been in the habit of using them ourselves, and recommending them to our acquaintances. Ayer's Pills are a perfect regulator of the system; Ayer's Extract of Sarsaparilla is the best known purifier of the blood; Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a safe and sure remedy in complaints of the throat and lungs; and Ayer's Ague Cure is an effectual cure in cases of Fever and Ague and other malarial fevers. These medicines are compounded with skill and accurate medical knowledge, and they are in no sense to be classed with the cheap nostrums of the day. The formulas from which they are prepared are not secret, but are furnished to all physicians and are published for the benefit of all interested.—St. Johns, P. Q., News.

Better than Quinine. Few constitutions can stand the continuous use of quinine. It is not only a very expensive medicine, but will ultimately cause the patient to succumb to its powerful influence upon the nervous system. But if you want to get rid of Malaria and all Fevers of that nature use the Lion Malaria and Liver Pad and Body and Foot Plasters. The whole treatment for one dollar. For sale by Druggists.

MR. N. J. ANDREWS, traveling passenger agent of the Chief Justice Waite, was in town last week working up the excursion business a little.

APPLETON'S CYCLOPÆDIA.

Appleton's Cyclopædia is unquestionably the best popular manual of general reference for an American,—George William Curtis, editor of Harper's Weekly.

University of Michigan.—In the ordinary attributes of a first-class cyclopædia in which it shares with others of its rank, it is fully equal to all others, particularly in this respect—that each article is a compact, and accurate and authorative report upon its topic up to the latest dates, and by specialists in the department to which it belongs. Upon the whole, we sincerely commend to the public this great work as in itself a copious library of precise and generalized information on every subject of interest to the people of this country.

James B. Angell, Pres't University of Mich.; Moses Coit Tyler, Prof. of English Language and Literature; Hon. T. M. Cooley, Prof. of Law; C. L. Ford, Prof. of Anatomy and Physiology.

This great national work will be delivered at once, complete, on payment of only two vols., by Mr. T. E. Gridley, manager. Mr. G. & Son are spoken of in high terms. We say to every one, don't fail in securing this the best of all cyclopædias.

The Century Co., Formerly Scribner & Co.

The name of the corporation formerly known as Scribner & Co. (publishers of Scribner's Monthly, St. Nicholas, "The Spiritual Songs Series" of hymn and tune books, "Songs for the Sanctuary," etc.) has now been changed to The Century Co. The title of Scribner's Monthly will become The Century, with the next volume. St. Nicholas is slightly changed as to its sub-title, being now St. Nicholas, an Illustrated Magazine for Young Folks. The July numbers of these magazines are the first to bear the new corporate imprint. Scribner's for July contains a paper of special and timely interest, "The People's Problem." On the 25th of June will be published the July number of St. Nicholas, containing many brilliant features for vacation-time, including chapters of two serial stories for boys by Rossiter Johnson and W. O. Stoddard. Price of Scribner's Monthly, $4.00 a year; 35 cents a number. St. Nicholas $3.00 a year; 25 cents a number. Sold everywhere.

Hudson Gazette: The severe wind and rain-storm of Wednesday morning, although of very brief duration, did no little damage to trees and buildings within the territory covered by it. Many shade and fruit trees in the corporation were injured or destroyed. The gable end of Peter Clement's new brick house, in Pittsford was blown in; the apple orchard of Bishop Ames, north of the village, suffered considerably; likewise the orchard of Alex. Taylor, near the cemetery. We learn that a fine piece of timber, belonging to Mr. Cramer, in Medina, was badly prostrated by the fury of the gale. It probably left many similar marks in his track, which have not come to our notice.

WE have received Vol. 1, No. 1, of the Journal of the American Agricultural Association. It contains a large number of very interesting articles among which the best are those on the Railroad Problem, by Edward Atkinson, and the Mills System of Ensilage by Francis D. Moulton. The book is one which every farmer should have. Price seventy-five cents. For sale by the American News Company, N.Y.

There is no more trying season than Spring for those afflicted with lung trouble. Use Arthur's Elixir of Sulphur freely. It will strengthen the system and purify the blood, and the changes of weather will cease to trouble you. Sold by C. A. Wright & Co.

Adrian Press: Over in Dover there is a disappointed young man. He wanted to get up a lake excursion but could find no girl who would go with him and a sympathizing neighbor said his neice was stopping at his house and could be induced to accept the honor. He had best call, get introduced, take her on a little ride and seize the occasion to invite her to the lake. The young man called and after some delay was introduced to the "neice" and asked her to ride. She was "willin" and while he untied the "hoss" he asked her if she could get into the carriage alone. She could and did. He asked her to go to the. She said she would. But he never called and it is hinted that somebody dropped a word in the young man's ear, that the young lady was no young at all, but a wicked male offspring of the black hearted neighbor who first put up the job. The youth dressed up in girls toggery and our hero had been sold without having had any opportunity to find out the difference for himself.

Hudson Gazette: Presiding Elder Shier was made the recipient of a handsome watch on Friday week, his 49th birthday, being a gift from his former parishioners of the Methodist church of Adrian

ALUMNI HISTORY.

L. LOAN'S ESSAY.

"Histories make men wise." I am at so great a loss as to how I am to impress my hearers with this fact, that I turn to Webster and find that a history is a written statement of what is known, a record, or a description.

Upon looking about me I see our worthy officers, but how can I be expected to know anything of them, for I stepped off from the stage of school life long, long before they thought of entering upon it. Not only is this the case with the officers of to-night but also with all of the school boys and girls that I see in my daily walks of life. What is to be done? Here is an old time student appointed to fill the important position of historian with seemingly nothing to make a history. What shall I do? I seek the president and find a record.

Upon opening the time worn book I find on its title page, "Minutes of the proceedings of the executive committee of the Tecumseh Lyceum, Dec. 22, 1836." This cannot be what I am looking for. I see many familiar names upon these records, but they are actors in school history who came long before my time. Silently I turn the time yellowed pages, looking hastily through what falls before my eyes. What, do I see a familiar hand writing. Another title page.

"Presented to the Tecumseh Union School Alumni by S. C. Stacy, Class of 1860, Jan. 1, 1869."

Here I find many names, and as I look along down the list my memory brightens and I see before me many of my old school-mates. But what am I to do? The historians, who have gone before me, have told all about these names. Still on down the list I look. Joy at last; here are names that bear no check marks. I eagerly look; yes, I know of that one, and that one, and that, and now dear friends be patient while I prove that "Histories do make men wise."

SARAH McCONNELL,

became a member of the Tecumseh school about the year 1849. Mrs. Quincy Wood, principal; afterward Prof. Estabrook, and lastly Prof. Nash, leaving the school in 1854. In 1856 she went to Clover St. Seminary at Rochester, N.Y., where she graduated in 1858. Dec. 6, 1860, she married John Conkling. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Conkling will find them pleasantly situated on a fine farm in Raisin, where they have resided most of their married life and look forward to many years of peace and happiness in that home.

LIBBIE LAYCOCK,

First went to school in Tecumseh in 1865, going for some time to the old University, then coming into the new building with many of the old pupils. She remembers Prof. Lawton, Miss Aldrich and Miss Buck as her teachers, during the years 1858 to '60, '61.—I well remember the many pleasant associations of my own school days in connection with that of my friend Libbie. Her people lived about a mile west of us. (Asa Gilmore was her step-father,) and she and her brother Gus, were at that time both in school. It mattered not what was the state of the weather, 8 o'clock would find them opposite our gate on their way down to school. I soon learned that Gus, and Libbie were never late, so called them my time-piece, and almost always joined them at the gate. Constant associations make strong friendships, and I well remember how lonely I felt when in the spring of '61 she took up the labors of a school ma'am, and my time-piece and companion was gone. Among the old time relics, we all like so well to look over is a paper, the 1st Vol. No. 2 of "The Floral Wreath," read Sept. 21st, 1855, edited by Libbie Laycock. In that paper I find these headings and names: "Always be Cheerful," by Jennie Hall; "Autumn," by Ellen Conkrite; Compositions, Dora Graves; Home, Frank Tallman; A Story, Fannie Conkling; Little Ella, Laura Crossman. Many of you will remember all about this paper; how much pride you all felt over every line written upon its pages. She brings me also a printed program. Order of Exercises, Friday evening, Mar. 25, 1859. Exhibition to commence at 7 o'clock. Music by the Tecumseh Brass Band. On this program may be seen twenty-eight names of our old schoolmates. Time will not allow me to mention them all, but the closing feature was: "The Antiquities of Michigan," (original,) S. C. Stacy; "Progress of Civilization," (original,) Wm. A. Patterson; "Seige of Londonderry, (original,) David Boyd. As I look back it seems but yesterday that I saw those three boys aspiring to a position in the Michigan State University; struggling with hope and pride through their first original orations. But I shall weary you with my digressions. March 26, 1862, Libbie entered upon a new plane of life, joining in wedlock with Frank Davidson. They began farming on their own responsibility, and prosperity has been with them. Almost any day you can see Frank's jolly face, as he leisurely walks thro' the streets of our village. Many times also the smile of his wife Libbie, as they greet their many friends.

ALTIE SHERD

entered the Tecumseh school in 1855. During her school days here she made it her home with her sister, Mrs. David Marshall. After leaving school here she went for some time to Hillsdale College; shortly after she married Moses W. King, of Yellow Springs, Ohio, where she resided. A few weeks before her death she came home to visit her parents, and died after a short illness, finding her last resting place in our beautiful cemetery.

JOHN AND WILLIS HALL

entered the Tecumseh school about ten years before the building of the Union School; went from the west district (now called the West branch), when the new building was first opened for use. John remained till some time in Prof. Lawton's superintendency, being at that time about seventeen years old. Soon after he went to Missouri, remaining a year and one-half, following blacksmithing as a trade; returning to Tecumseh he took a place in Brewer's shop, and when the war broke out he enlisted, with many other Tecumseh boys in the old Fourth regiment; when it was given its final discharge he came home, remaining here about three years. He then went east, where he married.—Coming west again he lived in Elkhart a short time, then went to Oswego, N. Y., where he still lives.

Willis left school two or three years later; going to Adrian he began learning his trade. Went to Syracuse N. Y., to finish it; coming back he worked in Brewer's shop until his marriage with Almira Savage, of Clinton. He then went into the car shops at Adrian, and moved with them to Elkhart, Ind., remaining there a number of years; meantime he became night foreman. He was sent from there to White Pigeon as day foreman. The first of January last he was sent to Chicago, where he now holds a prominent position.

HATTIE GODDARD,

better known to Tecumseh boys and girls as Hattie Brown, lived with her grandfather, Isaac Brown, and went to school in the old East district school house; was promoted to the new building at the same time that the Bills' girls and many others entered it in the Grammer school, then steadily advancing. About the year 1863 she began teaching music. In 1865 she married Geo. Weatherhead, and went with him to live in Livingston county.—Mrs. Weatherhead's love for music did not decrease with her accumulating cares, and she still has a fine class and has gained quite a reputation as a musician and teacher.

EMMA GILMAN

came with her folks to Tecumseh in the fall of 1855. They lived in the house now owned by J. D. Robbins. Emma and I were constant companions and seatmates from the time she first came into the old West district till long after we became young ladies and members of the High School.—Many were the daring exploits we shared in those days, but I must not stop to tell of them lest memory bring back too brightly those childhood days with their ups and downs; for you must know that all was not sunshine even then; but hand in hand for many a year we shared a school-girl's joys and sorrows. Sept. 28, 1864, Emma married G. T. Ketcham. Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Ketcham were identified with the people of Tecumseh, and considered her own in business, society, etc., until the Spring of 1879 they moved to Gaylord, Kansas, where they have been keeping hotel, until now they are moving to Beloit, Kan., 175 miles west of Atchison, where we Eastern people will find Geo. and Em. ever ready to welcome their many friends.

HENRY CRANE

was a member of the High School during Prof. Thomas' professorship, until the latter part of 1866. He then left school and went into Drew's hardware as clerk, staying two years; he then assisted Col. Saviers in his shoe-store six months, going from there into Alf. James' grocery, staying in the corner store with Alf. and J. B. Weller about two years. He then decided to become a machinist, going into Brewer's shop. Shortly after he married Marla Chadwick, and is now a respected citizen of Tecumseh.

JOSEPH WARING

was a member of Tecumseh schools from 1863 to 1867; he then went into Slayton's warehouse, remaining there two years. The following two years he spent at home on his father's farm. Again he came to work for Slayton.—In January, 1874, he married Miss Franc Slayton, and from that time he became identified with the Slayton family, both at home and in business, and he may be seen any day by stepping round to the warehouse of Slayton & Son.

HATTIE BLINN

entered the school under Prof. Thomas, remaining until the spring of '65, when she took a position in the town of Bridgewater as teacher, teaching four months. In September following she took a place in the West branch; after teaching one year she married Charles Burridge July 24th, 1867. In September she resumed her school duties, teaching one year more. Since that time she has been an interested member of society, and a well-wisher for our schools, and now looks upon the advancement of her children with the same zeal that she manifested for herself in years gone by.

AMBROSE IRISH

came from Mason, and lived in Prof. Lawton's family, and went to school one year; he then went to live in Ketcham's family, and clerked in his store. In 1862 he enlisted in the U.S. cavalry and was consigned to the army of the Potomac. Prof. Lawton says: "I was sitting at my desk in the school room when he bade me good-bye, and I said to him, 'don't get shot in the back.' He was a brave fellow; he went down stairs, leaped the steps of the school yard at a bound, and I never saw him again. A report came that he was captured in Virginia and taken from his horse and shot in cold blood; at any rate he never returned.

JENNIE PENNOCK

began going to school as a little girl over in the Brownville district. At 16 she graduated, the youngest of her class, in 1867. Three years later she married George Spaulding, going to Dansville to live. After only one year her husband died, and she then came back to her old home to live, remaining two or three years, when her husband's parents came and took her to live with them. Three years ago she again married Mr. J. Dakin, and now lives in Dansville.

JENNIE AND ELLA WEBSTER

entered school when Prof. Lawton was Superintendent, and left school in 1867. Jennie was married to Myron Conkling in Elmwood, Ind., May 1, 1878, and has since resided in Tecumseh. In 1868 Ella taught a three months school, the following September came into school for a short time. She attended school in Hillsdale during the winter of 1873, until the burning of the college. Since then she has made it her home in Tecumseh.

LIEBIE SATTERTHWAITE

entered school under Prof. Thomas, graduating under Prof. Drury in 1868. The following year she attended the Howland Institute at Cayuga Lake, N. Y. In 1870 she began teaching, and taught four years. In 1878 she again assumed the duties of teacher, and at the present time is one of our corps of teachers.

ABNER WILSON

entered the High School under Prof. Thomas in 1864. In 1865, after one month he was taken sick, and did not go again until Sept. 1866, catching up with his class, thus putting 3 years work into five terms. He graduated with his class in 1867. In the fall of '67 he went into the postoffice as assistant to his old teacher, Col. Saviers, remaining three years and a-half. He then went home to work on the farm for three years, working summers and teaching winters. Then catching the spirit of his graduating essay, "The West and its Future," he went to Kansas, but the drouth, grasshoppers and the panic of 1873 drove him back to his native town, where he again took up farming for a livelihood. Like all other sensible young men he was married, to Miss Addie Randall, Oct. 14, 1874, since that time he has been a resident of Tecumseh, working for D. W. Clark, as clerk for three years. He then turned his attention to farming, the path laid out in his childhood.

I have endeavored to point out to you the devious paths of a few of our old schoolmates. And I sincerely thank you for your patience and forbearance.

The Fortunes of War.

REMARKABLE EXCENTRICITIES OF BULLETS ON THE BATTLE-FIELD.

At the battle of Peach Orchard, when McClellan was making his change of base, a Michigan infantryman fell to the ground as if shot stone dead, and was left lying in a heap as the regiment changed position. The ball which hit him, first struck the barrel of his gun, glanced and struck a button off his coat, tore the watch out of his vest pocket, and then struck the man just over the heart, and was stopped there by a song book in his shirt pocket. He was unconscious for three-quarters of an hour, and it was a full month before the black and blue spot disappeared.

At Pittsburg Landing, a member of the Twelfth Michigan Infantry stooped to give a wounded man a drink from his canteen. While in this act, a bullet aimed at his breast struck the canteen, turned aside, passed through the body of a man and buried itself in the leg of a horse. The canteen was split open, and dropped to the ground in halves.

At the second battle of Bull Run, a New York Infantryman was passing his plug of tobacco to a comrade, a bullet struck the plug, glanced off and buried itself in a knapsack. The tobacco was rolled up like a ball of shavings, and carried a hundred feet away. Directly in the line of the bullet was the head of a Lieutenant, and had not the bullet been deflected, he would certainly have received it. As it was he had both eyes filled with tobacco dust, and had to be led to the rear.

At Brandy Station, one of Custer's troopers had his left stirrup-strap cut away by a grape-shot, which passed between his leg and the horse, blistering his skin as if a red-hot iron had been used. He dismounted to ascertain the extent of his injuries, and as he bent over, a bullet knocked his hat off and killed his horse. In the same fight was a trooper who had suffered several days with a tooth-ache. In a hand-to-hand fight he received a pistol ball in the right cheek. It knocked out his aching double-tooth, and passed out the left hand corner of his mouth, taking along a part of an upper tooth. The joy of being rid of the tooth-ache was so great that the trooper could not be made to go to the rear to have his wound dressed.

An object, however trifling, will turn the bullet from its true course. This was shown one day at the remount camp in Pleasant Valley. They had a "bull-pen" there, in which about 500 bounty jumpers and other hard cases were under guard. Once in a while one of these men would make a break for liberty. Every sentinel in position would open fire, and it did not matter in the least if the man ran toward the crowded camp. On this occasion the prisoner made for the camp, and as many as six shots were fired at him without effect. One of the bullets entered the tent of a captain in the Twelfth Pennsylvania cavalry. He was lying down, and the course of the bullet would have buried it in his chest. Fortunately for him, a candle by which he was reading sat on a stand between him and where the bullet entered. This was struck and cut square in two, and the lighted end dropped to the floor without being snuffed out. The ball was deflected, and burried in the pillow under the officer's head, passed out of that and through his tent, into the one behind it, passed between two men and brought up against a camp kettle.

There is in Detroit, Mich., a man who was wounded five times in less than ten minutes, at Fair Oaks. The first bullet entered his left arm; the second gave him a scalp wound; the third hit him in the foot; the fourth buried itself in his shoulder; the fifth entered his right leg. While he was being carried to the rear, the first two men who took him were killed. While his wounds were being dressed, an exploded shell almost buried him under an avalanche of dirt. In being removed further to the rear, a runaway ambulance horse carried him half a mile and dumped him out, and yet he is seemingly hale and hearty, and walks without a limp.

Sunday in Leadville.

On Sunday in Leadville nearly every store is open. It is the day with places of amusement; the smoke of the smelters perfumes the ambient air a little more villanously than usual, if possible, and the streets are crowded. The church bells gather many worshippers, but they are not missed from the thronged streets. The miners come in from all directions, from shafts and tunnels and prospect holes, swarming in the streets, crowding the corners, filling the bars of numerous saloons with a coming tide of humanity. Many come to buy their weekly supplies at the stores, whose clerks know no holy Sabbath rest; others come to talk over their strikes and finds, or to bring in their samples for testing. Crowds throng the more than a hundred gambling dens, from whose wide open doors the sound of piano, violin and flute mingle with the shrill voice of the dealer at the faro-table, calling, "Make your bets gentlemen," and the curses and vulgarity of the players taint the sacred Sabbath air. The gambling-house knows no Sunday, and though the law of Colorado expressly prohibits the opening of drinking or gambling houses on the Sabbath day, it is as dead as though it had never cumbered the leaves of the statute books, and the police stand idly by watching its violation. Bleary-eyed and bloated debauchees, in whose lives honest decency and manhood have long since died, bandy ribald jests with the lost characters who carry the liquor to the tables. Thieves and pickpockets, watching with keen eyes for the victim and opportunity, mingle with bustling crowds and jostle you as you pass.—Chicago Times.

The Chinese army is variously estimated, some placing it as low as 30,000 men, while other accounts raise it to 200,000 men already in the field. Some critics, who profess to speak from personal knowledge, praise highly of the efficiency of the celestial battalions, which with very few exceptions, have for field officers military experts who learnt the trade of war in the armies of England and France, the system of organization and tactics being that existing in the armies of the republic.

MONEY—FARMS—ABSTRACTS.

If you want to hire money at very low rates.

If you have money to loan.

If you want to buy a farm or a home.

If you want to sell your real estate.

If you want a deed or mortgage correctly made.

If you want a complete abstract of title. Call on A. L. Bliss.

Among other Farms for sale I have one of 160 acres and one of 80 acres in Palmyra both being well tiled and fenced, and first class in every respect, with four market towns within easy driving distance, in good neighborhood. Also 125 acre farm 1½ miles west of river road from Deerfield. Also 160 acre farm and 80 acre farm, and 20 acre farm in Riga, any of which are decided bargains, and good reasons given for naming low prices.

Every purchaser of Lands should insist on being furnished an abstract of title, for our experience of more than 20 years shows that not more than one title in ten is perfect of record, and every week purchases agreed upon are abandoned owing to imperfections of title. I have a good carriage or farm horse, 1300 lbs. in weight for sale at a bargain.

A few thousand dollars now on hand to loan at six per cent, and on long time if desired.

TO THE AFFLICTED.

Since the introduction of Kellogg's Columbian Oil it has made more permanent cures and given better satisfaction on Kidney complaints and Rheumatism than any known remedy. Its continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it known as a safe and reliable agent to employ against all aches and pains, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders. It acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering and often saving life. The protection it affords by its timely use on Rheumatism, kidney affection, and all aches and pains, wounds, cramping pains, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, coughs, colds, catarrh, and disorders among children, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. It is absolutely certain in its remedial effects and will always cure when cures are possible. Call at C. A. Wright & Co's. and get a memorandum book giving more full details of the curative properties of this wonderful medicine.

Where the Sun Does Not Set.

A scene witnessed by some travelers in the north of Norway from a cliff one thousand feet above the sea is thus described: "The ocean swept away in silent vastness at our feet; the sound of waves scarcely reached our airy lookout; away in the north the huge old sun swung low along the horizon, like the slow beat of the pendulum in the tall clock of our grandfather's corner. We all stood silent, looking at our watches. When both hands come together at 12, midnight, the full round orb hung triumphantly above the waves, a bridge of gold running due north, spanning the water between us and him. There he shone in silent majesty, which knew no setting. We involuntary took off our hats; no word was said. Combine, if you can, the most brilliant sunrise and sunset you ever saw, and the beauties will pale before the gorgeous coloring which now lit up ocean, heaven and mountain. In half an hour the sun swung perceptibly on his beat, the colors changed to those of morning, a fresh breeze rippled over the flood, one songster after another piped up in the grove behind us—we had slid another day."

Greatest Remedy Known:

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumptive is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity.—Thousands of once hopeless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this Discovery to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggists, M. Wright & Son, and get a trial bottle free of cost which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar size bottle will do. For sale by M. Wright & Son, Tecumseh.

Warm the bit in your bridle in frosty weather before putting it in the horse's mouth. The bit full of frost, coming in contact with the tongue and lips, adheres to these soft tissues the same as it would do when red hot, leaving the animal with a sore mouth. If you do not believe it, place your own tongue on a piece of frosted iron some cold morning and be convinced.

A Physician of Great Prominence in thirty-sixth street, New York city was unable to even help Mr. Wm. McKee, of Patterson, N. J., suffering the agonies always attendant upon diseased kidneys. As an honest man and practitioner he prescribed and cured him by using one bottle of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure.

Pleasure is the mere accident of our being, and work its natural and most holy necessity.

Mothers, Wives, Daughters, Sons, Fathers, Ministers, Teachers, Business Men, Farmers, Mechanics, ALL should be warned against using and introducing into their HOMES Nostrums and Alcoholic Remedies. Have no such prejudice against, or fear of "Warner's Safe Tonic Bitters." They are what they are claimed to be—harmless as milk, and contain only medicinal virtues. Extract of choice vegetables only. They do not belong to that class known as "Cure-Alls," but only profess to reach cases where the disease originates in debilitated frames and impure blood. A perfect Spring and Summer Medicine.

A Thorough Blood Purifier. A Tonic Appetizer. Pleasant to the taste, invigorating to the body. The most eminent physicians recommend them for their Curative Properties. Once used, always preferred.

TRY THEM.

For the Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs, use nothing but "WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE." It stands UNRIVALLED. Thousands owe their health and happiness to it. Price $1.25 per bottle. We offer "Warner's Safe Tonic Bitters" with equal confidence.

A Mountain Picnic.

HOW THE CHIEF MOURNER ENJOYED HIMSELF AND MADE MATTERS PLEASANT FOR THE LADIES.

I had the pleasure once of acting as chief mourner at a mountain picnic. This subject has been pretty well represented in song and romance already, but I venture to give my experience as being a little out of the ordinary. The joy which is experienced in the glad, free life of the picnicker is always before the picnic. On the evening before he makes the excursion he is too full of sacred pleasure and lavender colored tranquility for anything. He glides about the house softly warbling to himself the fragment of some tender love song while he packs the corkscrews and matches and other vegetables for the morrow.

I was placed in command of a party of ladies, who had everything arranged so that all I needed to do was to get into the buggy and drive to the mountains, eat my lunch and drive back again. I like to go with a party of ladies, because they never make suggestions about the route or how to drive. They are just as full of gentle trust and childlike confidence and questions as they can be. They get the lunch ready, and get into the buggy and keep thinking of things they have forgotten till they get 400 miles from the home, and they sing little pieces of old songs, and won't let the great horrid man in charge of the excursion have any lunch when he gets hungry because they were hunting for a magnificent spot beneath the boughs of a magnificent elm, when every sane man in the territory knows there isn't an elm, big or little, within 1,432½ miles.

We went up in the mountains, because we wanted to go where it would be cool. As a search for cool resort, this picnic of ours was the most brilliant success. We kept going up at an angle of forty-five degrees from the time we left home until we had to get out and walk to keep warm. We got into one of the upper strata of clouds, and a cold mist mixed with fragments of ice cream and large chunks of hail and misery about the size of a burglar-proof safe came gathering over us. Then we camped in the midst of the mountain storm, and the various ladies sat down on their feet and put the lap robes over them and looked reproachfully at me. We hovered around under the buggy and two or three little, half-grown parasols, and watched the storm. It was a glorious spectacle to a thinking mind. They began to abuse me because I did not make a circus of myself and thus drive away the despair and misery of the occasion. They had brought me along it seemed, because I was such an amusing little cuss. It made me a good deal sadder than I would have been otherwise. Here in the midst of a wild and bitter mountain storm, so thick that you couldn't see twenty yards away, with nothing to eat but marble cake soaked in vinegar and a piece of cold tongue with a red ant on it, I was expected to make a hippodrome and negro minstrel of myself. I burst into tears and tried to sit on my feet as the ladies did. I couldn't do it so simultaneously and so extemporaneously, as it were, as they could. I had to take them by sections and sit on them. My feet are not large, but at the same time I cannot hover over them at the same time.

By and by, when we concluded that we had seen about all the mountain storm we needed in our business, and didn't pine for any more hailstones and dampness, we hitched up again and started home. Then we got lost. The ladies felt indignant and I was delighted. I never was so lost in all my life. When I was asked where I thought I was, I could cheerfully reply that I didn't know, and that would stop the conversation for as much as two minutes.

The beauty of being lost is that you are all the time seeing new objects. There is a charm of novelty about being lost that one does not fully understand until he has been there, so to speak. When I would say that I didn't know where the road led to that we were traveling, one of the party would suggest, with mingled bitterness and regret, that we had better turn back. I turned back seventeen times at the request of various members of the party, for whom I had and still have the most unbounded respect. Finally we got so accustomed to the various objects along this line of travel that we pined for a change. Then we drove ahead a little farther and found the road. It had been there all the time. It is there yet.

I never had so much fun in all my life. It don't take much to please me, however. I am of a cheerful disposition, anyhow. Some of the ladies brought home columbines that had been drowned; others brought home beautiful green mosses with red bugs in them, and others brought home lichens, and ferns, and neuralgia. I didn't bring anything home. I was glad to get home and know that I was all there.

I took the lunch basket and examined it. It looked sick and unhappy. At first I thought I would pick the red ants out of the lunch; then it would save time to pick the lunch out of the red ants; but finally I thought I would compromise by throwing the whole thing into the alley. I am now preparing a work to be called the "Pick Nicker's Guide; or Starvation Made Easy and Even Desirable." It will supply a want long felt, and will be within the reach of all.

Dear reader, did you ever sit amidst the silence and solitude of the mountains and feel the hailstones rolling down your back, melting and soothing you, and filling your heart with great surging thoughts of the sweet by and by, and death, and the grave, and other mirth-provoking topics? We had now been about two hundred years without food, it seemed to me, and I mildly suggested that I would like something to eat rather than to die of starvation in the midst of plenty, but the ladies wouldn't give me so much as a ham sandwich to preserve my life. They told me to smoke if I must have nourishment, and coldly refused to let me sample the pickled spiders and cold-pressed flies. So, in the midst of all this prepared food, I had to go out into the sagebrush and eat raw grasshoppers and prickly pears.

HOME-MADE COURT PLASTER.—Soak isinglass in a little warm water for seventy-four hours; then evaporate nearly all the water by gentle heat; dissolve the residue in a little dilute alcohol, and strain the whole through a piece of open linen. The strained mass should be a stiff jelly when cold. Now stretch a piece of silk or sarcenet on a wooden frame, and fix it tight with tacks or pack thread. Melt the jelly and apply it to the silk thinly and evenly with a badger hair brush. A second coating must be applied when the first has dried. When both are dry, apply over the whole surface two or three coatings of the balsam of Peru. Plaster thus made is very pliable, and never breaks.

—A robin built her nest on a railroad switch near a depot in New Hampshire, directly under the signal light, and although about twenty-five trains passed by daily, she remained and raised a family.

Husband Spoopendyke.

"Now, my dear," said Mr. Spoopendyke, cheerfully, "be fively. It's twenty minutes past 10, and we musn't be late at church. Most ready?"

"Yes, dear," beamed Mrs. Spoopendyke, "I'm all ready. Got everything?"

"I think so. Hymn-book, umbrella, and—where's the prayer-book? I haven't got the prayer-book."

"Where did you leave it?" asked Mrs. Spoopendyke, turning over the volumes on the table hurriedly.

"If I knew where I left it, I'd strut to that spot and get it," retorted Mr. Spoopendyke. "I left it with you. Where did you put it? Can't you remember what you do with things?"

"I haven't seen it since last Sunday," returned Mrs. Spoopendyke, faintly. "I know," she continued, "perhaps it is at church."

"Perhaps it is," mimicked Mr. Spoopendyke; "perhaps it got up early, took a bath and went ahead of us. Did you ever see a prayer-book prowl off to church all alone? Ever see a prayer-book hist up its skirts and strike out for the sanctuary without an escort? S'pose a prayer-book knows the difference between a church and a ham sandwich? Where did you put it?"

"I mean, you may have left it in the pew rack. You know you did once," suggested Mrs. Spoopendyke.

"I don't do anything of the sort. I brought it home and gave it to you. Where do you keep it? What did you do with it? S'pose I'm going to swash around through that service without knowing whether they are doing the apostles' creed or an act of Congress? Spring around and find it, can't you? What are you looking there for? Don't you know the difference between a prayer-book and the Wandering Jew? Find it, can't you?

"Never mind it, dear," fluttered Mrs. Spoopendyke; "I know all the responses, and I'll help you along."

"Oh, yes, you know 'em all. What you don't know about religion wouldn't wad a gun. All you want is a bell and a board fence to be a theological seminary. Think you can't find that prayer-book between now and the equinoctial?" howled Mr. Spoopendyke. "Got any idea whether you sold the measly thing for china vases or stirred it into the wheat cakes? Have I been chawing divine grace all the morning? Where's that prayer-book? Going to see it before the Revelations come to pass?" and Mr. Spoopendyke plunged around the room, tumbling books about and breathing heavily.

"I don't see any use of making such a fuss over a thing you don't really need," sobbed Mrs. Spoopendyke through her indignant tears.

"Oh, you don't," raved Mr. Spoopendyke. "You don't see any use of putting things where they belong, do you? How d'ye s'pose I'm going to keep up with religion without a prayer-book? How d'ye s'pose I'm going to know when it's my turn to show what Christianity has done for me unless you can find that dod gasted book between now and the resurrection?" and Mr. Spoopendyke spun around on his knee like a top, and knocked over a Parisian jar.

"Wait a minute, my dear," said Mrs. Spoopendyke, looking at him earnestly. Then she went behind him and fished out the prayer-book.

"Got it, didn't you," he growled. "Had it all the time, I s'pose. Where was it, anyway?"

"In your coat tail pocket, dear," and Mrs. Spoopendyke jabbed the powder puff in her eyes, and stalked down stairs, leaving her liege to follow.

The following problem is given to some new beginner in arithmetic to solve: The English language has one "t" and four substitutes for it, namely, et as in "etesiphon," pt as in "ptisan," phth as in "phtisic," th as in "Thomas." It also has "a" and ten substitutes for "a" namely, ai as in "vain," ay in "ray," eigh as in "eight," eig as in "reign," ey as in "they," aig as in "campaign," ea as in "break," au as in "gauge," ao as in "goal," aigh as in "laight." Combining the above how many ways are there of spelling the word "tailor?" and then, writing the second syllable with lar, ler, lir, lor, lur, lyr, larr, lerr, lirr, lorr, lurr, lyrr, llarr, llerr, llirr, llorr, llurr, llyrr, lour, leur, laer, lleur, llaer, How many different ways are there of spelling the whole word "tailor??"

Half the ills of human life proceed from a torpid and disordered liver.—Submit to them no longer while "Sellers' Liver Pills" will cure you quickly. Price 25c.

The following explanation of a legal term was offered by a Teutonic policeman: "Ven I git me out a habeas scorpius I can just as vel catch a man where he ain't as where he is."

THE SYMPTOMS

Liver Complaint are a bitter or a bad taste in the mouth, Pain in the Back, Sides or Joints, often mistaken for Rheumatism, Sour Stomach, Loss of Appetite, Bowels alternately costive and lax, Headache, Loss of memory, with a painful sensation of having failed to do something which ought to have been done, Debility, Low Spirits, a thick yellow appearance of the skin and Eyes, a dry Cough often mistaken for Consumption.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, at others very few, but the LIVER, the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of disease, and if not Regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and death will ensue.

MAGNETIC OINTMENT.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

ALL SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, or ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it cures readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years

The Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have never used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

PILES! PILES!! PILES!!!

A Sure Cure Found at Last. No One Need Suffer.

A sure cure for the Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams (an Indian remedy), called Dr. Williams'-Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 and 30 years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, Instruments, and Electuaries do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching (particularly at night after getting warm in bed), acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for Piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment: "I have used scores of pile cures, but it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment."

SELECT LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS.

An advertiser who spends upwards of $5,000 a year, and who invested less than $350 of it in this List, writes: "Your Select Local List paid me better last year THAN ALL THE OTHER ADVERTISING I DID."

IT IS NOT A CO-OPERATIVE LIST.
IT IS NOT A CHEAP LIST.
IT IS AN HONEST LIST.

The catalogue states exactly what the papers are: When the name of a paper is printed in FULL-FACE TYPE it is in every instance the BEST.—When printed in CAPITALS it is the ONLY paper in the place. The list gives the population of every town and the circulation of every paper.

The rates charged for advertising are barely one-fifth the publishers' schedule. The price for single States ranges from $2 to $80. The price for one inch one month in the entire list is $625. The regular rates of the papers for the same space and time are $3,980.14. The list includes 952 newspapers of which 187 are issued DAILY and 765 WEEKLY. They are located in 788 different cities and towns, of which 26 are State Capitals, 363 places of over 5,000 population, and 468 County Seats. For copy of List and other information, address GEO. P. Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions, promotes energy and strength, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, of cheap materials, and without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

THE ATTEMPT ON THE PRESIDENT'S LIFE.

Not since the closing days of the rebellion when Abraham Lincoln was assassinated, has the country been so shocked as when on Saturday last the news flashed over the wires that President Garfield had been shot down by an assassin's hand in a public place in the city of Washington, and that his life was dispaired of. The telegraph offices were besieged during the entire day to catch every breath of news that came from the White House. During Saturday, Sunday and Monday, the President's condition was extremely critical, and at midnight on the 4th his attendants had given up all hope. A favorable turn set in, at that time, and his symptoms have continued to improve ever since. He is a man of powerful frame and fine constitution, is in splendid health, and in the prime of life. These advantages, combined with the best efforts of medical skill, may foil the rascal's intent and result in his final recovery. We deem it unnecessary to fill our columns with a detailed account of the transaction, for we should simply duplicate what our readers have already found in much better shape in their city papers. But we consider it proper to express our horror at the dastardly act, and to unite our wish with that of all good citizens, that the would-be assassin may meet with speedy and condign punishment. It seems almost too horrible for belief that the act was the result of a political conspiracy, and yet there are many intelligent men who accept this theory. It is impossible to believe that Gitteau was a confirmed lunatic. The deed was systematically planned and executed, for a purpose. He had intended to commit the crime at Long Branch, but a feeling of pity for Mrs. Garfield deterred him. The villain is not a madman. He can form plans with intelligence and execute them with coolness and decision.

It is a sad commentary upon the success of Republican government, if the nation's ruler is to be shot down in cold blood to gratify the personal malice of a disappointed office-seeker. In the interest therefore of Republican government, no less than in the interest of common justice, the villain should be speedily tried, and his punishment should be swift and sure.

THE LATEST NEWS.

The following telegrams received here to-day direct from the White House contain the latest intelligence of the President's condition, which is most favorable:

[OFFICIAL.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 7, 9 A.M. —President passed a most favorable night and continues steadily to improve. He is most cheerful and asks for additional food. Pulse, 94; temperature, 94; respiration, 23.

BLISS, BARNES, WOODARD.

[UNOFFICIAL.]

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 7, 1:30 P.M. —President's condition as favorable as this morning.

Summer School.

EDITOR HERALD:

The friends of Miss Fanny Stocking will doubtless be glad to know that arrangements have been entered into for a summer term of her excellent private school. Miss Stocking takes this step at the solicitation of many parents who are anxious to have their children continue their studies during the long summer vacation. At the same time pupils in the public schools who, from illness or other necessary absence, may have fallen behind their classes, can avail themselves of this desirable opportunity to make up any such deficiencies. The school opens on Monday, 18th inst., continuing six weeks from that date

WM. GRANDY.

WILL ROBBINS left town yesterday for Cleveland where he has obtained a position as bookkeeper in the same establishment in which his father is employed. Will has been a fixture in the HERALD establishment for the past year and we part with him with regret. May success attend him in his new field of labor, and we believe it will. Tecumseh boys have the true metal, and they rarely fail.

The president has appointed R. S. Foster to the marshalship of Indiana, made vacant by the resignation of William W. Dudley.

Clarkson N. Potter, of New York, who is receiving the democratic vote for senator at Albany, is sight-seeing in California.

Dick Wood, a notorious character in Western Texas, was taken from the sheriff on the 26th, near Carizo, and shot to death.

The Bradford oil district is alive with excitement over two rich strikes across the line in New York, flowing 100 to 150 barrels per day.

Henry Villard and his associates have filed at Portland articles of incorporation of the Oregon Transcontinental company, with a capital of $50,000,000.

In a quarrel near Concord, N. C., Ford Knox killed Lewis Steele, a suitor for the hand of his sister, against whom he had strong prejudices.

The democracy of Ohio are expected to select as a candidate for governor either John F. Follet, of Cincinnati; Henry B. Banning, or John W. Bookwalter.

Piute Indians in the Dolores country, Colorado, attacked a party of fifty-four citizens and killed five of them on the 18th inst. Captain Carroll, with men of the ninth cavalry, has gone in pursuit of the red-skins.

In consequence of the abandonment of his German newspaper partnership in St. Louis by Carl Schurz, the business manager of the concern has been forced to retire from the enterprise.

A flock of carrier-pigeons owned in Boston have been lessening the record. One of the number flew from Schenectady, N. Y. to Boston in four hours seventeen minutes and fifteen seconds.

Commissioner Raum has decided that the sum of $165,445.07 is due the United States government on evasions of tax by the three Canadian banks doing business in Chicago.

An enormous plain of ice stretches along the coast of Labrador. A field of Long Point is literally alive with seals, something not witnessed since the discovery of Newfoundland by Cabot.

Mount Tamaljais, near San Rafael, Col., is giving out smoke and sparks, and the people of that region fail to agree as to whether the cause is a volcanic outbreak or a brush fire on the summit.

W. E. Lee, a wealthy planter of Sevier county, Arkansas, took down a rusty rifle, put his foot on the trigger, and blew into the barrel. His brains were scattered in all directions.

At Philadelphia, on Thursday, under the law of 1721, Frederick J. Euler was fined five shillings for selling fireworks, and was compelled to go to a broker's office and purchase the regular coin.

In the Henley regatta, the Cornell boat was cut by striking that of the London club, necessitating a halt for repairs. On the second start, the Americans lost the race by bad steering.

The winter wheat crop of Missouri, which is nearly all in shock, is reported at less than two-thirds of last year. North of the Missouri river the chinch-bug and fly were active destroyers.

A special committee of the Boston council, after duly considering the subject, recommends the immediate expenditure of $1,500,000 in the creation of a system of public parks.

The directors of the De Lesseps canal company have practically completed the purchase of the Panama railway, for $17,500,000, and the canal is to follow closely the line of the track.

General Beauregard, the vicious horse which recently killed two grooms in New York, and has lately been in danger of starvation because no one dared to attend him, was shot in his stall as an unsafe beast.

The police at Cincinnati have jailed the proprietor of a turf exchange and five of his clerks for selling pools. Another operator and two clerks were arrested for putting up a board for the sale of combination pools.

The telegraph-construction steamer Faraday picked up and buoyed the end of the new cable off Land's End, England, and is now en route for Newfoundland to complete the new line.

Sessions has been indicted for bribery by the Albany grand jury and held for trial in the sum of $3,000. Like Brady, the star route boss, he demanded an immediate trial, but will not receive it during the present term of court.

A garroter took from Mrs. Nellie Shepard, of New York, in the daytime, on Forty-second street, a diamond-studded locket. Her maid started in pursuit, and had the fellow seized by a policeman in the hallway of a tenement in Ninth avenue.

George H. Spencer, of St. Paul, who was appointed agent of the Crow Creek Indians on the recommendation of Bishop Hare, speaks the Sioux language, was nearly murdered in the outbreak of 1862, and was rendered penniless by Indian plunderers on the site of Ortonville.

The glorious Fourth resulted in the usual number of accidents, and from Saturday until late at night Monday the enthusiasm of young America found vent in the burning of powder and the explosion of Chinese inventions of every description.

The Sangerfest held in Chicago last week proved a decided success. The attendance was large and the interest unabated from the opening to the close. The final concert on Saturday evening was attended by 8,000 people, and the soloists, Madam Pescha-Leutner and Miss Cary, received an enthusiastic ovation.

Agents from Colorado are hanging about Castle Garden to obtain five hundred farm laborers. Fully one-half the Germans arriving this year are settling west of the Mississippi. Gould and others interested in Texas are offering tickets to that state at $25.

A party of contractors will sail from San Francisco Saturday for the Isthmus of Panama, to build twenty villages along the survey of De Lesseps canal. California redwood will be used, and nearly $1,000,000 will be disbursed.

The New York Elevated Railroad company has decided to bring suit against the Manhattan fraud to recover possession of its road. Cyrus W. Field made a demand for $465,000 of interest and dividends, which was refused, and then insisted upon the return of the line to its owners.

The Santa Fe and Southern Pacific roads have reached an agreement that the former shall use the Southern line from Deming, New Mexico, to Benson, Arizona, and thence build south to a connection with the Southern. The Atlantic and Pacific rails have reached a point 211 miles west of Albuquerque.

Sir Edward Thornton has handed to the president his letters of recall from Washington as British envoy, invoking a continuance of the kindly relations between the two nations. President Garfield paid the retiring minister the highest compliments for his services in bringing about two important arbitrations.

Leading steamship men at Montreal say that that city is capturing much of the foreign trade of the west which formerly entered the port of New York. Western importers are said to gain 2 per cent. in freights, and one agent claims to have laid down goods in Chicago sixteen days after their departure from Liverpool.

The twenty-second sangerfest of the North American sangerbund began in the Exposition building at Chicago Wednesday night, in the presence of an audience of 6,300. The work performed was the "Odysseus" of Max Bruch. The soloists were Miss Cary, Madame Peschka-Leutner, Mr. Remmertz, Mr. Candidus, Miss McCarthy, and others. The chorus numbered 600, and the orchestra 140. The chorus and orchestra achieved complete success under the direction of Hans Balatka.

We have made inquiries of the Western State Boards of Agriculture as to the growing crops. In Ohio the yield is expected to be about 80 per cent. of that of last year, the early sown being the best. The average in Michigan is about the same as in 1880, and only ten or twelve bushels per acre are looked for. Indiana expects a crop of only 30,000,000 bushells, as against 47,000,000 last year, the quality being excellent. Wisconsin has a large acreage in spring, but a half breadth of winter wheat, and the crop is in fine condition. The Iowa board estimates the spring-wheat crop at half that of last year, and the winter sown at 44 per cent.

The Iowa republican state convention met on Wednesday with Hon. James Wilson in the chair. The delegates in attendance numbered 1,019. Hon. John Y. Stone was made permanent chairman. An informal ballot for governor gave Sherman 416 votes, Larrabee 368, Harlan 146, Campbell 76, and Kimball 17. On the twelfth ballot Sherman was nominated, receiving 509 votes, which was made unanimous. On the third ballot O. H. Manning, of Carroll county, was nominated for lieutenant governor. Austin Adams, of Dubuque, was selected as candidate for supreme judge.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The London Times has sent a special correspondent to Siberia to describe the condition of the exiles.

The Emperor William has arrived at Coblentz with the empress, whose health is somewhat improved.

The empress of Germany has undergone a severe surgical operation, and is recovering quite rapidly.

The French minister of commerce declares that England cannot prevent the substitution of specific for ad valorem duties.

Italians allege that France is trying to pick quarrels with them to bring about a war, the object of which is to retrieve the glory she lost in 1870.

An Irish-process server, named McAuliffe, was shot dead in his house, near Castle Island, for giving evidence against the president of the local Land League.

Henri Rochefort and Paul de Cassagnac have each a duel on hand. If both were killed the world would not miss them. Rochefort is the French ex-communist, and De Cassagnac is a bully and duelist.

Four regiments of Turkish troops are under orders for Tripoli, and war material is being shipped with which to arm the native police. The French are considering the propriety of a naval demonstration in the waters of Tripoli.

Johann Most, the editor of the London Freiheit, was sentenced by Chief Justice Coleridge to sixteen months' imprisonment for writing an article appproving of the assassination of the Czar. Most responded: "We might as well be in Russia."

At the Wiltshire sessions, in England, Marquis Townshend was fined £500 and costs and held to keep the peace for one year, for horsewhipping Lord Edward Thynne. The latter had abducted the marquis' wife. Colonel Neapau was fined £100 for abetting the assault.

The Europeans at Sfax, in Tunis, have taken refuge on the ships in port. The Arabs at that place fired on a French steamer loaded with troops, and the French consul had his arm broken by a blow from a stick. The insurrection grows alarming.

A flying column of troops and police went to aid the sheriff at Mitchelistown, Ireland, in enforcing evictions, but in each case the tenant paid rent in full. Obstructions were found in the roads, and thirty persons are said to have been injured by a charge of the military.

A land-slide is in progress above Lake Thurn, Canton of Berne, Switzerland. On the land are meadows and houses, and the whole is gradually sliding into the lake. In the Canton of Grisons, 1,300 sheep, with their shepherds, were overwhelmed by an avalanche.

English papers announce that President Garfield lately dispatched Mr. Brown, one of his private secretaries, to Great Britain, to gather reports from the consuls on the Irish-American element, and that he is on his way home with valuable information.

In its financial article Tuesday the London Times advises the withdrawal of the English representatives from the monetary conference. It states that England is firmly wedded to the single (gold) standard, and only entered the bimetallic conference out of compliment to the United States and France.

T. J. Gould, a retired business merchant, was murdered while traveling on an express train from London to Brighton, and his corpse thrown out at Balcombe tunnel. A reporter named Lefroy or Mapleton is suspected, and robbery is believed to have been the object. The English railway carriages are divided into sections or compartments of half a dozen seats, and the doors of these sections are locked between stations. Several notable murders have occurred in railroad carriages.

JEHIEL DAVIDSON has a thermomerter which stood 200° in the shade all day yesterday, and if you don't believe it, go and ask him.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY SMITH left Tecumseh last Saturday for Ohio, where they will remain a short time visiting their many friends there.

HON. J. J. ADAM and family, Dr. C. M. Woodward and family, C. A. Kiel and family, and Thos. Adamson and family are all boarding at Sink's Hotel.

WE were favored with a call from Mrs. Alonzo Clark last week. She is intending to take in the next Evening News Excursion, which leaves on the 14th inst.

THE illuminated tableau on the south side of Chicago street on the evening of the 4th was decidedly the prettiest thing of the evening. Don't you think so, girls?

WEBSTER ANDERSON and family have gone to Petoskey to spend several weeks in recreation. Misses Manie and Janie Monaghan left for the same place yesterday for a few weeks' sojourn.

WILL GRAY, of Elkhart, Ind.; J. H. Tribou, of Detroit; Asa Stevens, of Chicago; Delos LeBaron, of Toledo; Alf W. James, of Toledo; Ezra Sink, of Marshall, and Wallace Peters of Cleveland, were all home to spend the Fourth.

THE Misses Cora and Rose DePuy left on Thursday afternoon the 30th ult., to join the Evening News excursion at Detroit. They will visit the White mountains, sea shore, and intermediate points of interest. May they have a happy trip.

A late number of the Toledo Blade in speaking of the Barber-Bardwell nuptials gave a Toledo florist, Suder, credit for the floral decorations. This is a mistake. They were designed and made almost wholly by Mrs. Spaulding of this village.

WE have just received another nice line of Sample Lace Goods, (agent's samples. No two alike,) which we shall place on sale Friday (to-morrow) afternoon, at prices which cannot fail to close the entire line in a few days.

W. & S. W. ANDERSON.

KENNEDY & STACY have dissolved partnership in the news business, Geo. N. Stacy retiring from the firm. The business will be continued in the postoffice building by the purchaser, A. E. Kennedy. As he has a good trade already established and lots of friends his success is assured.

WE understand that Miss E. C. Phelps has been offered a position in the public schools at Hancock, Upper Peninsula, Mich., at a salary of $500 per annum, but has decided to retain her present position in the High school at Battle Creek, under Prof. Z. C. Spencer, with an increased salary.

TECUMSEH enjoyed a nice little celebration of her own last Monday evening. A large invoice of fireworks had been bought, a platform had been erected opposite the Kennedy & Landgraf block, and as soon as the shades of twilight fell, the business began by the sending up a balloon. A stream of rockets, candles, and a number of fancy pieces enlivened and brightened the street for nearly an hour and a half. Chicago street was crowded with spectators to witness the scene. The village during the day was almost as dull as on Sunday, but the entire community turned out in the evening to see the fireworks, and were well rewarded for their trouble.

A BUSINESS CHANGE.

With the present issue of the HERALD, a new firm assumes control of its management. George N. Stacy purchased an interest in the business on the first day of July, and the paper will be owned and conducted hereafter by S. C. and G. N. Stacy, under the firm name of STACY BROTHERS. The general editorial and business management will be the same as heretofore. S. C. Stacy will have charge of the editorial department, while George will assume the business management. Our corps of employees, to whose faithful and efficient labors the HERALD is largely indebted for its success, all remain with the new firm, except W. D. Robbins, who has struck a much better position in Cleveland and accepted the same. The paper will be conducted therefore on the same basis as heretofore, but the new arrangement will greatly strengthen the establishment in a financial and business point of view. The business had grown beyond the capacity of one man to handle it to the best advantage. Two men now have their entire property invested in it, and hence are wedded to its success. The business men of Tecumseh and all our patrons may expect that the HERALD will be now stronger than ever, under the new regime.

The former proprietor takes this occasion to extend to his old friends his warmest thanks for the many personal kindnesses and substantial business favors received at their hands. For six years and eight months he has piloted the HERALD ship alone. What eventful years they have been! He looks with pride and satisfaction upon the advance the business has made during that time, and feels confident that the new arrangement will prove an advantageous one. The old HERALD will continue to receive his tenderest care and most zealous work, while the infusion of fresh young blood in its veins will impart new vitality and start the business forward in a new career of prosperity.

In behalf of the new firm we desire to say that the HERALD will be conducted on a strictly independent basis. We shall entertain our individual opinions on all subjects and shall give our friends the same privilege. The HERALD will be run as a local newspaper, and will endeavor to faithfully mirror the social, political and religious life of Northern Lenawee. We confidently expect to retain the business friendship of all the old friends of the HERALD, and hope to gain many new ones. It shall be our endeavor to conduct a high-toned newspaper, to be prompt and obliging in our business deal, to be faithful to the trust committed to our hands, and thus merit the patronage which we hope to receive.

ONE of the finest musical entertainments that Tecumseh has listened to in many a day was given at the Opera House on Thursday evening last. The singing of Florence Rice Knox was superb, as it always is, while the assistance rendered by Mrs. Cook and Prof. Pease was excellent. Mr. M. B. Rice was good, and Miss Addie Barrett was a genuine surprise. She executed some very difficult cornet solos admirably. There was a good audience in attendance, the adjoining towns being all represented. A. P. Cook, Esq., of Brooklyn, was present, also C. E. Weaver and W. H. Cleveland of Adrian. The audience seemed delighted throughout.

MR. C. R. ADAMS, of Tecumseh, Michigan, but lately a resident of this town, was married to Miss Alice S. Chesser, one of the prettiest young ladies of Easton, on Tuesday morning last. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Brady at the Rectory of the Catholic Church. The happy couple took the morning train for the North. May long life and prosperity attend them.—Easton, Maryland Ledger.

THE only accident in Tecumseh on the Fourth was a runaway, caused by hitching a colt on the street, and some one accidentally threw a cracker under him. The buggy was nicely smashed but the horse came out all right. When our nation gives up its national holiday, then will people begin to find out that Chicago street, Tecumseh, is not the safest place to hitch horses on the Fourth of July.

AT the regular meeting of the R. T. of T., Tecumseh Council, held at their hall June 30th, the following officers were elected:

S. C.—G. W. Marsden.
V. C.—J. D. Sholes.
S. & F. C.—B. F. Steinhoff.
Treas.—Albert Hyde.
Chap.—E. Hause.
H.—James Moir.
G.—L. M. Mooney.
Med. Ex.—J. F. Jenkins.

REV. C. E. CONLEY announced to his congregation last Sunday evening that he had decided to deliver a series of Sunday evening lectures on "Romanism." 1st. The Origin of Romanism. 2nd. Some of the Doctrines of Romanism. 3. Romanism drunk with the blood of Saints. The first lecture will be delivered in the Baptist church, this village next Sunday evening.

THE HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI.

Twentieth Annual Reunion Held June 24th. The Literary Exercises and Election of Officers.

The twentieth annual reunion of the High School Alumni was held at Merchants' Hall on Friday evening of last week. There was a fine audience in attendance and the exercises were more interesting than usual. Good orchestra music was furnished by Prof. Weddles and C. H. Severance. The exercises opened with prayer by Rev. R. S. Pardington. Then followed the oration by W. D. Robbins, the poem by Miss Julia Snell, the essay by Miss Gussie Burlingame and the history by Miss Louisa Stacy.

A business meeting was held immediately after these exercises at which officers were chosen for the coming year.

Mr. Robbins' natural modesty has impelled him to withhold his oration from publication. The other papers read will be found in full below. The history appears on the second page.

After the business meeting the company adjourned to Sink's dining room and partook of a sumptuous banquet. The only thing about it to criticise was that his rooms were too small and he could not accommodate all who bought tickets. The repast was closed by the regular toasts which have been heretofore published.

FOAM.

JULIA SNELL.

Tossed by the restless ocean,
  The foam, on its heaving breast,
Floats ever and ever onward
  In a ceaseless, vague unrest.
Afar on the waste of waters,
  It follows the rolling wave,
Now tossed till it meets the heavens,
  Then down to the ocean cave.

Onward and ever onward
  O'er the vast expanse of blue,
Sparkling, glistening brightly,
  Ever changeful in its hue,
Onward and ever onward,
  The ocean's unpitied prey:
Till the water yields its scepter,
  And the land asserts its sway.

And there to earth's bright beauty,
  Its gifts the sea presents,
With shells both rare and lovely,
  The shore it covers dense;
But better far than the seaweed,
  Better by far than the shells,
In beauty, bright and sparkling,
  The sea-foam much excels.

Delicate, pure and glistening,
  It catches the rays of the sun;
And in its spotless beauty
  Sets forth what God has done;
And lying close to the water's edge,
  Kissed by the rising tide,
It seems a fitting beauty
  To be the ocean's bride.

A child at play on the beach,
  Will gaze at the sparkling foam,
And gazing, dream it a treasure found,
  A toy to carry home.
And with eager footsteps,
  He seeks the glistening prize,
But only to see it vanish
  Before his very eyes.

For, grasping it with eager zeal,
  Tightly he shuts his hand;
But op'ning, finds to his dismay,
  Naught but a grain of sand,
Which, in his hasty eagerness
  He grasped with the lovely prize,
But naught of the bright seafoam
  Rewards his eager eyes.

Amazed, he stands and wonders;
  Where can his treasure be?
Can it have taken wings and flown
  Back to its mother sea?
But further on he sees again,
  Foam beautiful and bright,
And rushing on with hasty steps,
  He grasps it with delight.

But when he views his hand again,
  It tells the same strange tale;
And though he tries it o'er and o'er,
  'Tis all without avail.
And oft when in his eager search,
  Too near would sometimes stray,
The ocean in its careless play
  Would drench him with its spray.

'Till wearied by his useless toil,
  He left the faithless deep;
And sank upon the tireless beach
  In a long and dreamy sleep.
Then let him sleep,
  And dream of his happy home
And when he awakes,
  Perchance forget the o'er deceiving foam.

Yes, foam, bright foam,
  Spotless and pure it is true.
But faithless and fickle, alas,
  As the early morning dew,
Which glistens bright
  In the morning sun,
But has vanished quite
  E'er the day is done.

But why should I blame?
  The father made you so,
And placed you here on earth
  Where men pass to and fro,
To teach to them a lesson true,
  Which much they need to know
That all they strive to gain for earth
  Is but a fleeting show.

But, alas! bright foam,
  Though simple your lesson be,
The truth you teach
  Man finds it hard to see.
We strive to reach the highest round
  Of the ladder Ambition rears,
But find, if we ever reach the top,
  The best is veiled by tears.

And all the lovely brightness
  We plan for our labor done,
Will vanish away like mist
  Before the rising sun.
And, if with the child's brave patience,
  We strive again and again,
We will find the most of our labor
  To have been done almost in vain.

Yes, down the long, long ages,
  Man ever has been too vain
To trust to the truth of the sea-foam,
  Or even to listen, deign,
But foolish and ever headstrong,
  He travels his own broad way;
He strives for his own advancement,
  To make his God of clay.

But, as sure as the sun shall set
  Some day to rise no more,
So sure shall his idols crumble,
  His efforts fail o'er and o'er.
Then why will man ne'er learn
  The lesson the foam does teach,
The foam, bright foam,
  As it glistens on the beach?

Why? Because man is willful,
  And, though he knows right from wrong,
And, though he worships the Our Lord,
  Yet continues on headstrong.
But there will be an ending
  For every hour and all,
Then hour by hour we'll cease our strife,
  And to our long sleep fall.

Then it may be in that ending,
  We'll wish or listened well
To the lesson hard, yet simple,
  That the sea-foam had to tell,
Bright, beautiful sea-foam
  Go on in your noble work,
Lure children on to grief and pain,
  Your labor never shirk.

Give up your little breath of life,
  In the ruthless hand of a child,
In the hope that man may at some time turn
  From the path so rugged and wild.
The child's grief will heal,
  But the stain of sin is deep,
Naught but the call of God
  Can wake from the sinner's sleep.

Then sparkle on, bright sea-foam,
  Respect of man you win,
Thou art noble, though deceiving,
  Thy deception is no sin.
And if in after ages
  We should reach the brighter home,
We will think of labor aided
  By the lesson of the foam.

GATHERED GOLD DUST.

GUSSIE BURLINGAME.

Of all the metals which help to form the earth's surface iron is most abundant and gold is the next. As the earth was formed, the different layers of rocks formed themselves in strata, one above the other until it seemed that nothing could move them.

But below the oldest rocks there lie hidden the sources of that volcanic action which is not yet very correctly understood. Thrusting itself below, it forces granite and such rocks through a rent made in the upper layers, and still up into the air, until, in some places they form the summits of considerable mountains. Such changes are not often, if ever, the results of a single, mighty heave which generates a great catastrophe upon the face of the earth; they are the product of a force constantly applied through ages in a given manner.

But, although gold is the second of the metals in abundance, it is an important fact to be taken into account, that it is not often to be obtained in a pure state from veins, but is found sprinkled—in many cases sprinkled very sparingly over the earth. It is found mixed with quartz and broken rocks, sand and alluvial deposits.

Pure gold in lumps, grains or flakes is to be found only at the surface. It is not easily oxydized or rusted. In its pure state, as it is often found, it may be distinguished from other materials which have external resemblance to it by its having more or less its well known color; the little action of air upon it causes its particles to glitter, though they may be distinguished only as minute scales through a bed of sand.

But here are other particles that glitter; scales of mica, to the eye only very much resemble gold. Gold, however, is extremely heavy, mica light.

Let sand with glittering scales in it be shaken in water and let us watch the order of the settling. If the particles are gold they will sink quickly to the bottom while if they are any other substance they will take their time, if they sink at all.

From our childhood we have been forming layers or strata for our lives and these strata are of different material, there are so many things which mix in and make up one's being. So much evil, so little good, so much vanity, intemperance, jealousy and crime, so little virtue, temperance and love, that after we have gathered a certain amount we have to reflect, consider, sift and separate the purities or gold-dust from the remaining impurities, and to cast the rest aside. Many times we think there is no gold in the strata, but when some trial comes on as in the rocks, some great change takes place, then the good appears, then virtue shows her shining face.

Take some student, any one whom you will, be he as bright as he may, and let him be idle, would the true metal show in him? would we ever know of his brilliancy? or if he had spent but one or two years in hard, earnest study and then abandoned the work, would we have known? No! But obtaining knowledge, improving his talent in that direction is like that which moves the rocks of the mountains; a force which is constantly applied through years of earnestness and labor. Many think that education is something which can be obtained in a short time and then laid aside for future use, but like the mountains, it can not be formed from the rocks in one day, nor in two, nor in weeks, months, nor years; a life time is scarcely sufficient.

If we would try our education, if we would find whether it is gold which we are fostering from year to year, or simply mica, we have but to let the wave of trial and tribulation sweep down upon it and if it be gold it will immediately fix itself, but if not it will either falter, turn and at last fix itself, ready to be moved the next time the water stirs or idly float a way out of sight, out of memory.

We, as members of the Alumni, we as friends, are gold gatherers, some older at our trade, some younger; some labor for a while and get discouraged thinking it comes by such small quantities, only a little here and a little there. But we cannot always count those best off who gather from the larger quantities, who have seemingly obtained the most in the shortest time. Let us remember when the pure gold is found, that that which is found in veins, in large quantities is mixed with so much other material that it is still harder to get it out and ready for use than when it is in smaller quantities. It is not only quantity, but quality, not how much we have, but how much we can use.

My friends, which have we? we who meet once more as one class, we who have each passed through the same ordeal. Let us to-night reflect, have we gathered more mica than gold, more evil than virtue? or the reverse? Which ever it is let us separate what good there is and again start out determined to gather whatever there is in learning and prepare ourselves to avoid and leave behind all the evil which may be gathered with the good from time to time.

We all know that gold has always been noted for its stability and for its value. Throughout the Old Testament there are frequent allusions to it. In building the temple of Jerusalem, great quantities were employed by Solomon for its furniture and decoration. As far back as we know anything of it there is fixed upon it great value.

Thus is education, although gathered as it were simply as dust; yet let us hold fast to its principles, not forever reaching beyond us and letting that go which is nearest at hand, but let us prove all things before accepting them. Dogmatism, assertion and assumption may endure for a day, but the truth only is eternal and will abide.

The classes of '79, '80 and '81 held a special reunion and supper on Saturday evening, June 25th, at Miss Dena Hessen's. Most of the members of the three classes were present and a few invited guests. After partaking of refreshments, the toasts were next in order. John B. Whelan, of the class of '80, acting as toast master. Several toasts were presented and responses made by Nellie Nyland, Julia Snell, Martin Wilson, Janie Monaghan, Etta Wilson, Albert Amer, Elmer Hendershot and Lavern Ide. Those who were present enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

What He Learned About Trimmings.

A gentleman not versed in the intricacies of feminine attire evidently thought it his duty to become a little critical in such matters after his marriage. Of course, nothing was good enough for his bride, and several times he had made slighting remarks upon an overdress of hers. It was not heavy enough or long enough to suit his fancy. "I have a new black silk to trim," she said, "and you shall buy me the trimmings in Boston to suit yourself." This he very cheerfully consented to do, merely asking for the number of yards of silk and fringe and jet gimp for its heading. He entered a large Boston store, asked to see the prettiest of silk trimming, and after much thought on the subject selected the heaviest of chenille and silk fringe, and the widest and prettiest and most jetted of gimp, and had the required number of yards cut off. He remembered having heard somewhere that trimmings were expensive; yet after all they were but trifles, and a very small part of the whole. Yet, he thought, as he took out his pocket book, the pile looked so soft and pretty, and glittered so, that perhaps it would break well into a ten dollar bill, and he had it ready. The clerk figured away and remarked as he signalled a cash boy, "Fifty-one dollars and seventy cents, sir." Whatever the inner man may have felt, there was no outward sign. He walked to the desk and drew his cheque for the amount. He was newly married or it might have been different. He has now one more commission. His wife insists that he shall go to Boston once more and buy her a black silk suitable for that trimming, the one she has being not half fine enough; but he refuses to do any more shopping, and falls into a brown study when a glittering garment sweeps past him, convinced that the trimmings of this world would clothe the naked and feed the hungry.

Necessity of Amusement.

There are, even now, some old fogies who would have men and women work from morning till midnight, day after day, week after week, and year after year, without relaxation or amusement of any sort. But just as the man is merging into the machine, and learns to go his rounds like a horse in a bark-mill, in a sudden fit of perversity he dies. Just as you get him to believe that riding and fishing, walking and dancing, attending the theater or concert-room, in moderation even, is a waste of time, you have to send for the doctor, the undertaker, or the superintendent of a lunatic asylum. The philosophy that would abjure innocent recreation would also take away the spring and youth, the former from the seasons, the latter from human life. The fact is, human nature craves relaxation and excitement, and we are rapidly waking up to the fact. As a people we have been overworking ourselves, for eight or nine generations, and the system is beginning to tell upon us. The careworn look of our citizens exhibits the sad story at a glance—we require more holidays; our recreations are too irregular, too few and far between. We stand in need of invigorating sports and plenty of healthy amusements. We should be more intellectual even, if we devoted less time and thought to the culture of the intellect; we should become more many-sided, less fanatical, and should enjoy a healthier old age. Those people who turn their face against rational amusement had better blot out the sunshine and strip the earth of its flowers. Recreation is essential to perfect health and happiness.

Meaning of Words

The word "watch" was originally used as a term of endearment, similar to "darling." The word "wench" formerly was not used in the low and vulgar acceptation that it now is. "Damsel" was the appellation of young ladies of quality, and "Dame" a title of distinction. "Knave" once signified a servant. "Varlet" was formerly used in the same sense as valet. On the other hand, the word "companion," instead of being the honorable synonym of associate meant the same as "fellow." "Villain" was a bondman. "Pedant," a school-master. Many words have deteriorated, and gained a sinister meaning at first foreign to them.

The word "cunning," for example, formerly meant nothing sinister or underhanded. "Demure" is another of this class. It was used by earlier writers without the insinuation which is now almost latent in it, that the external shows of modesty and sobriety rest on no corresponding realities. "Explode" formerly meant to drive off the stage with loud clappings of the hands, but gradually became exaggerated to its present signification. "Facetious," too, originally meant urbane, but now has so degenerate has to have acquired the sense of buffoonery. "Indolence" originally signified freedom from passion or pain, but now implies a condition of languid non-exertion. "Insolent" was only "unusual." "Gossip" was a sponsor at baptisms. A poet is a person who writes poetry; and, according to the good old dictum, a prover is a person who wrote prose, and simply the antithesis of poet. The word has now a sadly different signification.

Pelistine Pottery.

The biblical descriptions of pottery are singularly appreciative to the present process of manufacture. Now, in the nineteenth century, the potter sits at his frame and turns the wheel with his foot. Or, as we read in the Apocrypha: "So doth the potter, sitting at his work and turning the wheel with his feet: he fashioneth the clay with his arm." The potter had a heap of the prepared clay near him and a pot of water at his side. Taking a lump in his hand, he placed it on top of the wheel, which revolves horizontally, and smoothed it into a low cone between his hands. As it enlarged and became thinner, he gave it whatever shape he pleased with the utmost ease and expedition. It is evident, from numerous expressions in the bible, that the potter's vessel was the synonym of utter fragility; and to say as David does, that Zion's king would dash his enemies to pieces like a potter's vessel, was to threaten with ruinous and remediless destruction. We, who are accustomed to strong stoneware of considerable value can scarcely appreciate some of these biblical references, but for Palestine they are still as appropriate and forcible as ever. Arab jars are so thin and frail that they are literally dashed to shivers at the slightest stroke. Water jars are often broken by merely putting them down upon the floor; and the servant frequently returns from the mountain empty-handed, having all his jars smashed to atoms by some irregular behavior of the donkey.

The Grape.

We have about seven hundred vines on trellis, and about fifteen hundred on stakes, and have had for the past ten years, and we prefer the trellis, although we admit that the trellis culture is a failure oftener than stake, for the reason that so many persons do not study the nature, habits and wants of the vine. On the stake, necessity forces them to keep the fruiting wood near the source of supply (the root,) while on trellis they may let them grow ten, twenty, or even forty feet from the root, and then they are like an army drawing its supplies a long distance through an enemy's country. The grape only fruits on the last year's growth of wood, and, if a leader be confined from year to year on the end of the vine, it grows a great way from the root and all side laterals disappear from near the base, and it only sets fruit near the extreme end. But the leader or end of the vine should be cut off as soon as the vine has acquired sufficient length, say four to six feet; that will throw out side laterals, which will form fruiting spurs one year by cutting them back two buds, and in turn those two buds will produce the fruit and form wood for two fruiting spurs the following season. There should never be more than two or three canes from one root, and that should be replaced by a new cane, either from the ground or as near the ground as a good one can be had. Our vineyard has been in bearing eleven years, and there are very few, if any, vines more than four years old or more than eighteen inches above ground. W.

Chances in the City.

To sum up what the city man really feels in regard to the coming of his country acquaintances to the city, it would be not far from this—viz

1st. The chances for wealth are as great, practically, in the country as in the city, and the expenses of living and the risks of disaster much less.

2d. The competition of city life and the struggle to get hold of business and salaried work are fearful. No man should come to the city unless he knows what he is going to do, or has money enough in his hands to take care of himself until he gets a living position or becomes satisfied that he cannot get one. Even to-day, with the evidences of renewed prosperity all around us, there are probably ten applications on file for every desirable place, and no man living here can help a friend to a place unless he could create one.

3d. That the social privileges of the city may be greater, while the opportunity for social distinction and the probabilities of social consideration are much less than they are in the country.

4th. That in many respects there is nothing in the city that can compensate for the pure pleasures of country scenery and country life and neighborhood associations.

5th. That a city man's dream of the future is always of the country and the soil. He longs to leave the noise and fight all behind him, and go back to the country home to enjoy the money he has won.

Filial Love.

There is not on earth a more lovely sight than the unwearied care and attention of children to their parents. Where filial love is found in the heart we will answer for all the other virtues. No young man or woman will turn out lovely, we sincerely believe, who has not been respected and beloved; a child affectionate and dutiful will never bring the gray hairs of its parents to the grave in sorrow. The wretch who breaks forth from wholesome restraints and disregards the laws of the country must have first disobeyed his parents, showing neither love nor respect for them. It is seldom the case that a dutiful son is found in the ranks of vice, among the wretched and degraded. Filial love will keep men from sin and crime. There will never come a time while your parents live, when you will not be under obligations to them. The older they grow the more need will there be for your assiduous care and attention to their wants. The venerable brow and frosty hair speaks loudly to the love and compassion of the child. If sickness and infirmity makes them at times fretful, bear with them patiently, not forgetting that time ere long may bring you to need the same care and attention.

The old cathedral of St. Paul's, London, was five times burned—thrice by lightning. The new building, begun under Christopher Wren in 1675, cost, we are informed, exactly seven hundred and forty-seven thousand nine hundred and fifty four pounds two shillings and ninepence. The money was raised by a tax on every chaldron of coals brought into the port of London, and this fact alone, it has been said, gives it a right to its smoke-blackened appearance. Relics of three different ages were found when its foundations were laid—Saxon coffins and tombs, British graves, and all the evidences of the existance of a Romancemetery. Great historical tombs and monuments, including those of Lord Neilson and the Duke of Wellington, are amongst its chief objects of interest. St. Paul's school was founded in 1514 by Dean Colet; there Milton was educated from his eleventh to his sixteenth year. In the Heralds' College, near St. Paul's Churchyard, were deposited the sword, dagger, and turquoise ring of James IV. of Scotland, who was slain at Flodden. Before the great fire of London St. Paul's Church-yard was the great headquarters of the booksellers. Now Paternoster Row is sacred to the profession.

A Tennessee Wonder.

Not a hundred miles below Nashville is a curious spectacle, known as the "Sun and Moon." It consists of a painting upon an immense rock which rises to an altitude of several hundred feet. As to who painted it is a mystery which I believe will never unraveled. Many think it was the work of the red brother, centuries ago, perhaps. But there the sun and the moon shine out in all the freshness of new paint. They are located midway the cliff, and stand out in bold relief. As to how any human being ever reached the spot is a question which I believe has never been solved. It is supposed that in those days they had no giant ladders, and could not easily have reached the point from below. The only natural rope of that time was a wild grape vine, of which Tennessee is so prolific, and some Indian might have been, by this means, let down over the dizzy bluff, and, when he had finished his work, had again been let down or pulled up. At any rate, these pictures are there on the everlasting rock, and are likely to remain for future ages.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Junction, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independent, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. Another great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows.

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.

At ENGLEWOOD, with the L.S. & M.S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.

At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.

At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.

At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.

Pontiac Bill Poster: Detroit continues to pray that Luther Beecher will soon join the majority. Alive he is the death of Jefferson avenue. Dead he would be life to this portion of the City of the Straits.

The work of building the new addition to the State Normal School at Ypsilanti, for which $25,000 was appropriated by the legislature, will begin soon. The next thing asked for will probably be an astronomical observatory.

Grand Rapids Leader: The action of the Postmaster-General in discontinuing the mail service by the steamers, between Milwaukee and Grand Haven, is receiving such influential consideration as must result in its speedy restoration.

The soldiers' and sailors' association of southwestern Michigan will hold its next annual reunion at Dreamwood lake, near Cassopolis, August 24, 25, and 26. Trains will run directly to the camp, and ample accommodations will be made for feeding 15,000 people.

Detroit Free Press: Wednesday, June 29th the Pontiac Bill Poster entered upon its fourteenth year. It is not only one of the best Democrat papers in the state, but it is also one of the leading weeklies of Michigan. May it increase in prosperity and usefulness with every year.

Ransom E. Wood, formerly a wealthy resilient of Grand Rapids, and widely known capitalist, but who for some years past has put in most of his time in Europe, died last week while on his way from New York to Detroit, where he expected to live the rest of his days. He was 70 years old.

Grand Rapids Eagle: Rev. H. R. Henderson, pastor of the M. E. Church at Cedar Springs, has resigned because he fears he is to be totally blind. He has been to Ann Arbor for treatment but without beneficial result. Presiding Elder Aldrich will make an appointment to fill the vacancy.

Newaygo Republican: Isaac Slick informs the Republican that the storm which passed east of Newaygo last Monday, at his place, took the form of a terrific hail storm, and that on a strip of country two miles wide the corn and wheat were flattened to the ground, and considerable of the latter thrashed out, and nearly all the windows on the north side of the house were broken out.

It is said that two young office employees on the Detroit, Lansing & Northern railroad at Ionia became bald-headed from fright the other day. They started out for an engine ride on the road, and as neither knew much about an engine the fright came in when they found they had low water in the boiler, a big fire under it, and couldn't make the water injector work.

A Lawton story teller has the following about the comet and a small boy. A lady of that village was admiring the comet from the chamber window with her little family, all very big-eyed, about her, when little "Chuch," a four-years old, with a face that opens on you like a full moon, having exhausted his eyes at the blazing visitor in the north, suddenly drew back with the air of assured correctness, exclaiming, "Ma, I know what that is; it's God's kite."

There was a serious stabbing affray at Dowagiac on the 28th. A half-witted boy named Monroe went to the livery stable of A. H. Hubbard and got into a dispute with Mr. L. Hubbard. He was ordered out. He went, but soon returned with a stone in his hand. He was ordered to drop it and refused. Hubbard ran, with Monroe after him. After going a short distance Hubbard fell, when Monroe jumped on him and stabbed him in the arm, thigh and side. The bystanders rescued Hubbard, and Monroe was arrested.

The worst news of the storm in this state comes from Tuscola county. It struck the farm house of a Mr. Jones, situated a mile and a half west of Watrousville, unroofed the edifice, smashed the furniture and distributed it around the premises, and carried Miss Ida Cox about 30 rods, breaking her collar bone, shoulder and hip. It is believed her injuries will prove fatal. East of that place it destroyed half a dozen farm houses and twice that number of barns, killed some valuable stock and cut a wide swath through some very valuable farms.

Ishpeming Agitator: A stupendous work is being talked of by the Cleveland, Lake Superior and Iron Cliffs Companies, of this city, which is the sinking of an enormous shaft on the corner forming the union of their different lands, and which there is not the slightest doubt, is underlaid with an immense ore bed. From this shaft the three companies would hoist their ore, saving the expense of sinking three different shafts on the property of each company. This talked-of shaft, there is no doubt, will be sunk, and if so, it will surpass anything of the kind in the iron region of any country.

Fremont Indicator: There is a man living within a few miles of Fremont who firmly believes the world is flat. He thinks the sun is about as big as a washtub, the moon about as large as a water pail and the stars about as big as hickorynuts. "They are propelled through the air," says this scientist, "by the almighty power of God," over the earth in the day time and under it at night! They say it is as good as a circus to hear him talk, as he gets very much excited, proving all his points by the Bible and branding all who do not agree with him as infidels who are in danger of eternal damnation. The stories about people sailing round the world he stigmatizes as gigantic lies, and declares that no one of sense believes them. In this age such a man is a prodigy, and we proudly point to him as the most extraordinary man living—a veritable descendant of the followers of Woden and Thor.

Envied Beauty.

What is more handsome than a nice bright, clear complexion, showing the beauties of perfect health? All can enjoy these advantages by using Electric Bitters. Impure blood, and all diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Urinary Organs are speedily cured. For nervousness and attendant ailments, they are a never failing remedy, and positively cure where all others fail. Try the Electric Bitters and be convinced of their wonderful merits. For sale by C. A. Wright & Co. at fifty cents a bottle.

Dampen the Air.

We can hardly too often suggest the importance of providing ample moisture in all rooms heated by stoves, furnaces, steam pipes, or hot water pipes. There are sound scientific reasons for this, as well as in the result of practical experience. Every degree of heat added to the atmosphere in a room gives it a power of absorbing and secreting moisture. The air in a room 20x20 feet and 10 feet high, at 32 degrees, secretes about 1½ pints of water. The same air heated to 70 deg., secretes upward of two quarts of water, and unless this is supplied, it is hungry for more water, absorbs it from every accessible source, from the furniture, from bodies, and especially from the breathing organs—the mouth, throat, and lungs, leaving them dry and husky. Therefore every time the air in a room is changed by the admission of fresh, cold air, and heated to 70 deg., two quarts of water should be evaporated into the room. The strong objections some have to warm air heaters have arisen mainly from this cause. In using furnace heaters we always put into the hot-air chamber extra water-pans besides any that are supplied by the manufacturer, and take good care to always have them filled with water. In stove-heated rooms there should usually be an evaporating surface of water equal to one square foot for every twelve feet square of flooring, and more if the water is not on a place hot enough to keep it rapidly evaporating. Plants in a room are mainly destroyed, or have a sickly growth, because the warm air becomes too dry and sucks out the very juices of the plants. The "house plants"—"olive" or otherwise—suffer similarly. In a warm room, a large towel frequently wrung so as not to drip, and hung over a chair back near the stove, will make a marked difference in the comfortable feeling and healthfulness of the atmosphere.

Rely on the Druggists.

"Malt Bitters are the best 'Bitters.'"

"They promote sleep and allay nervousness."

"Best Liver and Kidney medicine we sell."

"They knock the 'chills' every time."

"Consumptive people gain flesh on them."

"Malt Bitters have no rivals in this town."

"Best thing for nursing mothers we have."

"We like to recommend Malt Bitters."

One of the novel and peculiar amusements in vogue at the sea-side resorts in the East is that of throwing rubber balls at a target, which is a large sheet of canvas with rings painted on it. In the center, where the bull's-eye usually is in well regulated targets, is a hole. Through this hole is inserted the head of a young man with blackened face, his body being concealed from view. To those who hit the bull's-eye once in three throws (for five cents), a cigar is given. Three consecutive hits wins fifty cents. The temptation to hit a fellow being on the head, and at the same time win a cigar, is very strong, and the game is well patronized.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

A DENIAL.

Secretary Windom says there is no foundation for the statement respecting the proposed removal of Lamphier, the appointment clerk of the treasury department.

THE PENSION OFFICE SECRET SERVICE FORCE.

Quite a flutter is caused in the Pension Office by the declaration that Commissioner Dudley is in favor of the abolition of the Secret Service force of that bureau, and will use his influence to accomplish its abolition.

THE ARMY RETIRED LIST.

There are now five vacancies in the retired list of the army. Two, it is stated, will be filled in a short time by the retirement of Col. Pinckney Lugenbiel, 5th infantry, and Col. F. T. Dent, 1st artillery.

IMPORTATIONS FOR THE COTTON EXPOSITION.

The treasury department has issued regulations governing the importation of foreign merchandise for the international cotton exposition at Atlanta, Gaa, at the close of the year.

CONTESTED SEATS.

Formal notices of contests for fifteen seats in the House of Representatives, in most cases accompanied by voluminous testimony, are now on file in the clerk's office of the House. Thirteen of these contested cases are from the South, Alabama alone having four, one from Maine, and one from Iowa.

REGISTERED LETTERS.

In a local postal case here it has just been decided that the Postmaster who receipts for a registered letter is responsible therefor, though the letter may be obtained at the end of the route by a forged order.

THE PITTSBURG COLLECTORSHIP.

The President was waited on to-day by a large Pittsburg delegation, accompanied by Charles Foster and candidate Richards, of the Ohio State ticket, who urged the reelection of Thomas J. Davis as Collector at Pittsburg.

COMMERCIAL STATISTICS.

The excess of exports of merchandise for the twelve months ended May 31, 1881, were $266,773,906, against $162,270,501 in 1880. The excess of imports of gold and silver coin and bullion for the twelve months ended May 31, 1881, were $92,368,092, against $74,257,242 during the corresponding months ended in 1880.

MINTS AND ASSAY OFFICES.

Burchard, director of the mint, has just completed a revision of the volume of instructions and regulations in relation to the transaction of business in the mints and assay offices of the United States. The principal feature is an increase of the melting charge 50 cents on deposits of 500 ounce or less to $1 on deposits of 1,000 ounces or less.

THE WHITE INTRUDERS.

Indian Agent Tufts, of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Agency, has been instructed to enforce the Indian land laws according to the opinion of the Attorney General published yesterday, after giving thirty days notice for the exodus of intruders. If the intruders will not depart quietly, the police force will be utilized and if that proves insufficient the service of the military will be invoked.

EXTENSION OF BONDS.

The amount of 5 per cent coupon bonds received for continuance at 3½ per cent, including those presented at the London agency, aggregate $89,000,000.

A statement prepared in the office of Register of the Treasury Bruce shows that there has been issued of extended bonds, on account of registered bonds, $75,300,[illegible]; on account of coupon bonds, $13,884,350; total $2,7[illegible].

THE PAST FISCAL YEAR.

The fiscal year ending June 30 makes a gratifying showing. The surplus revenues are $[illegible] and by a sinking fund, so that this fund is satisfied for the first time in many years. The public debt decreased over $100,000,000. The interest account decreased $11,000,000. The expenditures for the year were $2,000,000 less than last year, while the receipts were $[illegible] more. Internal revenue receipts $11,000,000 more, customs, $11,000,000 more.

JUDGE ROBERTSON.

Judge Robertson says that the signing of his commission as Collector of the Port of New York by the President, would not in the least affect the political situation of Albany. It was true, he said, that the commission took effect, if accepted, on July 1, but still he need not formally accept the commission for six months if he so desired. He thought it was his duty to stay at Albany so long as the present deadlock continued he should remain, and in the meantime allow his commission to remain unaccepted. He thought the President would raise no objection to such action, and thought it would deserve no criticism. The general opinion seems to be that Roberts will delay his acceptance of the commission as long as he pleases, and that he will not formally accept it so long as the present deadlock continues and his services are required at Albany. Gen. Merritt will continue to act as Commissioner until Robertson actually assumes the office.

INSPECTION OF CATTLE.

The Sundry Civil bill at the last session of Congress appropriated $15,000 to be used under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury for the inspection of cattle abroad. The money is now available. A certificate is to be given to the shipper to the effect that cattle sent abroad was not infected with pluro-pneumonia, or other contagious disease. Assistant Secretary French says they will soon appoint officers at the principal ports to inspect cargoes of live cattle going abroad, and give the certificate contemplated.

TREASURY RECEIPTS AND DISBURSEMENTS.

The Treasury receipts during the fiscal year were as follows:

Internal Revenue	$[illegible]
Customs	[illegible]
Total	$[illegible]
Disbursements for Military Affairs about	$[illegible]
Naval	[illegible]
Indians	[illegible]
Pensions	[illegible]

Remarkably close estimates were made by chiefs of bureaus as to probable expenses.

THE CORWIN'S CRUISE.

Capt. Hooper, of the revenue steamer Corwin, under date of Ounalaska, May 20, 1881, writes Secretary Windom that he arrived there in twelve and a half days from San Francisco. The past winter at Ounalaska has been unusually warm, but in the latter part heavy northwest gales and snow-storms prevailed. The natives of some of the islands suffered very much from typhoid pneumonia, which became epidemic. Capt. Hooper adds: "I hope to finish coaling and leave here for Seal Island by the 22d inst. After leaving Seal Island we will proceed north along the Siberian coast, touching at St. Lawrence Island, Plover Bay, St. Lawrence bay, East Cape, and Cape Serze; also King's Island, Diomedes, and Cape Prince of Wales. If possible to procure dogs, I propose to send a small sledge party, fitted for two months' travel, from Cape Serze along the Siberian coast, to make inquiries reference to the Arctic exploring steamer Jeanette and the missing whalers Mount Wallaston and Vigilant. The vessel in the meantime will cruise in the vicinity of the straits, and endeavor to prevent illicit traffic with the natives. We will touch at St. Michael's as soon as the ice leaves Norton sound. All on board are in good health and spirits, and deeply interested in the work before them."

NATIONAL BANK STATISTICS.

Fifty-four national banks have been organized during the fiscal year ending June, 30, 1881, with a capital of $6,409,700. Nineteen banks have gone into voluntary liquidation by vote of the stockholders having a capital of $1,420,000. There have been no failures of national banks during the fiscal year. The number of banks now in existence is 2,123. There has been a large increase in losses and in deposits during the fiscal year. The statement of May 6, which is the date of the last report received from the banks, show an increase of $84,600,000 in loans over the corresponding period of last year, and of $133,300,000 in individual deposits.

There has also been an increase in specie of about $23,000,000, and an increase in circulation of $10,000,000, which has been more than counterbalanced by the increased amount ($13,703,000) of legal tender notes deposited for the purpose of retiring circulation. One year ago the banks held nearly $300,000,000 of 3 and 3 per cent bonds. They now hold $189,000,000 of continued 3½ per cents, and the remainder of their fives and sixes will soon cease to bear interest or be continued, with the exception of $3,500,000 of Pacific Railroad sixes.

LEGAL TENDER AND NATIONAL BANK NOTES.

The Comptroller of Currency issued a statement showing the amounts of national bank notes and of legal tender notes outstanding at the dates of passage of the acts of June 20, 1874, Jan 14, 1875, May 31, 1878, together with the amounts outstanding at the dates and the increase or decrease. It is as follows:

National Bank notes outstanding June 20, 1874	$[illegible]
Jan. 14, 1875	[illegible]
May 31, 1878	[illegible]
Outstanding at date	[illegible]
Circulation of National Gold Banks	1,096,675
Increase during last month	702,197
Increase since July 1, 1880	10,596,662
Legal tender notes outstanding June 20, 1874	382,000,000
Jan. 14, 1875	382,000,000
Retired under act of Jan. 14, 1875, to May 31, 1878	35,318,984
Liquidating banks and banks reducing circulation, under act June 20, 1874	33,486,282
Decrease in deposit during last month	1,768,377
Increase in deposit since July 1, 1881	15,703,865

The comparative statement of certificates in deposit received by Internal Revenue Commissioner Raum during the last fiscal year shows a total of $134,982,668.54, an increase of $11,258,179.44 over the previous year.

FEES OF MARSHALS AND CLERKS.

First Comptroller Lawrence has given a decision, in which he maintains that the act of Feb. 22, 1875, as to fees of marshals and clerks, does not change the rate or mode of computing on mileage on writs served by marshals, and that it prohibits constructive mileage on writs transmitted to and served by deputies, and mileage for travel not necessarily performed. The opinion further maintains that by force of section 877 of the Revised Statutes, subpoenas for witnesses who are required to attend any term of the circuit or district court on the part of the United States, should require them to attend to testify generally on behalf of the United States, and under such subpoena they are required to testify before the grand jury, petit jury, and court, (as the case may be). Clerks of courts are required by law to insert in one writ the names of all such witnesses who, at the time of issuing the warrant, are to be subpoenaed and who reside in one locality or in the same direction from the place where the writ is returnable. Marshals are entitled to but one mileage for summoning witnesses, when subpoenas have been issued for witnesses whose names should have been inserted in one writ. The decision authorizes the proper accounting officers of the treasury department to revise the accounts to marshals and clerks of courts of the United States, notwithstanding their approval by the proper court. The statute authorizing such revision, Judge Lawrence holds, is unconstitutional.

SPANISH-AMERICAN CLAIMS COMMISION.

The Buzzi case, before the Spanish-American claims commission, in which the claimant's status as a duly-naturalized citizen of the United States was disputed by the Spanish government, seems to have terminated, for the time being, the work of the commission. The right claimed by the Spanish counsel to go behind a certificate of naturalization and investigate the legality of its issuance was disputed by our government, and when the questions was submitted to Count Lewenhaupt, the umpire, and he decided in favor of the claim set up by Spain, Durant the American counsel, was instructed by the state department to request reconsideration and reversal of this decision. A very long document was prepared and presented to the umpire, in which the position and claims of this government on the question of naturalization were fully set forth. Our government declined to recede from its position and declined to certify any more cases. Meanwhile the Spanish government, through its representatives, was notified of the deadlock, and a request was sent to Buzzi to visit Madrid, with a view of amicable settlement of his claim. Buzzi acceded to the request, and, if he succeeds in affecting a satisfactory settlement with the Spanish government, will at once withdraw his claim from before the claims commission, thus removing from the consideration the vexed question of citizenship which at present bars any further progress.

THE NEW YORK SENATORSHIP.

The administration supporters are still firm in rejecting the proposition of the stalwarts to elect Conkling and Depew for the short and long terms respectively. They say they would prefer to accept Platt. At the same time they see no way out of the deadlock, owing to the firmness of Conkling's supporters, who evince no disposition to leave him.

ANXIOUS FOR THE END.

An Albany special says: There is a growing feeling among the republicans that it is useless to stay here in a vain effort to elect senators. On all sides the suggestion is heard that the only thing to do is to adjourn, with the understanding that if the democrats should carry the next legislature the governor shall call an extra session, and two republicans could be elected before the democratic legislature came into power. The half-breed leaders deny that they will consent to an adjournment, but from trustworthy information I am satisfied that some of them are working at such a thing in private. They would not be sorry to see enough of their followers break away and join with the democrats and stalwarts to carry a resolution to adjourn. To-night it is whispered that at least two republican senators who have voted against Mr Conkling are now ready to vote for an adjournment unless there is an election this week. It is very probable that the legislature will adjourn next week.

ALBANY, June 30.—In the ballot for Conkling's successor, Potter had 53 votes, Wheeler 43, and Conkling 32. For the long term, Kernan had 53 supporters, Depew, 51, and Platt 28. A motion in the assembly to adjourn sine die on Saturday was tabled, the democrats voting in the negative. The grand jury has indicted A. D. Barber for paying E. H. Phelps $12,500 with which to bribe state officers, and Charles A. Edwards for receiving from Joseph Dickson $7,000 for the same purpose. Phelps was also arraigned, and all three gave bail. It is said that 50 signatures to a call for a caucus have been obtained, but sixty-five are required. The latest sensation at Albany is a scandal in writing the name of Platt.

AROUND THE COUNTY.

BROOKLYN.

Brooklyn owns the junior Bergh. One of our newly elected trustees has turned a gilded leaf in the book of ordinance. Horses left standing too long in the sunny street are transferred to the hotel stables, draw rations, drink at the newest pump, and have their bills paid from his private purse. He has not worn the mantle of authority long enough to learn the other style.

To his many other estimable qualities my friend of the Enterprise adds the merit of a No. 1 dreamer. The other night a vision of his father-in-law so wrought on the electric plate of his night cap, that he dressed with unprofessional haste, harnessed his horse and was starting double quick for Manchester, when the tableau got spoiled by his premature waking up. Being a church member he inserted a wide chip between his teeth and led his horse back to moorings; but my informant asserts if that dream had been about his mother-in-law, the comet would have dodged.

The editor of the Lever visited us yesterday and collected several autographs.

Several almost cases of sunstroke are reported, and the most enjoyable sunshine, in this latitude, silvers ten o'clock at night.

Sickness came with the intense heat.

Yesterday a long line of carriages filed past, and in one sat a gentleman holding a little white casket that contained the baby boy of Mr. and Mrs. George Barstowe. Their sudden affliction has awoke the sympathy of the entire community.

Some pleasant gleams fall aslant the darkest of life's pathways, but few wear a more beautiful glimmer than the Japanese lanterns that starred the mimic forest which Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Cook call their lawn. Mrs. G. P Cook thought to ask her friends to spend an evening with Mrs. Knox, but Mrs. A. P. Cook anticipated her intentions, hung up illusive lights, and beguiled both the Western Nightingale and guests into her own parlors. Pleasant memories will be treasured of the swallows, aftermath and anthem, and of the mocking bird that trilled through the fairy land before us. Though often heard before it never sounded so beautiful. Professor Pease and daughter lent their music, and Mrs. Dr. Lyster and Rev. Frisbie of Detroit were present, also Mrs. Dr. House of Tecumseh. If the hour of leave taking was late it was the fault of the host, hostess and surrounding circumstances.

PEARLIE.

MACON.

After the close of a successful term of school in Dist. No. 4, in Macon, the pupils and friends assembled on the Darling place and held a picnic. Regardless of the warm weather it was well attended, and a very pleasant affair. After the exercises by the pupils there were addresses by Revs. De-Spelder, Kershow and Field. Mr. Kershow and Mr. Field spoke very highly of Miss Lownsbury as a teacher, not only in this school, but where she had taught before. We have been told that Miss Lownsbury is to teach the next term in the same district, as it was the request of most the entire district, after which she is to continue her studies either in Ypsilanti or Ann Arbor. May success attend her.

A WITNESS.

The farmers of this section have commenced harvesting wheat. The crop is much better than anticipated in the spring.

Dr. Morden is spending a few weeks at his home in Canada.

The new school house in dist. No. 5 is rapidly approaching completion. Doubtless it will be ready for occupancy at the beginning of the winter term of school.

Mr. Arthur Owen, supt. of Ionia city schools is home rusticating.

The Sabbath School officers and scholars favored our citizens with a concert Sabbath evening last. The exercises were well presented considering the brief time alloted for preparation.

The latest news from Misses Rose and Cora DePuy is that they were on the summit of the White Mountain viewing the landscape o'er.

Mr. Edwin Howell is enlarging and otherwise improving his residence.

A petition is being circulated for the extension of the daily mail route from Ridgeway to Lake Ridge and Pennington's corners. We hope the petition willl be granted as such a route is demanded.

THE GOVERNMENT CHEMIST'S REPORT ON BAKING POWDERS.

To the Editor of the HERALD:

The recent publication of the report, giving the comparative merits of various Baking Powders, according to tests made by the Government Chemist, has induced some of the manufacturers of brands, whose inferiority was thus brought to light, to resort to various means and publication, in order to rid themselves of the results of that unfavorable exposition of their inferiority.

That the public may fully understand the matter, and to avoid any misconception arising out of statements of our competitors, seeking to break the force of the report, I herewith subjoin the main part of the report, in which the comparative values are correctly given.

Dr. Love's tests were made to determine what brands are the most economical to use. And as their capacity lies in their leavening power, tests were directed solely to ascertain the available gas of each powder.

Name of the Baking Powders.	Available Gas. cubic inches per each ounce powder.	Comp'tive. Worth per lb.
"Royal" (cream tartar powder)	127.4	50 cts
"Sterling" (tartaric acid powder)	125.12	*
"Patapsco" (alum powder)	125.2	*
"Rumford's" (phosphate) fresh	122.5	48 cts
"Rumford's" (phosphate) old	82.7	18 cts
"Handford's None Such" new	121.6	47½ cts
"Handford's None Such" old	84.3	33 cts
"Bethead's"	117.0	45 cts
"Charm" (alum powder)	116.9	*
"Amazon" (alum powder)	111.9	*
"Cleveland's" (short weight ¾ oz.)	110.8	43 cts
"Czar"	106.8	42 cts
"Dr. Price's Cream"	102.6	40 cts
"Lewis's" Condensed	98.2	38½ cts
"Congress" yeast	97.5	38 cts
"Andrew's Pearl"	93.2	36¾ cts
"Hecker's Perfect"	92.5	36 cts
"Gillets"	84.2	33 cts
"Bulk"	80.5	30 cts

*The Government Chemist also adds: "I regard all alum powders as very unwholesome. Phosphate and tartaric acid powders liberate their gas too freely in process of baking, or under varying climatic changes suffer deterioriation."

It is proper to state that all the powders examined were from the open market, and that the original labels were in every case broken by Dr. Love himself. He also informs me that he, himself, purchased the can of Royal Baking Powder at the store of Park & Tilford.

I have only to add, that for 20 years the Royal Baking Powder has been before the public, and it is to-day the standard for purity and excelence throughout the world. Because of its intrinsic merit and by virtue of honorable enterprise, the Royal Baking Powder has taken this rank, and I am therefore not surprised to find adventurers in the business anxious to assume their preparations to be its equal.

J. C. HOAGLAND,
President Royal Baking Powder Co.
New York, June 17, 1881.

That "Cyclopedia War."

Full particulars of this great literary enterprise given elsewhere in this paper, will interest every curious reader, and especially every searcher after useful knowledge. The last page of the great "Library of Universal Knowledge" was put in type on June 29th, and the complete work, in 15 octavo volumes, large type, will be ready in large quantity for delivery to purchasers not later than July 10th. A good cyclopedia is recognized by all intelligent people as an essential part of the furnishing of a home. This, the largest cyclopedia ever published in this country, and perhaps better adapted than any other to popular use, ought, and doubtless will, find its way into the homes of hundreds of thousands to whom such a work has heretofore been inaccessible on account of high cost. Special terms are given to clubs, and $10,000 special reward is offered by the publishers to club agents forwarding orders during the months of July and August. American Book Exchange, Publishers, New York.

The Motley Fool in the Detroit Chaff has the following:

Speaking of liquor reminds me of an incident I witnessed on the Fourth in the pleasant little village of Morenci that sits by the murmuring Bean in the southernmost limits of Michigan. There lives a fine old gentleman who edits the State Line Observer, and, on occasion, fills the Methodist pulpit. He is an advocate of cold water at all times and all places, and when I saw him standing in the center of a little dusty square vigorously working the handle of the town pump, that all might drink of the pure, refreshing liquid, I set him down as a philanthropist. "A man who will stand in the hot sun and pump water for thirsty farmers on a day when the saloons are all closed deserves all good wishes," said I, and I hurried off and, under the trees, I drank his health from the bottle of lager I had hidden in the cellar the day before.

ON Tuesday, June 21st, Evans Rice, the 15 year old son of J. G. Rice, of eastern Gorham, left home. He staid at the Edgar house at Wauseon that night, and since then nothing has been heard of him by his parents. He left without cause or provocation and no motive can be given except a strong desire to roam and see the world. He is tall, slender, has light hair and complexion. Mr. Rice will give $5 to any person giving or sending him information that will lead to the discovery of his son's whereabouts. Address J. G. Rice, Morenci, Mich.

COMMON COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

VILLAGE OF TECUMSEH, MICH.
Council Room, July 11, 1881.

At this adjourned session the Council met at the usual hour.

Present the entire Council except Mr. Burridge.

Minutes of last regular meeting and of intervening meetings read and approved.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

On Finance:

Report back and recommend the payment of the following bills:

Merritt & Stretch	$ 90 66
C. A. Wright & Co	9 79
W. C. Jordan	128 07
John McConnell	81 00

On motion the report was accepted and adopted.

On Streets:

Make verbal report of progress with reference to the purchase of gravel banks, but desire that the matter may be laid on the table until the next regular meeting for final action.

The same committee also report that steps have been taken in accordance with instructions given at last meeting of council to establish watering places in the village.

On Cemetery:

Presented a partial draft of what might be a suitable vault for our cemetery.

On motion the committee were instructed to procure plans and specifications for such vault. The cost there of not to exceed $1,500.

On Fire and Fire Limits:

Called the attention of the council to the fact that it was necessary to make some changes in the engine room for the purpose of cleaning the flues of the engine.

On motion the committee were instructed to make such changes as were deemed necessary.

PETITIONS AND APPLICATIONS.

Of C. M. Miner, F. A. McNeil and others, asking the council to take some action in regard to the daily violation of an ordinance and prohibit public bathing in the village in the day time.

On motion the petition was referred to the marshal, with instructions to take such steps as may be necessary to abate the nuisance complained of.

NEW BUSINESS.

On motion there was an appropriation of $200 made from the contingent fund to aid the night-watch association of the village for the year commencing May 18, 1881, the same to be paid in equal monthly installments.

Bills presented and referred to Committee on Finance:

S. W. Temple, lumber	$22 40
Bills & Waring, "	18 60

Council then adjourned.

P. S. MCKINNON, Recorder.

TO EX-PRISONERS OF WAR.

At the reunion of the ex-prisoners of war, held at Detroit, June 21, 22 and 23, much time was spent in discussing the proposed pension bill, and the best means of promoting its passage. As stated, the bill proposes to pay the ex-prisoners a pension of $8 a month, and $2 a day for the time spent in any confederate prison. This pension is to begin with the passage of the bill, and is to be given regardless of any disability on the part of the recipient, or of any pension he may be already receiving on account of disabilities incurred in the service. Capt. J. F. Wotring, of Ogden Center, was appointed to receive the names of all ex-prisoners of war in Lenawee county, to be forwarded by him to the president of the association at Toledo. We print this at the request of the captain, who desires that all ex-prisoners forward to him their names, regiment, company, and time spent in prison, with the date at which they were captured.

THE PROBATE COURT.

The following is the minute of proceedings in Probate Court for week ending July 9, 1881.

Estate of Lucinda Thorpe, deceased; warrant and inventory.

Estate of Fred L. Fuller et al, minors, report of sale, affidavit of publishing and posting; confirmation.

Estate of William Kline, deceased; petition for account, hearing August 1, 1881.

Estate of Joseph Ely, deceased; petition for account; hearing August 8, 1881.

Estate of Job Willey, deceased; commissioners warrant and report; affidavit of publishing and posting.

Estate of Sophronia Knapp, deceased; warrant and inventory of special administrator.

No encampment of the state troops this year, the funds necessary for that purpose being required for the six new companies to be admitted to the state service. It is said the state military board has decided to send three companies of state troops to the Yorktown celebration, the three to be selected by three officers of the state troops who will make competing examinations of companies for proficiency in drill, etc. The board met at Lansing and authorized receiving proposals for 800 dress uniforms.

THE Michigan Central have forbidden fruit sellers to prosecute their business at any of the trains. Many emigrants have been left recently by patronizing these venders, and the order was deemed necessary.

OUR STATE MILITIA.

The following is clipped from the Adrian Record. Mr. Merritt's views are correct in this matter.

No encampment of the state troops this year, the funds necessary for that purpose being required for the six new companies to be admitted to the state service. It is said the state military board has decided to send three companies of state troops to the Yorktown celebration, the three to be selected by three officers of the state troops, who will make competing examinations of companies for proficiency in drill, etc. The board met at Lansing yesterday and authorized receiving proposals for 800 dress uniforms.—Evening News.

The attention of Adjutant Willis Merritt being called to the above, he was asked what effect it would have upon the first regiment to abandon the annual encampment. "I regret," said he, "that the board has adopted this course. Its effect will prove disastrous to the best interests of the regiment. It will, in a great measure take away the chief inducement held out by the state for the men to become proficient in the service. In my opinion the state had better have fewer militiamen if necessary and better ones, and carry out the intent of the statute. To add more companies to the service at the very time when the military fund proves itself too small for the present service is simply uncalled for. The Yorktown matter sounds well, but it will have a bad effect on the service. It will wind up with the cry of favoritism, and then a disastrous reaction will take place.

WIRE FENCES.

Plain wire fences, after being boasted of, and fairly tried, were discarded many years ago. The obstruction to animals, offered by all the wires that could be afforded in a fence was too feeble a barrier. In order to make money by imposing something new upon purchasers, some one invented the barbed wire fence, which is simply the old wire fence, with all its worthlessness as a barrier, and the addition of its own mischevious power, to injure animals that are betrayed into its net-work. Already the number of accidents arising from its use is large, and the list will become appalling when our fields and highways are bordered with this bristling chevaux de frize. Every run away team will be in danger of tearing itself to strings, and impaling passengers on these barbes! One unruly animal sacrificed, and ruined by such a fence, teaches no lesson to others, and thus its evil is not one that experience remedies. We apprehend that the popularity of this fence will be short lived. Great opposition is already shown to its use by railroads, and we cannot think of an objection to it there, that does not apply to it quite as strong anywhere.

ODE TO THE CUCUMBER.

Cool, crisp, verdant, luscious fruit,
Though scourged with whiting's stripes,
For love thou needst not pass thy suit,
Thou holdest us with gripes.

What time thou'rt in the market place,
A dozen for a nickel,
Forbidden fruit with tempting face,
To get us in a pickle.

Or lying near the garden path,
Some staple lad in frolic
Forbids thee dangling down the bath
Of confidence and of colic.

Or sliced in vinegar in haste,
Thou imbrest all food sweeter;
Thus doubling up the joys of taste,
And doubling up the eater.

Child of the dew, from Asia's clime,
Dyspeptics may decide ye
When I get ye home thee all our rhyme,
Thy wrongs are all inside ye.

Well may revenge heal all thy injuries—
A vengeance gastronomic—
Thine, unlike crimes that weight the heart,
Lie heavy on the stomach.

Thy kin are scattered over the earth,
Possessed in ashy number;
Thy form, with praise of vanquished worth,
Should mark thy place of slumber.

And should we rear this fruit again,
And do it be partakey?
We trate, and answer in our pain:
"Yes, by no get to an answer."

THE SORREL HORSE.

In the village of Saybrook, within the confines of the Pine Tree State, lived Deacon Aaron Adamson. He was not only deacon, but he was also esquire, having been appointed Justice of the Peace by Governor Hubbard at a time when men were not plenty who would accept the office, and pay the fee—at least they had not been plenty in Saybrook. But, be he deacon, or be he esquire, no glittering title, or high-sounding refrain could cover up the man—and the man was only a skin-flint, as we shall see.

The deacon had been in his day a noted breeder of horses; and he might have become wealthy from that source alone could he have contented himself with the honest returns for his ventures; but nothing would content him while there appeared a shadow of gain beyond the stated bound. The last penny he would pocket, and then fume, and storm, and haggle, and he put! he got another penny upon that. Yes—he had been a horse-dealer in his day, and what he did not know about horses was not worth knowing. Of late, however, he had kept little stock, choosing, he declared, "to shelter one or two of the very best horses in the world rather than have his stable filled with common, everyday trash."

But the truth was, he did not keep many horses because nobody who knew him dared to buy of him; and a horse known to have been bought of Deacon Adamson was very hard to sell.

One spring there moved into the town a young farmer, named Moses Midwell, who purchased the old Cummings place, believing he could bring it back to what it had been in the other years, when it had rated as the best farm in Cumberlain county. Midwell had bought the farm, and paid for it—had bought all the tools of the former owner—and had bought, and paid cash for everything needed, save a horse. He had heard his father, in the years agone, speak of Deacon Adamson as the best judge of horseflesh in the state, and, having learned that the deacon was still alive, and living at the village, he concluded that he would apply to him for a horse.

"If you're going to trade with Deacon Adamson," said one of his neighbors, "do you just keep your eyes open. He's a dreadful cheat, and he's got so used to lyin' that he don't really know when he does let the truth slip out."

However, Midwell knew something of horses, and was not afraid of being badly cheated.

"But," said he to himself, "if he does cheat me intentionally, I shall try to get even with him."

So Mr. Moses Midwell called upon the deacon and made known his want.

"Ah! Midwell! son of my old friend! I declare, it does me good to see you. And you have come to live with us! Good! Your father and I were like brothers."

And so the old man rattled on as they walked toward the stable.

"Upon my word, my dear boy, you have hit me in just the right moment, if you want the kind of a horse I should want, if I were in your place. Only the color—I don't know how that will suit you. Some folks don't like sorrel—and I cant say it's a favorite color with me."

But Midwell did not object to that.

They reached the stable and the deacon backed the horse from the stall. If he pinched the animal's nose, or twisted his tongue, or stuck a pin into his shoulder, we cannot say; but we can say that the horse came out lively, prancing and vigorous, with ears erect and nostrils distended. And it was certainly a handsome horse—standing proudly erect (though a pressure of the deacon's thumb and finger under the jaw may have had something to do with that,) limbs well proportioned; smooth in every joint; with a coat fine and glossy.

"There, sir, there you have him. I was offered a hundred and a half for him yesterday and refused it point blank; but for old association's sake—as a token of pleasant remembrance of your good old father—I'll let you have him for just that figure. Mercy! if you can find fault with that, there'll be no use in my thinking to serve you."

The deacon forgot to state that the offer to which he had alluded had been made by his own hopeful son. However, that didn't matter, for the horse, if perfect in every other respect, was worth every dollar. But was he perfect?

"There you have him, just as he stands, Mr. Midwell. I can warrant him sound in wind and limb, because I know; but I can't warrant him free from things that no human being can see."

"Mr. Adamson, I must trust to your word—to your honor. Of course you know that I would not wish to pay a hundred and fifty dollars for a horse that had a serious blemish."

"And you don't object to the color?"

"No; I rather like it. Sorrel is a plain color, and stands well."

"Then, my dear Moses," said the deacon, standing by the horse's hind quarter and looking over the sweep of the haunch, "I can give you my word that the horse hasn't got an out that I can see—not one. He's kind, and willing and strong, and sound-winded, and smooth-limbed, and tough-footed, and I never knew him to see anything that frightened or startled him. But, dear boy, don't you feel delicate about refusing the trade. If you don't want him at that price it's all right. P'raps I can help you to a trade somewhere else."

But Midwell wanted the horse, and when he left the deacon's premises he had paid over to that good old man a hundred and fifty dollars, and he took the horse with him.

On his way home Moses was puzzled by several peculiar movements of the sorrel horse; and, arrived at his own quarters, the animal, in entering the stable, following his new owner at the end of a goodly length of halter-strap, ran his head—bump—against the door-post.

A strange thought came to the farmer's mind—a fancy that made him dizzy, and that caused his heart to bound. He led the horse to the middle of the barn floor and there flashed a white handkerchief suddenly before his eyes—dashed it once—twice—thrice—but not a muscle of the horse's eye quivered—not a nerve was startled. The sorrel horse was as blind as a stone!

And then Moses called to mind how adroitly the deacon had evaded and played around that one point. It had been a heartless swindle. He went away by himself and sat down and reflected.

"Well, well," he said to himself, in the end, "we'll see how this thing will come out. If we both live long enough, I may get square with him."

On the following day Moses met Deacon Anderson at the village. The old man bowed and offered his hand, as though nothing unusual had happened. He would not have spoken of the horse had not the other introduced the subject.

"Of course," said Moses, "you knew that the horse's eyes were not right?"

"Yes, Moses—I did. I never seek to deceive. We did not speak of his eyes. Ha, ha—you'll have to see for him."

"So I have discovered; and Mr. Adamson, as I do not like a blind horse, I will let you have him back for the amount I paid for him."

"Are you in earnest, Moses?"

"I am."

The deacon placed the end of his forefinger beneath his eye, and pulled down the lower lid.

"There's nothing green there, dear boy."

"No."

"Then I guess we'll call a trade—a trade. You've got a good, strong, kind, serviceable horse, and a color that pleases you. But, really, Moses, the lesson will do you good. Next time you'll look a little sharper with your own eyes."

"The next time," said Moses as he turned away, "I shall seek to trade with an honest man."

"Oh! don't be angry, Moses. Don't lay it up."

From that time Moses Midwell met the deacon frequently, and always with a respectful salutation. He did not profess friendly feeling, nor did he display any feeling of ill-will.

The season passed, and Moses flourished on his farm. He had purchased a new and improved threshing machine, and he also owned a horse-power for sawing wood, and for those uses the sorrel horse worked in well and profitably.

Deacon Adamson had prepared for laying down a two-acre lot to grain and grass. During the season last passed he had raised upon that lot the largest crop of corn ever raised from the same territory in the county. He had applied dressing without stint, and having taken off the corn, he meant now to show the heaviest burden of grass upon those two acres ever cut from the same extent of surface. In laying it down he wanted a goodly quantity of red clover seed, and he had been informed that Moses Midwell had threshed out several bushels of the very best clover seed to be found anywhere. When he met Moses he asked him if he had the seed to sell.

"Yes—I shall sell most of it. In fact, most of it is already engaged."

"But you can spare me enough for my two acre lot?"

"Yes—I shall have plenty left for that."

"What shall you charge me for it?"

"Whatever it is going for at the stores. There'll be no trouble on that score."

"And you'll warrant it to be pure red clover?"

"No sir—I'll warrant nothing of the kind. But I'll tell you this, sir: I have just three bushels of seed in my granary, and I can give you my word that every seed was threshed from as fine and pure clover as ever grew. There's nothing else of seed in my chests, save my wheat and barley and oats."

"All right. I shall look to you for the seed."

"And you shall have it."

Moses Midwell went home, and that night after everbody else was abed and asleep, he went out to his barn where his threshing machine stood upon the great floor, and having led out the sorrel horse, and harnessed him in place, he brought forth from a far corner of one of the scaffolds a lot of material which had been carefully gathered upon his old sheep-pasture, and fed it to the maw of the threshing machine, and he then went to the work of winnowing a seed that, we firmly believe, had never been before and has never been since threshed and winnowed intentionally.

Two days after that Deacon Adamson came up for his clover seed.

"This is all clear?" said the purchaser, as he handed over the money and took the bag of seed.

"I threshed and winnowed it myself," answered Moses, and I can warrant it to be the seed of the Crimson Ovalis, pure and unadulterated."

The deacon's eyes sparkled. He was not a learned man himself, but it did him good to hear learned quotations and classical expressions.

And Deacon Adamson went home, and laid down his two-acre lot to oats, herds-grass and Crimson Ovalis, and then awaited the coming of events.

The oats grew and flourished, and an enormous crop blessed the husbandman. And above the stubble of the oats appeared the green blades of the grass crop—that which was to give forth its mighty growth in another year.

"Ah!" said the expectant man, "wait till you see my crop of clover. If I am greatly disappointed I'll show you a lot of the biggest crop of red clover you ever did see."

And this he told to all who looked upon his field—told it so often and told it to so many, that never did a coming circus create more anxiety of anticipation in the bosoms of the village boys than did the coming of that red clover create in the bosoms of the good people of Saybrook.

At length the warm, spring days came, and the two-acre field put on its coat of green. The days of June came on apace, and the green blade grew rank and luxuriant; but—not like clover!—not like any clover which the people of Saybrook had ever seen before.

Mercy! how rank and how green!—and how thickly the strange growth covered the ground! But, it could not be clover. The deacon leaned upon the fence, and looked over into the field. The leaves of the luxuriant herbage were beginning to put on a strangely familiar look. His heart fluttered.

"Samuel," he said to his son, "what was it that Moses Midwell called that seed that he let me have?"

"He called it Crimson Ovalis."

An hour later the deacon met Prof. Dodem.

"Professor, what is Crimson Ovalis?"

"Where does it grow and how?"

"In a field—thus."

"In such a case it must be the common Red Sorrel."

"And that's it's honest name—Crimson Ovalis?"

"Ovalis is sorrel certainly; and of course you know what crimson is."

Two days later the deacon met Moses Midwell and called him aside.

"Now, Moses—look here; we aint going to quarrel about this matter, I know when you've lied to me, which I think I can do. Didn't you swear to me that you hadn't a bit of other seed in your granary but pure clover, besides your common grain?"

"I didn't swear, deacon; but I told you so."

"Then where did you get that seed that you let me have?"

"I went home and on that very night after all save myself were abed and asleep I went to my barn and brought forth from a far scaffold a crop I had cut from the old sheep pasture, and then I hitched up the old sorrel horse, and threshed it out and winnowed it. I told you honestly what the seed was when I let you have it. If you have been deceived, it should be a lesson to you; and I can say to you as you once said to me—let—"

"Hold on! Never mind the lesson now, Moses Midwell. I'm afraid you've caught up with me. You offered once to let me have the sorrel horse back for the same price that you paid. I'll give you that price in full, with interest, if you'll put that two-acre field of Red Sorrel where no human being can ever see it more!"

"Really, Deacon, there's no need of that. I made use of the sorrel horse, and you may make use of that other sorrel. Plough it in for dressing before it goes to seed."

The deacon caught at the idea, and hurried away; and before another twenty-four hours had passed the two acres of sorrel had all been ploughed in out of sight. The eyesore was removed, but the cutting fact remained. The story had leaked out—the story of the horse-trade, and of the return trade in Crimson Ovalis; and to the latest day of his life Deacon Adamson was free to declare that his sale of the blind horse to Moses Midwell had proved the sorest piece of business for himself that he ever did.

Make Home Cheerful.

A lady correspondent in the Detroit Free Press says: I know boys who have gone astray and saddened the hearts of parents, and yet the fault was with the parents. The only way to keep your boys free from crime and stain is to keep them as close to your hearts as possible. The boy who is "tied to his mother's apron string" seldom goes wrong. I like that kind of a boy, he is honest, kindly, polite and manly to a fault. When you can make home the happiest spot on earth for husband and children, we will have little cause for heartaches.

When I hear a wife complaining about her husband's club and his constant attendance upon it, I always desire to te see her at supper time. I have an idea that she sits at the evening meal in a dirty calico, with slippers down at the heel, clothes-pin pinning her dress at the collar, no signs of ribbon or bow, and her hair as frowzy as the tout ensemble of a political primary. I fancy that her face wears an air so icy that her husband catches cold every time he looks at her. A slouchy, untidy, frowning wife cannot compete with a club or a billiard room to save her life. If she wants her better-half in this instance, to stay at home, let her wear the old smile, neat dresses and tasty coiffure she wore when he was courting her. Let the room be clean and the fire brightly burning. Let her commence an honest endeavor to make home a brighter, sunnier spot than the club and the saloon, and she'll soon get over her heartaches.

If a boy is wanted to grow up a lover of home, home must be made worth the loving. Don't crowd him down; don't keep telling him that boys should be seen, not heard; don't make him sit on a certain place until he is on the verge of paralysis, and don't make him read "Baxter's Saints' Rest," when Jules Verne's and J. S. C. Abbott's books are what he wants. Don't refuse him a cookie or an apple, either, just before bed-time, telling him it is unhealthy. If the stomach does not want fruit it will not ask for it, and the physician who says otherwise should not doctor a sick pump or a deceased ironing-board for me. And further, don't send your boy to bed at half-past seven o'clock. I've known boys raised as above, and nine out of ten grew up rascals, and the tenth was an idiot. Such boys run off the first chance they get and try to become circus clowns and Indian fighters. I do not blame them, either.

Transfusion of the Blood.

Among the wonders of surgery, nothing is more remarkable than the operation of transfusion, which has occasionally been performed with success in very extreme cases. It consists of conveying a portion of the blood from the veins of a healthy and vigorous person into those of one sinking, and apparently at the point of death. A case of this kind occurred in the Hospital della Concezione at Palermo. A youth of seventeen, named Giuseppe Ginazzo, was received into that establishment in September, 1868, with a bad humor in his leg, which eventually rendered amputation necessary. The patient was very much emaciated, and laboring under fever, and after the operation he became more reduced than ever, the pulse being imperceptible, the eyes dull, the body cold, and it was clearly apparent that he was sinking fast. In this emergency, his attendant, Dr. Enrico Albanese had recourse to transfusion of the blood as the only remedy that had not yet been tried. Two assistants of the hospital offered to have their veins opened for the purpose, and thus a quantity of blood on two different occasions was introduced into the patient's system. He began at once to revive, and after the first operation he recovered the faculty of speech, stating that before he could neither see nor hear, but felt as if he was flying in the air.

A similar, and even more interesting, case occurred a few years back in Staffordshire, the operation then being performed on a lady residing in Cannock. The patient seemed to be expiring from the loss of blood, when her husband, at the suggestion of the surgeon, Mr. J. Wheatcroft, consented to the experiment of transfusion, and two pounds of blood were conveyed from his veins into those of his wife. In a few minutes after the operation was performed the current of blood began to flow, the "ebbing of life" was checked, and the circulation being re-established, deliverance from death, which had seemed so near, was secured.

The suggestion has been thrown out that in the last stages of typhus, and the collapse attendant on Asiatic cholera, the same remedy might possibly prove of service. But we have not heard of the experiment being tried in such a case.

MONEY—FARMS—ABSTRACTS.

If you want to hire money at very low rates.

If you have money to loan.

If you want to buy a farm or a home.

If you want to sell your real estate.

If you want a deed or mortgage correctly made.

If you want a complete abstract of title. Call on A. L. Bliss.

Among other Farms for sale I have one of 160 acres and one of 80 acres in Palmyra, both being well tiled and fenced, and first class in every respect, with four market towns within easy driving distance, in good neighborhood. Also 125 acre farm 1½ miles west of river road from Deerfield. Also 160 acre farm and 90 acre farm, and 20 acre farm in Risa, any of which are decided bargains, and good reasons given for naming low prices.

Every purchaser of Lands should insist on being furnished an abstract of title, for our experience of more than 20 years shows that not more than one title in ten is perfect of record, and every week purchases agreed upon are abandoned owing to imperfections of title. I have a good carriage or farm horse, 1300 lbs. in weight for sale at a bargain.

A few thousand dollars now on hand to loan at six per cent, and on long time if desired.

The Old Oaken Bucket.

The popular song, "The Old Oaken Bucket," originated under the following circumstances: When Samuel Woodworth was a typo in a printing office which was situated at the corner of Chestnut and Chambers streets, there were few places in the city of New York where one could enjoy the luxury of a really "good drink." Among the few most worthy of patronage was an establishment kept by Mallory in Franklin street. Woodworth, in company with several particular friends, had dropped in at this place one afternoon for the purpose of taking some "brandy and water," which Mallory was famous for keeping. The liquor was super-excellent, and Woodworth seemed inspired by it; for, after taking a draught, he laid his glass down upon the table, and smacking his lips, declared that Mallory's eau de vie was superior to anything he had ever tasted. "No," said Mallory, "you are quite mistaken; there was one thing which in both our estimations far surpassed this in the way of drink." "What was that?" asked Woodworth dubiously. "The draught of pure fresh spring water we used to drink from the old oaken bucket that hung in the well, after our return from the labors of the field on a sultry day in summer." The teardrops glistened for a moment in Woodworth's eyes. "True, true!" he replied; and soon quitted the place. He returned to the office, grasped the pen; and in half an hour "The Old Oaken Bucket," one of the most delightful compositions in our language, was ready in manuscript to be embalmed in the memory of succeeding generations.

OUR CHIP BASKET

A wag got hold of an editor's whisky bottle, and labeled it "To be continued in our necks."

Farmers do not hear the cornstalk. Neither do the men who wear tight boots, but there are some things that speak louder than words.

When a girl is twenty she feels very easy on that score. It is only when she scores another that she begins to wonder who invented wrinkles.

Every man who has become president of the United States has been elected during a leap year. This is something for the girls to wonder about.

An exchange contains the marriage notice of Mr. and Miss Carr. We notice it merely as an instance of car coupling by a clergyman, which is something unusual.

As you travel around the country you are more and more impressed with the conviction that the chief end of man is to paint medicine signs on the fences.

"Will you have some cream and glucose in your coffee?" is the question now propounded from the maternal end of the breakfast table. "Yes," answers the paterfamilias, "and pass the oleomargarine."

Diana locks are the names of new bangs introduced into fashionable circles. They are called after the arrowy goddess because they quiver when the beau comes around.

"Seth," said Mrs. Spicer, "I wish you would go and see to the furnace; that Kate is putting in coal as if she was firing a locomotive." And, when Spicer remarked that the girl was, perhaps, a railway-cinder-Kate, Mrs. S. grew warmer than ever.

You may say what you please, but there is luck in horse-shoes. A woman nailed one up against the woodshed a month ago, and last week her husband eloped with the hired girl. The man had not earned a cent for more than two years.

The superiority of some men is merely local. They are great because their associates are little.—[Johnson.

Wickedness may prosper for a while, but at the long run it has that sets all knaves at work will pay them.—[L'Estrange.

Devotion is counterfeited by superstition; good thrift by niggardliness; charity with vain glorious pride.—[Bishop J. Hall.

Style is only a frame to hold our thoughts. It is like the sash of a window—a heavy sash will obscure the light.—[Emmons.

Whatever appears against their prevailing vice goes for nothing, being either not applied, or passing for libel and slander.—[Swift.

We can sometimes love what we do not understand, but it is impossible completely to understand what we do not love.—[Mrs. Jameson.

Ceremony was devised at first to set a gloss on faint deeds, hollow welcomes; but where there is true friendship there needs none.—Shakespeare.

Pride makes us esteem ourselves; vanity makes us desire the esteem of others. It is just to say, as Dean Swift has done that a man is too proud to be vain.—[Blair.

There is this difference between happiness and wisdom: he that thinks himself the happiest man really is so; but he that thinks himself the wisest is generally the greatest fool.—[Colton.

We need not ask, "Will the true, pure, loving, holy man be saved?" for he is saved; he has heaven; it is in him now. He has a part of his inheritance now, and he is soon to possess the whole.—[F. W. Robertson.

There are looking glasses for the face, but none for the mind. That defect must be supplied then by a serious reflection upon one's self. When the external image escapes, let the internal remain and correct it.—[Gratian.

Quick is the succession of human events; the cares of to-day are seldom the cares of to-morrow; and when we lie down at night, we may safely say to most of our troubles, "Ye have done your worst, and we shall meet no more.—[Cowper.

Fortune has been regarded the guardian divinity of fools; and on this score, she has been accused of blindness; but it should rather be adduced as a proof of her sagacity, when she helps them who certainly cannot help themselves.—[Lacon.

No word suffices for the thought; so we use many, as a surveyor uses his triangular series for a measure. When love, repeated and overworked, sounds sentimental, we say true; and Allah is refreshing when God has become trite.—[C. A. Bartol.

The fate of a battle is the result of a moment,—of a thought; the hostile forces advance with various combinations, they attack each other and fight for a certain time; the critical moment arrives, a mental flash decides, and the least reserve accomplishes the object.—[Napoleon.

There is no more trying season than Spring for those afflicted with lung trouble. Use Arthur's Elixir of Sulphur freely. It will strengthen the system and purify the blood, and the changes of weather will cease to trouble you. Sold by C. A. Wright & Co.

Boils, pimples on the face, salt Rheum, old sores, and all cutaneous eruptions disappear like magic when "Dr. Lindsey's Blood Searcher" is used.

Half the logic of misgovernment lies in one sophistical dilemma. If the people are turbulent, they are unfit for liberty; if they are quiet, they are unfit for liberty.—[Macaulay.

A Bloated Body does not always belong to an inebriate. Kidney troubles will cause bloat, but Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure has never failed to remove it.

Good Advice. We advise every family to keep Downs' Elixir always on hand. It is the best remedy for coughs and colds ever offered to the public.

For cleansing the system of all morbid matter and warding off diseases, no medicine possesses such efficacy as Baxter's Mandrake Bitters.

As a Liniment for horses Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment is unequaled. It cures Sprains, Bruises, and Lameness at once.

It is simply marvelous how quickly constipation, billiousness sick headache are cured by "Sellers' Liver Pills." 25 cents.

Feats of Strength.

SOME OF WHICH SHOULD BE TAKEN WITH SEVERAL GRAINS OF ALLOWANCE, IF TAKEN AT ALL.

Among the Greeks the successful athlete was crowned with laurels and loaded down with wealth and honors. When Eugenetus, in the ninety second olympiad, triumphant in games, entered Agrigentum, his native home, he was attended by an escort of 300 chariots, each drawn by two white horses, and followed by the populace, cheering and waving banners. Milo six times won the palm at both the Olympic and Pythian games. He is said to have run a mile with a 4-year-old ox upon his shoulders, and afterward killed the animal with a blow of his fist, and ate the entire carcass in one day! So great was his muscular power that he would sometimes bind a cord round his head and break it by the swelling and pressure of the veins. An ordinary meal for Milo was twenty pounds of meat, as much bread, and fifteen pints of wine. Polydamus, of Thessalia, was of prodigious strength and colossal height, and, it is said, alone and without any weapons killed an enormous and enraged lion. One day (it is so recorded) he seized a bull by one of its hind feet and the animal escaped only by leaving the hoof in the grasp of the athlete. The Roman Emperor Maximinus was upward of eight feet in hight, and, like Milo, of Crotona, could squeeze to powder the hardest stone with his fingers, and break the leg or jaw of a horse by a kick. His wife's bracelet served him as a ring, and his everyday meal was sixty pounds of meat and an amphora of wine.

While a prisoner in Germany, Richard I. accepted an invitation to a boxing match with the son of his jailer. He received the first blow, which made him stagger; but, with a blow of his fist, killed his antagonist on the spot. Topham, who was born in London in 1710, was possessed with astonishing strength. His armpits, hollow in the case of ordinary men, were with him full of muscles and tendons. He would take a bar of iron, with its two ends held in his hands, place the middle of the bar behind the nape of his neck, and then bend the extremities by main force until they met together, and bend back the iron straight again. One night perceiving a watchman asleep in his box, he carried both the man and his shell to a great distance, and deposited them on the wall of a churchyard. Owing to domestic troubles, he committed suicide in the prime of life.

The famous Scanderberg, king of Albania, who was born in 1414, was a man of great stature, and his feats in sword exercise have never been equaled. On one occasion, with a scimitar, he struck his antagonist such a terrible blow that its tremendous force cleaved him to the waist. He is said to have often cloven in two men who were clad in armor from head to foot. On one occasion the brother and nephew of a certain Ballaban, who had been convicted of cruelties toward the Albanians, were brought to him bound together. Transported with rage, he cut them in two with one blow of his weapon. Maurice, count of Saxony, the hero of Fontenoy, inherited the physical vigor of his father, and was especially noted for the surprising muscular power, or "grip" of his hands. On one occasion, needing a corkscrew, he twisted a long iron nail round into the required shape with his fingers, and with this extemorized implement opened a half-dozen bottles of wine. Another time, when stopping at a village blacksmith shop to have his horse shod, he picked up a number of new horseshoes, and with his hands snapped them in two as readily as if made of glass, much to the surprise and disgust of the smith.

If history is to be believed, Phayllus of Crotona could jump a distance of fifty-six feet. The exercise was practiced at the Olympic games, and formed part of the course of Pentathlon. Strutt, an English authority on games and amusements, speaks of a Yorkshire jumper named Ireland whose powers were something marvelous. He was six feet high, and at the age of 18 years leaped, without the aid of a spring board, over nine horses ranged side by side. He cleared a cord extended fourteen feet from the ground with a bound, crushed with his foot a bladder suspended at the hight of sixteen feet, and on another occasion lightly cleared a large wagon covered with an awning. Col. Ironside, who lived in India early in this century, relates that he met in his travels an old, white-haired man, who, with one leap, sprang over the back of an enormous elephant flanked by six camels of the largest breed. A curious French work, published in Paris in 1745, entitled "The Tracts Toward the History of Wonders Performed at Fairs," mentions an Englishman, who, at the fair of St. Germain in 1734, leaped over forty people without touching one of them. In our own day we are familiar with many remarkable expositions of strength and endurance. Dr. Winship, with the aid of straps, lifted a weight of 3,500 pounds, and with the little finger of his right hand could raise his body a considerable distance from the ground.

The great Irish monarch, Brian Boroihme, or Boru, was killed at the battle of Clontarf, A. D. 1014. He left his son Donagh his harp, but Donagh having murdered his brother and been deposed by his nephew, retired to Rome, and carried with him the crown, harp, and regalia of his father. These regalias were kept in the Vatican till Pope Clement sent the harp to Henry VII., but kept the crown, which was of massive gold. Henry gave the harp to the first Earl of Blanricarde, in whose family it remained until the beginning of the eighteenth century, when it passed by marriage into other hands. It was deposited in 1782 in the Museum of Trinity College, Dublin, where it now is. The harp is thirty-two inches high, and of good workmanship, the sounding-board is of oak, and the extremity of the uppermost arm is capped in part with silver well wrought and chiseled. It contains a large crystal set in silver, and under it was another stone, now lost.

Half the ills of human life proceed from a torpid and disordered liver.—Submit to them no longer while "Sellers' Liver Pills" will cure you quickly. Price 25c.

If a man foolishly does me wrong, I will return him the protection of my ungrudging love. The more evil comes from him the more good shall go from me.—Oriental saying.

THE SYMPTOMS

Liver Complaint are a bitter or a bad taste in the mouth, Pain in the Back, Sides or Joints, often taken for Rheumatism, Sour Stomach, Loss of Appetite, Bowels alternately costive and loose, Head, Loss of memory, with a painful sense of having failed to do something which ought to have been done, Debility, Low Spirits, a thick yellow appearance of the skin and Eyes, and often mistaken for Consumption.

Sometimes many of these symptoms attend the disease, and others very few, but the Liver, the largest organ in the body, is generally the seat of disease, and if not Regulated in time, great suffering, wretchedness and death will ensue.

PILES! PILES!! PILES!!!

A Sure Cure Found at Last. No One Need Suffer.

A sure cure for the Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams (an Indian remedy), called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 and 30 years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, Instruments, and Electuaries do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, particularly at night after getting warm in bed, acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for Piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Cunnarry, of Clevelan, says about Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment: "I have used scores of pile cures, but rather in propriety to say that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment."

SELECT LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS.

An advertiser who spends upwards of $5,000 a year, and who invested less than $850 of it in this List, writes: "Your Select Local List paid me better last year THAN ALL THE OTHER ADVERTISING I DID."

IT IS NOT A COOPERATIVE LIST.
IT IS NOT A CHEAP LIST.
IT IS AN HONEST LIST.

The catalogue states exactly what the papers are. When the name of a paper is printed in FULL FACE TYPE it is in every instance the BEST.—When printed in CAPITALS it is the ONLY paper in the place. The list gives the population of every town and the circulation of every paper.

The rate charged for advertising are nearly one-fifth the publishers' schedule. The price for single States ranges from $3 to $30. The price for one inch one month in the entire list is $825. The regular rates of the papers for the same space and time are $2,980.14. The list includes 952 newspapers of which 187 are issued DAILY and 765 WEEKLY. They are located in 788 different cities and towns, of which 26 are State Capitals, 363 places of over 5,000 population, and 468 County Seats. For copy of List and other information, address GEO. P. WOOD WANTED.

A few cords of dry four foot wood. Any farmer having wood of this kind to sell can find a purchaser by calling at the HERALD OFFICE.

A GOOD SPECULATION.

A piece of land adjoining the farm of Rufus Adams in Brownville is for sale. This land is suitable for a brick yard, the clay making a first-class brick. This property will be sold cheap to any person wanting to buy a half interest or the whole. For particulars, enquire at the HERALD OFFICE.

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL BEAUTY AND COLOR.

It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The Vigor cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff, and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The Vigor is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

THE LESSON OF THE HOUR.

In response to the prayers of a united people, the physical condition of our wounded President continues to improve. Hopeful words come from the attendants at his bedside, and the belief is becoming general that his ultimate recovery is assured. This belief however is based on the fact that no unfavorable symptoms have developed rather than on any decided change for the better in the patient's condition. That President Garfield has lived ten days, and that he is not growing worse, are circumstances that justify hope. Still people should not be over sanguine. The course and lodging place of the assassin's bullet are yet unknown to the physicians, and other crises are to be met and safely passed before the patient will be out of danger.

Those who are in daily contact with the President, who know his splendid physical powers, and who witness his bravery in his daily fight for life, are very hopeful of his recovery. Yet they are well aware that the danger is still imminent, and their practice fully justifies this conclusion. Every day of life increases the prospects of a favorable issue, but every day in his present condition keeps him on the verge of the grave. An unfavorable turn, even for a few hours, may terminate the battle against him. Let us trust that the faith of his physicians is well founded, and that, as one of them happily expresses it, the President is now on the "sunny side of life."

As the first shock occasioned by the great crime begins to subside, people are directing their attention to a search for the cause or causes which produced it. Americans have fondly cherished the idea that crimes of this character were peculiar only to the despotic governments of the old world. The spirit of communism which would take the life of King William, the demon of nihilism which murdered the Czar, were supposed to find no lodgment in America, the land of the free and the home of the brave. The theory of our government is that all men are created free and equal. Here the property of rich and poor is placed on the same footing. The life of the humblest son of toil is equally sacred with that of the President, while the life of the President is as absolutely safe if he were wandering alone on the banks of the Potomac as though he were surrounded by a regimental guard. The great crime has given a shock to our American faith in free government even greater than that produced by Lincoln's assassination. Then we were in the throes of civil war. The passions engendered by the rebellion were at a white heat, and the "lost cause" in the hour of its final anguish struck down the man who had strangled the confederacy. Now we are at peace within our own borders, and with all the world. Providence seems to be smiling with special favor upon the land. Our people were never more prosperous; the "business boom" is reverberating from the banks of the Penobscot to the Golden Gate. And yet the President of the Republic is stricken down in cold blood by a fanatic and disappointed office-seeker. Where shall we seek the cause of this appalling crime?

Guiteau has probably avowed his motive fairly. As the first excitement is allayed, public opinion is accepting the theory that no one else was responsible for the act. He had no personal hostility towards the President. But he had arrived at the conclusion that the "political workers" in the party should be rewarded with the spoils, and that any attempt on the part of the Chief Executive to distribute the offices on the ground of fitness alone, and thus ignore the claims of the "workers," would certainly disrupt the party, and hence the President had better be put out of the way. The spoils system is to-day the root of all political evil. The people cry aloud for civil service reform. The presidential office is belittled, the President's time is distracted from important official duties, the civil service is debauched and degraded, political contests are intensified and corrupted, the President's life is endangered and the stability of free government is threatened, by this hungry, crazy, ceaseless struggle after the plunder and spoils of office. Should President Garfield recover, and the coming congress pass a radical civil service reform bill, the present calamity may be finally molded into a happy issue.

THE ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

What the Newspapers Say About It.

Chicago Inter-Ocean: There is no other created thing in this world quite so dangerous as a fool. When the fool has just a sufficient modicum of brains to become crazy the danger is doubled. When a being of this make-up studies law he simply adds method to his madness, and when, in addition to all the rest, he becomes possessed of some sort of a religious frenzy his capacity for mischief is complete.

N. Y. Herald: There should be kindness and appreciation for our friends of the South for the good and generous words that come from them in reference to the President. It is almost ungracious to praise any community for looking with proper indignation upon the attempt at assassination.—The people of the South are noted for their manliness, their horror of anything that looks like foul play.

Detroit Free Press: Dr. Bliss who has taken charge of the President's case, is the notorious "Cundurango" Bliss, who, for claiming that he had cured Mr. Colfax's mother of cancer by the use of the vegetable called cundurango, ten years ago, excited a lively discussion among the medical fraternity. Inasmuch as the lady afterwards died of the cancer, some of his brethren did not hesitate to denounce him as a quack." His successful treatment of Garfield may restore his reputation.

New York Sun: The President's physicians think that he has safely passed another dangerous stage on his way to recovery, and, while admitting that there is yet imminent peril, they are very hopeful as to the result. Their confidence is shared by members of the Cabinet and other visitors to the White House, and the opinion seems to prevail throughout the country that the worst is over. Still, the wisest physicians, who know the perils besetting the patient, do not venture on predictions of recovery, and the public anxiety will not be wholly relieved until more positive announcements are made.

Philadelphia Times: President Garfield is not yet out of danger and may not be for some time yet. All the symptoms, however, continue favorable, and there is excellent reason for the belief now present with the whole people that he will finally recover. It is a case where good grit and a cheerful disposition have answered a splendid purpose, and should the President get well it will be largely due to these. The country, which for several days was in a high state of excitement, with business almost entirely suspended, has about recovered, and while people still look for the latest intelligence from the bedside of the wounded Chief Magistrate there is a very general feeling that all is well.

Philadelphia Times: It is all well enough for the President's physicians to consult with men like Agnew and Hamilton, but unless they call in to their consultation some of the eminent practitioners who write for the newspapers there is no telling what may happen. It is well known that no general in the field was able to conduct a campaign without the advice of the newspapers, and in this battle ag'st inflammation and fever at Washington the importance of consulting the newspapers cannot be overestimated. The New York Herald alone would be quite capable of conducting the case—is, in fact, conducting it now, at a distance—and if the President's friends would just turn him over to the care of the press there can be no doubt that the country would be relieved of anxiety in a very few days.

New York Tribune: Last Sabbath, from every Christian church and every Christian fireside in the land, went up heartfelt prayers for the life of the President. It is hard to realize that only a week has past. The nation has lived fast and learned much within these seven days. It knows its President, his noble wife, and his whole family far better than it did a week ago, and can appreciate far more fully the loss that it would sustain if such a man should be taken from his sphere of usefulness. "I voted against him," said a gray-haired Democrat on Saturday, "but I know now that he is the largest and best man we have ever had in public life within my time." In greater or less degree, millions of men have found in themselves the same change of feeling, the same growth of appreciation, of thorough trust and of high regard, as they have watched by the bedside of the President. His calm resignation and readiness to meet death, with his cool courage and unwavering resolution to do his best to preserve a life useful and precious to millions; his patient endurance of pain, and of all the restraints deemed essential to his recovery; his tenderness of feeling and his royal strength of will, have made him loved with an unspeakable love by millions of true-hearted men and women throughout the land. It is not too much to say that this last week by the bedside of the wounded President has lifted the National standard of true Christian manhood for all time to come.

AMONG THE CLOUDS.

We have received a copy for July 5, of "Among the Clouds," published on Mount Washington. It contains a full list of the Michigan excursionists. A few scissorings from the paper shows that the Michigan delegation leavened the sheet pretty thoroughly that morning:

They do things better in the White Mountains than in Michigan; they have hills here for the sun to set on. Very thoughtful.

How do the daughters of the Michigan Tecumseh differ from the warrior Tecumseh? The one is original, the other aboriginal.

I know a sad tale, but 'tis true;
It concerns a fair maid from DePuy;
Her blushes are ripe,
And she doesn't set type;
She was frightened to death at the Sault.

In view of the fine looking women with the Michigan excursion, the motto of the State might well be changed for the nonce to this: "Si queris pulchras feminas, circumspice." (If you seek for beautiful women, look around.)

It remained for a lady member of the Michigan excursion party to coin the new exclamation "how utterly utter!" with which to describe her emotions on witnessing the sunrise this morning.

Gil R. Osmun, of the Evening News, refused to get up to see the sun rise.—He said, "They will charge us five dollars each to look at it." He was hauled out.

A Michigan typo was discovered this morning standing on a projecting point of rocks in front of the Summit House, looking through a binocular constructed out of his benumbed fingers towards the Atlantic in the horizon, but ecstatically singing, "I'm on the see; I'm on the see!"

A well-known newspaper man with the Evening News excursion exhibited his knowledge of Scripture by remarking that "this mountain made him think of Mt. Pisgah, where Moses was buried!" Surprised at the general laugh that followed, he helped the matter very much by adding,—"Well, to tell the truth, I haven't seen the revised edition of the New Testament, and the place may have been changed."

This morning six of the Detroit Evening News Excursion party invaded the office of this paper before we parted company with Morpheus, built a fire and made themselves at home at the cases. Several of the items in this issue are due to this invasion, as may be quite readily inferred; but when it comes to odds of six to one, we surrender. The invaders did not escape till we had ascertained their names are: H. A. Ford, W. H. Brearley, and Gil Osmun, of Detroit; E. F. Grabill, of Greenville; Chas. H. Stowell, Ann Arbor; Miss E. C. DePuy, Tecumseh; all of Michigan.

A TAX COMMISSION.

Under an act of the last Legislature, Governor Jerome has appointed a tax commission to take into consideration the various questions relating to taxation. The commission met at Lansing recently, and prepared a circular for general distribution, for the purpose of eliciting all the information possible as to the views of citizens of the State on this most important subject. The points inquired about cover the ground very fully, and all interested will have a chance to make suggestions on a subject that affects them vitally. The circular in question is as follows:

The undersigned, members of the tax commission, appointed under a recent act of the Legislature, are desirous of gathering information and obtaining suggestions upon the subject of taxation. For that purpose we respectfully request you to answer the following questions, viz:

1. Should church property be taxed?
2. Should property owned by a church society in excess of a fixed amount be taxed?
3. If you answer the last question in the affirmative, then state what amount should be fixed for exemption.
4. Should any personal property be exempt from taxation?
5. Should the present method of paying highway taxes by labor be changed so as to require payments in money?
6. What proportion of personal property and credits, in your opinion, escapes taxation?
7. What rate of interest should be charged on delinquent taxes?
8. Should delinquent taxes be carried by the State or by the several counties?
9. Should persons liable to taxation be required in all cases to make a sworn statement of their property?

Lastly, state briefly what defects you have observed in the present system of taxation, in this State, and what changes should be made to remedy these defects.

Please answer at your earliest convenience, and address your reply to "Tax Commission," Lansing, Mich.

Yours truly,
JOHN MOORE.

Clinton News: At about 8:30 o'clock on Monday evening George Freese struck a match and lighted the hanging lamp in the rear end of the store, and almost instantly discovered that 200 rolls of cotton, on top of the shelves near by were ablaze. All hands in the store at once began applying water and carrying out the cotton, and the fire was soon extinguished, without materially damaging other goods. Although the distance between the cotton and match was at least eight feet, no other explanation offers except that a particle of blazing composition from the match must have been thrown on the cotton. The damage, about $25.00, was covered by insurance.

I. P. KEYSER opened his new grocery store for business on Saturday last. He has one of the best arranged stores for that line of trade in the village, and a new stock of goods which he proposes to sell for cash. John Smyth and William Sutfin will help run the store, which is a sufficient guarantee that customers will be promptly and politely waited upon. Mr. Keyser deserves and will undoubtedly receive his full share of the public patronage.

AGAIN an attempt has been made in this country, at Philadelphia, to establish a "Marriage Benefit Association," the object of which is to assure members a certain sum of money on marrying. Such societies should be numerous in this country, for young men will marry when they feel so disposed, even if they have to borrow a five-dollar bill to pay the clergyman, and young women abet them in their rashness. A fixed sum with which to begin married life would prevent a great many tempers being spoiled, and therefore, it would prevent divorces.

THE summer trotting meeting of the Chicago Driving Park will be held on July 19–23d inclusive. There are one hundred and eighty-five entries, and $50,000 in purses will be competed for. Every day will have special attractions, and nearly every first-class trotter in America will appear in the races. It will be, in all respects, the greatest trotting event of the season.

THE large number of jugs full of "molasses" being carried into the country now, proclaims that harvesting is near. But along about this season of the year you can't sometimes most always tell what these suspicious-looking vessels contain; not by a "jug full," though we know it takes considerable molasses to cut and bind a large field of wheat. Some of the pioneers still cling to the idea that a little nip of "bitters" to "keep the heat out" is just as essential as it was in the "airly" days when harvesting wasn't harvesting without it.

Eaton's old stand in the Patterson block. Mr. Zwisler is bound to sell goods, and will if you give him a call; he will treat you like a gentleman and make things lively. It is a way he has.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS.

Marriage of Miss Anna R. Sutton and Mr. F. C. Stoepel, of Detroit.

Tecumseh society has been on the qui vive for several days since the invitations were issued for Miss Anna Sutton's marriage. The happy event took place yesterday afternoon at the old homestead farm of the bride's father, Mr. N. M. Sutton. The ceremony was performed shortly after four o'clock P. M., in the South East parlor in the presence of a large number of relatives and invited guests, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Zachary Eddy, D. D., Pastor of the Fort St., Congregational church of Detroit. The groom, Mr. Frederick C. Stoepel, is a prominent business man of Detroit, being a partner in the wholesale dry goods house of J. K. Burnham & Co. The bride is one of Tecumseh's fairest daughters. Her bridal dress was of cream colored Persian silk, trimmed with Spanish lace; orange blossoms and a heavy bridal veil were the only ornaments used.—There was no attempt at display. Her dress was plain but very rich and appropriate to the occasion. The groom was attired in the conventional dress suit of plain black. At the conclusion of the ceremony and congratulations the company were invited to the spacious tables spread upon the lawn, and beneath the shade of the maples partook of a sumptuous repast.

The bridal presents were numerous and costly, the useful and ornamental being pleasantly intermingled. They were spread out in the West parlor, and during the entire afternoon and evening attracted a large crowd of admirers. Below we present a full

But the most brilliant part of the affair came after the setting of the sun. The old mansion was illuminated throughout, and the lawn was decorated with chinese lanterns. A large company assembled to pay their respects to the newly married couple.—Tecumseh and Raisin, of course, were largely represented, and many friends were present from Detroit, Adrian and other places. Refreshments were served on the lawn, as in the afternoon. It was certainly the most brilliant and enjoyable wedding party that Tecumseh has witnessed in many months. The happy pair took the night train for Jackson, whence they design taking a trip via. Montreal and Quebec to the White Mountains.

We congratulate the groom upon his excellent choice of a partner, and the bride upon her good fortune. She leaves the old home amid the blessings of parents and friends. Bon voyage say we and all on life's future journey.

Adrian Press: J. W. Helme, Jr. secretary of the Scientific society, went to Tecumseh last week in the discharge of a mission, which was, viz, to wit, namely, that is to say, that permission was desired of Mr. Hanford to allow the scientific society to excavate certain Indian mounds and explore for remains. Permission was accorded the society to make a rattling among the dry bones. Precisely what the society wants of any more bones is more than we can tell, for the secretary brought home and exhibited in our office a bushel basket full of finely assorted skulls, ribs, teeth, jaws, thigh-bones, and other concomitants of aboriginal life. We half suspect, however, that Mr. Jacob Breeden, the president of the society, has a secret scheme for revivifying these bones, and constructing live Indians out of them. What it all means will probably be known in due time.

Adrian Times: There is a religious sect at Blissfield, known as Free Methodists, who occupy the old tobacco factory, and make it a custom to hold something in the nature of a camp meeting therein, each Sunday, during the hotter part of the day.—They arrive at about the hour of ten, those coming from a distance bring lunch baskets, and as they have no sheds, they leave their horses standing under the boiling sun for several hours, while the owners are engaged in their devotions. Yesterday one of these horses, attached to a light wagon, belonging to a man named Bills, maddened by the intolerable heat and tortured by flies at last broke from his bonds and ran through the adjoining yards, tramping down shrubbery, knocking down fruit trees, and completely smashing the wagon to which he was attached. "A merciful man is merciful to his beast."

Adrian Press: A distressing affair happened at Lyons, Wednesday night. It may be remembered that a short time ago the store of C. E. Carmon of the above place was robbed of $1,000 and Carmon has since been suspicious of burglars. Hearing a noise Wednesday night the girl notified Carmon and his wife, who got up, first looking in the boy's room to see that they and a visiting lad of the city, William Cutter, were all right, and as they appeared to be, further search revealed a person on the roof, and Carmon took aim and fired. To his horror he brought down his own son, dead—shot through the head. The lad aged 14 had it is supposed got up in his sleep with the shocking consequences narrated above.

Hudson Post: A few days ago Mrs. Silas Eaton, of this place, while on a visit to friends in Plymouth, met with a severe accident. She was out riding with a sister, and from some unknown cause fell from the buggy. She was taken up unconscious, carried to the house, a doctor called, and then it was discovered that there had been a fracture of the right arm. After the arm had been set, conciousness returned, and the next day she was taken to Toledo, to her daughter's, Mrs. J. M. Johnson, where she now remains quite comfortable.

Ionia Sentinel: Grand Rapids has a mystery. At the mouth of a cave on the hill, sits day and night a lean and hungry dog, which refuses food and declines all solicitations to come forth. It is surmised that his master has been murdered and thrust in the cave and that the faithful canine is standing guard over the remains. The cavern is to be explored and the mystery solved. The only difficulty so far is that no man can be found brave enough to go in the cavernous place.

Buffalo Evening News: George Stacy, one of our most respected and esteemed citizens, who has been doing a live stock commission business here for a number of years, and is now the senior member of the firm of Stacy, Ransom & Co., has concluded to make this place his permanent home, and with this end in view has lately brought his family from the west.—The advent of such families tends greatly to increase the tone of the community.

THE commissioners appointed to make an exhibition of Michigan fruits as the Boston meeting of the American pomological society, have organized by choosing T. T. Lyon, of South Haven, president; Prof. W. J. Beal, of Lansing, Secretary, and W. K. Gibson, of Jackson, financial agent.—Fruit for exhibition must be sent to Lansing, where it will be assorted and shipped to Boston by Mr. Lyon by September 13.

THE net earnings of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern for the first half of 1881 were $3,490,000 against $4,053,686 during the first half of 1880; and the net earnings of the Michigan Central were $1,265,000 against $1,700,000 last year.

The latest craze for young ladies and gentlemen who are corresponding is to use a two cent red stamp, and a one cent blue stamp on a white envelope The blending of the colors—red, white and blue—to the initiated means union.

Blissfield Advance: It is not generally known that we have in this county the most extensive willow nursery in the State. Mr. Matt. Graves, of North Palmyra, has upwards of fifteen acres under cultivation. A large proportion of his annual crop he manufactures into baskets of every description. But he also sells a large quantity to the surrounding farmers for corn bands. Farmers find these willows the cheapest and most convenient article to be had to bind their corn with when cut. It will pay any one who has never seen a willow nursery to take a look over Mr. Graves' willow farm.

Blissfield Advance: The Ogden saw mill boys have had a trial as to which could do the most sawing in ten hours' time. McComb's mill carried off the honors, they having sawed 20,023 feet, nearly all one inch boards. Reese's mill comes next with 17,000 feet, and Higby's 14,000. And while we are talking we would like to see any other mill in the county beat the record of McCombs; they will find it a big day's work and no mistake.

EVERYBODY says it is the best invention of the age for doing ironing work in this hot summer weather, the self heating sad-iron which does away with the heated room and changing irons. A neat, durable and useful article for housekeepers, dressmakers, batters, tailors and laundrymen. All should see it.

DIED.

HELM—At the family residence in Tecumseh, Mich., July 4th, 1881, Mrs. Jane Helm, in the 63d year of her age.

Mrs. Helm was born in Ireland on the 27th day of May, 1819. In 1831 she came with her parents to Livingston county, York state, and soon after removed to Hillsdale, Mich. More than forty years ago Tecumseh became her home, where on the 28th of March 1842 she was married to Daniel Helm. She has been a widow 13 years, and leaves behind her six children, and follows four to the Christian's Home in Glory. Thirteen months ago Mrs. Helm was accidentally thrown from a buggy, sustaining injuries about her face and head, from which she never fully recovered. The last attack was unexpected, sudden and severe. Through all her suffering she was wonderfully sustained by the spiritual presence of Jesus, to her as real as was his physical presence to the 12 disciples while on earth. From early life her chosen place was in the church, which she sincerely loved. The means of grace were to her peculiarly precious. Hers was the death of the righteous. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." W. G.

The Law of Success in Life.

We sometimes hear about bad financiering. "So and so is a bad financier, and so he fails in everything." The fact is, that financiering, on a large or small scale, is usually very simple and easy. It is only to not waste your money. A man makes $50 a month, for instance, and he is fool enough to pay out $25 or $30 of it for nonsense; and you call it bad financiering. Financiering is to take that money and put it where it will earn something. There is no mystery about that; anybody can do it. The financiering of large business establishments of any kind, is all about as simple as that. When the money is allowed to be stolen or wasted in any way, failure ensues; when saved and put to good uses, the financial part is success. That is all there is of it.

When a thrifty farmer's or mechanic's boy manifests an ambition to do something other than what his father has made his money at, that ambition may be very well; but when his father shows a point to educate him for that something else, the educators surely very well, for it will qualify him for a better farmer or mechanic in case he does not succeed in the other thing. But, when duly qualified for that higher calling, as he thinks it is, and when, wherever he goes for a situation, he finds a dozen applications for every vacant place that occurs,—he should remember that his education has not necessarily unfitted him for the work that he has been trained to, or any other that he can get to do, and also that his life mission is to do something, and not to be wasting his time in an unavailing hunt for something that he thinks genteel and agreeable. And so of all the hordes of idle young men, who throng all the towns and cities, vainly looking for certain classes of employment. I say, retire from such unequal contest, start out, go somewhere, and do something. There is something for you to do somewhere; go and find it. If you are not too good to do the work that you are looking for and cannot get, you are not too good to do the next best thing you can get. There is no honest work that is not really respectable. Most of the wealthy men of this country commenced life upon a work that you are in the habit of thinking too low for you to begin upon. I could mention a prominent, able and elegant lawyer who commenced life by chopping cord wood. Another, who commenced by teaching district schools when he could get them, and at other times by common carpenter work, and painting, and whatever he could get to do. It was quite likely that these men are the better lawyers for their rough beginning. I think it is generally the case that those who are too good to do the work that comes along, and seems to be necessary for them to do, are never good for much of anything.

I know many young women—oh, too many of them, and I think they can be found anywhere—whose mothers are working their lives out, or whose fathers are keeping themselves impoverished by hiring other women to wait on them, but who ought to be doing the work for some neighbors who really need the help. I have seen families consisting of three or four bouncing women, and two or three others, all of whom would be in the most pitiable distress on any occasion of the hired girls leaving them for a few days, and such a commotion as the house would be in if she should STAY too good, so that another must be hunted up! Yes, the distress is terrible, and the helplessness, the uselessness and the impudence of a large proportion of American women is the most pitiable. The mothers and the husbands of that class of women are to be pitied. They should be specially avoided by young men who have any aspiration for advancement. And I notice that many prudent young men do not marry in addition, because they can not afford the expense of a wife, when it ought not to cost a man much more with a wife and a baby or two, than it costs him along.

And this false education of women is the cause of all the trouble in the hired-girl problem, which is everywhere the great difficulty of housekeeping. So many girls who ought to be trained to the necessary duties of the household age indulged in idleness—and, when they marry, their husbands respectably have to marry another woman or two to take care of them,—that an inordinate demand for hired girls is created, and the supply is to be made up of the poorest material; for any young woman really fit to do the work and have the care of the house, very soon learns that that kind of work is too degrading for her, according to the prevailing public sentiment. Take any town of five thousand inhabitants, and probably there are not less than from 100 to 200 families depending on hired girls, where they ought to be dispensed with and the work done by their wives or the daughters, as the case may be; this increases the demand, and diminishes the supply, so that it is becoming more and more difficult for those who necessarily must have help, to obtain anything worthy of the name, for love or money.

But there are young women, even now, who are not useless, whose mothers do not think that a woman is any better for being insipid and useless; whose fathers do not have to hire a woman to wait on them, and whose husbands will not have to marry a second woman to take care of them. I have seen such. I know several score of them. A few of them are to be found in every community. Some of them are rich—some not rich; but they are not very plenty. And that's the kind of girls for men of sense to marry. Let fools marry the other kind.—Nuggets of Gold.

Better than Quinine. Few constitutions can stand the continuous use of quinine. It is not only a very expensive medicine, but will ultimately cause the patient to succumb to its powerful influence upon the nervous system. A TOUGH SNAKE STORY.—Two snakes—one a black runner, the other a viper, each about three feet long—were found in the swamp back of the West Maryland Depot, at Mechanicstown, in the following predicament: The black snake had caught and began swallowing, tail first, the viper; the viper, retaliating, curved around and began to swallow the runner, tail first; and when found, each had swallowed the other up to the head, there being nothing but the two heads projecting from the mouth of the other.

"Forced by my political connections into public life, my sufferings were intensified by the comments of those who saw my face and head covered with scrofulous humor," said a gentleman recently cured by Cuticura Remedies.

Business Law in Daily Use.

The following compilation of business law contains the essence of a large amount of legal verbiage.

If a note is lost or stolen, it does not release the maker; he must pay it if the consideration for which it was given and the amount can be proven.

Notes bear interest only when so stated.

Principals are responsible for the acts of their agents.

Each individual in a partnership is responsible for the whole amount of the debts of the firm, except in cases of special partnership.

Ignorance of the law excuses no one.

The law compels no one to do impossibilities.

An agreement without consideration is void.

A note made on Sunday is void.

Contracts made on Sunday cannot be enforced.

A note made by a minor is void.

A contract made with a minor is void.

A contract made with a lunatic is void.

A note obtained by fraud, or from a person in a state of intoxication, cannot be collected.

It is a fraud to conceal a fraud.

Signatures made with a pencil are good in law.

A receipt for money is not always conclusive.

The acts of one partner bind all the rest.

"Value received" is usually written in a note, and should be, but is not necessary.

If not written it is presumed by the law, or may be supplied by proof.

The maker of an "accomodation" bill or note (one for which he has received no consideration, having lent his name or credit for the accommodation of the holder is bound to all other parties, precisely as if there was a good consideration.

No consideration is sufficient in law if it be illegal in its nature.

Checks or drafts should be presented during business hours, but in this country, except in the case of banks, the time extends through the day and evening.

If the drawer of a check or draft has changed his residence, the holder must use due or reasonable diligence to find him.

If one who holds a check as payee or otherwise, transfers it to another, he has a right to insist that the check be presented that day, or at farthest, the day following.

A note endorsed in blank (the name of endorser only written) is transferable by delivery, the same as if made payable to bearer.

The time of payment of a note must not depend upon a contingency. The promise must be absolute.

A bill may be written upon any paper or substitute for it, either with ink or pencil.

The payee should be distinctly named in the note, unless it is payable to bearer.

An endorsee has a right of action against all whose names were on the bill when he received it.

If the letter containing a protest of non-payment be put into the post-office, any miscarriage does not affect the party giving notice.

Notice of protest may be sent either to the place of business or of residence of the party notified.

An oral agreement must be proved by evidence. A written agreement proves itself. The law prefers written to oral evidence because of its precision.

No evidence may be introduced to contradict or vary a written contract; but it may be received in order to explain it, when the contract is in need of explanation.

I am no doctor, and never expect to be, yet I have had a pretty good long life and a happy one. May I not, therefore, just give my simple rules for health in hopes some poor traveler on the up or down hill of life may look at them and perhaps be benefitted by them? I practiced them for many years, and they have done me good; perhaps they may do good to others. They are inexpensive, and may be easily abandoned if they cause any harm.

1. Keep in the sunlight just as much as possible. A plant will not thrive without the sunbeam, much less a man.

2. Breathe as much fresh air as your business will permit. This makes fresh blood; but it will never be found within the four walls of your building. Beneath the open sky, just there, and only there, it comes to you.

3. Be strictly temperate. You cannot break organic law, or any other law, with impunity.

4. Keep the feet always warm and the head cool. Disease and death begin at the feet more commonly than we think.

5. Eat white bread when you cannot get brown bread.

6. If out of order, see which of the above rules you have not observed, then rub yourself all over with a towel, saturated with salt water, and well dried, and begin upon the rules again.

7. Look ever on the bright side, which is the heaven side, of life. This is far better than any medicine.

These seven simple rules, good for the valid or invalid, if rightfully observed, would save I apprehend, a deal of pain, prolong your life, and so far as health goes, make it worth having.

Will you then practice them?—[W. Waybridge, in Boston Traveller.

A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

Is The Great Connecting Link between the East and the West!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic and Avoca, with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison, and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independence, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Mt. Zion to Keosauqua; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Griswold and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan and Carson. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

The Principal R. R. connections of this great Through Line are as follows:

At CHICAGO, with all diverging lines for the East and South.

At ENGLEWOOD, with the L.S. & M.S., and P., Ft. W. & C. R. Rds.

At WASHINGTON HEIGHTS, with P., C. & St. L. R. R.

At LA SALLE, with Ill. Cent. R. R.

At PEORIA, with P. P. & J.; P. D. & E.; I. B. & W.; Ill. Mid.; and T. P. & W. Rds.

At ROCK ISLAND, with "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line," and Rock Isl'd & Peo. Rds.

At DAVENPORT, with the Davenport Division C. M. & St. P. R. R.

At WEST LIBERTY, with the B. C. R. & N. R. R.

At GRINNELL, with Central Iowa R. R.

At DES MOINES, with D. M. & F. D. R. R.

At COUNCIL BLUFFS, with Union Pacific R. R.

At OMAHA, with B. & Mo. R. R. (in Neb.)

At COLUMBUS JUNCTION, with B. C. R. & N. R. R.

At OTTUMWA, with Central Iowa R. R.; W., St. L. & Pac., and C., R. and Q. R. Rds.

At KEOKUK, with Tol., Peo. & War.; Wab., St. Louis & Pac., and St. L., Keo. & N. W. R. Rds.

At CAMERON, with H. St. J. R. R.

At ATCHISON, with Atch., Topeka & Sant. Fe; Atch. & Neb., and Cen. Br. U. P. R. Rds.

At LEAVENWORTH, with Union Pac. and Kan. Cent. R. Rds.

At KANSAS CITY, with all lines for the West and Southwest.

PULLMAN PALACE CARS are run through to PEORIA, DES MOINES, COUNCIL BLUFFS, KANSAS CITY, ATCHISON, and LEAVENWORTH.

Tickets via this Line, known as the "Great Rock Island Route," are sold by all Ticket Agents in the United States and Canada.

Prof. Geo. P. Gleen, of Kendallville, Ind., has been engaged as superintendent of the Marshall schools at a salary of $1,400.

The Ypsilanti reform club has made complaints against several saloonists of that city for keeping their bars open on the Fourth.

A street car line to the cemetery with funeral cars and other facilities for cheap and expeditions interment is the latest Port Huron project.

The dwelling of Geo. Pennock, of Allegan, was struck by lightning on last Thursday morning and very badly broken up, but nobody was seriously hurt.

The Keck furniture company, of Ypsilanti, has increased its capital stock from $25,000 to $50,000, and will put up a large addition to its buildings.

A man named Carmon, who lives near Lyons, just over the line in Ohio, is reported to have shot and killed his own son on Wednesday night of last week, mistaking him for a burglar.

Donald McIntyre, for many years treasurer of the University, but more recently a resident of Jamestown, N. Y., is about to return to his old home in Ann Arbor.

The reported burning of Bewick, Comstock & Co.'s shingle mill at Alpena, was a mistake. It was only the boarding house connected with the shingle mill that burned.

A team belonging to James Turney, of Litchfield, and left unhitched in the streets of Hill-dale, ran away, nearly demonishing the fine top carriage to which they were attached and doing other damage.

Mrs. Blinn, of Rochester, through the mistake of a druggist took a dose of beladonna, supposing it to be extract of dandelion, but antidotes were soon administered and it was believed she would recover.

A child fell from a west bound emigrant train at Michigan Center, and was dangerously hurt. A telegram announcing the finding of the child, overtook the mother at Battle Creek. She had not missed it.

Jackson Patriot: A. S. Weld, employed in the yard of the Southern depot, was severely injured last week while coupling cars. He sustained a broken shoulder, his hand was hurt, and it is feared serious internal injuries resulted.

Lowell Journal: A ride through South Lowell and Cascade affords one an opportunity of seeing some excellent fields of wheat, notwithstanding the great hue and cry that the crop is a failure. The crop has been improving very perceptibly for the last few weeks.

Jackson Patriot: A fine vein of coal, two feet four inches in thickness, has just been struck on the Jerry Marvin farm in the north-west part of the city. It was reached at a depth of over 100 feet after passing through from six to seven feet of fire clay and two or three feet of slate.

Niles Mirror: The grasshoppers which have appeared in various places in this section of the State and Indiana are not the real Kansas breed; they do not get up and fly long distances. They have wings but can only go from five to fifteen feet. They do not devour everything so clean.

The council of congregational ministers which met at Bedford to investigate charges of immoral conduct preferred by Rev. Leroy Warren, of Lansing against Rev. James E. Bruce, have reported that they find the charges "unsustained and wholly groundless."

Jackson Patriot: A pretty good day's work was done by the Hanover Methodist Episcopal Church society last Sabbath. They raised on that day, by contribution, $1,328.77 in cash to free them from indebtedness on their new church edifice. Since last conference they have raised $1,250 besides the above amount.

Allegan Democrat: J. E. Spears has a mite of a pig which weighs fifteen ounces, is 8 inches long, seven and one-half inches around the body, and stands four inches high. In addition to this its ears are doubled forward and grow together in such a manner that they cannot be turned back. It is as smart as a whip. Another curiosity for Barnum.

Bay City Times: Contractors who hire men to work on the northern extension of the J., L. & S. railroad need investigating, as daily large numbers of poor wretches, footsore and hungry arrive in the city from above Gaylord, and claim they have been basely deceived regarding work and wages, and the grub is not fit to feed hogs.

On Tuesday evening of last week Mrs. Bradley, a young woman who for five months has been in the Insane Asylum at Kalamazoo, was removed from the institution and taken to Blaney's hotel, near the depot, to there await the arrival of the train on which it was intended to take her, on her way to the home of some friends in Wisconsin. While her husband's attention was called from her for a moment she threw herself from a window and sustained injuries which may cause her death.

Evening News: Last April, while Dr. J. Henry Carstens was crossing the Michigan Central track on Michigan avenue in Detroit, an engine suddenly started up and frightened his horse so that it ran away, smashed the buggy, pitched the doctor out and then smashed another buggy coming in the opposite direction. The locomotive did not touch the doctor's buggy, but he declares that it hadn't any business to start up under the circumstances, and claims $3,000 damages in the superior court.

Detroit Post and Tribune: Charles J. Guiteau, the assassin, when in this city in 1877, boarded for two days at the house of Mrs. Joseph B. Scott, who now resides at No. 78 Elizabeth street, but at that time lived at No. 40 Gratiot avenue. He is remembered by members of the family as a very reserved, precise man, with a military erectness of figure, and a monomania on the subject of the second advent of Christ. Whenever he said anything, it was upon that subject. He left the house after those two days without having paid his board bill.

Post and Tribune: A strange phenomenon, if such it may be called, was noticed about two miles south of Farwell, by the appearance of thousands, and perhaps millions, of toads, which covered the road and adjoining space for about six rods square. The reptiles were so numerous as to be two and three deep, and in some places were piled in heaps. They appeared active on the road and presented a very interesting appearance. How these creatures came to be so numerous in this particular spot is a matter of conjecture. Not long before their appearance there was a shower of rain, and the supposition is that they rained down. This supposition is strengthened by the fact that before the rain there were none to be seen in that vicinity. The road was covered for about a mile, and in some places on the side are six inches deep; all going southward. There are millions of them, so that they are crushed by the thousand in traveling over the road.

Suggestions to County School Officers.

1. Let your deliberations be friendly, and keep your thoughts constantly on the success of your school.

2. To make your school a success, furnish a suitable place, and suitable and sufficient material to work with.

3. Divide the school year so as to have no school during July and August. A few districts still follow the practice of having school during these months, but in nearly every instance it is a failure.

4. Employ your teacher by the year, or for the year, giving him a contract each term if satisfactory. Twenty-eight districts employed in that manner last year, and with scarcely an exception the schools made more and better progress than any others in the county.

5. Get the best qualified teacher that your means will command. One that has not got to the top of the ladder in his own estimation, but one that is still advancing. You cannot afford to employ the same teacher to teach the same lesson in the same manner term after term, as the pupils would soon tire of such monotony. If you desire a female teacher, get one who will not devote her whole time to making tidies, crocheting or gossiping. If you desire a male, get one that will not spend his time in loafing or idleness; and in either case obtain one that is capable, from his own exertions, to teach the same lessons more practically and more thoroughly than he ever taught them before. It is your privilege and your duty to know what the person has been doing, that you intend to employ. The person that cannot get a better certificate now than when he was last examined is not the person you want to teach your school. The teacher who does not attend any of the places for self-improvement is not the teacher you are looking for. The person who is actively engaged in other business, and imagines he can make a few dollars out of you besides, is not the person to create and maintain a thorough interest in your school, and therefore do not employ him.

6. Select the best men you have in the district to perform the arduous duties which naturally belong to a school board. Elect persons that will be above partisan interest, or favoritism; persons that are good judges of what a school is and ought to be; persons that will not hesitate to act justly and promptly in all cases of emergency.

7. Secure a uniformity and sufficiency of books. Deal directly with the publishers to secure cheapness. No pupil has any right to attend school and waste his own time, other pupils' time, and the teacher's time; and yet that is just what occurs when pupils have not the necessary books. If you dont want your children to grow up in ignorance, and be vicious, disorderly citizens, give them the necessary books. If you do not wish your children to beg or borrow when grown, destroy the habit now, and establish one of independence by furnishing them with books, pens, ink, pencils, slates, etc.

8. Supply the school with plenty of blackboard. There is no school in the county so small but what it is absolutely necessary to have a board completely across one end of the house. Your school yard should be supplied with two good outhouses, and if possible make arrangements to enclose it so that your summer teacher may be able to improve it.

9. Have as much school as possible, and if possible divide into three terms, with short vacations. Have a uniformity of books. Cheap teachers generally make dear schools. Thorough teaching can only be done by persons who thoroughly understand the subjects to be taught. Labor for regular attendance and the least possible amount of tardiness. See that the property is taken care of. Do not hesitate to dismiss a teacher when he ceases to labor in your interest. Visit your schools as frequently as possible. The Superintendent is willing to assist you in any manner at all times. Consult him, especially with reference to the employment of your teachers.—D. D. Parsons. Co. Supt.

"Malt Bitters are the best 'bitters.'"

"They promote sleep and allay nervousness."

"Best Liver and Kidney medicine we sell."

"They knock the 'chills' every time."

"Consumptive people gain flesh on them."

"Malt Bitters have no rivals in this town."

"Best thing for nursing mothers we have."

"We like to recommend Malt Bitters."

A sea-captain, who was asked by his wife to look at some pianos while he was in the city, with a view of buying her one, wrote home to her: "I saw one that I thought would suit you, black walnut hull, strong bulk-heads, strengthened fore and aft with iron frame, sealed with white-wood and maple. Rigging steel wire-double on the rattings, and whipped wire on the lower stays, and heavier cordage. Belaying pins of steel and well driven home. Length of taffrail, over all, 6 feet 1 inch. Breadth of beam 38 inches, depth of hold 14 inches. Hatches can be beaten down proof against 10-year-old boys and commercial drummers, or can be clewed up, on occasion, and sheeted home for a first class instrumental cyclone."

Envied Beauty.

A. Wright & Co. at fifty cents a bottle.

EXPRESS.—The founder of the express business was William F. Harnden, who commenced the transportation of bundles and parcels between Boston and New York, March 4, 1839. A year later (1840,) a competing express was started by P. B. Burke and Alvin Adams, the sole ownership and management of which soon passed into the hands of the latter. In 1841 Mr. Adams associated with himself, as partner, William B. Dissmore of New York, and placed him in charge of the New-York office. Following this enterprise were the companies started by Gay & Kinsley, and by Wells & Fargo. Mr. Harnden, the originator, died in 1848.

THE ASSASSIN.

The above picture is a copy of a photograph furnished by the Chicago Police Department from the rogues gallery. It was taken July 18, 1877, when Guiteau was arrested for obtaining money under false pretenses.

IMPROVING.

THE CONDITION OF THE PRESIDENT VERY ENCOURAGING.

THE LATEST BULLETINS.

Monday, July 11.—The President passed a good night. Private Secretary Brown says he is getting along as well as could be expected.

1 o'clock p. m.—The President's symptoms continue favorable.

NO INDICATION OF PYEMIA.

There are no indications of pyæmia yet, and as long as the pus matter is healthy and free, or until it is all taken from the wound, there will be no danger from that complication. The pathology of pyæmia is too comprehensive for elucidation here; but Dr. Bliss says that now, while everything is possible, there is no probable danger likely to arise from that quarter. After the first eight days in such a case the danger of secondary hemorrhage is usually met. The eight days of the President's illness are now accomplished.

THE ASSASSIN.

Since the improvement in the condition of the President, public curiosity has turned to the assassin who brought so much anxiety upon the country by his dastardly deed. The jail is thronged with people to see him, and, although it is well understood that no one can see him, a morbid curiosity draws many to look upon the walls that confine him, if nothing more. The remarkable demeanor of the criminal astonishes even the jail officials, who are familiar with crime in all its phases. He sleeps at night as soundly and peacefully as a child, and eats with a relish that is remarkable.

He shows constant anxiety about the condition of his victim, and whenever his cell is visited by the keeper, or whenever he comes to his meals, his first question is, "How is the President?" His condition is always reported to him, and it is curious to notice the chagrin he shows at his failure to have killed Gen. Garfield. Favorable symptoms at the White House depress him as much as they delight the people, and unfavorable reports please him. He sleeps a good deal during the day in his cell, and when not so occupied he paces the room.

His eyes, which when arrested, had the wild appearance of a maniac's, have become steady, and his keepers say that his wildness of manners has changed to that of a perfectly sane man. He displays a force of will in controlling himself that has caused remark, and now governs himself and his emotions with success.

A NOBLE WOMAN'S FAITH AND COURAGE.

A good many little things show the strength of Mrs. Garfield's faith in her husband's recovery, and among them none so strong as those things said or done with no thought of the hidden meaning they convey. Wednesday she gave instructions to Mr. Morton, who has charge of the newspapers received at the White House, to preserve all the papers, as the President would probably like to look over them when he gets well. Mrs. Garfield does not seem to consider the possibility of a fatal result. The same sanguine spirit seems to inspire all the President's family and his intimate friends. Secretary Lincoln, in speaking of Mrs. Garfield, said: "I don't believe any change that could occur in the President's condition would shake that noble woman's faith in his ultimate recovery."

The President's boys have behaved splendidly under the trying ordeal. Judge Harry Garfield came into the audience room this morning. "You are looking cheerful this morning," said Mr. Morton, addressing him. "I feel cheerful," said the President's son, adding the remark that the bulletin just issued was a splendid one.

THE CRAVINGS OF AN EMPTY STOMACH.

The desire for solid food is one of the greatest afflictions the President has to bear. When any of his intimate friends, who are allowed in the room, come to his bedside he asks for something to eat, and he seems specially to crave a beefsteak and cup of coffee. His nourishment thus far has been but coffee and broth of beef and chicken; but this afternoon two ounces of solid food in the shape of an egg was given him, which he devoured with great relish. He has remained quiet all day, and although at the time of the last bulletin his pulse was a little faster, and temperature a little higher, it is nothing more than has been expected. For two days now he has not had the sinking relapses at the close of the day, which alarmed people so much on Sunday and Monday. He is simply doing finely, and to that the whole story is told, so far as the public can ascertain.

The small doses of morphine have been continued during the day, but the pain seems to have been greatly modified. The family and friends are greatly encouraged at the turn, for the better things have taken, and joy and hope are carried in the faces of all about the Executive Mansion. The Secretaries, instead of now spending their days, and most of their nights, at the President's house, content themselves with occasional calls, and leaving a representative in the shape of a small boy to notify them if an unfavorable turn should be taken in the President's condition.

THE DANGERS AHEAD.

It is generally understood that no change of a decided nature is expected in the President's condition before Saturday. The fears of a second hemorrhage have passed away, and it is fully demonstrated that the bowels are in a perfectly natural and healthy state. The inflammation, which in many similar cases is so fatal, is perfectly under control, and is entirely local. As I have already stated in these dispatches, the next danger lies in the form of pus at the base of the wound, which, if serious, would result in blood-poisoning, or gangrene. This danger does not present itself before the sixth, and usually not later than the eighth day after the injury is received. This would bring the crisis on either Friday or Saturday. Excessive heat is liable not only to stimulate the difficulty, but to hasten its appearance as well.

The President shows great interest in the movements of the physicians when they make their examinations upon which to base their bulletins. He is cheerful and tractable, and does as he is told without a murmur. He undoubtedly suffers considerable from having to lie in one position all the time, but never complains. When it becomes necessary to move him to examine and dress the wound, he assists in the operation to the best of his ability, and asks questions of his condition. During the examination Wednesday afternoon he asked:

"How am I, doctor?"

"You are doing nicely, your pulse is 98."

"That's normal, isn't it?"

Upon being answered in the affirmative, he sank back with a satisfied air and submitted to the examination without further conversation. The public will probably not hear any more startling reports from the White House before then, and it is possible that they may even then be disappointed. The doctors say the fate of the President will be decided before Saturday night.

STILL SUFFERING SEVERELY.

The President still continues to suffer great bodily pain. In speaking to Col. Rockwell to-day of the severity of the pain, he said: "It is like a trip-hammer crushing upon my body. If you can imagine a cramp such as you have sometimes had in water, one thousand times intensified, then you can imagine the pain I have suffered."

It is considered a favorable symptom that the President is cross at times, but this is chiefly because he is hungry. He said to-day "he thought it strange that the President of the United States could not get what he wanted to eat."

WHAT SHALL HIS PUNISHMENT BE?

District Attorney Corkhill was asked what would be the legal construction of Guiteau's crime, if the President should live. The colonel said the suggestion is made that it might be possible to indite Guiteau for two offenses, considering each shot as a separate assault, and then he could be sentenced to eight year's imprisonment for each offense. This is a mere suggestion, however. I have not carefully examined the subject. I will say, in addition, that I think it exceedingly cruel, considering the fevered state of the public mind on this subject, and the horror with which every man regards the assassin, that any man's name should be mentioned in connection with him. He is an egotistical, presuming, dishonest man, attempting to borrow money of people, claiming acquaintance with persons whom he only knows by the fact of his going to them, and speaking to them, speaking of persons as his friends whom he had no acquaintance with at all, attempting to obtain money by representing himself as a man of great political influence, both here and in New York. To mention the names of the citizens in connection with this man at this time, is improper and unjust."

HISTORY OF THE CRIME.

New York, July 10.—The Sun's Washington special says of Guiteau: He declares he studied over the problem for weeks prayerfully and devoutly, and finally reached the conclusion that he himself was the instrument of Providence to remove the president. He protests that he had neither confidants nor accomplices in the affair, and that he borrowed money with which he bought the pistol from a gentleman on the plea that it was to pay for his board. The name of this gentleman he gave to Col. Corkhill. He is a republican and a respectable man, who could have had no idea of the use to which the loan would be put. The story that on the day of the shooting he jumped into a hack and urged the driver to go at full speed, so that he would be in time to catch the president, he denies. He says he arose early and went down to the depot on a street-car, and waited calmly and patiently until the president appeared. "I shot to kill," he said, "and not to wound or to cause the president to suffer a moment's pain more than was necessary. I intended to shoot as many times at him as was necessary to make his death immediate and certain. I knew him to be a good man, and had no doubt that he would go straight to Heaven."

He says that he had no personal resentment, and in explanation of his feelings said: "I might have no personal feelings against a rebel, and if I should see one hauling down the American flag I would shoot him dead." The president, he said, was breaking up the republican party. It was for the good of the party that he should die, and he had been willing to take the responsibility of the act. He says he does know Dorsey, but has lost all respect for him since the star-route disclosures. He denounces Brady and says he hopes when Arthur makes up his cabinet he will retain Postmaster-General James and Atty. Gen. MacVeagh. In regard to himself he says he takes no concern. He pretends to think when Arthur shall be installed in the president's office he will be lost sight of and quietly neglected. "Why should they prosecute me?" he said. This is a sample of the style in which he talks to those who visit him.

THE PRESIDENT'S ROOM.

All the attaches of the executive mansion tell some interesting incidents regarding the different occupants and their distinguished occupants. He served under six different administrations, and was relied upon to transmit the house behind, and customs from one to another. In all his recent twenty-two years there as doorkeeper and almost housekeeper. The room now occupied by the president has always been used by the presidents. Gen. Tyler, who died in the mansion, occupied this room during the winter, but always removed to the northwest chamber for the summer, and died there on the 9th of July, 1850. Except for its close proximity to the street this room would be more desirable and cooler for the president now. During the visit of the prince of Wales, in Buchanan's term, he occupied this northwest room, and it was afterward called the state bedroom. During Lincoln's administration it was newly furnished; the new bedstead being a magnificently-carved piece of work. The first to occupy it was Gen. Burnside, on the night when, against his personal wishes, he had to take command of the forces after McClellan was relieved. The room adjoining the bedroom, and during Buchanan's term was occupied by his niece, Miss Harriet Lane, who married a Mr. Johnston, a banker of Baltimore. It was reported he had presented her with the handsomest in the house, which is one of the finest (which was locked). The room adjoining the bedroom, and during Buchanan's term was occupied by his niece, Miss Harriet Lane, who married a Mr. Johnston, a banker of Baltimore. It was reported he had presented her with the handsomest in the house, which is one of the finest
